This is a digital copy of a book that was preserved for generations on library shelves before it was carefully scanned by Google as part of a project to make the world's books discoverable online.

It has survived long enough for the copyright to expire and the book to enter the public domain. A public domain book is one that was never subject to copyright or whose legal copyright term has expired. Whether a book is in the public domain may vary country to country. Public domain books are our gateways to the past, representing a wealth of history, culture and knowledge that's often difficult to discover.

Marks, notations and other marginalia present in the original volume will appear in this file - a reminder of this book's long journey from the publisher to a library and finally to you.

Usage guidelines

Google is proud to partner with libraries to digitize public domain materials and make them widely accessible. Public domain books belong to the public and we are merely their custodians. Nevertheless, this work is expensive, so in order to keep providing this resource, we have taken steps to prevent abuse by commercial parties, including placing technical restrictions on automated querying.

We also ask that you:

+ Make non-commercial use of the files We designed Google Book Search for use by individuals, and we request that you use these files for personal, non-commercial purposes.

+ Refrain from automated querying Do not send automated queries of any sort to Google's system: If you are conducting research on machine translation, optical character recognition or other areas where access to a large amount of text is helpful, please contact us. We encourage the use of public domain materials for these purposes and may be able to help.

+ Maintain attribution The Google "watermark" you see on each file is essential for informing people about this project and helping them find additional materials through Google Book Search. Please do not remove it.

+ Keep it legal Whatever your use, remember that you are responsible for ensuring that what you are doing is legal. Do not assume that just because we believe a book is in the public domain for users in the United States, that the work is also in the public domain for users in other countries. Whether a book is still in copyright varies from country to country, and we can't offer guidance on whether any specific use of any specific book is allowed. Please do not assume that a book's appearance in Google Book Search means it can be used in any manner anywhere in the world. Copyright infringement liability can be quite severe.

Gon. I love you, Sir,
Dearer than eye-ſight, ſpace and liberty;
Beyond what can be valued, rich or rare;
No leſs than life, with grace, health, beauty, honour:
As much as child e'er lov'd, or father found.
A love that makes breath poor, and ſpeech unable,
Beyond all manner of ſo much I love you.

Cor. What ſhall Cordelia do? love and be ſilent. [Aſide.

Lear. Of all theſe bounds, ev'n from this line to this,
With ſhadowy foreſts and with champions rich'd,

Which the moſt precious ſquare of ſenſe poſſeſſes;
And find, I am alone felicitate
In your dear Highneſs' love.

Cor. Then poor Cordelia! [Aſide.
And yet not ſo, ſince, I am ſure, my love's
More pond'rous than my tongue.

No leſs in ſpace, validity, and pleaſure,
Than that conferr'd on Gonerill.——Now our joy,
Although our laſt, not leaſt; to whoſe young love,

A third, more opulent than your ſiſters? ſpeak.

Cor. Nothing, my Lord.

Without this Change in the Pointing, ſhe makes a Boaſt of herſelf without any Cauſe aſſigned.

Lear. Nothing?
Cor. Nothing.
Lear. Nothing can come of nothing; ſpeak.
Cor. Unhappy that I am, I cannot heave
My heart into my mouth: I love your Majeſty
According to my bond, no more nor leſs.
Lear. How, how, Cordelia? mend your ſpeech
Leſt you may mar your fortunes.
Cor. Good my Lord,
You have begot me, bred me, lov'd me. I
Return thoſe duties back, as are right fit;
Obey you, love you, and moſt honour you.
Why have my ſiſters huſbands, if they ſay,
They love you, all? haply, when I ſhall wed,
That Lord, whoſe hand muſt take my plight, ſhall

To love my father all.———
Lear. But goes thy heart with this?
Cor. Ay, my good Lord.
Lear. So young, and ſo untender?
Cor. So young, my Lord, and true.
Lear. Let it be ſo, thy truth then be thy dower:
For by the ſacred radiance of the ſun,
The myſteries of Hecate, and the night,
By all the operations of the orbs,
From whom we do exiſt, and ceaſe to be;

I tell you all her wealth———For you, great King,

I would not from your love make ſuch a ſtray,
To match you where I hate; therefore beſeech you,

Gon. You ſee how full of changes his age is, the obſervation we have made of it hath not been little; he always lov'd our ſiſter moſt, and with what poor judgment he hath now caſt her off, appears too groſsly.

Edm. It was not brought me my Lord; there's the cunning of it. I found it thrown in at the caſement of my cloſet.

Glo. You know the character to be your brother's?

Edm. If the matter were good, my Lord, I durſt ſwear it were his; but in reſpect of that, I would fain think, it were not.

I dare pawn down my life for him, that he has writ this to feel my affection to your Honour, and to no other pretence of danger.

Glo. Think you ſo?

Edm. If your honour judge it meet, I will place you where you ſhall hear us confer of this, and by an auricular aſſurance have your ſatisfaction: and that, without any further delay than this very evening.

Glo. He cannot be ſuch a monſter.

Edm. Nor is not, ſure.

Glo. To his father, that ſo tenderly and entirely loves him——Heav'n and Earth! Edmund, ſeek him out; wind me into him, I pray you; frame the buſineſs after you own wiſdom. I would unſtate myſelf, to be in a due reſolution.

Edm. I will ſeek him, Sir, preſently: convey the buſineſs as I ſhall find means, and acquaint you withal.

Glo. Theſe late eclipſes in the ſun and moon portend no good to us; tho' the wiſdom of nature can reaſon it thus and thus, yet nature finds itſelf ſcurged by the ſequent effects. Love cools, friendſhip falls off, brothers divide. In cities, mutinies; in countries, diſcord; in palaces, treaſon; and the bond crack'd 'twixt ſon and father. This villain of mine comes under the predictiion, there's ſon againſt father; the King falls from biaſs of nature, there's father againſt child. We have ſeen the beſt of our time. Machinations, hollowneſs, treachery, and all ruinous diſorders follow us diſquietly to our graves! find out this villain, Edmund; it ſhall loſe thee nothing, do it carefully——and the noble and true-hearted Kent baniſh'd! his offence, honeſty. Manet Edmund.

Edm. This is the excellent foppery of the world, that, when we are ſick in fortune, (often the ſurfeits of our own behaviour) we make guilty of our diſaſters, the ſun, the moon and ſtars; as if we were villains on neceſſity: fools by heavenly compulſion; knaves, thieves, and treacherous, by ſpherical predominance; drunkards lyars, and adulterers, by an inforc'd obedience of planetary influence; and all that we are evil in, by a divine thruſting on. Remember, what I have ſaid.

Stew. Very well, Madam.

(4) Idle old Man,] The following Lines, as they are fine in themſelves, and very much in Character for Gonerill, I have reſtored from the old Quarto. The laſt Verſe, which I have ventured to amend, is there printed thus:

With Checks, like Flatt'rers when they are ſeen abus'd.

Gon. And let his Knights have colder looks amc

SCENE changes to an open Place before th
Palace.

Enter Kent diſguis'd.

Kent. IF but as well I other accents borrow,
And can my ſpeech diſuſe, my good intent
May carry thro' itſelf to that full iſſue,
For which I raz'd my likeneſs. Now, baniſh'd Ke
If thou can'ſt ſerve where thou doſt ſtand condemn'
So may it come, thy maſter, whom thou lov'ſt,
Shall find thee full of labours.

Horns within. Enter Lear, Knights and Attendants

Lear. Let me not ſtay a jot for dinner, go, get it rea
How now, what art thou? [To K
Kent. A man, Sir.
Lear. What doſt thou profeſs? what wouldſt th with us?
Kent. I do profeſs to be no leſs than I ſeem; to ſe him truly, that will put me in truſt; to love him t is honeſt; to converſe with him that is wiſe and i little; to fear judgment; to fight when I cannot ch and to eat no fiſh.
Lear. What art thou?
Kent. A very honeſt-hearted fellow, and as p
the King.
Lear. If thou be'ſt as poor for a ſubject, as a King, thou art poor enough. What woul
Kent. Service.
Lear. Whom wouldſt thou ſerve?
Kent. You.
Lear. Doſt thou know me, fellow?

Kent. No, Sir, but you have that in your countenance, which I would fain call maſter.

Lear. What's that?

Kent. Authority.

Lear. What ſervices canſt thou do?

Kent. I can keep honeſt counſels, ride, run, marr a curious tale in telling it, and deliver a plain meſſage bluntly: that which ordinary men are fit for, I am qualify'd in: and the beſt of me is diligence.

Lear. How old art thou?

Kent. Not ſo young, Sir, to love a woman for ſinging; nor ſo old, to doat on her for any thing. I have years on my back forty-eight.

Lear. Follow me, thou ſhalt ſerve me; if I like thee no worſe after dinner, I will not part from thee yet. Dinner, ho, dinner——where's my knave? my fool? go you, and call my fool hither. You, you, ſirrah, where's my daughter?

Enter Steward.

Stew. So pleaſe you—— [Exit.

Lear. What ſays the fellow there? call the clotpole back: where's my fool, ho?——I think, the world's aſleep: how now? where's that mungrel?

Knight. He ſays, my Lord, your daughter is not well.

Lear. Why came not the ſlave back to me when I call'd him!

Knight. Sir, he anſwer'd me in the roundeſt manner, he would not.

Lear. He would not?

Knight. My Lord, I know not what the matter is; but, to my Judgment, your Highneſs is not entertain'd with that ceremonious affection as you were wont; there's a great abatement of kindneſs appears as well in the general dependants, as in the Duke himſelf alſo, and your daughter.

Lear. Ha! ſay'ſt thou ſo?

Knight. I beſeech you, pardon me, my Lord, if I be miſtaken; for my duty cannot be ſilent, when I think your Highneſs is wrong'd.

Lear.

Lear. Thou but remember'ſt me of my own conception. I have perceiv'd a moſt faint neglect of late, which I have rather blamed as my own jealous curioſity, than as a very pretence and purpoſe of unkindneſs; I will look further into't; but where's my fool? I have not ſeen him theſe two days.

Knight. Since my young lady's going into France, Sir, the fool hath much pined away.

Lear. No more of that, I have noted it well; go you and tell my daughter, I would ſpeak with her. Go you, call hither my fool. O, you, Sir, come you hither, Sir; who am I, Sir?

Enter Steward.

Stew. My lady's father.

Lear. My lady's father? my Lord's knave!——you whorſon dog, you ſlave, you cur.

Stew. I am none of theſe, my Lord; I beſeech your pardon.

Lear. Do you bandy looks with me, you raſcal?

[Striking him.

Stew. I'll not be ſtruck, my Lord.

Kent. Nor tript neither, you baſe foot-ball player.

[Tripping up his heels.

Lear. I thank thee, fellow. Thou ſerv'ſt me, and I'll love thee.

Kent. Come, Sir, ariſe, away; I'll teach you differences: away, away; if you will meaſure your lubber's length again, tarry again; but away, go to: have you wiſdom? ſo.—— [Puſhes the Steward out.

Lear. Now, my friendly knave, I thank thee; there's earneſt of thy ſervice.

To them, Enter Fool.

Fool. Let me hire him too, here's my coxcomb.

[Giving his cap.

Lear. How now, my pretty knave? how do'ſt thou?

Fool. Sirrah, you were beſt take my coxcomb.

Kent. Why, my boy?

Fool. Why? for taking one's part, that is out of favour; favour; nay, an thou can'ſt not ſmile as the wind ſits, thou'lt catch cold ſhortly. There, take my coxcomb; why, this fellow has baniſh'd two of his daughters, and did the third a bleſſing againſt his will; if thou follow him, thou muſt needs wear my coxcomb. How now, nuncle? would I had two coxcombs, and two daughters.

Lear. Why, my boy?

Fool. If I give them all my living, I'll keep my coxcomb myſelf; there's mine, beg another of thy daughters.

Lear. Take heed, Sirrah, the whip.——

Fool. Truth's a dog muſt to kennel; he muſt be whipt out, when the lady brach may ſtand by th' fire and ſtink.

Lear. A peſtilent gall to me.

Fool. Sirrah, I'll teach thee a ſpeech. [To Kent.

Lear. Do.

Fool. Mark it, nuncle;

Have more than thou ſhoweſt,
Speak leſs than thou knoweſt,
Lend leſs than thou oweſt,
Ride more than thou goeſt,
Learn more than thou troweſt,
Set leſs than thou throweſt,
Leave thy drink and thy whore,
And keep within door,
And thou ſhalt have more
Than two tens to a ſcore.

Kent. This is nothing, fool.

Fool. Then it is like the breath of an unfee'd lawyer, you gave me nothing for't; can you make no uſe of nothing, nuncle?

Lear. Why, no, boy; nothing can be made out of nothing.

Fool. Pr'ythee, tell him, ſo much the rent of his land comes to: he will not believe a fool. [To Kent.

Lear. A bitter fool!——

Fool. Doſt thou know the difference, my boy, between a bitter fool and a ſweet one?

Lear. No, lad, teach me.

For

Fool. That Lord, that counſel'd thee to give away thy land,
Come, place him here by me! do thou for him ſtand;
The ſweet and bitter fool will preſently appear,
The one, in motley here; the other, found out there.

Lear. Doſt thou call me fool, boy?

Fool. All thy other titles thou haſt given away; that thou waſt born with.

Kent. This is not altogether fool, my Lord.

Fool. No, faith; Lords, and great men will not let me; if I had a monopoly on't, they would have part on't: nay, the Ladies too, they'll not let me have all fool to myſelf, they'll be ſnatching.
Give me an egg, nuncle, and I'll give thee two crowns.

Lear. What two crowns ſhall they be?

Fool. Why, after I have cut the egg i'th' middle and eat up the meat, the two crowns of the egg; when thou cloveſt thy crown i'th' middle and gav'ſt away both parts, thou bor'ſt thine aſs on thy back o'er the dirt; thou hadſt little wit in thy bald crown, when thou gav'ſt thy golden one away: if I ſpeak like myſelf in this, let him be whipt that firſt finds it ſo.

Fools ne'er had leſs grace in a year, [Singing.
For wiſe men are grown foppiſh;
And know not how their wits to wear,
Their manners are ſo apiſh.

Lear. When were you wont to be ſo full of ſongs, ſirrah?

Fool. I have uſed it, nuncle, e'er ſince thou mad'ſt thy daughters thy mothers; for when thou gav'ſt them the rod, and put'ſt down thy own breeches,

Then they for ſudden joy did weep, [Singing.
And I for ſorrow ſung;
That ſuch a King ſhould play bo-peep,
And go the fools among.

Pr'ythee, nuncle, keep a ſchool-maſter that can teach thy fool to lye; I would fain learn to lye.

Lear. If you lye, ſirrah, we'll have you whipt.

Fool.

I marvel, what kin thou and thy daughters are:
have me whipt for ſpeaking true, thou'lt have me or lying; and, ſometimes, I am whipt for hold-peace. I had rather be any kind o'thing than and yet I would not be thee, nuncle; thou red thy wit o' both ſides, and left nothing i'th'
: here comes one o'th' parings.

To them, Enter Gonerill.

. How now, daughter, what makes that frontlet

Thou waſt a pretty fellow, when thou hadſt no care for her frowning; now thou art an O with-

. Are you our daughter?

Gon. I would, you would make uſe of your good wiſdo:
Whereof I know you are fraught, and put away
Theſe diſpoſitions, which of late tranſport you
From what you rightly are.

Fool. May not an aſs know when the cart draws tl horſe? whoop, Jug, I love thee.

Lear. Does any here know me? this is not Lear:
Does Lear walk thus? ſpeak thus; where are his eyes
Either his notion weakens, his diſcernings
Are lethargy'd——Ha! waking——'tis not ſo;
Who is it that can tell me who I am?
Lear's ſhadow? I would learn; for by the marks
Of ſovereignty, of knowledge, and of reaſon,
I ſhould be falſe perſuaded I had daughters.
Your name, fair gentlewoman?——

Gon. This admiration, Sir, is much o'th' ſavour
Of other your new pranks. I do beſeech you,
To underſtand my purpoſes aright.
You, as you're old and reverend, ſhould be wiſe.
Here do you keep a hundred Knights and Squires,
Men ſo diſorder'd, ſo debauch'd and bold,
That this our court, infected with their manners,
Shews like a riotous inn; Epicuriſm and luſt
Make it more like a tavern or a brothel,
Than a grac'd palace. Shame itſelf doth ſpeak
For inſtant remedy. Be then deſir'd
By her, that elſe will take the thing ſhe begs,
‡ Of fifty to diſquantity your train;
And the remainders, that ſhall ſtill depend,
To be ſuch men as may beſort your age,
And know themſelves and you.

Lear. Darkneſs and devils!
Saddle my horſes, call my train together.—
Degen'rate baſtard! I'll not trouble thee;
Yet have I left a daughter.

‡ A little is the common reading; but it appears, from what Le ſays in the next Scene, that this number fifty was required to be cut o which (as the edition ſtood) is no where ſpecify'd by Goneril.

Lear. Woe! that too late repents—O, Sir, are you come?
Is it your will, ſpeak, Sir? prepare my horſes.— [To Alb.
Ingratitude! thou marble-hearted fiend,
More hideous, when thou ſhew'ſt thee in a child,

Which, like an engine, wrencht my frame of nature
From the fixt place; drew from my heart all love,
And added to the gall. O Lear, Lear, Lear!
Beat at this gate that let thy folly in. [Striking his head.
And thy dear judgment out.—Go, go, my people.

Alb. My Lord, I'm guiltleſs, as I'm ignorant,
Of what hath mov'd you.

Lear. It may be ſo, my Lord———
Hear, Nature, hear; dear Goddeſs, hear a father!
Suſpend thy purpoſe, if thou didſt intend
To make this creature fruitful:
Into her womb convey ſterility,
Dry up in her the organs of increaſe,
And from her derogate body never ſpring
A babe to honour her! If ſhe muſt teem,
Create her child of ſpleen, that it may live,
And be a thwart diſnatur'd torment to her;
Let it ſtamp wrinkles in her brow of youth,
With cadent tears fret channels in her cheeks: (5)

(5) With cadent Tears,] Mr. Warburton very happily here ſuſpects our Author wrote, cadent: as an Epithet of much more Energy, and more likely to effect Lear's Imprecation. He brings in Confirmation, what the King ſays preſently after;

Turn all her mother's pains and benefits
To laughter and contempt; that ſhe may feel,
How ſharper than a ſerpent's tooth it is,
To have a thankleſs child.—Go, go, my people.

But let his diſpoſition have that ſcope,
That dotage gives it.

Alb. What's the matter, Sir?

Lear. I'll tell thee—life and death! I am aſham

Let it be ſo: I have another daughter,
Who, I am ſure, is kind and comfortable;
When ſhe ſhall hear this of thee, with her nails
She'll flea thy wolfiſh viſage. Thou ſhalt find,
That I'll reſume the ſhape, which thou doſt think
I have caſt off for ever. [Exeunt Lear and Attend

Gon. Do you mark that!

Gon. This man hath had good counſel,—a hundred Knights!
'Tis politick, and ſafe, to let him keep
A hundred Knights; yes, that on ev'ry dream,
Each buz, each fancy, each complaint, diſlike,
He may enguard his dotage with their pow'rs,
And hold our lives at mercy: Oſwald, I ſay.

Alb. Well, you may fear too far;——

Gon. Safer than truſt too far.
Let me ſtill take away the harms I fear,
Not fear ſtill to be harm'd. I know his heart;
What he hath utter'd, I have writ my ſiſter;
If ſhe'll ſuſtain him and his hundred Knights,
When I have ſhew'd th' unfitneſs——

Enter Steward.

How now, Oſwald?
What, have you writ that letter to my ſiſter?

Stew. Ay, Madam.

Gon. Take you ſome company, and away to horſe;
Inform her full of my particular fears,
And thereto add ſuch reaſons of your own,
As may compact it more. So, get you gone,
And haſten your return, [Exit Steward.
——No, no, my Lord,
This milky gentleneſs and courſe of yours,
Though I condemn it not, yet, under pardon,
You are much more at taſk for want of wiſdom,
Than prais'd for harmful mildneſs.

Alb. How far your eyes may pierce, I cannot tell;
Striving to better, oft we mar what's well.

Gon. Nay, then——

Alb. Well, well, th' event. [Exeunt.

SCENE, a Court-Yard, belonging to the Duke of Albany's Palace.

Re-enter Lear, Kent, Gentleman and Fool.

Lear. GO you before to Glo'ſter with theſe letters; acquaint my daughter no further with any thing you know, than comes from her demand out of the letter; if your diligence be not ſpeedy, I ſhall be there afore you.

Kent. I will not ſleep, my Lord, 'till I have delivered your letter. [Exit.

Fool. If a man's brain were in his heels, were't not in danger of kibes?

Lear. Ay, boy.

Fool. Then, I pr'ythee, be merry, thy wit ſhall not go ſlip-ſhod.

Lear. Ha, ha, ha.

Fool. Shalt ſee, thy other daughter will uſe thee kindly; for tho' ſhe's as like this as a crab's like an apple, yet I can tell what I can tell.

Lear. What can'ſt tell, boy?

Fool. She will taſte as like this, as a crab does to a crab. Can'ſt thou tell, why one's noſe ſtands i'th' middle of one's face?

Lear. No.

Fool. Why, to keep one's eyes of either ſide one's noſe; that what a man cannot ſmell out, he may ſpy into.

Lear. I did her wrong——

Fool. Can'ſt tell how an oyſter makes his ſhell?

Lear. No.

Fool. Nor I neither; but I can tell, why a ſnail has a houſe.

Lear. Why?

Fool. Why, to put's head in, not to give it away to his daughter's, and leave his horns without a caſe.

Lear. I will forget my nature: ſo kind a father! be my horſes ready?

Fool.

Fool. Thy aſſes are gone about 'em; the reaſon, why the ſeven ſtars are no more than ſeven, is a pretty reaſon.

Lear. Becauſe they are not eight.

Fool. Yes, indeed; thou wouldſt make a good fool.

Lear. To tak't again perforce!—monſter ingratitude!

Fool. If you were my fool, nuncle, I'd have thee beaten for being old before thy time.

Lear. How's that?

Fool. Thou ſhouldſt not have been old, 'till thou hadſt been wiſe.

Lear. O, let me not be mad, not mad, ſweet heav'n! Keep me in temper, I would not be mad.

Enter Gentleman.

How now, are the horſes ready?

Gent. Ready, my Lord.

Lear. Come, boy.

Fool. She that's a maid now, and laughs at my departure, Shall not be a maid long, unleſs things be cut ſhorter.

[Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE, A Caſtle belonging to the Earl of Glo'ſter.

Enter Edmund and Curan, ſeverally.

EDMUND.

SAVE thee, Curan.

Cur. And you, Sir. I have been with your father, and given him notice that the Duke of Cornwall, and Regan his Dutcheſs, will be here with him this night.

Edm. How comes that?

Cur. Nay, I know not; you have heard of the news abroad; I mean, the whiſper'd ones; for they are yet but ear-kiſſing arguments.

Edm. Not I; pray you, what are they?

Cur. Have you heard of no likely wars toward, 'twixt the Dukes of Cornwall and Albany?

Edm. Not a word.

Cur. You may do then in time. Fare you well, Sir. [Exit.

Edm. The Duke be here to-night! the better! beſt!
This waves itſelf perforce into my buſineſs;
My father hath ſet guard to take my brother,
And I have one thing of a queezy queſtion
Which I muſt act; briefneſs, and fortune work!
Brother, a word; deſcend; brother, I ſay;——

To him, Enter Edgar.

My father watches; O Sir, fly this place,
Intelligence is giv'n where you are hid;
You've now the good advantage of the night——
Have you not ſpoken 'gainſt the Duke of Cornwall?
He's coming hither, now i'th' night, i'th' haſte,
And Regan with him; have you nothing ſaid
Upon his party 'gainſt the Duke of Albany?
Adviſe yourſelf.

Edg. I'm ſure on't, not a word.

Edm. I hear my father coming. Pardon me——
In cunning, I muſt draw my ſword upon you——
Draw, ſeem to defend yourſelf.
Now quit you well——
Yield—come before my father—light hoa, here!——
Fly, brother—Torches!—ſo farewel—— [Exit Edg.
Some blood, drawn on me, would beget opinion
[Wounds his arm.
Of my more fierce endeavour. I've ſeen drunkards
Do more than this in ſport. Father! father!
Stop, ſtop, no help?——

To him, Enter Glo'ſter, and ſervants with torches.

Glo. Now, Edmund, where's the villain?

Edm.

Edm. Here ſtood he in the dark, his ſharp ſword out,
Mumbling of wicked charms, conj'ring the moon
To ſtand's auſpicious miſtreſs.
Glo. But where is he?
Edm. Look, Sir, I bleed.
Glo. Where is the villain, Edmund?
Edm. Fled this way, Sir, when by no means he could—
Glo. Purſue him, ho! go after. By no means, what?—
Edm. Perſuade me to the murder of your Lordſhip;
But that, I told him, the revenging Gods
'Gainſt parricides did all the thunder bend,
Spoke with how manifold and ſtrong a bond
The child was bound to th' father.—Sir, in fine,
Seeing how lothly oppoſite I ſtood
To his unnat'ral purpoſe, in fell motion
With his prepared ſword he charges home
My unprovided body, lanc'd my arm;
And when he ſaw my beſt alarmed ſpirits,
Bold in the quarrel's right, rous'd to th' encounter,
Or whether gaſted by the noiſe I made,
Full ſuddenly he fled.
Glo. Let him fly far;
Not in this land ſhall he remain uncaught
And found; diſpatch—the noble Duke my maſter,
My worthy and arch-patron, comes to-night; (6)
By his authority I will proclaim it,
That he, who finds him, ſhall deſerve our thanks,
Bringing the murd'rous coward to the ſtake:
He that conceals him, death.
Edm. When I diſſuaded him from his intent,
And found him pight to do it, with curſt ſpeech
I threaten'd to diſcover him; he replied,
Thou unpoſſeſſing baſtard! do'ſt thou think,
If I would ſtand againſt thee, would the repoſal

(6) My worthy Arch and Patron.] I can meet with no Authority of this Word uſed in this manner, to ſignify, my Prince, my Chief; but always as an epitatic Particle prefixed and annexed to another Noun: and therefore I have ventured to ſuppoſe a Tranſpoſition of the Copulative, and that we ought to read, Arch-patron, as Arch-duke, Arch-angel, Arch-biſhop, &c.

Of any truſt, virtue, or worth in thee
Make thy words faith'd? no; what I ſhould deny,——
(As this I would, though thou didſt produce
My very character) I'd turn it all
To thy ſuggeſtion, plot, and damned practice;
And thou muſt make a dullard of the world,
If they not thought the profits of my death
Were very pregnant and potential ſpurs
To make thee ſeek it. [Trumpets within.
Glo. O ſtrange, faſten'd, villain!
Would he deny his letter?—I never got him.——
Hark, the Duke's trumpets! I know not why he comes—
All ports I'll bar; the villain ſhall not 'ſcape;
The Duke muſt grant me that; beſides, his picture
I will ſend far and near, that all the kingdom
May have due note of him; and of my land,
(Loyal and natural boy!) I'll work the means
To make thee capable.

Enter Cornwall, Regan, and Attendants.

Corn. How now, my noble friend? ſince I came hither,
Which I can call but now, I have heard ſtrange news.
Reg. If it be true, all vengeance comes too ſhort,
Which can purſue th' offender; how does my Lord?
Glo. O Madam, my old heart is crack'd, it's crack'd.
Reg. What, did my father's godſon ſeek your life?
He whom my father nam'd, your Edgar?
Glo. O lady, lady, ſhame would have it hid.
Reg. Was he not companion with the riotous Knights,
That tend upon my father?
Glo. I know not, Madam, 'tis too bad, too bad.
Edm. Yes, Madam, he was of that conſort.
Reg. No marvel then, though he were ill affected:
'Tis they have put him on the old man's death,
To have th' expence and waſte of his revenues.
I have this preſent evening from my ſiſter
Been well inform'd of them; and with ſuch cautions,
That if they come to ſojourn at my houſe,
I'll not be there.

Corn.

Corn. Nor I, I assure thee, Regan;
Edmund, I hear, that you have shewn your father
A child-like office.
Edm. 'Twas my duty, Sir.
Glo. He did bewray his practice, and receiv'd
This hurt you see, striving to apprehend him.
Corn. Is he pursued?
Glo. Ay, my good Lord.
Corn. If he be taken, he shall never more
Be fear'd of doing harm: make your own purpose,
How in my strength you please. As for you, Edmund,
Whose virtue and obedience doth this instant
So much commend itself, you shall be ours;
Natures of such deep trust we shall much need:
You we first seize on.
Edm. I shall serve you, Sir,
Truly, however else.
Glo. I thank your Grace.
Corn. You know not why we came to visit you——
Reg. Thus out of season threading dark-ey'd night; (7)
Occasions, noble Glo'ster, of some prize,
Wherein we must have use of your advice.——
Our father he hath writ, so hath our sister,
Of diff'rences, which I best thought it fit
To answer from our home: the several messengers
From hence attend dispatch. Our good old friend,
Lay comforts to your bosom; and bestow
Your needful counsel to our businesses,
Which crave the instant use.
Glo. I serve you, Madam:
Your Graces are right welcome. [Exeunt.

(7) ——threading dark ey'd Night.] I have not ventured to displace this Reading, tho' I have great Suspicion that the Poet wrote,

——treading dark-ey'd Night.

i. e. travelling in it. The other carries too obscure, and mean an Allusion. It must either be borrowed from the Cant-phrase of threading of Alleys, i. e. going thro' by-passages to avoid the high Streets; or to threading a Needle in the dark.

Enter

Enter Kent, and Steward, ſeverally.

Stew. Good evening to thee, friend; art of this houſe?

Kent. Ay.

Stew. Where may we ſet our horſes?

Kent. I'th' mire.

Stew. Pr'ythee, if thou lov'ſt me, tell me.

Kent. I love thee not.

Stew. Why then I care not for thee.

Kent. If I had thee in Lipſbury pinfold, I would make thee care for me.

Stew. Why doſt thou uſe me thus? I know thee not.

Kent. Fellow, I know thee.

Stew. What doſt thou know me for?

Kent. A knave, a raſcal, an eater of broken meats, a baſe, proud, ſhallow, beggarly, three-ſuited, hundred-pound, filthy worſted-ſtocking knave; a lily-liver'd, action-taking, knave; a whorſon, glaſs-gazing, ſuper-ſerviceable, finical rogue; one-trunk-inheriting ſlave; one that wouldſt be a bawd in way of good ſervice; and art nothing but the compoſition of a knave, beggar, coward, pander, and the ſon and heir of a mungril bitch; one whom I will beat into clam'rous whining, if thou deny'ſt the leaſt ſyllable of thy addition.

Stew. Why, what a monſtrous fellow art thou, thus to rail on one, that is neither known of thee, nor knows thee?

Kent. What a brazen-fac'd varlet art thou, to deny thou know'ſt me? is it two days ago, ſince I tript up thy heels, and beat thee before the King? draw, you rogue; for tho' it be night, yet the moon ſhines; I'll make a ſop o'th' moonſhine of you; you whoreſon, cullionly barber-monger, draw. [Drawing his ſword.

Stew. Away, I have nothing to do with thee.

Kent. Draw, you raſcal; you come with letters againſt the King; and take vanity, the puppet's part, againſt the royalty of her father; draw, you rogue, or I'll ſo carbonado your ſhanks——draw, you raſcal, come your ways.

Stew. Help, ho! murder! help!——

Kent.

Kent. Strike, you ſlave; ſtand, rogue, ſtand, you neat ſlave, ſtrike. [Beating him.

Stew. Help ho! murder! murder!——

Enter Edmund, Cornwall, Regan, Glo'ſter, and Servants.

Edm. How now, what's the matter? Part——

Kent. With you, goodman boy, if you pleaſe; come, I'll fleſh ye; come on, young maſter.

Glo. Weapons? arms? what's the matter here?

Corn. Keep peace, upon your lives; he dies, that ſtrikes again; what's the matter?

Reg. The meſſengers from our ſiſter and the King?

Corn. What is your difference? ſpeak.

Stew. I am ſcarce in breath, my Lord.

Kent. No marvel, you have ſo beſtirr'd your valour; you cowardly raſcal! nature diſclaims all ſhare in thee: a tailor made thee.

Corn. Thou art a ſtrange fellow; a tailor make a man?

Kent. Ay, a tailor, Sir; a ſtone-cutter, or a painter could not have made him ſo ill, tho' they had been but two hours o'th' trade.

Corn. Speak yet, how grew your quarrel?

Stew. This ancient ruffian, Sir, whoſe life I have ſpar'd at ſuit of his grey beard——

Kent. Thou whoreſon zed! thou unneceſſary letter! my Lord, if you will give me leave, I will tread this unbolted villain into mortar, and daub the wall of a jakes with him. Spare my grey beard? you wagtail!——

Corn. Peace, Sirrah!
You beaſtly knave, know you no reverence?

Kent. Yes, Sir, but anger hath a privilege.

Corn. Why art thou angry?

Kent. That ſuch a ſlave as this ſhou'd wear a ſword,
Who wears no honeſty: ſuch ſmiling rogues as theſe,
Like rats, oft bite the holy cords in twain (8)

Too

(8) Like rats, oft bite the holy Cords atwaine,
Which are t'intrince, t'unlooſe;] Thus the firſt Editors blundered this Paſſage into unintelligible Nonſenſe. Mr. Pope ſo far has diſengaged them, as to give us plain Senſe; but by throwing out the

Epithet

Too 'intrinſicate t'unlooſe: ſooth every paſſion,
That in the nature of their Lords rebels:
Bring oil to fire, ſnow to their colder moods;
Renege, affirm, and turn their halcyon beaks
With ev'ry gale and vary of their maſters;
As knowing nought, like dogs, but following.
A plague upon your epileptick viſage!
Smile you my ſpeeches, as I were a fool?
Gooſe, if I had you upon Sarum-plain,
I'd drive ye cackling home to Camelot.
Corn. What art thou mad, old fellow!
Glo. How fell you out? ſay that.
Kent. No contraries hold more antipathy,
Than I and ſuch a knave.
Corn. Why doſt thou call him knave? what is his fault?
Kent. His countenance likes me not.
Corn. No more perchance, does mine, nor his, nor hers.
Kent. Sir, 'tis my occupation to be plain;
I have ſeen better faces in my time,
Than ſtand on any ſhoulder that I ſee
Before me at this inſtant.
Corn. This is ſome fellow,
Who having been prais'd for bluntneſs, doth affect
A ſawcy roughneſs; and conſtrains the garb,
Quite from his nature. He can't flatter, he,——
An honeſt mind and plain, he muſt ſpeak truth;

Epithet holy, 'tis evident, he was not aware of the Poet's fine Meaning. I'll firſt eſtabliſh and prove the Reading; then explain the Alluſion. Thus the Poet gave it;

Like rats, oft bite the holy Cords in twain,
Too 'intrinſicate t'unlooſe——

It means, inward, hidden; perplext; as a Knot, hard to be unravelled; it is derived from the Latin adverb intrinſecus from which the Italians have coined a very beautiful Phraſe, intrinſicarſi col uno, i. e. to grow intimate with, to wind one ſelf into another. And now to our Author's Senſe. Kent is rating the Steward, as a Paraſite of Goneril's; and ſuppoſes very juſtly, that he has fomented the Quarrel betwixt that Princeſs and her Father: in which Office he compares him to a ſacrilegious Rat: and by a fine Metaphor, as Mr. Warburton obſerved to me, ſtiles the Union between Parents and Children the holy Cords.

An

An they will take it, ſo; if not, he's plain.
Theſe kind of knaves I know, which in this plainneſs
Harbour more craft, and more corrupter ends,
Than twenty ſilly ducking obſervants,
That ſtretch their duties nicely.

Kent. Sir, in good faith, in ſincere verity,
Under th' allowance of your grand aſpect,
Whoſe influence, like the wreath of radiant fire
On flickering Phœbus' front———

Corn. What mean'ſt by this?

Kent. To go out of my dialect, which you diſcommend ſo much: I know, Sir, I am no flatterer; he, that beguiled you in a plain accent, was a plain knave; which for my part I will not be, though I ſhould win your diſpleaſure to intreat me to't.

Corn. What was th' offence you gave him?

Stew. I never gave him any:
It pleas'd the King his maſter very lately
To ſtrike at me upon his miſconſtruction:
When he conjunct, and flatt'ring his diſpleaſure,
Tript me behind; being down, inſulted, rail'd,
And put upon him ſuch a deal of man, that
That worthied him, got praiſes of the King,
For him attempting who was ſelf-ſubdu'd;
And, in the fleſhment of this dread exploit,
Drew on me here again.

Kent. None of theſe rogues and cowards,
But Ajax is their fool.

Corn. Fetch forth the ſtocks.
You ſtubborn ancient knave, you rev'rend braggart,
We'll teach you——

Kent. Sir, I am too old to learn:
Call not your ſtocks for me, I ſerve the King;
On whoſe employment I was ſent to you.
You ſhall do ſmall reſpect, ſhew too bold malice
Againſt the grace and perſon of my maſter,
Stocking his meſſenger.

Corn. Fetch forth the ſtocks;
As I have life and honour, there ſhall he ſit till noon.

Reg. 'Till noon! till night, my Lord, and all night too.

Kent

Kent. Why, Madam, if I were your father's dog,
You could not uſe me ſo.

Reg. Sir, being his knave, I will. [Stocks brought out.

Corn. This is a fellow of the ſelf-ſame nature
Our ſiſter ſpeaks of. Come, bring away the ſtocks.

Glo. Let me beſeech your Grace not to do ſo;
His fault is much, and the good King his maſter
Will check him ſort; your purpos'd low correction
Is ſuch, as baſeſt and the meaneſt wretches
For pilf'rings, and moſt common treſpaſſes,
Are puniſh'd with. The King muſt take it ill,
That he, ſo ſlightly valued in his meſſenger,
Should have him thus reſtrain'd.

Corn. I'll anſwer that.

Reg. My ſiſter may receive it much more worſe,
To have her Gentleman abus'd, aſſaulted,
For following her affairs. Put in his legs——
[Kent is put in the ſtocks.
Come, my Lord, away. [Exeunt Regan and Cornwall.

Glo. I'm ſorry for thee, friend; 'tis the Duke's pleaſure,
Whoſe diſpoſition, all the world well knows,
Will not be rubb'd nor ſtop'd. I'll intreat for thee.

Kent. Pray, do not, Sir. I've watch'd and travell'd hard;
Some time I ſhall ſleep out, the reſt I'll whiſtle:
A good man's fortune may grow out at heels;
Give you good-morrow.

Glo. The Duke's to blame in this, 'twill be ill taken.
[Exit.

Kent. Good King, that muſt approve the common ſaw,
Thou out of heaven's benediction com'ſt
To the warm ſun!
Approach, thou beacon to this under-globe,
[Looking up to the moon.
That by thy comfortable beams I may
Peruſe this letter. Nothing almoſt ſees miracles,
But miſery. I know, 'tis from Cordelia;
Who hath moſt fortunately been inform'd
Of my obſcured courſe. I ſhall find time
From this enormous ſtate, and ſeek to give Loſſes their remedies. All weary and o'er watch'd,

Take

Take 'vantage, heavy eyes, not to behold
This ſhameful lodging.
Fortune, good night; ſmile once more, turn thy wheel.
[He ſleeps.

SCENE changes to a part of a Heath.

Enter Edgar.

Edg. I'VE heard myſelf proclaim'd;
And, by the happy hollow of a tree,
Eſcap'd the hunt. No port is free, no place,
That Guard and moſt unuſual vigilance
Does not attend my taking. Whiles I may 'ſcape,
I will preſerve myſelf: and am bethought
To take the baſeſt and the pooreſt ſhape,
That ever Penury in contempt of man
Brought near to beaſt: my face I'll grime with filth;
Blanket my loins; elfe all my hair in knots;
And with preſented nakedneſs out-face
The winds and perſecutions of the ſky.
The country gives me proof and precedent
Of bedlam beggars, who, with roaring voices,
Strike in their numb'd and mortify'd bare arms
Pins, wooden pricks, nails, ſprigs of roſemary;
And with this horrible object, from low farms,
Poor pelting villages, ſheep-coats and mills,
Sometimes with lunatick bans, ſometimes with pray'rs,
Inforce their charity; poor Turlygood! poor Tom!——
That's ſomething yet: Edgar I nothing am. [Exit.

SCENE changes again, to the Earl of Gloſter's Caſtle.

Enter Lear, Fool and Gentleman.

Le. 'TIS ſtrange, that they ſhould ſo depart from home,
And not ſend back my meſſenger.
Gent. As I learn'd,

The

The night before, there was no purpoſe in them
Of this remove.

Kent. Hail to thee, noble maſter!

Lear. Ha! mak'ſt thou thy ſhame thy paſtime?

Kent. No, my Lord.

Fool. Ha, ha, he wears cruel garters; horſes are ty'd by the heads, dogs and bears by th' neck, monkeys by th' loins, and men by th' legs; when a man is over-luſty at legs then he wears wooden nether ſtocks.

Lear. What's he, that hath ſo much thy Place miſtook,
To ſet thee here?

Kent. It is both he and ſhe,
Your ſon and daughter.

Lear. No.

Kent. Yes.

Lear. No, I ſay.

Kent. I ſay, yea,

Lear. By Jupiter, I ſwear, no.

Kent. By Juno, I ſwear, ay.

Lear. They durſt not do't.
They could not, would not do't; 'tis worſe than murder,
To do upon reſpect ſuch violent outrage:
Reſolve me with all modeſt haſte, which way
Thou might'ſt deſerve, or they impoſe this uſage,
Coming from us?

Kent. My Lord, when at their home
I did commend your Highneſs' letters to them,
Ere I was riſen from the place, that ſhew'd
My duty kneeling, came a reeking Poſt,
Stew'd in his haſte, half breathleſs, panting forth
From Gonerill his miſtreſs, ſalutation;
Deliver'd letters ſpight of intermiſſion,
Which preſently they read: on whoſe contents
They ſummon'd up their meiny, ſtrait took horſe;
Commanded me to follow, and attend
The leiſure of their anſwer; gave me cold looks;
And meeting here the other meſſenger,
Whoſe welcome, I perceiv'd, had poiſon'd mine;
(Being the very fellow, which of late Diſplay'd ſo ſaucily againſt your Highneſs.)

Having

Having more man than wit about me, I drew;
He rais'd the houſe with loud and coward cries:
Your ſon and daughter found this treſpaſs worth
The ſhame which here it ſuffers.

Fool. Winter's not gone yet, if the wild geeſe fly that way.
Fathers, that wear rags,
Do make their children blind:
But fathers, that bear bags,
Shall ſee their children kind.
Fortune, that arrant whore,
Ne'er turns the key to th' poor.
But, for all this, thou ſhalt have as many doſours from Thy dear daughters, as thou canſt tell in a year.

Lear. Oh, how this mother ſwells up tow'rd my heart!
Hyſterica paſſio, down, thou climbing-ſorrow,
Thy element's below; where is this daughter?

Kent. With the Earl, Sir, here within.

Lear. Follow me not; ſtay here. [Exit.

Gent. Made you no more offence,
But what you ſpeak of?

Kent. None.
How chance the King comes with ſo ſmall a number?

Fool. An thou hadſt been ſet i'th' ſtocks for that queſtion, thou'dſt well deſerved it.

Kent. Why, fool.

Fool. We'll ſet thee to ſchool to an ant, to teach thee there's no lab'ring i' th' winter. All, that follow their noſes are led by their eyes, but blind men; and there's not a noſe among twenty, but can ſmell him that's ſtinking——let go thy hold, when a great wheel runs down a hill, leſt it break thy neck with following it; but the great one that goes upward, let him draw thee after. When a wiſe man gives thee better counſel, give me mine again; I would have none but knaves follow it, ſince a fool gives it.
That Sir, which ſerves for gain,
And follows but for form,
Will pack, when it begins to rain,
And leave thee in the ſtorm;

But

But I will tarry, the fool will ſtay,
And let the wiſe man fly:
The knave turns fool, that runs away;
The fool no knave, perdy.
Kent. Where learn'd you this, fool?
Fool. Not i'th' Stocks, fool.

Enter Lear and Glo'ſter.

Lea. Deny to ſpeak with me? they're ſick, they're weary,
They have travell'd all the night? mere fetches,
The images of revolt and flying off.
Bring me a better anſwer——
Glo. My dear Lord,
You know the fiery quality of the Duke:
How unremovable, and fixt he is
In his own courſe.
Lear. Vengeance! plague! death! confuſion!——
Fiery? what fiery quality? why, Glo'ſter,
I'd ſpeak with th' Duke of Cornwall, and his wife.
Glo. Well, my good Lord, I have inform'd them ſo.
Lear. Inform'd them? doſt thou underſtand me, man?
Glo. Ay, my good Lord?
Lear. The King would ſpeak with Cornwall, the dear father
Won'd with his daughter ſpeak; commands her ſervice:
Are they inform'd of this?—my breath and blood!—
Fiery? the fiery duke? tell the hot Duke, that——
No, but not yet: may be, he is not well;
Infirmity doth ſtill neglect all office,
Whereto our health is bound; we're not ourſelves,
When Nature, being oppreſt, commands the mind
To ſuffer with the body. I'll forbear;
And am fall'n out with my more headier will,
To take the indiſpos'd and ſickly fit
For the ſound man.—Death on my ſtate! but wherefore
Should he ſit here? this Act perſuades me,
That this remotion of the Duke and her
Is practice only. Give me my ſervant forth;
Go, tell the Duke and's wife, I'd ſpeak with them:
Now, preſently,—bid them come forth and hear me,

Or

Or at their chamber-door I'll beat the drum,
'Till it cry, ſleep to death.

Glo. I would have all well betwixt you. [Exit.

Lear. Oh me, my heart! my riſing heart! but down.

Fool. Cry to it, nuncle, as the cockney did to the Eels, when ſhe put them i'th' Paſty alive; ſhe rapt 'em o'th' coxcombs with a ſtick, and cry'd, down wantons, down; 'Twas her brother, that in pure kindneſs to his horſe butter'd his hay.

Enter Cornwall, Regan, Glo'ſter, and Servants.

Lear. Good-morrow to you both.

Corn. Hail to your Grace! [Kent is ſet at Liberty.

Reg. I am glad to ſee your Highneſs.

Lear. Regan, I think, you are; I know, what reaſon
I have to think ſo; if thou wert not glad,
I would divorce me from thy mother's tomb,
Sepulchring an adultreſs. O, are you free? [To Kent.
Some other time for that. Beloved Regan,
Thy ſiſter's naught: oh Regan, ſhe hath tied Sharp-tooth'd unkindneſs, like a vulture here;
[Points to his heart.
I can ſcarce ſpeak to thee; thou'lt not believe,
With how deprav'd a quality——oh Regan!——

Reg. I pray you, Sir, take patience; I have hope,
You leſs know how to value her deſert,
Than ſhe to ſcant her duty.

Lear. Say? How is that?——

Reg. I cannot think my ſiſter in the leaſt
Would fail her obligation. If, perchance,
She have reſtrain'd the riots of your followers;
'Tis on ſuch ground, and to ſuch wholeſom end,
As clears her from all blame.

Lear. My curſes on her——

Reg. O Sir, you are old,
Nature in you ſtands on the very verge
Of her confine; you ſhould be rul'd and led
By ſome diſcretion, that diſcerns your ſtate
Better than you your Self; therefore, I pray you,
That to our ſiſter you do make return;

Say

Say, you have wrong'd her, Sir.

Lear. Ask her forgiveneſs?
Do you but mark, how this becomes the uſe? (9)
Dear daughter, I confeſs, that I am old,
Age is unneceſſary: On my knees I beg,
That you'll vouchſafe me raiment, bed, and food.

Reg. Good Sir, no more; theſe are unſightly tricks:
Return you to my ſiſter.

Lear. Never, Regan:
She hath abated me of half my train;
Look'd blank upon me; ſtruck me with her tongue, (10)
Moſt ſerpent-like, upon the very heart.
All the ſtor'd vengeances of heaven fall
On her ingrateful Top! ſtrike her young bones,
You taking airs, with lameneſs!———

Corn. Fy! Sir, fy!

Lear. You nimble lightnings, dart your blinding flames
Into her ſcornful eyes! infect her beauty,
You fen-ſuck'd fogs, drawn by the pow'rful ſun
To fall, and blaſt her pride.

Reg. O the bleſt Gods!
So will you wiſh on me, when the raſh mood is on.

Lear. No, Regan, thou ſhalt never have my curſe:
Thy tender hefted nature ſhall not give
Thee o'er to harſhneſs; her eyes are fierce, but thine
Do comfort, and not burn. 'Tis not in thee
To grudge my pleaſures, to cut off my train,

(9) Do you but mark how this becomes the Houſe?] This Phraſe to me is unintelligible, and ſeems to ſay nothing to the purpoſe: Neither can it mean, as I conceive, how this becomes the Order of Families. Lear would certainly intend to reply, how does asking my Daughters, Forgiveneſs become me as a Father, and agree with common Faſhion, the eſtabliſh'd Rule and cuſtom of Nature? It ſeems, therefore, no Doubt to me, but the Poet wrote, as I have alter'd the Text. And that Shakeſpear employs Uſe in this Signification is too obvious to want a Proof

(10) Look'd black upon me.] This is a Phraſe which I do not underſtand; neither have I any where elſe met with it. But to look blank is a known Expreſſion, ſignifying, either to give diſcouraging Looks to another, or to ſtand diſmay'd and diſappointed one's ſelf, The Poet means here, that Generill gave him cold Looks, as he before phraſes it in this Play.

To

To bandy hafty words, to ſcant my ſizes,
And, in concluſion, to oppoſe the bolt
Againſt my coming in. Thou better know'ſt
The offices of nature, bond of child-hood,
Effects of court'ſy, dues of gratitude:
Thy half o'th' Kingdom thou haſt not forgot,
Wherein I thee endow'd.

Reg. Good Sir, to th' purpoſe. [Trumpet within.

Lear. Who put my man i'th' Stocks?

Enter Steward.

Corn. What trumpet's that?

Reg. I know't, my ſiſter's: this approves her letter,
That ſhe would ſoon be here. Is your lady come?

Lear. This is a ſlave, whoſe eaſy-borrowed pride
Dwells in the fickle grace of her he follows.
Out, varlet, from my ſight.

Corn. What means your Grace?

Enter Gonerill.

Lear. Who ſtockt my ſervant? Regan, I've good hope,
Thou didſt not know on't.——Who comes here?
O Heav'ns,
If you do love old men, if your ſweet ſway (11)
Hallow obedience, if yourſelves are old,
Make it your cauſe; ſend down, and take my part.
Art not aſham'd to look upon this beard?
O Regan, will you take her by the hand?

Gon. Why not by th' hand, Sir? how have I offended?
All's not offence, that indiſcretion finds,
And dotage terms ſo.

Lear. O ſides, you are too tough!
Will you yet hold?——how came my man i'th' Stocks?

(11) —— —— if your ſweet ſway
Allow Obedience,] Could any Man in his Senſes, and Lear has 'em yet, make it a Queſtion whether Heaven allow'd Obedience? Undoubtedly, the Poet wrote —— Hallow Obedience, ——— i. e. if by your Ordinances you hold and pronounce it ſanctified; and puniſh the Violators of it as ſacrilegious Perſons. Mr. Warburton.

Corn.

Corn. I ſet him there, Sir: but his own diſorders
Deſerv'd much leſs advancement.

Lear. You? did you?

Reg. I pray you, Father, being weak, ſeem ſo.
If, 'till the expiration of your month,
You will return and ſojourn with my ſiſter,
Diſmiſſing half your train, come then to me;
I'm now from home, and out of that proviſion
Which ſhall be needful for your entertainment.

Lear. Return to her, and fifty men diſmiſs'd?
No, rather I abjure all roofs, and chuſe (12)
To be a comrade with the wolf and owl;
To wage, againſt the enmity o'th' air,
Neceſſity's ſharp pinch——Return with her?
Why, the hot blooded France, that dow'rleſs took
Our youngeſt born, I could as well be brought To knee his throne, and 'Squire-like penſion beg,
To keep baſe life a-foot:——Return with her?
Perſuade me rather to be ſlave, and ſumpter,
To this deteſted groom.

Gon. At your choice, Sir.

Lear. I pr'ythee, daughter, do not make me mad
I will not trouble thee, my child. Farewel;
We'll no more meet, no more ſee one another;
But yet thou art my fleſh, my blood, my daughter,
Or rather a diſeaſe that's in my fleſh,
Which I muſt needs call mine; thou art a bile,
A plague-ſore, or imboſſed carbuncle,
In my corrupted blood; but I'll not chide thee.
Let ſhame come when it will, I do not call it;
I do not bid the thunder-bearer ſhoot,

(12) —— —— —— and chuſe
To wage againſt the enmity o'th' Air,
To be a Comrade with the Wolf and Owl,.
Neceſſity's ſharp Pinch. The Breach of the Senſe here is manifeſt Proof, that theſe Lines were tranſpoſed by the firſt Editor. Neither can there be any Syntax or Grammatical Coherence, unleſs we ſuppoſe Neceſſity's ſharp Pinch to be the Accuſative to wage. I have placed the Verſes, the Senſe is ſtrait and eaſy; and the Sentence compleat and finiſhed.

Nor tell tales of thee to high-judging Jove.
Mend when thou canſt; be better at thy leiſure.
I can be patient, I can ſtay with Regan;
I, and my hundred Knights.
Reg. Not altogether ſo;
I look'd not for you yet, nor am provided
For your fit welcome; give ear to my ſiſter,
For thoſe that mingle reaſon with your paſſion,
Muſt be content to think you old, and ſo——
But ſhe knows what ſhe does.
Lear. Is this well ſpoken?
Reg. I dare avouch it, Sir; what, fifty followers?
Is it not well? what ſhould you need of more?
Yea, or ſo many? ſince both charge and danger
Speak 'gainſt ſo great a number: how in one houſe
Should many people under two commands
Hold amity? 'tis hard, almoſt impoſſible.
Gon. Why might not you, my Lord, receive attendance
From thoſe that ſhe calls ſervants, or from mine?
Reg. Why not, my Lord? if then they chanc'd to ſlack ye,
We could controul them; if you'll come to me,
(For now I ſpy a danger) I intreat you
To bring but five and twenty; to no more
Will I give place or notice.
Lear. I gave you all——
Reg. And in good time you gave it.
Lear. Made you my Guardians, my depoſitaries;
But kept a reſervation to be follow'd
With ſuch a number; muſt I come to you
With five and twenty? Regan, ſaid you ſo?
Reg. And ſpeak't again, my Lord, no more with me.
Lear. Thoſe wicked creatures yet do look well-favour'd,
When others are more wicked: Not being worſt,
Stands in ſome rank of praiſe; I'll go with thee;
Thy fifty yet doth double five and twenty;
And thou art twice her love.
Gon. Hear me, my Lord;
What need you five and twenty, ten, or five,
To follow in a houſe, where twice ſo many

Have a command to tend you?

Reg. What needs one?

Lear. O, reaſon not the need: our baſeſt beggars
Are in the pooreſt thing ſuperfluous;
Allow not nature more than nature needs,
Man's life is cheap as beaſts'. Thou art a lady;
If only to go warm were gorgeous,
Why, nature needs not what thou gorgeous wear'ſt,
Which ſcarcely keeps thee warm; but for true need,
You heav'ns, give me that patience which I need!
You ſee me here, you Gods, a poor old man,
As full of grief as age; wretched in both!
If it be you, that ſtir theſe daughters' hearts
Againſt their father, fool me not ſo much
To bear it tamely; touch me with noble anger;
O let not women's weapons, water-drops,
Stain my man's cheeks. No, you unnat'ral hags,
I will have ſuch revenges on you both,
That all the world ſhall——I will do ſuch things,
What they are, yet I know not; but they ſhall be
The terrors of the earth: you think, I'll weep:
No, I'll not weep. I have full cauſe of weeping:
This heart ſhall break into a thouſand flaws
Or ere I weep. O fool, I ſhall go mad.

[Exeunt Lear, Glo'ſter, Kent and Fool.

Corn. Let us withdraw, 'twill be a ſtorm.

[Storm and tempeſt.

Reg. This houſe is little; the old man and his people
Cannot be well beſtow'd.

Gon. 'Tis his own blame hath put himſelf from reſt,
And muſt needs taſte his folly.

Reg. For his particular, I'll receive him gladly;
But not one follower.

Gon. So am I purpos'd.
Where is my Lord of Glo'ſter?

Enter Glo'ſter.

Corn. Follow'd the old man forth;——he is return'd.

Glo. The King is in high rage, and will I know not whither.

Cor-

Corn. 'Tis beſt to give him way, he leads himſelf.
Gon. My Lord, intreat him by no means to ſtay.
Glo. Alack, the night comes on: and the high winds
Do ſorely ruffle, for many miles about
There's ſcarce a buſh.
Reg. O Sir, to wilful men,
The injuries, that they themſelves procure,
Muſt be their ſchool-maſters: ſhut up your doors;
He is attended with a deſp'rate train;
And what they may incenſe him to, being apt
To have his ear abus'd, wiſdom bids fear.
Corn. Shut up your doors, my Lord, 'tis a wild night.
My Regan counſels well: come out o'th' ſtorm. [Exeunt.

ACT III.

SCENE, a Heath.

A ſtorm is heard, with thunder and lightning. Enter Kent, and a Gentleman, ſeverally.

KENT.

WHO's there, beſides foul weather?
Gent. One minded like the weather, moſt unquietly.
Kent. I know you; where's the King?
Gent. Contending with the fretful elements;
Bids the wind blow the earth into the ſea;
Or ſwell the curled waters 'bove the main,
That things might change, or ceaſe: tears his white hair;
(Which the impetuous blaſts with eyeleſs rage Catch in their fury, and make nothing of.)
Strives in his little world of man t'outſcorn
The to-and-fro-conflicting wind and rain.
This night, wherein the cub-drawn bear would couch,
The lion, and the belly-pinched wolf

Keep their furr dry; unbonnetted he runs,
And bids what will, take all.
Kent. But who is with him?
Gent. None but the fool, who labours to out-jeſt
His heart-ſtruck injuries.
Kent. Sir, I do know you,
And dare, upon the warrnt of my note,
Commend a dear thing to you. There's diviſion
(Although as yet the face of it is cover'd
With mutual cunning) 'twixt Albany and Cornwall:
Who have (as who have not, whom their great ſtars (13)
Throne and ſet high?) ſervants, who ſeem no leſs;
Which are to France the ſpies and ſpeculations
Intelligent of our ſtate. What hath been ſeen,
Either in ſnuffs and packings of the Dukes;
Of the hard rein, which both of them have borne
Againſt the old kind king; or ſomething deeper,
(Whereof, perchance, theſe are but furniſhings—)
But true it is, from France there comes a power
Into this ſcatter'd kingdom; who already,
Wiſe in our negligence, have ſecret ſea
In ſome of our beſt ports, and are at point
To ſhow their open banner——Now to you,
If on my credit you dare build ſo far
To make your ſpeed to Dover, you ſhall find
Some that will thank you, making juſt report,
Of how unnatural and bemadding ſorrow
The King hath cauſe to plain.
I am a gentleman of blood and breeding,
And from ſome knowledge and aſſurance of you,
Offer this Office.
Gent. I'll talk further with you.
Kent. No, do not:
For confirmation that I am much more

(13) Who have, as who have not,——] The eight ſubſequent Verſes were degraded by Mr. Pope, as unintelligible, and to no purpoſe. For my part, I ſee nothing in them but what is very eaſy to be underſtood; and the Lines ſeem abſolutely neceſſary to clear up the Motives, upon which Franſe prepared his Invaſion; nor with*out them is the Senſe* of the Context compleat.

Than

Than my out-wall, open this purſe and take
What it contains. If you ſhall ſee Cordelia,
(As, fear not, but you ſhall) ſhew her that ring,
And ſhe will tell you who this fellow is,
That yet you do not know. Fy on this ſtorm!
I will go ſeek the King.

Gent. Give me your hand, have you no more to ſay?

Kent. Few words, but, to effect, more than all yet;
That, when we have found the King, (in which you take
That way, I this:) he that firſt lights on him,
Hallo the other. [Exeunt ſeverally.

Storm ſtill. Enter Lear and Fool.

Lear. Blow winds, and crack your cheeks; rage, blow!
You cataracts and hurricanoes, ſpout
Till you have drencht our ſteeples, drown'd the cocks!
You ſulph'rous and thought-executing fires,
Vaunt-couriers of oak-cleaving thunder-bolts,
Singe my white head. And thou all-ſhaking thunder,
Strike flat the thick rotundity o'th' world;
Crack nature's mould, all germins ſpill at once (14)
That make ingrateful man.

Fool. O nuncle, court-holy-water in a dry houſe is better than the rain-waters out o' door. Good nuncle, in, and aſk thy daughters bleſſing: here's a night, that pities neither wiſe men nor fools.

(14) Crack Nature's Mould, all Germains ſpill at once.] Thus all the Editions have given us this Paſſage, and Mr. Pope has explained Germains to mean relations, or kindred Elements. Then it muſt have been germanes (from the Latin Adjective, germanus;) a Word more than once uſed by our Author, tho' always falſe ſpelt by his Editors. But the Poet means here, "Crack Nature's Mould, and ſpill all the Seeds of Matter, that are hoarded within it." To retrieve which Senſe, we muſt write Germins; (a Subſtantive derived from Germen, βοτάνη: as the old Gloſſaries expound it:) And to put this Emendation beyond all Doubt, I'll produce one Paſſage, where our Author not only uſes the ſame Thought again, but the Word that aſcertains by Explication. In Winter's Tale;

Let Nature cruſh the Sides o'th' Earth together,
And mar the Seeds within.

Lear. Rumble thy belly full, ſpit fire, ſpout rain;
Nor rain, wind, thunder, fire, are my daughters;
I tax not you, you elements, with unkindneſs;
I never gave you kingdom, call'd you children;
You owe me no ſubſcription. Then let fall
Your horrible pleaſure;——here I ſtand, your ſlave;
A poor infirm, weak, and deſpis'd old man!
But yet I call you ſervile miniſters,
That have with two pernicious daughters join'd
Your high-engender'd battles, 'gainſt a head
So old and white as this, Oh! oh! 'tis foul.

Fool. He that has a houſe to put's head in, has a good head-piece:
The codpiece that will houſe, before the head has any,
The head and ſhe ſhall lowſe; ſo beggars marry many.
That man that makes his toe, what he his heart ſhould make,
Shall of a corn cry woe, and turn his ſleep to wake.
For there was never yet fair woman, but ſhe made mouths in a glaſs.

To them, Enter Kent.

Lear. No, I will be the pattern of all patience,
I will ſay nothing.

Kent. Who's there?

Fool. Marry here's grace, and a cod-piece, that's a wiſe man and a fool.

Kent. Alas, Sir, are you here? things, that love night,
Love not ſuch nights as theſe: the wrathful ſkies
Gallow the very wand'rers of the dark,
And make them keep their caves: ſince I was a man,
Such ſheets of fire, ſuch burſts of horrid thunder,
Such groans of roaring wind and rain, I never Remember to have heard. Man's nature cannot carry
Th' affliction, nor the force.

Lear. Let the great Gods,
That keep this dreadful pother o'er our heads,
Find out their enemies now. Tremble, thou wretch,
That haſt within thee undivulged crimes,
Unwhipt of juſtice. Hide thee, thou bloody hand,

Thou

Thou perjure, and thou ſimular of virtue,
That art inceſtuous: caitiff, ſhake to pieces,
That under covert and convenient ſeeming,
Haſt practis'd on man's life!—Cloſe pent-up guilts,
Rive your concealing continents and aſk
Theſe dreadful ſummoners grace.——I am a man,
More ſinn'd againſt, than ſinning.

Kent. Alack, bare-headed?
Gracious my Lord, hard by here is a hovel;
Some friendſhip will it lend you 'gainſt the tempeſt,
Repoſe you there, while I to this hard houſe
(More hard than is the ſtone whereof 'tis rais'd;
Which ev'n but now, demanding after you,
Deny'd me to come in) return, and force
Their ſcanted courteſy.

Lear. My wits begin to turn.
Come on, my boy. How doſt, my boy? art cold?
I'm cold myſelf. Where is the ſtraw, my fellow?
The art of our neceſſities is ſtrange,
That can make vile things precious. Come, your hovel;
Poor fool and knave, I've one part in my heart,
That's ſorry yet for [redacted].

Fool. He that has an a little tyny wit,
With heigh ho, the wind and the rain;
Muſt make content with his fortunes fit,
Though the rain it raineth every day.

Lear. True, my good boy: come, bring us to this hovel. [Exit.

Fool. 'Tis a brave night to cool a courteſan.
I'll ſpeak a propheſy, or ere I go;
When prieſts are more in words than matter,
When brewers marr their malt with water;
When nobles are their tailors' tutors;
No hereticks burn'd, but wenches' ſuitors;
When every caſe in law is right,
No 'Squire in debt, nor no poor Knight;
When ſlanders do not live in tongues,
And cut-purſes come not to throngs;

When uſurers tell their gold i'th' field,
And bawds and whores do churches build:
Then ſhall the realm of Albion
Come to great confuſion:
Then comes the time, who lives to ſee't,
That going ſhall be us'd with feet.
This prophecy Merlin ſhall make, for I do live before his time. [Exit.

SCENE, An Apartment in Glo'ſter's Caſtle.

Enter Glo'ſter, and Edmund.

Glo. ALack, alack, Edmund, I like not this unnatural dealing; when I deſir'd their leave that I might pity him, they took from me the uſe of mine own houſe; charg'd me on pain of perpetual diſpleaſure, neither to ſpeak of him, entreat for him, or any way ſuſtain him.

Edm. Moſt ſavage and unnatural!

Glo. Go to; ſay you nothing. There is diviſion between the Dukes, and a worſe matter than that: I have receiv'd a letter this night, 'tis dangerous to be ſpoken; (I have lock'd the letter in my cloſet:) theſe injuries, the King now bears, will be revenged home; there is part of a power already footed; and we muſt incline to the King; I will look for him, and privily relieve him; go you, and maintain talk with the Duke, that my charity be not of him perceiv'd; if he aſk for me, I am ill, and gone to bed; if I die for it, as no leſs is threaten'd me, the King my old maſter muſt be relieved. There are ſtrange things toward, Edmund; pray, you, be careful. [Exit.

Edm. This curteſy, forbid thee, ſhall the Duke
Inſtantly know, and of that letter too.
This ſeems a fair deſerving, and muſt draw me
That which my father loſes; no leſs than all.
The younger riſes, when the old doth fall. [Exit.

SCENE

SCENE changes to a part of the Heath with a Hovel.

Enter Lear, Kent, and Fool.

Kent. HEre is the place, my Lord; good my Lord, enter.
The tyranny o' the open night's too rough
For nature to endure. [Storm ſtill.

Lear. Let me alone.

Kent. Good my Lord, enter here.

Lear. Will't break my heart?

Kent. I'd rather break mine own; good my Lord, enter.

Le. Thou think'ſt 'tis much, that this contentious ſtorm
Invades us to the ſkin; ſo 'tis to thee;
But where the greater malady is fixt,
The leſſer is ſcarce felt. Thou'dſt ſhun a bear;
But if thy flight lay toward the roaring ſea,
Thou'dſt meet the bear i'th' mouth. When the mind's free,
The body's delicate; the tempeſt in my mind
Doth from my ſenſes take all feeling elſe,
Save what beats there. Filial ingratitude!
Is it not, as this mouth ſhould tear this hand
For lifting food to't? ——But I'll puniſh home;
No, I'll will weep no more——In ſuch a night,
To ſhut me out?——pour on, I will endure:
In ſuch a night as this? O Regan, Goneril,
Your old kind father, whoſe frank heart gave all——
O, that way madneſs lies; let me ſhun that;
No more of that.——

Kent. Good my Lord, enter here.

Lear. Pr'ythee, go in thyſelf; ſeek thine own eaſe;
This tempeſt will not give me leave to ponder
On things would hurt me more——but I'll go in;
In, boy, go firſt. You houſeleſs poverty——
Nay, get thee in; I'll pray, and then I'll ſleep——
Poor naked wretches, whereſoe'er you are,
That 'bide the pelting of this pitileſs ſtorm!
How ſhall your houſeleſs heads, and unfed ſides,
Your loop'd and window'd raggedneſs, defend you
From ſeaſons ſuch as theſe?——O, I have ta'en

Too little care of this! take phyſick, Pomp;
Expoſe thyſelf to feel what wretches feel,
That thou may'ſt ſhake the ſuperflux to them,
And ſhew the Heav'ns more juſt.

Ed. within. Fathom and half, fathom and half! poor Tom.

Fool. Come not in here, nuncle, here's a ſpirit; help me, help me. [The fool runs out from the hovel.

Kent. Give me thy hand, who's there?

Fool. A ſpirit, a ſpirit; he ſays, his name's poor Tom.

Kent. What art thou, that doſt grumble there i'th' ſtraw? come forth.

Enter Edgar, diſguis'd like a Madman.

Edg. Away! the foul fiend follows me. Through the ſharp hawthorn blows the cold wind. Humph, go to thy bed and warm thee.

Lear. Didſt thou give all to thy daughters? and art thou come to this?

Edg. Who gives any thing to poor Tom? whom the foul fiend hath led through fire and through flame, through ford and whirlpool, o'er bog and quagmire; that hath laid knives under his pillow, and halters in his pew; ſet ratſbane by his porridge, made him proud of heart, to ride on a bay trotting horſe, over four inch'd bridges, to courſe his own ſhadow for a traitor,—bleſs thy five wits; Tom's a-cold. O do, de, do, de, do, de; —— bleſs thee from whirl-winds, ſtar-blaſting, and taking; do poor Tom ſome charity, whom the foul fiend vexes. There could I have him now, and there, and here again, and there. [Storm ſtill.

Lear. What, have his daughters brought him to this paſs? Couldſt thou ſave nothing? didſt thou give 'em all?

Fool. Nay, he reſerv'd a blanket, elſe we had been all ſhamed.

Lear. Now all the plagues, that in the pendulous air Hang fated o'er mens' faults, light on thy daughters!

Kent. He hath no daughters, Sir.

Lear. Death: traitor, nothing could have ſubdu'd nature To ſuch a lowneſs, but his unkind daughters. Is it the faſhion, that diſcarded fathers have thus little mercy on their fleſh? .

Should

is puniſhment! 'twas this fleſh begot

licock ſat on pillicock-hill, halloo, halloo, loo, loo!
This cold night will turn us all to fools, and
Take heed o'th' foul fiend; obey thy parents;
ıy word juſtly; ſwear not; commit not with vorn ſpouſe; ſet not thy ſweet heart on proud
Tom's a-cold.
What haſt thou been?
A ſerving-man, proud in heart and mind; that ıy hair, wore gloves in my cap, ſerv'd the luſt iſtreſs's heart, and did the act of darkneſs with /ore as many oaths as I ſpake words, and broke the ſweet face of heav'n. One that ſlept in the ng luſt, and wak'd to do it. Wine lov'd I deep-e dearly; and in woman, out-paramour'd the Falſe of heart, light of ear, bloody of hand; hog
, fox in ſtealth, wolf in greedineſs, dog in madɔn in prey. Let not the creaking of ſhoes nor :ling of ſilks, betray thy poor heart to woman.
ıy foot out of brothels, thy hand out of plackets,
from lenders' books, and defy the foul fiend.
-ough the hawthorn blows the cold wind: ſays mun, nonny, dolphin my boy, boy, Seſſey: let ıt by. [Storm ſtill.
Thou wert better in thy grave, than to anſwer y uncover'd body this extremity of the ſkies. Is more than this? Conſider him well. Thou ow'ſt
m no ſilk, the beaſt no hide, the ſheep no wool, no perfume. Ha! here's three of us are ſophiſti-
Thou art the thing itſelf; unaccommodated man ore but ſuch a poor, bare, forked animal as thou ff, off, you lendings; come, unbutton here.
Pr'ythee, nuncle, be contented; 'tis a naughty ɔ ſwim in. Now a little fire in a wild field were old lecher's heart, a ſmall ſpark, and all the reſt dy cold; look, here comes a walking fire.

Edg-

Edg. This is the foul Flibbertigibbet; he begins at curfew, and walks till the firſt cock; he gives the web and the pin, ſquints the eye, and makes the hair-lip: mildews the white wheat, and hurts the poor creature of the earth.

Saint Withold footed thrice the Wold, (15)
He met the night-mare, and her nine-fold,
Bid her alight, and her troth-plight,
And aroynt thee, witch, aroynt thee.

Kent. How fares your Grace?

Enter Glo'ſter, with a Torch.

Lear. What's he?
Kent. Who's there, what is't you ſeek?
Glo. What are you there? your names?
Edg. Poor Tom, that eats the ſwimming frog, the toad, the tod-pole; the wall-newt, and the water-newt; that in the fury of his heart, when the foul fiend rages, eats cow dung for ſallets; ſwallows the old rat and the ditch-dog, drinks the green mantle of the ſtanding pool; who is whipt from tything to tything, and ſtock-puniſh'd, and impriſon'd: who hath had three ſuits to his back, ſix ſhirts to his body;

Horſe to ride, and weapon to wear;
But mice, and rats, and ſuch ſmall deer
Have been Tom's food for ſeven long year.

Beware my follower. Peace, Smolkin, peace, thou fiend!
Glo. What, hath your Grace no better company?
Edg. The Prince of Darkneſs is a gentleman: Modo he's call'd, and Mahu.

(15) Swithold footed thrice the old.] What Idea the Editors had, or whether any, of footing the old, I cannot pretend to determine. My ingenious Friend Mr. Biſhop ſaw it muſt be Wold, which ſignifies a Down, or champion Ground, hilly and void of Wood. And as to St. Withold, we find him again mentioned in our Author's Troubleſome Reign of King John, in two Parts;

Sweet St. Withold, of thy Lenity,
Defend us from Extremity.

Glo.

Glo. Our flesh and blood, my Lord, is grown so vile,
That it doth hate what gets it.

Edg. Tom's a-cold.

Glo. Go in with me; my duty cannot suffer
T'obey in all your Daughter's hard commands:
Though their injunction be to bar my doors,
And let this tyrannous night take hold upon you;
Yet have I ventur'd to come seek you out,
And bring you, where both fire and food is ready.

Lear. First let me talk with this Philosopher;——
What is the cause of thunder?

Kent. My good Lord, take his offer,
Go into th' house.

Lear. I'll talk a word with this same learned Theban:
What is your study?

Edg. How to prevent the fiend, and to kill vermin.

Lear. Let us ask you one word in private.

Kent. Importune him once more to go, my Lord;
His Wits begin t'unsettle.

Glo. Canst thou blame him? [Storm still.
His Daughters seek his death: ah, that good [illegible]!
He said, it would be thus; poor banish'd man!——
Thou say'st, the King grows mad; I'll tell thee, friend,
I'm almost mad myself; I had a son,
Now out-law'd from my blood; he sought my life,
But lately, very late; I lov'd him, friend,
No father his son dearer, true to tell thee,
The grief hath craz'd my wits. What a night's this?
I do beseech your Grace.

Lear. O cry you mercy, Sir:
Noble Philosopher, your company.

Edg. Tom's a-cold.

Glo. In, fellow, into th' hovel; keep thee warm.

Lear. Come, let's in all.

Kent. This way, my Lord.

Lear. With him;
I will keep still with my Philosopher.

Kent. Good my Lord, sooth him; let him take the fellow.

Glo. Take him you on.

Kent

Kent. Sirrah; come on; along with us.
Lear. Come, good Athenian.
Glo. No words, no words, hush.
Edg. Child Rowland to the dark tower came,
His word ſtill, fy, foh, and fum,
I ſmell the blood of a Britiſh man. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Glo'ſter's Caſtle.

Enter Cornwall and Edmund.

Corn. I Will have revenge, ere I depart his houſe.
Edm. How, my Lord, I may be cenſur'd, that Nature thus gives way to loyalty, ſomething fears me to think of.
Corn. I now perceive, it was not altogether your brother's evil diſpoſition made him ſeek his death: but a provoking merit, ſet a-work by a reprovable badneſs in himſelf.
Edm. How malicious is my fortune, that I muſt repent to be juſt? this is the letter, which he ſpoke of; which approves him an intelligent party to the advantages of France. Oh heavens! that this treaſon were not; or not I the detector!
Corn. Go with me to the Dutcheſs.
Edm. If the matter of this paper be certain, you have mighty buſineſs in hand.
Corn. True or falſe, it hath made thee Earl of Glo'ſter: ſeek out where thy father is, that he may be ready for our apprehenſion.
Edm. If I find him comforting the King, it will ſtuff his ſuſpicion more fully.——[aſide.] I will perſevere in my courſe of loyalty, though the conflict be ſore between that and my blood.
Corn. I will lay truſt upon thee; and thou ſhalt find a dearer father in my love. [Exeunt.

SCENE,

SCENE, a Chamber, in a Farm-houſe.

Enter Kent and Glo'ſter.

Glo. HERE is better than the open air, take it thankfully: I will piece out the comfort with what addition I can; I will not be long from you. [Exit.

Kent. All the power of his wits has given way to his impatience: the Gods reward your kindneſs!

Enter Lear, Edgar, and Fool.

Edg. Fraterreto calls me, and tells me, Nero is an angler in the lake of darkneſs: pray innocent, and beware the foul fiend. (16.)

Fool. Pr'ythee, nuncle, tell me, whether a madman be a gentleman, or a yeoman?

Lear. A King, a King.

Fool. No, he's a yeoman, that has a gentleman to his ſon: for he's a mad yeoman, that ſees his ſon a gentleman before him.

Lear. To have a thouſand with red burning ſpits
Come hizzing in upon 'em——

Edg. The foul fiend bites my back.

Fool. He's mad that truſts in the tameneſs of a wolf, the health of a horſe, the love of a boy, or the oath of a whore.

Lear. It ſhall be done, I will arraign 'em ſtrait.
Come, ſit thou here, moſt learned juſticer;
Thou ſapient Sir, ſit here——now, ye ſhe-foxes!—

Edg. Look, where ſhe ſtands and glares. Wanteſt thou eyes
At trial, Madam?
Come o'er the Broom, Beſſy, to me.

Fool. Her Boat hath a Leak, and ſhe muſt not ſpeak.
Why ſhe dares not come over to thee.

(16) Fraterrito calls me,] As Mr. Pope had begun to infert ſeveral Speeches in the mad way, in this Scene, from the Old Edition; I have ventur'd to replace ſeveral others, which ſtand upon the ſame Footing, and had an equal right of being reſtor'd.

Ed

Edg. The foul fiend haunts poor Tom in the voice of a nightingale. Hopdance cries in Tom's belly for two white Herrings. Croak not, black angel, I have no food for thee.

Kent. How do you, Sir? ſtand you not ſo amaz'd; Will you lie down, and reſt upon the cuſhions?

Lear. I'll ſee their trial firſt, bring me in the evidence. Thou robed man of juſtice, take thy place; And thou his yoke-fellow of equity, Bench by his ſide. You are o'th' commiſſion, ſit you too.

Edg. Let us deal juſtly.——

Sleepeſt, or wakeſt thou, jolly ſhepherd?
Thy ſheep be in the corn;
And for one blaſt of thy minikin mouth,
Thy ſheep ſhall take no harm.

Purre, the cat is grey.

Lear. Arraign her firſt, 'tis Gonerill. I here take my oath before this honourable aſſembly, ſhe kick'd the poor king her father.

Fool. Come hither, Miſtreſs, is your name Gonerill?

Lear. She cannot deny it.

Fool. Cry you mercy, I took you for a joint-ſtool.

Lear. And here's another, whoſe warpt looks proclaim What ſtore her heart is made of. Stop her there; Arms, arms, ſword, fire,—Corruption in the place! Falſe juſticer, why haſt thou let her 'ſcape?

Edg. Bleſs thy five wits.

Kent. O pity! Sir, where is the patience now, That you ſo oft have boaſted to retain?

Edg. My tears begin to take his part ſo much, They mar my counterfeiting. [Aſide.

Lear. The little dogs and all,
Tray, Blanch, and Sweet-heart, ſee, they bark at me—

Edg. Tom will throw his head at them; avant, you curs! Be thy mouth or black or white,
Tooth that poiſons if it bite;
Maſtiff, grey-hound, mungril grim,
Hound or ſpaniel, brache, or hym;

On

Or hobtail, tike, or trundle-tail,
Tom will make him weep and wail;
For, with throwing thus my head,
Dogs leap the hatch, and all are fled.
Do, de, de, de. Sessey, come, march to wakes and fairs,
And market towns: poor Tom, thy horn is dry.

Lear. Then let them anatomize Regan —— see what breeds about her heart—Is there any cause in nature that makes these hard hearts? You, Sir, I entertain for one of my hundred; only, I do not like the fashion of your garments. You will say, they are Persian; but let them be chang'd.

Re-enter Glo'ster.

Kent. Now, good my Lord, lie here and rest a while.

Lear. Make no noise, make no noise, draw the curtains; So, so, we'll go to supper i'th' morning.

Fool. And I'll go to bed at noon.

Glo. Come hither, friend; where is the King, my master?

Kent. Here, Sir, but trouble him not; his wits are gone.

Glo. Good friend, I pr'ythee, take him in thy arms:
I have o'er-heard a plot of death upon him:
There is a litter ready, lay him in't,
And drive tow'rd Dover, friend, where thou shalt meet
Both welcome and protection. Take up thy master.
If thou shouldst dally half an hour, his life,
With thine, and all that offer to defend him,
Stand in assured loss. Take up, take up,
And follow me, that will to some provision
Give thee quick conduct.

Kent. Oppress'd Nature sleeps: (17)

(17) —— oppress'd Nature sleeps:] These two concluding Speeches by Kent and Edgar, and which by no means ought to have been cut off, I have restored from the Old Quarto. The Soliloquy of Edgar is extremely fine; and the Sentiments of it are drawn equally from Nature and the Subject. Besides, with regard to the Stage it is absolutely necessary: For as Edgar is not design'd, in the Constitution of the Play, to attend the King to Dover; how absurd would it look for a Character of his Importance to quit the Scene without one Word said, or the least Intimation what we are to expect from him?

This

This reſt might yet have balm'd thy broken ſenſes,
Which, if conveniency will not allow,
Stand in hard cure. Come, help to bear thy maſter;
Thou muſt not ſtay behind. [To Fool.

Glo. Come, come, away. [Exeunt, bearing off the King.

Manet Edgar.

Edg. When we our betters ſee bearing our woes,
We ſcarcely think our miſeries our foes,
Who alone ſuffers, ſuffers moſt i'th' mind;
Leaving free things, and happy ſhows behind:
But then the mind much ſuff'rance does o'erſkip,
When grief hath mates, and bearing fellowſhip.
How light, and portable, my pain ſeems now,
When that, which makes me bend, makes the King bow;
He childed, as I father'd!—Tom, away;
Mark the high noiſes, and thyſelf bewray,
When falſe opinion, whoſe wrong thought defiles thee,
In thy juſt proof repeals, and reconciles thee.
What will, hap more to-night; ſafe 'ſcape the King!
Lurk, lurk.——— [Exit Edgar.

SCENE changes to Glo'ſter's Caſtle.

Enter Cornwall, Regan, Gonerill, Edmund, and Servants.

Corn. POſt ſpeedily to my Lord your huſband, ſhew him this letter; the army of France is landed; ſeek out the traitor Glo'ſter.

Reg. Hang him inſtantly.

Gon. Pluck out his eyes.

Corn. Leave him to my diſpleaſure. Edmund, keep you our ſiſter company; the revenges, we are bound to take upon your traiterous father, are not fit for your beholding. Adviſe the Duke, where you are going, to a moſt feſtinate preparation; we are bound to the like. Our poſts ſhall be ſwift, and intelligent betwixt us. Farewel, dear ſiſter; farewel, my Lord of Glo'ſter.

Enter

Enter Steward.

How now? where's the King?

Stew. My Lord of Glo'ſter hath convey'd him hence
Some five or ſix and thirty of his Knights,
Hot queſtriſts after him, met him at gate;
Who with ſome other of the Lords dependants,
Are gone with him tow'rd Dover; where they boaſt
To have well-armed friends.

Corn. Get horſes for your miſtreſs.

Gon. Farewel, ſweet Lord, and ſiſter.

[Exeunt Gon. and Edm.

Corn. Edmund, farewel:—go ſeek the traitor Glo'ſter;
Pinion him like a thief, bring him before us:
Though well we may not paſs upon his life
Without the form of juſtice; yet our pow'r
Shall do a curt'ſy to our wrath, which men
May blame, but not controll.

Enter Glo'ſter, brought in by Servants.

Who's there? the traitor?

Reg. Ungrateful fox! 'tis he.

Corn. Bind faſt his corky arms.

Glo. What mean your Graces? Good my friends, conſider,
You are my gueſts: Do me no foul play, friends.

Corn. Bind him, I ſay. [They bind him.

Reg. Hard, hard! O filthy traitor!

Glo. Unmerciful lady as you are! I'm none.

Corn. To this chair bind him. Villain, thou ſhalt find—

Glo. By the kind gods, 'tis moſt ignobly done
To pluck me by the beard.

Reg. So white, and ſuch a traitor?

Glo. Naughty lady,
Theſe hairs, which thou doſt raviſh from my chin,
Will quicken and accuſe thee; I'm your hoſt;
With robbers' hands, my hoſpitable favours
You ſhould not ruffle thus. What will you do?

Corn. Come, Sir, what letters had you late from France?

Reg. Be ſimple anſwerer, for we know the truth.

Corn.

Corn. And what conſed'racy have you with the traitors,
Late footed in the kingdom?
Reg. To whoſe hands
Have you ſent the lunatick King? ſpeak.
Glo. I have a letter gueſſingly ſet down,
Which came from one that's of a neutral heart,
And not from one oppos'd.
Corn. Cunning———
Reg. And falſe.
Corn. Where haſt thou ſent the King?
Glo. To Dover.
Reg. Wherefore to Dover?
Waſt thou not charg'd at peril———
Corn. Wherefore to Dover? let him firſt anſwer that.
Glo. I am ty'd to th' ſtake, and I muſt ſtand the courſe.
Reg. Wherefore to Dover?
Glo. Becauſe I would not ſee thy cruel nails
Pluck out his poor old eyes; nor thy fierce ſiſter
In his anointed fleſh ſtick boariſh phangs.
The ſea, with ſuch a ſtorm as his bare head
In hell-black night indur'd, would have buoy'd up,
And quench'd the ſtelled fires; (18)
Yet poor old heart, he help'd the heav'ns to rain.
If wolves had at thy gate howl'd that ſtern time,
Thou ſhouldſt have ſaid, " go, porter, turn the key;"
All cruels elſe ſubſcrib'd; but I ſhall ſee
The winged vengeance overtake ſuch children.
Corn. See't ſhalt thou never. Fellows, hold the chair.
Upon theſe eyes of thine I'll ſet my foot.
[Glo'ſter is held down, while Cornwal treads out one of his eyes.
Glo. He, that will think to live 'till he be old,
Give me ſome help.—O cruel! O you gods!

(8) And quench'd the ſteeled fires.] The ſagacious Editors have all blundered in this Word without the leaſt Variation; It is indiſputable that the Author muſt have wrote,

And quench'd the ſtelled fires.

i. e. the ſtarry Fires an adjective coined from Stella.

Reg.

Reg. One ſide will mock another; th' other too.
Corn. If you ſee vengeance———
Serv. Hold your hand, my Lord:
I've ſerv'd you, ever ſince I was a child:
But better ſervice have I never done you,
Than now to bid you hold.
Reg. How now, you dog?
Serv. If you did wear a beard upon your chin,
I'd ſhake it on this quarrel. What do you mean?
Corn. My villain!
Serv. Nay then come on, and take the chance of anger.
[Fight; in the Scuffle Cornwal is wounded.
Reg. Give me thy ſword. A peaſant, ſtand up thus?
[Kills him.
Serv. Oh, I am ſlain—my Lord, you have one eye left
To ſee ſome miſchief on him. Oh— [Dies.
Corn. Leſt it ſee more, prevent it: out, vile gelly:
Where is thy luſtre now? [Treads the other out.
Glo. All dark and comfortleſs——where's my ſon Edmund?
Edmund, enkindle all the ſparks of nature
To quit this horrid act.
Reg. Out, treacherous villain.
Thou call'ſt on him, that hates thee: It was he,
That made the overture of thy treaſons to us:
Who is too good to pity thee.
Glo. O my follies!
Then Edgar was abus'd. Kind gods, forgive
Me that, and proſper him!
Reg. Go thruſt him out
At gates, and let him ſmell his way to Dover.
[Exit with Glo'ſter.
How is't, my Lord, how look you?
Corn. I have receiv'd a hurt; follow me, lady.—
Turn out that eyeleſs villain; throw this ſlave
Upon the dunghil.——Regan, I bleed apace.
Untimely comes this hurt. Give me your arm.
[Exit Cornwal led by Regan.

1ſt. Serv.

1ſt. Serv. I'll never care what wickedneſs I do, (19)
If this man come to good.

2d. Serv. If ſhe live long,
And, in the end, meet the old courſe of death,
Women will all turn monſters.

1ſt. Serv. Let's follow the old Earl, and get the bedlam
To lead him where he would; his roguiſh madneſs
Allows itſelf to any thing.

2d. Serv. Go thou; I'll fetch ſome flax and whites of eggs
T' apply to's bleeding face. Now, heaven help him!

ACT IV.

SCENE, an open Country.

Enter EDGAR.

YET better thus, and known to be contemn'd,
Than ſtill contemn'd and flatter'd. To be worſt,
The loweſt, moſt dejected thing of fortune,
Stands ſtill in eſperance; lives not in fear.
The lamentable change is from the beſt;
The worſt returns to laughter. Welcome then,
Thou unſubſtantial air, that I embrace!
The wretch, that thou haſt blown unto the worſt,
Owes nothing to thy blaſts.

Enter Glo'ſter, led by an old man.

But who comes here?

(19) I'll never care what Wickedneſs I do,] This ſhort Dialogue I have inſerted from the old Quarto, becauſe I think it full of Nature. Servants, in any Houſe, could hardly ſee ſuch a Barbarity committed on their Maſter, without Reflection of Pity; and the Vengeance that they preſume muſt overtake the Actors of it, is a Sentiment and Doctrine well worthy of the Stage.

My

My father poorly led? World, world, O world! (20)
But that thy ſtrange mutations make us wait thee,
Life would not yield to age.

Old Man. O my good Lord, I have been your tenant, and your father's tenant, theſe fourſcore years.

Glo. Away, get thee away: good friend, be gone;
Thy comforts can do me no good at all,
Thee they may hurt.

Old Man. You cannot ſee your way.

Glo. I have no way, and therefore want no eyes:
I ſtumbled when I ſaw. Full oft 'tis ſeen,
Our mean ſecures us; and our mere defects
Prove our commodities.——O dear ſon Edgar,
The food of thy abuſed father's wrath;
Might I but live to ſee thee in my touch,
I'd ſay, I had eyes again!

Old Man. How now? who's there?

Edg. O Gods! who is't can ſay, I'm at the worſt?
I'm worſe, than e'er I was.

Old Man. 'Tis poor mad Tom.

Edg. And worſe I may be yet: the worſt is not,
So long as we can ſay, this is the worſt.

Old Man. Fellow, where goeſt?

Glo. Is it a beggar-man?

Old Man. Madman, and beggar too.

Glo. He has ſome reaſon, elſe he could not beg.
I'th' laſt night's ſtorm I ſuch a fellow ſaw;
Which made me think a man, a worm. My ſon

(20) ——World, World, O World!
But that thy ſtrange Mutations make us hate thee,] The Reading of this Paſſage, as it has thus ſtood in all the Editions, has been endeavoured to be explained ſeverally into a Meaning; but not ſatisfactorily: Mr. Pope's mock-reaſoning upon it has already been rallied in Print, ſo I forbear to revive it: and the Gentleman, who then advanced a Comment of his own upon the Paſſage, has ſince come over to my Emendation. My Explanation of the Poet's Sentiment was, "If "the Number of Changes and Viciſſitudes, which happen in Life, "did not make us wait, and hope for ſome Turn of Fortune for "the better, we could never ſupport the Thought of living to be "old, on any other Terms." And our Duty, as human Creatures, is piouſly inculcated in this Reflexion of the Author.

Can

Came then into my mind; and yet my mind
Was then ſcarce friends with him. I've heard more ſince.
As flies to wanton boys, are we to th' Gods;
They kill us for their ſport.

Edg. How ſhould this be?
Bad is the trade muſt play the fool to ſorrow,
Ang'ring itſelf and others.——Bleſs thee, maſter.

Glo. Is that the naked fellow?

Old Man. Ay, my Lord.

Glo. Get thee away: if, for my ſake,
Thou wilt o'ertake us hence a mile or twain
I'th' way tow'rd Dover, do it for ancient love;
And bring ſome covering for this naked ſoul,
Whom I'll intreat to lead me.

Old Man. Alack, Sir, he is mad.

Gl. 'Tis the time's plague, when madmen lead the blind:
Do as I bid, or rather do thy pleaſure;
Above the reſt, be gone.

Old Man. I'll bring him the beſt 'parrel that I have,
Come on't, what will. [Exit.

Glo. Sirrah, naked fellow.

Edg. Poor Tom's a-cold;—I cannot daub it further.

Glo. Come hither, fellow.

Edg. And yet I muſt;
Bleſs thy ſweet eyes, they bleed.

Glo. Know'ſt thou the way to Dover?

Edg. Both ſtile and gate, horſe-way and foot-path: poor Tom hath been ſcar'd out of his good wits. Bleſs thee, good man, from the foul fiend. Five fiends have been in poor Tom at once; of luſt, as Obidicut; Hobbididen, Prince of dumbneſs; Mahu, of ſtealing; Mohu, of murder; and Flibbertigibbet, of mopping and mowing; who ſince poſſeſſes chamber-maids and waiting-women.

Glo. Here, take this purſe, thou whom the heavens' plagues
Have humbled to all ſtrokes. That I am wretched,
Makes thee the happier: heavens deal ſo ſtill!
Let the ſuperfluous and luſt dieted man,
That ſlaves your ordinance, that will not ſee

Becauſe

Becauſe he does not feel, feel your power quickly:
So diſtribution ſhould undo exceſs,
And each man have enough. Do'ſt thou know Dover?
Edg. Ay, maſter.
Glo. There is a cliff, whoſe high and bending head
Looks fearfully on the confined deep:
Bring me but to the very brim of it,
And I'll repair the miſery, thou do'ſt bear,
With ſomething rich about me: from that place
I ſhall no leading need.
Edg. Give me thy arm;
Poor Tom ſhall lead thee. [Exeunt.

SCENE, the Duke of Albany's Palace.

Enter Gonerill, and Edmund.

Gon. WElcome, my Lord. I marvel, our mild huſband
Not met us on the way.

Enter Steward.

Now, where's your maſter?
Stew. Madam, within; but never man ſo chang'd:
I told him of the army that was landed:
He ſmil'd at it. I told him, you were coming,
His anſwer was, the worſe. Of Glo'ſter's treachery,
And of the loyal ſervice of his ſon,
When I inform'd him, then he call'd me ſot;
And told me, I had turn'd the wrong ſide out.
What moſt he ſhould diſlike, ſeems pleaſant to him;
What like, offenſive.
Gon. Then ſhall you go no further.
It is the cowiſh terror of his ſpirit,
That dares not undertake: he'll not feel wrongs,
Which tie him to an anſwer: our wiſhes on the way
May prove effects. Back, Edmund, to my brother;
Haſten his muſters, and conduct his powers.
I muſt change arms at home, and give the diſtaff
Into my huſband's hands. This truſty ſervant
Shall paſs between us: you ere long ſhall hear,

If you dare venture in your own behalf,
A miſtreſs's command. Wear this; ſpare ſpeech:
Decline your head. This kiſs, if it durſt ſpeak,
Would ſtretch thy ſpirits up into the air;
Conceive, and fare thee well.

Edm. Yours in the ranks of death.

Gon. My moſt dear Glo'ſter! [Exit Edmund.
Oh, the ſtrange difference of man, and man!
To thee a woman's ſervices are due,
My fool uſurps my body.

Stew. Madam, here comes my Lord.

Enter Albany.

Gon. I have been worth the whiſtle.

Alb. Oh Gonerill,
You are not worth the duſt, which the rude wind
Blows in your face.——I fear your diſpoſition:
That nature, which contemns its origine,
Cannot be border'd certain in itſelf;
She that herſelf will ſliver, and diſ-branch,
From her maternal ſap, perforce muſt wither, (21)
And come to deadly uſe.

Gon. No more; 'tis fooliſh.

Alb. Wiſdom and goodneſs to the vile ſeem vile;
Filths favour but themſelves—What have you done?
Tygers, not daughters, what have you perform'd?
A father, and a gracious aged man,
Moſt barb'rous, moſt degenerate, have you madded.
Cou'd my good brother ſuffer you to do it,
A man, a Prince by him ſo benefited?
If that the heav'ns do not their viſible ſpirits
Send quickly down to tame the vile offences,
Humanity muſt perforce prey on itſelf,
Like monſters of the deep.

(21) From her material Sap,] Thus the old Quarto; but material Sap, I own, is a Phraſe that I do not underſtand. The Mother-Tree is the true technical Term; and conſidering, our Author has ſaid but juſt above, That Nature, which contemns its Origine, there is little room to queſtion but he wrote, ——From her maternal Sap.

Gon.

Gon. Milk-liver'd man!
That bear'ſt a cheek for blows, a head for wrongs;
Who haſt not in thy brows an eye diſcerning
Thine honour, from thy ſuffering: that not know'ſt,
Fools do theſe villains pity, who are puniſh'd
Ere they have done their miſchief. Where's thy Drum?
France ſpreads his banners in our noiſeleſs land,
With plumed helm thy ſlayer begins his threats;
Whilſt thou, a moral fool, ſit'ſt ſtill, and cry'ſt,
"Alack! why does he ſo?——
Alb. See thyſelf, devil:
Proper deformity ſeems not in the fiend
So horrid as in woman.
Gon. O vain fool!
Al. Thou chang'd, and ſelf-converted thing! For ſhame,
Be-monſter not thy feature. Were't my fitneſs
To let theſe hands obey my [boiling] blood,
They're apt enough to diſlocate and tear
Thy fleſh and bones.——Howe'er thou art a fiend,
A woman's ſhape doth ſhield thee.——
Gon. Marry, your manhood now!——

Enter Meſſenger.

Meſ. Oh, my good Lord, the Duke of Cornwall's dead:
Slain by his ſervant, going to put out
The other eye of Glo'ſter.
Alb. Glo'ſter's eyes!
Meſ A ſervant, that he bred, thrill'd with remorſe,
Oppos'd againſt the act; bending his ſword
To his great maſter: who, thereat enrag'd,
Flew on him, and amongſt them fell'd him dead:
But not without that harmful ſtroke, which ſince
Hath pluck'd him after.
Alb. This ſhews you are above,
You juſtices, that theſe our nether crimes
So ſpeedily can 'venge. But O poor Glo'ſter!
Loſt he his other eye?
Meſ. Both, both, my Lord.
This letter, Madam, craves a ſpeedy anſwer;
'Tis from your ſiſter.

Gon. One way, I like this well;
But being widow, and my Glo'ſter with her,
May all the building in my fancy pluck
Upon my hateful life. Another way,
The news is not ſo tart. I'll read, and anſwer. [Exit.

Alb. Where was his ſon, when they did take his eyes?

Meſ. Come with my lady hither.

Alb. He's not here.

Meſ. No, my good Lord, I met him back again.

Alb. Knows he the wickedneſs?

Meſ. Ay, my good Lord, 'twas he inform'd againſt him,
And quit the houſe of purpoſe, that their puniſhment
Might have the freer courſe.

Alb. Glo'ſter, I live
To thank thee for the love thou ſhew'dſt the King,
And to revenge thine eyes. Come hither, friend,
Tell me, what more thou know'ſt. [Exeunt.

SCENE, DOVER.

Enter Kent, and a Gentleman.

Kent. THE King of France ſo ſuddenly gone back!
Know you the reaſon?

Gent. Something he left imperfect in the ſtate,
Which ſince his coming forth is thought of, which Imports the kingdom ſo much fear and danger,
That his return was moſt requir'd and neceſſary.

Kent. Whom hath he left behind him General?

Gent. The Mareſchal of France, Monſieur le Fer.

Kent. Did your letters pierce the Queen to any demonſtration of grief?

Gent. Ay, Sir, ſhe took 'em, read 'em in my preſence;
And now and then an ample tear trill'd down
Her delicate cheek: it ſeem'd, ſhe was a Queen
Over her paſſion, which, moſt rebel-like,
Sought to be King o'er her.

Kent. O, then it mov'd her.

Gent. But not to rage. Patience and ſorrow ſtrove
Which ſhould expreſs her goodlieſt; you have ſeen

Sun-

Sun-ſhine and rain at once:—her ſmiles and tears (22)
Were like a wetter May. Thoſe happieſt ſmiles,
That play'd on her ripe lip, ſeem'd not to know
What gueſts were in her eyes; which parted thence,
As pearls from diamonds dropt.—In brief,
Sorrow would be a rarity moſt belov'd,
If all could ſo become it.

Kent. Made ſhe no verbal queſtion?

Gent. Yes, once, or twice, ſhe heav'd the name of Father
Pantingly forth, as if it preſt her heart.
Cry'd, ſiſters! ſiſters!——Shame of ladies! ſiſters!
Kent! Father! Siſters! what? i'th' ſtorm? i'th' night?
Let pity ne'er believe it!—there ſhe ſhook
The holy water from her heav'nly eyes;
And, clamour-motion'd, then away ſhe ſtarted (23)
To deal with grief alone.

Kent. ——It is the ſtars,
The ſtars above us, govern our conditions:
Elſe one ſelf-mate and mate could not beget

(22) ——her Smiles and Tears
Were like a better day.] Mr. Pope, who thought fit to reſtore this Scene from the old Quarto, tacitly ſunk this Paſſage upon us, becauſe he did not underſtand it. Indeed, it is corrupt; and he might have done himſelf ſome Honour in attempting the Cure; but Rhyme and Criticiſm, he has convinced us, do not always center in the ſame Perſon. My Friend Mr. Warburton with very happy Sagacity ſtruck out the Emendation, which I have inſerted in the Text.

(23) And clamour-moiſten'd,] This Paſſage, again, Mr Pope ſunk upon us, and for the ſame Reaſon, I ſuppoſe. Mr. Warburton diſcovered likewiſe, that this was corrupt: for tho' Clamour, (as he obſerves,) may diſtort the Mouth, it is not wont to moiſten the Eyes. But clamour-motion'd conveys a very beautiful Idea of Grief in Cordelia, and exactly in Character. She bore her Grief hitherto, ſays the Relater, in Silence; but being no longer able to contain it, and wanting to vent it in Groans and Cries, ſhe flies away and retires to her Cloſet to deal with it in private. This he finely calls, Clamour-motion'd; or provoked to a loud Expreſſion of her Sorrow, which drives her from Company!——It is not impoſſible, but Shakeſpeare might have formed this fine Picture of Cordelia's Agony from Holy Writ, in the Conduct of Joſeph; who, being no longer able to reſtrain the Vehemence of his Affection, commanded all his Retinue from his Preſence; and then wept aloud, and diſcover'd himſelf to his Brethren.

Such diff'rent iſſues. Spoke you with her ſince?

Gent. No.

Kent. Was this before the King return'd?

Gent. No, ſince.

Kent. Well, Sir; the poor diſtreſſed Lear's in town;
Who ſometimes, in his better tune, remembers
What we are come about; and by no means
Will yield to ſee his daughter.

Gent. Why, good Sir?

Kent. A ſov'reign ſhame ſo bows him; his unkindneſs,
That ſtript her from his benediction, turn'd her
To foreign caſualties, gave her dear-rights
To his dog-hearted daughters; theſe things ſting him
So venomouſly, that burning ſhame detains him
From his Cordelia.

Gent. Alack, poor gentleman!

Kent. Of Albany's, and Cornwall's pow'rs you heard not?

Gent. 'Tis ſo, they are a-foot.

Kent. Well, Sir; I'll bring you to our maſter Lear,
And leave you to attend him. Some dear cauſe
Will in concealment wrap me up awhile:
When I am known aright, you ſhall not grieve
Lending me this acquaintance. Pray, along with me.

[Exeunt.

SCENE, a CAMP.

Enter Cordelia, Phyſician, and Soldiers.

Cor. ALack, 'tis he; why, he was met ev'n now
As mad as the vext ſea; ſinging aloud;
Crown'd with rank fumiterr, and furrow-weeds, (24)
With

(24) Crown'd with rank Fenitar:] There is no ſuch Herb, or Weed, that I can find, of Engliſh Growth; though all the Copies agree in the Corruption. I dare ſay, I have reſtor'd its right Name; and we meet with it again in our Author's Henry V. and partly in the ſame Company as we have it here;

——her fallow Leas
The darnel, hemlock, and rank fumitory
Do root upon.

For

With hardocks, hemlock, nettles, cuckoo-flowers,
Darnel, and all the idle weeds that grow
In our ſuſtaining corn. Send forth a cent'ry;
Search every acre in the high-grown field,
And bring him to our eye. What can man's Wiſdom
In the reſtoring his bereaved ſenſe,
He, that helps him, take all my outward worth.

Phyſ. There are means, Madam:
Our foſter nurſe of nature is repoſe;
The which he lacks; that to provoke in him,
Are many ſimples operative, whoſe power
Will cloſe the eye of anguiſh.

Cor. All bleſt ſecrets,
All you unpubliſh'd virtues of the earth,
Spring with my tears; be aidant, and remediate
In the good man's diſtreſs! ſeek, ſeek for him;
Leſt his ungovern'd rage diſſolve the life,
That wants the means to lead it.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. News, Madam:
The Britiſh Powr's are marching hitherward.

Cor. 'Tis known before. Our preparation ſtands
In expectation of them. O dear father,
It is thy buſineſs that I go about: therefore great France
My mourning and important tears hath pitied.
No blown ambition doth our arms incite,
But love, dear love, and our ag'd father's right:
Soon may I hear, and ſee him! Exeunt.

For this Weed is called both Fumitory and Fumiterr, nearer to the French Derivation Fume-terre: which the Latin Shopmen term, Fumaria. I obſerve, in Chaucer it is written Fumetere; by a Corruption either of the Scribe, or of vulgar Pronunciation; if of the latter, it might from thence eaſily ſlide, in progreſs of time, into Fenitar.

Enter Regan, and Steward.

Reg. BUT are my Brother's powers ſet forth?
Stew. Ay, Madam.
Reg. Himſelf in perſon there?
Stew. With much ado.
Your ſiſter is the better ſoldier.
Reg. Lord Edmund ſpake not with your lady at home?
Stew. No, Madam.
Reg. What might import my ſiſter's letter to him?
Stew. I know not, lady.
Reg. 'Faith, he is poſted hence on ſerious matter.
It was great ign'rance, Glo'ſter's eyes being out,
To let him live: where he arrives, he moves
All hearts againſt us: Edmund, I think, is gone,
In pity of his miſery, to diſpatch
His nighted life: moreover, to deſcry
The ſtrength o'th' enemy.
Stew. I muſt needs after him, Madam, with my letter.
Reg. Our troops ſet forth to-morrow: ſtay with us
The ways are dangerous.
Stew. I may not, Madam;
My lady charg'd my duty in this buſineſs.
Reg. Why ſhould ſhe write to Edmund? might not you
Tranſport her purpoſes by word? belike,
Something—I know not what—I'll love thee much—
Let me unſeal the letter.
Stew. Madam, I had rather—
Reg. I know, your lady does not love her huſband:
I'm ſure of that; and, at her late being here,
She gave ſtrange œiliads, and moſt ſpeaking looks
To noble Edmund. I know, you're of her boſom.
Stew. I, Madam?
Reg. I ſpeak in underſtanding: you are; I know't;
Therefore, I do adviſe you, take this note.
My Lord is dead; Edmund and I have talk'd,
And more convenient is he for my hand,

Than

Than for your lady's: you may gather more:
If you do find him, pray you, give him this;
And when your Miſtreſs hears thus much from you,
I pray, deſire her call her wiſdom to her. So farewel.
If you do chance to hear of that blind traitor,
Preferment falls on him that cuts him off.
Stew. 'Would I could meet him, Madam, I ſhould ſhew
What party I do follow.
Reg. Fare thee well. [Exeunt

SCENE, the Country, near Dover.

Enter Glo'ſter, and Edgar as a Peaſant.

Glo. When ſhall I come to th' top of that ſame hill?
Edg. You do climb up it now. Look, how we labour.
Glo. Methinks, the ground is even.
Edg. Horrible ſteep.
Hark, do you hear the ſea?
Glo. No, truly.
Edg. Why then your other ſenſes grow imperfect
By your eyes' anguiſh.
Glo. So may it be, indeed.
Methinks, thy voice is alter'd; and thou ſpeak'ſt
In better phraſe and matter than thou didſt.
Edg. You're much deceiv'd: in nothing am I chang'd,
But in my garments.
Glo. Sure, you're better ſpoken.
Edg. Come on, Sir, here's the place——ſtand ſtill.
How fearful
And dizzy 'tis, to caſt one's eyes ſo low!
The crows and choughs, that wing the midway air,
Shew ſcarce ſo groſs as beetles. Half way down
Hangs one, that gathers Samphire; dreadful trade!
Methinks, he ſeems no bigger than his head.
The fiſher-men, that walk upon the beach,
Appear like mice; and yond tall anchoring bark,
Diminiſh'd to her cock; her cock, a buoy

Almoſt too ſmall for ſight. The murmuring ſurge,
That on th' unnumbred idle pebbles chafes,
Cannot be heard ſo high. I'll look no more,
Leſt my brain turn, and the deficient ſight,
Topple down headlong.

Glo. Set me, where you ſtand.

Edg. Give me your hand: you're now within a foot
Of th' extream verge: for all below the moon
Would I not leap upright.

Glo. Let go my hand:
Here, friend,'s another purſe, in it a Jewel
Well worth a poor man's taking. Fairies, and Gods,
Proſper it with thee! Go thou further off,
Bid me farewel, and let me hear thee going.

Edg. Now fare ye well, good Sir. [Seems to go.

Glo. With all my heart.

Edg. Why do I trifle thus with his deſpair?
'Tis done to cure it.

Glo. O you mighty Gods!
This world I do renounce; and in your ſights
Shake patiently my great affliction off:
If I could bear it longer, and not fall
To quarrel with your great oppoſeleſs Wills,
My ſnuff and loathed part of nature ſhould
Burn itſelf out. If Edgar live, O bleſs him!
Now, fellow, fare thee well. [He leaps, and falls along.

Edg. Good Sir, farewel.
And yet I know not how conceit may rob
The treaſury of life, when life itſelf
Yields to the theft. Had he been where he thought,
By this, had thought been paſt.——Alive or dead?
Hoa, you, hear you, friend! Sir! Sir! ſpeak!
Thus might he paſs, indeed——yet he revives.
What are you, Sir?

Glo. Away, and let me die.

Edg. Had'ſt thou been aught but Goſs'mer, feathers, air,
So many fathom down precipitating,
Thou'dſt ſhiver'd like an egg: but thou doſt breathe,
Haſt heavy ſubſtance, bleed'ſt not; ſpeak, art ſound?

Ten

Ten maſts at each make not the altitude,
Which thou haſt perpendicularly fall'n.
Thy life's a miracle. Speak yet again.
Glo. But have I fall'n, or no?
Edg. From the dread ſummit of this chalky bourn!
Look up a-height, the ſhrill-gorg'd Lark ſo far
Cannot be ſeen or heard: do but look up.
Glo. Alack, I have no eyes.
Is wretchedneſs depriv'd that benefit,
To end itſelf by death? 'twas yet ſome comfort,
When miſery could beguile the tyrant's rage,
And fruſtrate his proud will.
Edg. Give me your arm.
Up, ſo—how is't? feel you your legs? you ſtand.
Glo. Too well, too well.
Edg. This is above all ſtrangeneſs.
Upon the crown o'th' cliff, what thing was that,
Which parted from you?
Glo. A poor unfortunate beggar.
Edg. As I ſtood here, below, methought his eyes
Were two full moons; he had a thouſand noſes,
Horns welk'd, and wav'd like the enridged ſea;
It was ſome fiend. Therefore, thou happy father,
Think, that the cleareſt gods, who make them honours
Of men's impoſſibilities, have preſerv'd thee.
Glo. I do remember now: henceforth I'll bear
Affliction, till it do cry out itſelf,
Enough, enough, and die. That thing you ſpeak of,
I took it for a man; often 'twould ſay.
The fiend, the fiend———he led me to that place.
Edg. Bear free and patient thoughts.

Enter Lear, dreſt madly with flowers.

But who comes here?
The ſafer ſenſe will ne'er accommodate
His maſter thus.
Lear. No, they cannot touch me for coining: I am the King himſelf.
Edg. O thou ſide-piercing ſight!

Lear.

Lear. Nature's above art in that reſpect. There's your preſs-money. (25) That fellow handles his bow like a crow-keeper: draw me a clothier's yard. Look, look, a mouſe! Peace, peace;—this piece of toaſted cheeſe will do't —— there's my gaunlet, I'll prove it on a giant. Bring up the brown bills. O, well flown, Barb! (26) i'th' clout, i'th' clout: hewgh.——Give the word.

Edg. Sweet marjoram.

Lear. Paſs.

Glo. I know, that voice.

Lear. Ha! Gonerill! hah! Regan! they flatter'd me like a dog, and told me, I had white hairs in my beard, ere the black ones were there. To ſay ay, and no, to every thing that I ſaid——Ay, and no, too was no good divinity. When the rain came to wet me once, and the wind to make me chatter; when the thunder would not peace at my bidding; there I found 'em, there I ſmelt 'em out. Go to, they are not men o' their words; they told me I was every thing: 'tis a lye, I am not ague-proof.

Glo. The trick of that voice I do well remember: Is't not the King?

Lear. Ay, every inch a King.
When I do ſtare, ſee, how the ſubject quakes.
I pardon that man's life. What was the cauſe?
Adultery? thou ſhalt not die; die for adultery? no, the wren goes to't, and the ſmall gilded fly does letcher in

(25) That Fellow handles his Bow like a Cowkeeper.] Thus Mr. Pope in his laſt Edition; but, I am afraid, I betray'd him into the Error by an abſurd Conjecture of my own, in my SHAKESPEARE reſtored. 'Tis certain we muſt read Crowkeeper here; and, it ſeems, in ſeveral Counties to this Day, they call a ſtuff'd Figure, repreſenting a Man, and arm'd with a Bow and Arrow, (ſet up to fright the Crows, and other Birds of Prey, from the Fruit and Corn;) a Crowkeeper; as well as a Scare-crow.

(26) O well flown Bird,] Lear is here raving of Archery, and ſhooting at Butts, as is plain by the Words i'th'Clout, that is the white Mark they ſet up and aim at; hence the Phraſe, to hit the White. So that we muſt certainly read, O well flown, Barb! i. e. the barbed, or bearded Arrow. Mr. Warburton.

my

my ſight. Let copulation thrive: for Glo'ſter's baſtard ſon was kinder to his father, than my daughter's got 'tween the lawful ſheets. To't, luxury, pell-mell; for I lack ſoldiers. Behold yond ſimpering Dame, whoſe face 'tween her forks preſages ſnow; that minces virtue, and does ſhake the head to hear of pleaſure's name. The fitchew, nor the ſoiled horſe, goes to't with a more riotous appetite: down from the waiſte they are centaurs, though women all above: but to the girdle do the gods inherit, beneath is all the fiends. There's hell, there's darkneſs, there is the ſulphurous pit, burning, ſcalding, ſtench, conſumption: fy, fy, fy; pah, pah; give me an ounce of civet, good apothecary, to ſweeten my imagination! there's money for thee.

Glo. O, let me kiſs that hand.

Lear. Let me wipe it firſt, it ſmells of mortality.

Glo. O ruin'd piece of nature! this great world
Shall ſo wear out to nought. Do'ſt thou know me?

Lear. I remember thine eyes well enough: doſt thou ſquiny at me? no, do thy worſt, blind Cupid; I'll not love. Read thou this challenge, mark but the penning of it.

Glo. Were all the letters ſuns, I could not ſee one.

Edg. I would not take this from report; it is,
And my heart breaks at it.

Lear. Read.

Glo. What, with this caſe of eyes?

Lear. Oh, ho, are you there with me? no eyes in your head, nor no money in your purſe? your eyes are in a heavy caſe, your purſe in a light; yet you ſee how this world goes.

Glo. I ſee it feelingly.

Lear. What, art mad? a man may ſee how this world goes, with no eyes, Look with thine ears: ſee, how yond juſtice rails upon yond ſimple thief. Hark in thine ear: change places, and handy-dandy, which is the juſtice, which is the thief? Thou haſt ſeen a farmer's dog bark at a beggar.

Glo. Ay, Sir.

Lear. And the creature run from the cur? there thou might'ſt ht'ſt behold the great image of authority; a dog's obey'd in office.———

Thou raſcal beadle, hold thy bloody hand:
Why doſt thou laſh that whore? ſtrip thy own back;
Thou hotly luſt'ſt to uſe her in that kind,
For which thou whip'ſt her. Th' uſurer hangs the cozener.
Through tatter'd cloaths ſmall vices do appear;
Robes and furr'd gowns hide all. Plate ſin with gold,
And the ſtrong lance of juſtice hurtleſs breaks:
Arm it in rags, a pigmy's ſtraw doth pierce it.
None does offend, none, I ſay, none; I'll able 'em;
Take that of me, my friend, who have the pow'r
To ſeal th' accuſer's lips. Get thee glaſs eyes,
And, like a ſcurvy politician, ſeem
To ſee the things thou doſt not.
Now, now, now, now. Pull off my boots: harder, harder, ſo.

Edg. O matter and impertinency mixt,
Reaſon in madneſs!

Lear. If thou wilt weep my fortunes, take my eyes.
I know thee well enough, thy name is Glo'ſter;
Thou muſt be patient; we came crying hither:
Thou know'ſt, the firſt time that we ſmell the air,
We wawle and cry. I will preach to thee: mark—

Glo. Alack, alack the day!

Lear. When we are born, we cry, that we are come
To this great ſtage of fools.—This a good block!—
It were a delicate ſtratagem to ſhoe
A troop of horſe with felt; I'll put't in proof;
And when I've ſtol'n upon theſe ſons-in-law,
Then kill, kill, kill, kill, kill, kill.

Enter Gentlemen with Attendants.

Gent. O, here he is, lay hand upon him; Sir,
Your moſt dear daughter———

Lear. No reſcue? what, a priſoner? I am even
The natural fool of fortune. Uſe me well,
You ſhall have ranſom. Let me have ſurgeons,
I am cut to th' brains.

Gent. You ſhall have any thing.

Lear.

Lear. No ſeconds? all myſelf?
Why, this would make a man, a man of ſalt;
To uſe his eyes for garden-water-pots,
And laying autumn's duſt. I will die bravely,
Like a ſmug bridegroom. What? I will be jovial:
Come, come, I am a King. My Maſters, know you that?

Gent. You are a royal one, and we obey you.

Lear. Then there's life in't. Come, an you get it,
You ſhall get it by running: ſa, ſa, ſa, ſa. [Exit.

Gent. A ſight moſt pitiful in the meaneſt wretch,
Paſt ſpeaking of in a King. Thou haſt one daughter,
Who redeems nature from the general curſe
Which twain have brought her to.

Edg. Hail, gentle Sir.

Gent. Sir, ſpeed you: what's your will?

Edg. Do you hear aught, Sir, of a battle toward?

Gent. Moſt ſure, and vulgar; every one hears that,
Which can diſtinguiſh ſound.

Edg. But by your favour,
How near's the other army?

Gent. Near, and on ſpeedy foot: the main deſcry
Stands on the hourly thought.

Edg. I thank you, Sir: That's all.

Gent. Though that the Queen on ſpecial cauſe is here,
Her army is moved on. [Exit.

Edg. I thank you, Sir.

Glo. You ever gentle Gods, take my breath from me;
Let not my worſer ſpirit tempt me again
To die before you pleaſe!

Edg. Well pray you, father.

Glo. Now, good Sir, what are you?

Edg. A moſt poor man, made tame to fortune's blows,
Who by the art of known and feeling ſorrows,
Am pregnant to good pity. Give me your hand,
I'll lead you to ſome biding.

Glo. Hearty thanks;
The bounty and the benizon of heav'n
To boot, and boot!———

Enter

Enter Steward.

Stew. A proclaim'd prize! moſt happy!
That eyeleſs head of thine was firſt fram'd fleſh,
To raiſe my fortunes. Old unhappy traitor,
Briefly thyſelf remember: the ſword is out,
That muſt deſtroy thee.

Glo. Let thy friendly hand
Put ſtrength enough to't.

Stew. Wherefore bold peaſant,
Dar'ſt thou ſupport a publiſh'd traitor? hence,
Leſt that th' infection of his fortune take
Like hold on thee. Let go his arm.

Edg. Chill not let go, Zir, without vurther 'caſion.

Stew. Let go, ſlave, or thou dy'ſt.

Edg. Good gentleman, go your gaite, and let poor volk paſs: and 'chud ha' been zwagger'd out of my life, 'twould not ha' been zo long as 'tis by a vortnight. Nay, come not near the old man: keep out, che vor'ye, or ice try whether your coſtard or my bat be the harder; chill be plain with you.

Stew. Out, dunghill!

Edg. Chill pick your teeth, Zir: come, no matter vor your foyns. [Edgar knocks him down.

Stew. Slave, thou haſt ſlain me: villain, take my purſe;
If ever thou wilt thrive, bury my body;
And give the letters, which thou find'ſt about me,
To Edmund Earl of Glo'ſter: ſeek him out
Upon the Engliſh party: Oh, untimely death!—[Dies.

Edg. I know thee well, a ſerviceable villain;
As duteous to the vices of thy Miſtreſs,
As badneſs would deſire.

Glo. What, is he dead?

Edg. Sit you down, father: reſt you.
Let's ſee theſe pockets; the letters, that he ſpeaks of,
May be my friends: he's dead; I'm only ſorry,
He had no other death's-man. Let us ſee——
By your leave, gentle wax—and manners blame us not;
To know our enemies' minds, we rip their hearts;
Their papers are more lawful.

Reads

Reads the Letter.

LET our reciprocal vows be remembred. You have many opportunities to cut him off: if your Will want not, time and place will be fruitfully offer'd. There is nothing done, if he return the conqueror. Then am I the prisoner, and his bed my goal; from the loathed warmth whereof deliver me, and supply the place for your labour.

Your (wife, so I would say) affectionate Servant,
Gonerill.

Oh, undistinguish'd space of woman's will!
A plot upon her virtuous husband's life,
And the exchange my brother. Here, i'th' sands
Thee I'll rake up, the post unsanctified
Of murd'rous letchers: and in the mature time,
With this ungracious paper strike the sight
Of the death practis'd Duke: for him 'tis well,
That of thy death and business I can tell.

Glo. The King is mad; how stiff is my vile sense,
That I stand up, and have ingenious feeling
Of my huge sorrows! better I were distract,
So should my thoughts be sever'd from my griefs;
[Drum afar off.
And woes, by wrong imaginations, lose
The knowledge of themselves.

Edg. Give me your hand:
Far off, methinks, I hear the beaten drum.
Come, father, I'll bestow you with a friend. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a Chamber.

Enter Cordelia, Kent, and Physician.

Cor. O Thou good Kent, how shall I live and work
To match thy goodness? life will be too short,
And ev'ry measure fail me.

Kent. To be acknowledg'd, Madam, is o'erpaid;
All my reports go with the modest truth,
Nor more, nor clipt, but so.

Cor.

Cor. [illegible] better ſuited;
Theſe [illegible]s are memories of thoſe worſer hours:
I pr'ythee put them off.
Kent. Pardon, dear Madam,
Yet to be known, ſhortens my made intent;
My boon I make it, that you know me not,
'Till time and I think meet.
Cor. Then be it ſo,
My Lord.——How does the King? [To the Phyſician.
Phyſ. Madam, ſleeps ſtill.
Cor. O you kind Gods!
Cure this great breach in his abuſed nature;
Th' untun'd and jarring ſenſes, O, wind up
Of this child-changed father.
Phyſ. Pleaſe your Majeſty,
That we may wake the king, he hath ſlept long?
Cor. Be govern'd by your knowledge, and proceed
I'th' ſway of your own will: is he array'd?

Enter Lear in a chair, carried by Servants.

Phyſ. Ay, Madam; in the heavineſs of ſleep,
We put freſh garments on him.
Be by, good Madam, when we do awake him;
I doubt not of his temperance.
Cor. O my dear father! Reſtoration, hang
Thy medicine on my lips; and let this kiſs
Repair thoſe violent harms, that my two ſiſters
Have in thy reverence made!
Kent. Kind and deareſt Princeſs!
Cor. Had you not been their father, theſe white flakes
Did challenge pity of them. Was this a face,
To be expos'd againſt the warring winds?
To ſtand againſt the deep, dread-bolted thunder?
In the moſt terrible and nimble ſtroke
Of quick, croſs lightning? To watch poor Perdue,
With this thin helm? My very enemy's dog,
Though he had bit me, ſhou'd have ſtood that night
Againſt my fire: And waſt thou fain, poor father,
To hovel thee with ſwine and rogues forlorn,
In ſhort and muſty ſtraw? alack, alack!

'Tis

'Tis wonder, that thy life and wits, at once
Had not concluded all.—He wakes; ſpeak to him.
Phyſ. Madam, do you, 'tis fitteſt.
Cor. How does my royal Lord? how fares your Majeſty?
Lear. You do me wrong to take me out o'th' grave;
Thou art a ſoul in bliſs, but I am bound
Upon a wheel of fire; that mine own tears
Do ſcald like molten lead.
Cor. Sir, do you know me?
Lear. You are a ſpirit, I know; when did you die?
Cor. Still, ſtill, far wide——
Phyſ. He's ſcarce awake, let him alone awhile.
Lear. Where have I been? where am I? fair day-light?
I'm mightily abus'd; I ſhould even die with pity,
To ſee another thus. I know not what to ſay;
I will not ſwear, theſe are my hands: let's ſee,
I feel this pin prick: 'would I were aſſur'd
Of my condition.
Cor. O look upon me, Sir,
And hold your hand in benediction o'er me.
No, Sir, you muſt not kneel.
Lear. Pray, do not mock me;
I am a very fooliſh fond old man,
Fourſcore and upward; and, to deal plainly,
I fear, I am not in my perfect mind.
Methinks, I ſhould know you, and know this man;
Yet I am doubtful; for I'm mainly ignorant,
What place this is; and all the ſkill I have,
Remembers not theſe garments; nay, I know not
Where I did lodge laſt night. Do not laugh at me,
For, as I am a man, I think, this lady
To be my child Cordelia.
Cor. And ſo I am; I am.——
Lear. Be your tears wet? yes, 'faith; I pray you, weep not.
If you have poiſon for me, I will drink it;
I know, you do not love me; for your ſiſters
Have, as I do remember, done me wrong.
You have ſome cauſe, they have not.
Cor. No cauſe, no cauſe.
Lear. Am I in France?

Kent.

Kent. [illegible] your own kingdom, Sir.
Lear. Do not abuſe me.
Phyſ. Be comforted, good Madam; the great rage,
You ſee, is cur'd in him:—and, yet, 'twere danger
To make him even o'er the time, h'as loſt.
Deſire him to go in; trouble him no more,
'Till further ſettling.
Cor. Wilt pleaſe your Highneſs walk?
Lear. You muſt bear with me;
Pray you now, forget and forgive;
I am old and fooliſh.
[Exeunt Lear, Cord. Phyſ. and Attendants.

Manent Kent and Gentleman.

Gent. Holds it true, Sir, that the Duke of Cornwall was ſo ſlain?
Kent. Moſt certain, Sir.
Gent. Who is conductor of his people?
Kent. As 'tis ſaid, the baſtard ſon of Gloſter.
Gent. They ſay, Edgar, his baniſht ſon, is with the Earl of Kent in Germany.
Kent. Report is changeable; 'tis time to look about: the powers of the kingdom approach apace.
Gent. The arbitrement is like to be bloody.——
Fare you well, Sir. [Exit Gent.
Kent. My point and period will be throughly wrought,
Or well, or ill, as this day's battle's fought. [Exit Kent.

ACT V.

SCENE, A Camp.

Enter Edmund, Regan, Gentleman, and Soldiers.

EDMUND.

KNOW of the Duke, if his laſt purpoſe hold;
Or whether ſince he is advis'd by aught,
To change the courſe? he's full of alteration,
And ſelf-reproving: bring his conſtant pleaſure.

Reg. Our ſiſter's man is certainly miſcarry'd.

Edm. 'Tis to be doubted, Madam.

Reg. Now, ſweet Lord,
You know the goodneſs I intend upon you:
Tell me but truly, but then ſpeak the truth,
Do you not love my ſiſter?

Edm. In honour'd love.

Reg. But have you never found my brother's way
To the fore-fended place?

Edm. No, by mine honour, Madam.

Reg. I never ſhall endure her; dear my Lord,
Be not familiar with her.

Edm. Fear not; ſhe, and the Duke her huſband——

Enter Albany, Gonerill, and Soldiers.

Gon. I'd rather loſe the battle, than that ſiſter
Should looſen him and me.—— [Aſide.

Alb. Our very loving ſiſter, well be met:
Sir, this I hear, the King is come to his daughter,
With others, whom the rigour of our ſtate
Forc'd to cry out. Where I could not be honeſt,
I never yet was valiant: 'fore this buſineſs,
It toucheth us, as France invades our land,

(Not

(Not holds the King, with others, whom I fear, Moſt juſt and heavy cauſes make oppoſe,)——
Edm. Sir, you ſpeak nobly.
Reg. Why is this reaſon'd?
Gon. Combine together 'gainſt the enemy?
For theſe domeſtick and particular broils
Are not the queſtion here.
Edm. I ſhall attend you preſently at your tent.
Alb. Let's then determine with th' Antient of war
On our proceeding.
Reg. Siſter, you'll go with us?
Gon. No.
Reg. 'Tis moſt convenient; pray you, go with us.
Gon. Oh, ho, I know the riddle, I will go.

As they are going out, Enter Edgar diſguis'd.

Edg. If e'er your Grace had ſpeech with man ſo poor,
Hear me one word.
Alb. I'll overtake you:——ſpeak.
[Exeunt Edm. Reg. Gon. and Attendants.
Edg. Before you fight the battle, ope this letter.
If you have vict'ry, let the trumpet ſound
For him that brought it: wretched though I ſeem,
I can produce a champion, that will prove
What is avouched there. If you miſcarry,
Your buſineſs of the world hath ſo an end,
And machination ceaſes. Fortune love you!
Alb. Stay 'till I've read the letter.
Edg. I was forbid it.
When time ſhall ſerve, let but the herald cry,
And I'll appear again. [Exit.
Alb. Why, fare thee well; I will o'erlook thy paper.

Re-enter Edmund.

Edm. The enemy's in view, draw up your powers.
Hard is the gueſs of their true ſtrength and forces,
By diligent diſcovery; but your haſte
Is now urg'd on you.

Alb.

Alb. We will greet the time. [Exit.

Edm. To both theſe ſiſters have I ſworn my love:
Each jealous of the other, as the ſtung
Are of the adder. Which of them ſhall I take?
Both? one? or neither? neither can be enjoy'd,
If both remain alive: to take the widow,
Exaſperates, makes mad her ſiſter Gonerill;
And hardly ſhall I carry out my ſide,
Her huſband being alive. Now then, we'll uſe
His countenance for the battle; which being done,
Let her, who would be rid of him, deviſe
His ſpeedy taking off. As for the mercy
Which he intends to Lear and to Cordelia,
The battle done, and they within our power,
Shall never ſee his pardon: for my ſtate
Stands on me to defend, not to debate. [Exit.

SCENE, another open Field.

Alarm within. Enter with drum and colours, Lear, Cordelia, and ſoldiers over the ſtage, and exeunt.

Enter Edgar and Glo'ſter.

Edg. HEre, father, take the ſhadow of this tree
For your good hoſt; pray, that the right may thrive:
If ever I return to you again,
I'll bring you comfort.

Glo. Grace be with you, Sir! [Exit Edgar.

[Alarm, and retreat, within.

Re-enter Edgar.

Edg. Away, old man; give me thy hand, away;
King Lear hath loſt, he and his daughter ta'en,
Give me thy hand. Come on.

Glo. No further, Sir; a man may rot ev'n here.

Edg. What, in ill thoughts again? men muſt endure
Their going hence, ev'n as their coming hither;

Ripeneſ

Ripeneſs is all; come on.
Glo. And that's true too. [Exeunt.

Enter in Conqueſt, with Drum and Colours, Edmund; Lear and Cordelia, as priſoners; Soldiers, Captain.

Edm. Some officers take them away; good guard,
Until their greater pleaſures firſt be known,
That are to cenſure them.
Cor. We're not the firſt,
Who with beſt meaning have incurr'd the worſt:
For thee, oppreſſed King, am I caſt down;
Myſelf could elſe out-frown falſe fortune's frown.
Shall we not ſee theſe daughters and theſe ſiſters?
Lear. No, no, no, no; come, let's away to priſon;
We two alone will ſing, like birds i'th' cage:
When thou doſt aſk me bleſſing, I'll kneel down,
And aſk of thee forgiveneſs: ſo we'll live,
And pray, and ſing, and tell old tales, and laugh
At gilded butterflies; and hear poor rogues
Talk of court-news, and we'll talk with them too,
Who loſes and who wins; who's in, who's out,
And take upon's the myſtery of things,
As if we were God's ſpies. And we'll wear out,
In a wall'd priſon, packs and ſects of great ones,
That ebb and flow by th' moon.
Edm. Take them away.
Lear. Upon ſuch ſacrifices, my Cordelia,
The Gods themſelves throw incenſe. Have I caught thee?
He that parts us, ſhall bring a brand from heav'n,
And fire us hence, like foxes; wipe thine eye,
The good-jers ſhall devour them, fleſh and fell,
Ere they ſhall make us weep; we'll ſee them ſtarv'd firſt.
Come. [Exeunt Lear and Cordelia guarded.
Edm. Come hither, Captain, hark.
Take thou this note; go, follow them to priſon.
One ſtep I have advanc'd thee; if thou doſt
As this inſtructs thee, thou doſt make thy way
To noble fortunes: know thou this, that men
Are as the time is; to be tender-minded

Does

Does not become a ſword; my great employment (27)
Will not bear queſtion; either ſay, thou'lt do't;
Or thrive by other means.
Capt. I'll do't, my Lord.
Edm. About it, and write happy, when thou'ſt done.
Mark, I ſay, inſtantly; and carry it ſo,
As I have ſet it down. [Exit Captain.

Flouriſh. Enter Albany, Gonerill, Regan, and Soldiers.

Alb. Sir, you have ſhew'd to-day your valiant ſtrain,
And fortune led you well: you have the captives,
Who were the oppoſites of this day's ſtrife:
We do require them of you, ſo to uſe them,
As we ſhall find their merits and our ſafety
May equally determine.
Edm. Sir, I thought it fit
To ſend the old and miſerable King
To ſome retention, and appointed guard;
Whoſe age has charms in it, whoſe title more,
To pluck the common boſoms on his ſide;
And turn our impreſt lances in our eyes,
Which do command them. With him I ſent the Queen;
My reaſon all the ſame; and they are ready
To-morrow, or at further ſpace, t'appear
Where you ſhall hold your ſeſſion. At this time,
We ſweat and bleed; the friend hath loſt his friend;
And the beſt quarrels, in the heat, are curſt
By thoſe that feel their ſharpneſs.——
The Queſtion of Cordelia, and her father,
Requires a fitter place.
Alb. Sir, by your patience,

(27) ——thy great Employment
Will not bear Queſtion;] All the Copies concur in reading thus; but, without doubt, erroneouſly. The Perſon, whom Edmund is here ſpeaking to, was of no higher Degree than a Captain; and therefore, certainly, accountable to his Superiors. Emund, it is plain, muſt mean; "I leading one of the Conquerors' Forces, and having "employed thee in this Buſineſs, will be thy ſufficient Warrant, "and will ſecure thee from being queſtioned about it."

I hold you but a ſubject of this war,
Not as a brother.
Reg. That's as we liſt to grace him.
Methinks, our pleaſure might have been demanded,
Ere you had ſpoke ſo far. He led our pow'rs;
Bore the commiſſion of my place and perſon;
The which immediacy may well ſtand up,
And call itſelf your brother.
Gon. Not ſo hot:
In his own grace he doth exalt himſelf,
More than in your advancement.
Reg. In my right,
By me inveſted, he compeers the beſt.
Alb. That were the moſt, if he ſhould huſband you.
Reg. Jeſters do oft prove prophets.
Gon. Holla, Holla!
That eye, that told you ſo, look'd but a-ſquint.
Reg. Lady, I am not well, elſe I ſhould anſwer
From a full-flowing ſtomach. General,
Take thou my ſoldiers, priſoners, patrimony,
Diſpoſe of them, of me; the walls are thine:
Witneſs the world, that I create thee here
My Lord and maſter.
Gon. Mean you to enjoy him?
Alb. The lett alone lies not in your good will.
Edm. Nor in thine, Lord.
Alb. Half-blooded fellow, yes.
Reg. Let the drum ſtrike, and prove my title thine.
Alb. Stay yet; hear reaſon: Edmund, I arreſt thee
On capital treaſon; and, in thy arreſt,
This gilded ſerpent; for your claim, fair ſiſter,
I bar it in the intereſt of my wife;
'Tis ſhe is ſub-contracted to this Lord,
And I, her huſband, contradict your banes.
If you will marry, make your loves to me,
My lady is beſpoke.
Gon. An enterlude!——
Alb. Thou art arm'd, Glo'ſter; let the trumpet ſound:
If none appear to prove upon thy perſon
Thy heinous, manifeſt, and many treaſons,

There

There is my pledge: I'll prove it on thy heart,
Ere I taſte bread, thou art in nothing leſs
Than I have here proclaim'd thee.
Reg. Sick, O ſick——
Gon. If not, I'll ne'er truſt poiſon. [Aſide.
Edm. There's my exchange; what in the world he is,
That names me traitor, villain-like he lies;
Call by thy trumpet: he that dares approach,
On him, on you, (who not?) I will maintain
My truth and honour firmly.
Alb. A herald, ho!

Enter a Herald.

Truſt to thy ſingle virtue; for thy ſoldiers,
All levied in my name, have in my name
Took their diſcharge.
Reg. This ſickneſs grows upon me.
Alb. She is not well, convey her to my tent.
[Exit Reg. led.
Come hither, herald, let the trumpet ſound,
And read out this. [A trumpet ſounds.

Herald reads.

IF any man of Quality, or degree, within the liſts of the army, will maintain upon Edmund ſuppoſed Earl of Glo'ſter, that he is a manifold traitor, let him appear by the third ſound of the trumpet: he is bold in his defence. 1 trumpet.
Her. Again. 2 trumpet.
Her. Again. 3 trumpet.
[Trumpet anſwers, within.

Enter Edgar, armed.

Alb. Aſk him his purpoſes, why he appears
Upon this call o'th' trumpet.
Her. What are you?
Your name, your quality, and why you anſwer
This preſent ſummons?
Edg. Know, my name is loſt;
By treaſon's tooth bare-gnawn, and canker-bit;

577696

Yet am I noble, as the adverſary
I come to cope.
Alb. Which is that adverſary?
Edg. What's he, that ſpeaks for Edmund Earl of Glo'ſter?
Edm. Himſelf; what ſay'ſt thou to him?
Edg. Draw thy ſword,
That if my ſpeech offend a noble heart,
Thy arm may do thee juſtice; here is mine:—
Behold, it is the privilege of mine honours,
My oath, and my profeſſion. I proteſt,
Maugre thy ſtrength, place, youth, and eminence,
Spite of thy victor-ſword, and fire-new fortune,
Thy valour, and thy heart, thou art a traitor;
Falſe to thy Gods, thy brother, and thy father;
Conſpirant 'gainſt this high illuſtrious Prince,
And from th' extreameſt upward of thy head,
To the deſcent and duſt below thy foot,
A moſt toad-ſpotted traitor. Say thou, no;
This ſword, this arm, and my beſt ſpirits, are bent
To prove upon thy heart, whereto I ſpeak,
Thou lieſt.
Edm. In wiſdom I ſhould aſk thy name;
But ſince thy out-ſide looks fair and warlike,
And that thy tongue ſome 'ſay of breeding breathes;
What ſafe and nicely I might well delay
By rule of Knight-hood, I diſdain and ſpurn:
Back do I toſs theſe treaſons to thy head,
With the hell-hated lye o'erwhelm thy heart;
Which (for they yet glance by, and ſcarcely bruiſe)
This ſword of mine ſhall give them inſtant way,
Where thou ſhalt reſt for ever. Trumpets, ſpeak.
[Alarm. Fight.
Gon. O, ſave him, ſave him; this is practice, Glo'ſter: (28)

(28) Alb. Save him, ſave him.
Gon. This is Practice, Glo'ſter:] Thus all the Copies have diſtinguiſhed theſe Speeches: but I have ventured to place the two Hemiſtichs to Goneril. 'Tis abſurd, that Albany, who knew Edmund's Treaſons, and his own Wife's Paſſion for him, ſhould be ſolicitous to have his Life ſaved.

By th' law of war, thou waſt not bound to anſwer
An unknown oppoſite: thou art not vanquiſh'd,
But cozen'd and beguil'd.
Alb. Shut your mouth, Dame,
Or with this paper ſhall I ſtop it;
Thou worſe than any thing, read thine own evil:
No tearing, lady; I perceive, you know it.
Gon. Say, if I do; the laws are mine, not thine;
Who can arraign me for't?
Alb. Monſter, know'ſt thou this paper?
Gon. Aſk me not, what I know— [Exit Gon.
Alb. Go after her, ſhe's deſperate, govern her.
Ed. What you have charg'd me with, that I have done,
And more, much more; the time will bring it out.
'Tis paſt, and ſo am I: but what art thou,
That haſt this fortune on me? If thou'rt noble,
I do forgive thee.
Edg. Let's exchange charity:
I am no leſs in blood than thou art, Edmund;
If more, the more thou'ſt wrong'd me.
My name is Edgar, and thy father's ſon.
The Gods are juſt, and of our pleaſant vices
Make inſtruments to ſcourge us:
The dark and vicious place, where thee he got,
Coſt him his eyes.
Edm. Thou'ſt ſpoken right, 'tis true,
The wheel is come full circle; I am here.
Alb. Methought, thy very gait did propheſy
A royal nobleneſs: I muſt embrace thee:——
Let ſorrow ſplit my heart, if ever I
Did hate thee, or thy father!
Edg. Worthy Prince, I know't.
Alb. Where have you hid yourſelf?
How have you known the miſeries of your father?
Edg. By nurſing them, my Lord. Liſt a brief tale,
And, when 'tis told, O, that my heart would burſt!—
The bloody proclamation to eſcape
That follow'd me ſo near, (O our lives' ſweetneſs!
That we the pain of death would hourly bear,
Rather than die at once) taught me to ſhift

Into a mad-man's rags; t'aſſume a ſemblance,
The very dogs diſdain'd: and in this habit
Met I my father with his bleeding rings,
Their precious gems new loſt; became his guide,
Led him, begg'd for him, ſav'd him from deſpair;
Never (O fault!) reveal'd myſelf unto him,
Until ſome half hour paſt, when I was arm'd,
Not ſure, though hoping, of this good ſucceſs,
I aſk'd his bleſſing, and from firſt to laſt
Told him my pilgrimage. But his flaw'd heart,
Alack, too weak the conflict to ſupport,
'Twixt two extreams of paſſion, joy and grief,
Burſt ſmilingly.

Edm. This ſpeech of yours hath mov'd me,
And ſhall, perchance, do good; but ſpeak you on,
You look, as you had ſomething more to ſay.

Alb. If there be more, more woeful, hold it in,
For I am almoſt ready to diſſolve,
Hearing of this.

Edg. —This would have ſeem'd a period,
To ſuch as love not ſorrow: but another,
To amplify too much, would make much more,
And top extremity!———
Whilſt I was big in clamour, came there a man,
Who having ſeen me in my worſer ſtate,
Shun'd my abhorr'd ſociety; but now finding
Who 'twas, had ſo endur'd, with his ſtrong arms
He faſten'd on my neck; and bellow'd out,
As he'd burſt heaven; threw him on my father;
Told the moſt piteous tale of Lear and him,
That ever ear receiv'd; which in recounting
His grief grew puiſſant, and the ſtrings of life
Began to crack.——Twice then the trumpets ſounded,
And there I left him tranc'd——

Alb. But who was this?

Edg. Kent, Sir; the baniſh'd Kent, who in diſguiſe
Follow'd his enemy King, and did him ſervice
Improper for a ſlave.

Enter

Enter a Gentleman.

Gent. Help, help!
Edg. What kind of help?
Alb. Speak, man.
Edg. What means this bloody knife?
Gent. 'Tis hot, it ſmoaks; it came even from the heart
Of——O! ſhe's dead.——
Alb. Who's dead? ſpeak, man.
Gent. Your lady, Sir, your lady; and her ſiſter
By her is poiſon'd: ſhe confeſſes it.
Edm. I was contracted to them both; all three
Now marry in an inſtant.
Edg. Here comes Kent.

Enter Kent.

Alb. Produce the bodies, be they alive or dead.
[Gonerill and Regan's Bodies brought out.
This judgment of the heav'ns, that makes us tremble,
Touches us not with pity.——O! is this he?
The time will not allow the compliment,
Which very manners urge.
Kent. I am come
To bid my King and maſter aye good-night;
Is he not here?
Alb. Great thing of us forgot!
Speak, Edmund, where's the King? and where's Cordelia?
See'ſt thou this object, Kent?
Kent. Alack, why thus?
Edm. Yet Edmund was belov'd:
The one the other poiſon'd for my ſake,
And after ſlew herſelf.
Alb. Even ſo; cover their faces.
Edm. I pant for life; ſome good I mean to do,
Deſpight of mine own nature. Quickly ſend,
(Be brief) into the caſtle; for my writ
Is on the life of Lear and on Cordelia:
Nay, ſend in time.
Alb. Run, run, O run——
Edg. To whom, my Lord? who has the office? Send
Th

Thy token of reprieve.
Edm. Well thought on, take my ſword,
Give it the captain——
Edg. Haſte thee for thy life, [Exit Meſſenger.
Edm. He hath commiſſion from thy wife and me
To hang Cordelia in the priſon, and
To lay the blame upon her own deſpair.
Alb. The Gods defend her! bear him hence a while.
[Edmund is borne off.

Enter Lear, with Cordelia dead in his arms.

Lear. Howl, howl, howl, howl,—O, you are men of ſtone;
Had I your tongues and eyes, I'd uſe them ſo,
That heaven's vault ſhould crack: ſhe's gone for ever!
I know, when one is dead, and when one lives;
She's dead as earth! lend me a looking-glaſs,
If that her breath will miſt or ſtain the ſtone,
Why then ſhe lives.
Kent. Is this the promis'd end?
Lear. This feather ſtirs, ſhe lives; if it be ſo,
It is a chance which does redeem all ſorrows,
That ever I have felt.
Kent. O my good maſter! [Kneeling.
Lear. Pr'ythee, away——
Edg. 'Tis noble Kent, your friend.
Lear. A plague upon you, murd'rous traitors all!
I might have ſav'd her; now ſhe's gone for ever!
Cordelia, Cordelia, ſtay a little. Ha!——
What is't thou ſay'ſt? her voice was ever ſoft,
Gentle, and low; an excellent thing in woman.
I kill'd the ſlave, that was a hanging thee.
Gent. 'Tis true, my Lords, he did.
Lear. Did I not, fellow?
I've ſeen the day, with my good biting faulchion
I would have made them ſkip: I am old now,
And theſe ſame croſſes ſpoil me. Who are you?
Mine eyes are none o'th' beſt.——I'll tell you ſtrait.
Kent. If fortune brag of two ſhe lov'd and hated,
One of them we behold.
Lear. Are you not Kent?

Kent.

Kent. The ſame; your ſervant Kent;
Where is your ſervant Caius?
Lear. 'Twas a good fellow, I can tell you that, (29)
He'd ſtrike, and quickly too:—he's dead and rotten.
Kent. No, my good Lord, I am the very man,——
Lear. I'll ſee that ſtrait.
Kent. That, from your firſt of difference and decay,
Have follow'd your ſad ſteps—
Lear. You're welcome hither.
Kent. Nor no man elſe;—all's cheerleſs, dark, and dead;
Your eldeſt daughters have fore-done themſelves,
And deſp'rately are dead.
Lear. Ay, ſo I think.
Alb. He knows not what he ſays; and vain is it,
That we preſent us to him.
Edg. Very bootleſs.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Edmund is dead, my Lord.
Alb. That's but a trifle.
You Lords and noble friends, know our intent;
What comfort to this great decay may come,
Shall be apply'd. For us, we will reſign,
During the life of this old Majeſty,
To him our abſolute power: to you, your rights,
[To Edgar.
With boot, and ſuch addition as your honours
Have more than merited. All friends ſhall taſte
The wages of their virtue, and all foes
The cup of their deſervings: O ſee, ſee——
Lear. And my poor Fool is hang'd: no, no, no life.
Why ſhould a dog, a horſe, a rat have life,
And thou no breath at all? thou'lt come no more,
Never, never, never, never, never——

(29) He's a good Fellow, I can tell you that,
He'll ſtrike and quickly too: he's dead and rotten.] We have ſeen Lear mad; but, never, a ſtark Fool till this Moment; to tell us, that a dead and rotten Man will ſtrike quickly. But it was a Stupidity of the Editors, and not chargeable on the Poet.

Pray you, undo this button. Thank you, Sir;
Do you ſee this? look on her, look on her lips,
Look there, look there—— [He dies.

Edg. He faints; my lord,——

Kent. Break heart, I pr'ythee, break!

Edg. Look up, my Lord.

Kent. Vex not his ghoſt! O, let him paſs! He hates him,
That would upon the rack of this rough world
Stretch him out longer.

Edg. He is gone, indeed.

Kent. The wonder is, he hath endur'd ſo long:
He but uſurpt his life.

Alb. Bear them from hence, our preſent buſineſs
Is general woe: friends of my ſoul, you twain
Rule in this realm, and the gor'd ſtate ſuſtain.

Kent. I have a journey, Sir, ſhortly to go;
My maſter calls me; I muſt not ſay, no. [Dies.

Alb. The weight of this ſad time we muſt obey, (30)
Speak what we feel, not what we ought to ſay.
The oldeſt hath borne moſt; we, that are young,
Shall never ſee ſo much, nor live ſo long.

[Exeunt with a dead March.

(30) Alb. The Weight of this ſad Time, &c.] This Speech from the Authority of the old Quarto is rightly placed to Albany: in the Edition by the Players it is given to Edgar, by whom, I doubt not, it was of Cuſtom ſpoken. And the Caſe was this: He who played Edgar, being a more favourite Actor, than he who perſonated Albany; in Spight of Decorum, it was thought proper he ſhould have the laſt Word.

TIMON

TIMON of ATHENS.

ACT I.

SCENE, A Hall in Timon's Houſe.

Enter Poet, Painter, Jeweller, Merchant, and Mercer, at ſeveral doors.

POET.

GOOD day, Sir.

Pain. I am glad y' are well.

Poet. I have not ſeen you long; how goes the world?

Pain. It wears, Sir, as it goes.

Poet. Ay, that's well known.
But what particular rarity? what ſo ſtrange,
Which manifold Record not matches? ſee,
(Magick of Bounty!) all theſe Spirits thy power
Hath conjur'd to attend. I know the merchant.

Pain. I know them both; th' other's a jeweller.

Mer. O 'tis a worthy Lord!

Jew. Nay, that's moſt fixt.

Mer. A moſt incomparable man, breath'd as it were
To an untirable and continuate goodneſs.
He paſſes——

Jew. I have a jewel here.

Mer.

Mer. O, pray, let's ſee't:
For the Lord Timon, Sir?
Jew. If he will touch the eſtimate: but for that——
Poet. When we for recompence have prais'd the vile,
It ſtains the glory in that happy verſe
Which aptly ſings the good.
Mer. 'Tis a good form. [Looking on the jewel.
Jew. And rich; here is a water, look ye.
Pain. You're rapt, Sir, in ſome work, ſome dedication
To the great Lord.
Poet. A thing ſlipt idly from me.
Our poeſy is as a gum, which iſſues
From whence 'tis nouriſhed. The fire i'th' flint
Shews not, 'till it be ſtruck: our gentle flame
Provokes itſelf,——and like the current flies
Each bound it chaſes. What have you there? (1)
Pain. A picture, Sir:—when comes your book forth?
Poet. Upon the heels of my preſentment, Sir.
Let's ſee your piece.
Pain. 'Tis a good piece.
Poet. So 'tis,
This comes off well and excellent.
Pain. Indiff'rent.
Poet. Admirable? how this grace
Speaks his own ſtanding? what a mental power
This eye ſhoots forth? how big imagination
Moves in this lip? to th' dumbneſs of the geſture
One might interpret.
Pain. It is a pretty mocking of the life:
Here is a touch——is't good?
Poet. I'll ſay of it,
It tutors nature; artificial ſtrife
Lives in thoſe touches, livelier than life.

(1) Each Bound it chaſes.——] How, chaſes? The Flood, indeed, beating up upon the Shore, covers a part of it, but cannot be ſaid to drive the Shore away. The Poet's Alluſion is to a Wave, which, foaming and chafing on the Shore, breaks; and then the Water ſeems to the Eye to retire.

Enter

Enter certain Senators.

Pain. How this Lord is followed!

Poet. The Senators of Athens! happy man! (2)

Pain. Look, more!

Poet. You ſee this confluence, this great flood of viſiters.
I have, in this rough work, ſhap'd out a man,
Whom this beneath-world doth embrace and hug
With ampleſt entertainment. My free drift
Halts not particular, but moves itſelf
In a wide ſea of wax; no levell'd malice
Infects one comma in the courſe I hold,
But flies an eagle-flight, bold, and forth on,
Leaving no tract behind.

Pain. How ſhall I underſtand you?

Poet. I'll unbolt to you.
You ſee, how all conditions, how all minds,
As well of glib and ſlipp'ry creatures, as
Of grave and auſtere quality, tender down
Their ſervice to Lord Timon: his large fortune,
Upon his good and gracious nature hanging,
Subdues and properties to his love and tendance
All ſorts of hearts; yea, from the glaſs-fac'd flatterer
To Apemantus, that few things loves better
Than to abhor himſelf; ev'n he drops down
The knee before him, and returns in peace
Moſt rich in Timon's nod.

Pain. I ſaw them ſpeak together.

Poet. I have upon a high and pleaſant hill
Feign'd Fortune to be thron'd. The baſe o'th' mount
Is rank'd with all deſerts, all kind of natures,
That labour on the boſom of this ſphere
To propagate their ſtates; amongſt them all,
Whoſe eyes are on this ſov'reign lady fixt,

(2) Happy Men!] Thus the printed Copies: but I cannot think the Poet meant, that the Senators were happy in being admitted to Timon; their Quality might command that: but that Timon was happy in being followed, and careſſed, by thoſe of their Rank and Dignity.

One

One do I perſonate of Timon's frame,
Whom Fortune with her iv'ry hand wafts to her,
Whoſe preſent grace to preſent ſlaves and ſervants
Tranſlates his rivals.

Pain. 'Tis conceiv'd to th' ſcope. (3)
This throne, this fortune, and this hill, methinks,
With one man beckon'd from the reſt below,
Bowing his head againſt the ſteepy mount
To climb his happineſs, would be well expreſt
In our condition.

Poet. Nay, but hear me on:
All thoſe which were his fellows but of late,
Some better than his value, on the moment
Follow his ſtrides; his lobbies fill with tendance;
Rain ſacrificial whiſp'rings in his ear;
Make ſacred even his ſtirrop; and through him
Drink the free air.

Pain. Ay, marry, what of theſe?

Poet. When Fortune in her ſhift and change of mood
Spurns down her late belov'd, all his dependants
(Which labour'd after to the mountain's top,
Even on their knees and hands,) let him ſlip down,
Not one accompanying his declining foot.

Pain. 'Tis common:
A thouſand moral paintings I can ſhew,
That ſhall demonſtrate theſe quick blows of fortune
More pregnantly than words. Yet you do well
To ſhew Lord Timon, that mean eyes have ſeen
The foot above the head.

Trumpets ſound. Enter Timon addreſſing himſelf courteouſly to every ſuitor.

Tim. Impriſon'd is he, ſay you? [To a Meſſenger.

(3) 'Tis conceiv'd, to ſcope
This Throne, this Fortune, &c.] Thus all the Editors hitherto have nonſenſically writ, and pointed, this Paſſage. But, ſure, the Painter would tell the Poet, your Conception, Sir, hits the very Scope you aim at. This the Greeks would have rendered, τῦ σκοπῦ τυχεῖν, recta ad Scopum tendis: and Cicero has thus expreſſed on the like Occaſion, Signum oculis deſtinatum ferit.

Mal.

Meſ. Ay, my good Lord; five talents is his debt,
His means moſt ſhort, his creditors moſt ſtraight:
Your honourable letter he deſires
To thoſe have ſhut him up, which failing to him
Periods his comfort.

Tim. Noble Ventidius! well———
I am not of that feather to ſhake off
My friend when he moſt needs me. I do know him
A gentleman that well deſerves a help,
Which he ſhall have, I'll pay the debt, and free him.

Meſ. Your lordſhip ever binds him.

Tim. Commend me to him, I will ſend his ranſom;
And, being enfranchis'd, bid him come to me;
'Tis not enough to help the feeble up,
But to ſupport him after. Fare you well.

Meſ. All happineſs to your Honour! [Exit.

Enter an old Athenian.

Old Ath. Lord Timon, hear me ſpeak.

Tim. Freely, good father.

Old Ath. Thou haſt a ſervant nam'd Lucilius.

Tim. I have ſo: what of him?

Old Ath. Moſt noble Timon, call the man before thee.

Tim. Attends he here or no? Lucilius!——

Enter Lucilius.

Luc. Here, at your Lordſhip's ſervice.

Old Ath. This fellow here, Lord Timon, this thy creature
By night frequents my houſe. I am a man
That from my firſt have been inclin'd to thrift,
And my eſtate deſerves an heir more rais'd,
Than one which holds a trencher.

Tim. Well: what further?

Old Ath. One only daughter have I, no kin elſe,
On whom I may confer what I have got:
The maid is fair, o'th' youngeſt for a bride,
And I have bred her at my deareſt coſt,
In qualities of the beſt. This man of thine
Attempts her love: I pray thee, noble Lord,
Join with me to forbid him her reſort;

Myſelf

Myſelf have ſpoke in vain.
Tim. The man is honeſt.
Old Ath. Therefore he will be, Timon. (4)
His honeſty rewards him in itſelf,
It muſt not bear my daughter.
Tim. Does ſhe love him?
Old Ath. She is young, and apt;
Our own precedent paſſions do inſtruct us,
What levity's in youth.
Tim. Love you the maid?
Luc. Ay, my good Lord, and ſhe accepts of it.
Old Ath. If in her marriage my conſent be miſſing,
I call the Gods to witneſs, I will chuſe
Mine heir from forth the beggars of the world,
And diſpoſſeſs her all.
Tim. How ſhall ſhe be endowed,
If ſhe be mated with an equal huſband?
Old Ath. Three talents on the preſent, in future all.
Tim. This gentleman of mine hath ſerv'd me long;
To build his fortune I will ſtrain a little,
For 'tis a bond in men. Give him thy daughter:
What you beſtow, in him I'll counterpoiſe,
And make him weigh with her.
Old Ath. Moſt noble Lord,
Pawn me to this your honour, ſhe is his.
Tim. My hand to thee, mine honour on my promiſe.
Luc. Humbly I thank your Lordſhip: never may
That ſtate, or fortune, fall into my keeping,
Which is not ow'd to you! [Exeunt Luc. and old Ath.
Poet. Vouchſafe my labour, and long live your lordſhip!
Tim. I thank you, you ſhall hear from me anon:
Go not away. What have you there, my friend?
Pain. A piece of Painting, which I do beſeech
Your Lordſhip to accept.

(4) Therefore he will be, Timon.] The thought is cloſely expreſs'd, and obſcure: but this ſeems the Meaning. "If the Man be honeſt, "my Lord, for that reaſon he will be ſo in this; and not endeavour "at the Injuſtice of gaining my Daughter without my Conſent." Mr. Warburton.

Tim. Painting is welcome.
The Painting is almoſt the natural man:
For ſince diſhonour trafficks with man's nature,
He is but out-ſide: pencil'd figures are Ev'n ſuch as they give out. I like your Work;
And you ſhall find, I like it: wait attendance
'Till you hear further from me.

Pain. The Gods preſerve ye!

Tim. Well fare you, gentleman; Give me your hand,
We muſt needs dine together: Sir, your jewel
Hath ſuffer'd under praiſe.

Jew. What, my Lord? diſpraiſe?

Tim. A mere ſatiety of commendations:
If I ſhould pay you for't as 'tis extoll'd,
It would unclew me quite.

Jew. My Lord, 'tis rated
As thoſe, which ſell, would give: but you well know,
Things of like value, differing in the owners,
Are by their maſters priz'd; Believe't, dear Lord,
You mend the jewel by the wearing it.

Tim. Well mock'd.

Mer. No, my good Lord, he ſpeaks the common tongue,
Which all men ſpeak with him.

Tim. Look, who comes here.

Enter Apemantus.

Will you be chid?

Jew. We'll bear it with your Lordſhip.

Mer. He'll ſpare none.

Tim. Good morrow to thee, gentle Apemantus!

Apem. 'Till I be gentle, ſtay for thy good-morrow;
When thou art Timon's dog, and theſe knaves honeſt.

Tim. Why doſt thou call them knaves, thou know'ſt them not.

Apem. Are they not Athenians.

Tim. Yes.

Apem. Then I repeat not.

Jew. You know me, Apemantus.

Apem. Thou know'ſt I do, I call'd thee by thy name.

Tim. Thou art proud, Apemantus.

Apem.

Apem. Of nothing ſo much, as that I am not like Timon.

Tim. Whither art going?

Apem. To knock out an honeſt Athenian's brains.

Tim. That's a deed thou'lt die for.

Apem. Right, if doing nothing be death by the law.

Tim. How lik'ſt thou this Picture, Apemantus?

Apem. The beſt, for the innocence.

Tim. Wrought he not well, that painted it?

Apem. He wrought better, that made the Painter: and yet he's but a filthy piece of work.

Pain. Y'are a dog.

Apem. Thy mother's of my generation: what's ſhe, if I be a dog?

Tim. Wilt dine with me, Apemantus?

Apem. No, I eat not Lords.

Tim. If thou ſhouldſt, thoudſt anger ladies.

Apem. O, they eat Lords; ſo they come by great bellies.

Tim. That's a laſcivious apprehenſion.

Apem. So, thou apprehend'ſt it. Take it for thy labour.

Tim. How doſt thou like this jewel, Apemantus?

Apem. Not ſo well as Plain-dealing, which will not coſt a man a doit.

Tim. What doſt thou think 'tis worth?

Apem. Not worth my thinking——How now, Poet?

Poet. How now, Philoſopher?

Apem. Thou lieſt.

Poet. Art thou not one?

Apem. Yes.

Poet. Then I lye not.

Apem. Art not a poet?

Poet. Yes.

Apem. Then thou lieſt: look in thy laſt work, where thou haſt feign'd him a worthy fellow.

Poet. That's not feign'd, he is ſo.

Apem. Yes, he is worthy of thee, and to pay thee for thy labour. He, that loves to be flatter'd, is worthy o'th' flatterer. Heav'ns, that I were a Lord!

Tim.

Tim. What would'ſt do then, Apemantus?

Apem. Ev'n as Apemantus does now, hate a Lord with my heart.

Tim. What, thyſelf?

Apem. Ay.

Tim. Wherefore?

Apem. That I had ſo hungry a wit, to be a Lord.—(5) Art thou not a Merchant?

Mer. Ay, Apemantus?

Apem. Traffick confound thee, if the Gods will not!

Mer. If Traffick do it, the Gods do it.

Apem. Traffick's thy God, and thy God confound thee!

Trumpets ſound. Enter a Meſſenger.

Tim. What trumpet's that?

Meſ. 'Tis Alcibiades, and ſome twenty horſe
All of companionſhip.

Tim. Pray entertain them, give them guide to us;
You muſt needs dine with me: go not you hence.
'Till I have thankt you; and when dinner's done,
Shew me this piece. I'm joyful of your ſights.

Enter Alcibiades with the reſt.

Moſt welcome, Sir! [Bowing and embracing.

Apem. So, ſo! Aches contract, and ſtarve, your ſupple joints! that there ſhould be ſmall love amongſt theſe ſweet knaves, and all this courteſy! the ſtrain of man's bred out into baboon and monkey.

Alc. You have ſav'd my longing, and I feed
Moſt hungerly on your ſight.

Tim. Right, welcome, Sir.

(5) Then I had no angry Wit to be a Lord.] This Reading is abſurd, and unintelligible. But, as I have reſtor'd the text, it is ſatirical enough of all Conſcience, and to the purpoſe: viz. I would hate myſelf, for having no more Wit than to covet ſo inſignificant a Title. In the ſame Senſe Shakeſpear uſes lean-witted, in his Richard the ſecond.

And thou a lunatick, lean-witted, Fool. Mr. Warburton.

Ere we do part, we'll ſhare a bounteous time (6)
In different pleaſures. Pray you, let us in. [Exeunt.

Manet Apemantus. Enter Lucius and Lucullus.

Luc. What a time a day is't, Apemantus?

Apem. Time to be honeſt.

Luc. That time ſerves ſtill.

Apem. The moſt accurſed thou, that ſtill omitt'ſt it.

Lucul. Thou art going to Lord Timon's feaſt.

Apem. Ay, to ſee meat fill knaves, and wine heat fools.

Lucul. Fare thee well, fare thee well.

Apem. Thou art a fool to bid me farewel twice.

Lucul. Why, Apemantus?

Apem. Thou ſhouldſt have kept one to thyſelf, for I mean to give thee none.

Luc. Hang thyſelf.

Apem. No, I will do nothing at thy bidding: make thy requeſts to thy friend.

Lucul. Away, unpeaceable dog, or——I'll ſpurn thee hence.

Apem. I will fly, like a dog, the heels o'th' aſs.

Luc. He's oppoſite to humanity.
Come, ſhall we in, and taſte Lord Timon's bounty?
He ſure, outgoes the very heart of kindneſs.

Lucul. He pours it out. Plutus, the God of gold,
Is but his Steward: no meed but he repays
Seven-fold above itſelf; no gift to him,
But breeds the giver a Return exceeding
All uſe of quittance.

Luc. The nobleſt mind he carries,
That ever govern'd man.

Lucul. Long may he live in fortunes! ſhall we in?

Luc. I'll keep you company. [Exeunt.

(6) Ere we depart, ——] Tho' the Editions concur in this Reading, it is certainly faulty. Who depart? Tho' Alcibiades was to leave Timon, Timon was not to depart from his own Houſe. Common Senſe favours my Emendation.

SCENE

SCENE, another Apartment in Timon's Houſe.

Hautboys playing, loud muſick. A great banquet ſerv'd in; and then enter Timon, Lucius, Lucullus, Sempronius, and other Athenian ſenators, with Ventidius. Then comes, dropping after all, Apemantus diſcontentedly.

Ven. MOST honour'd Timon, it hath pleas'd the Gods
To call my father's age unto long peace.
He is gone happy, and has left me rich.
Then, as in grateful virtue I am bound
To your free heart, I do return thoſe talents,
Doubled with thanks and ſervice, from whoſe help
I deriv'd liberty.

Tim. O, by no means,
Honeſt Ventidius: you miſtake my love;
I gave it freely ever, and there's none
Can truly ſay he gives, if he receives:
If our Betters play at that game, we muſt not dare
To imitate them. Faults that are rich, are fair.

Ven. A noble ſpirit.

Tim. Nay, ceremony was but deviſ'd at firſt,
To ſet a gloſs on faint deeds, hollow welcomes,
Recanting goodneſs, ſorry ere 'tis ſhown:
But where there is true friendſhip, there needs none.
Pray, ſit; more welcome are ye to my fortunes,
Than they to me. [They ſit down.

Luc. We always have confeſt it.

Apem. Ho, ho, confeſt it? hang'd it, have you not?

Tim. O, Apemantus! you are welcome.

Apem. No; you ſhall not make me welcome. I come to have thee thruſt me out of doors.

Tim. Fy, th'art a churl; ye have got a humour there
Does not become a man, 'tis much to blame:
They ſay, my Lords, that Ira furor brevis eſt,
But yonder man is ever angry.
Go, let him have a table by himſelf:
For he does neither affect company,

Nor

Nor is he fit for't, indeed.

Apem. Let me ſtay at thy peril, Timon; I come to obſerve, I give thee warning on't.

Tim. I take no heed of thee: th'art an Athenian, therefore welcome; I myſelf would have no power—pr'ythee, let my meat make thee ſilent.

Apem. I ſcorn thy meat, 'twould choak me: for I ſhould ne'er flatter thee. O you gods! what a number of men eat Timon, and he ſees 'em not? It grieves me to ſee
So many dip their meat in one man's blood,
And, all the madneſs is, he cheers them up too.
I wonder, men dare truſt themſelves with men!
Methinks, they ſhould invite them without knives;
Good for their meat, and ſafer for their lives.
There's much example for't; the fellow, that Sits next him now, parts bread with him, and pledges
The breath of him in a divided draught,
Is th' readieſt man to kill him. 'T has been prov'd.
Were I a Great man, I ſhould fear to drink,
Leſt they ſhould ſpy my wind-pipe's dangerous notes:
Great men ſhould drink with harneſs on their throats.

Tim. My Lord, in heart; and let the health go round.

Lucul. Let it flow this way, my good Lord.

Apem. Flow this way!—a brave fellow! he keeps his tides well; thoſe healths will make thee and thy ſtate look ill, Timon. Here's that which is too weak to be a ſinner, honeſt water, which ne'er left man i'th' mire: This and my food are equal, there's no odds;
Feaſts are too proud to give thanks to the Gods.

Apemantus's grace.

Immortal God's, I crave no pelf;
I pray for no man but myſelf;
Grant, I may never prove ſo fond
To truſt man on his oath, or bond;
Or a harlot for her weeping;
Or a dog, that ſeems a ſleeping;
Or a keeper with my freedom;
Or my friends, if I ſhould need 'em.
Amen, Amen; So fall to't:
Rich men ſin, and I eat root.

Much

good dich thy good heart, Apemantus!
Captain, Alcibiades, your heart's in the field now.
My heart is ever at your ſervice, my Lord.
You had rather been at a breakfaſt of enemies,
dinner of friends.
So they were bleeding new, my Lord, there's no
ke 'em. I could wiſh my friend at ſuch a feaſt.
t. Would all theſe flatterers were thine enemies that thou might'ſt kill 'em, and bid me to 'em!
Might we but have the happineſs, my Lord, that uld once uſe our hearts, whereby we might ex-me part of our zeals, we ſhould think ourſelves
r perfect.
Oh, no doubt, my good friends, but the Gods
lves have provided that I ſhall have as much help ou: how had you been my friends elſe? why have at charitable title from thouſands, did not you belong to my heart? I have told more of you to than you can with modeſty ſpeak in your own
And thus far I confirm you. Oh you Gods,
I,) what need we have any friends, if we ſhould ave need of 'em? they would moſt reſemble ſweet ents hung up in caſes, that keep their ſounds to lves. Why, I have often wiſht myſelf poorer, that t come nearer to you: we are born to do benefits.
hat better or properer can we call our own, than es of our friends? O, what a precious comfort 'tis
: ſo many, like brothers, commanding one anofortunes! O joy, e'en made away ere't can be mine eyes cannot hold water, methinks: to their faults, I drink to you.
t. Thou weep'ſt to make them drink, Timon.
l. Joy had the like conception in our eyes, that inſtant like a babe ſprung up.
t. Ho, ho! I laugh to think that babe a baſtard.
d. I promiſe you, my Lord, you mov'd me much.
t. Much!

Sound Tucket.

What means that trump? how now?

Enter servant.

Serv. Pleaſe you, my Lord, there are certain ladies moſt deſirous of admittance.

Tim. Ladies? what are their wills?

Serv. There comes with them a fore-runner, my Lord, which bears that office to ſignify their pleaſues.

Tim. I pray, let them be admitted.

Enter Cupid with a Maſque of Ladies, as Amazons.

Cup. Hail to thee, worthy Timon, and to all
That of his bounties taſte! the five beſt ſenſes
Acknowledge thee their patron; and do come
Freely to gratulate thy plenteous boſom:
Th' Ear, Taſte, Touch, Smell, pleas'd from thy table riſe, (7)
Theſe only now come but to feaſt thine eyes.

Tim. They're welcome all; let 'em have kind admittance.
Let muſick make their welcome.

Luc. You ſee, my Lord, how amply you're belov'd.

Apem. Hoyday! what a ſweep of vanity comes this way!
They dance, they are mad women.
Like madneſs is the glory of this life;
As this pomp ſhews to a little oil and root.
We make ourſelves fools, to diſport ourſelves;
And ſpend our flatteries, to drink thoſe men,
Upon whoſe age we void it up again,
With poiſonous ſpite and envy——
Who lives, that's not depraved, or depraves?
Who dies, that bears not one ſpurn to their graves

(7) There taſte, touch, all, pleas'd from thy Table riſe:
They only now——] The incomparable Emendation, with which the Text is here ſupplied, I owe to my ingenious Friend Mr. Warburton. The five Senſes, as he obſerves, are talked of by Cupid, but only three of them made out; and thoſe in a very heavy, unintelligible Manner. But now you have them all, and the Poet's Senſe, compleat, viz. The five Senſes, Timon, acknowledge thee their Patron; Four of them, the Hearing, the Touch, the Taſte, and Smell, are all regaled at your Board; and theſe Ladies come with me to entertain your Sight, in preſenting the Maſque.

Of

)f their friends' gift?——
ſhould fear, thoſe, that dance before me now,
Vould one day ſtamp upon me: 'T has been done;
ſen ſhut their doors againſt the ſetting ſun.

The Lords riſe from table, with much adoring of Timon; each ſingling out an Amazon, and all dance, men with women; a lofty ſtrain or two to the hautboys, and ceaſe.

Ti. You have done our pleaſures much grace, fair ladies, ct a fair faſhion on our entertainment,
Vhich was not half ſo beautiful and kind:
ou've added worth unto't, and lively luſtre,
nd entertain'd me with mine own device.
am to thank you for it.
Luc. My Lord, you take us even at the beſt.
Apem. 'Faith, for the worſt is filthy, and would not old taking, I doubt me.
Tim. Ladies, there is an idle banquet attends you.
leaſe you to diſpoſe yourſelves.
All La. Moſt thankfully, my Lord. [Exeunt.
Tim. Flavius,——
Flav. My Lord.
Tim. The little caſket bring me hither.
Flav. Yes, my Lord. More jewels yet? there is no
roſſing him in's humour,
lſe I ſhould tell him—well—i'faith, I ſhould,
Vhen all's ſpent, he'd be croſs'd then if he could: (8)
Tis pity, bounty has not eyes behind;

(8) —he'd be croſs'd then if he could:] The Poet does not mean ere, that he would be croſs'd, or thwarted in Humour; but that e would have his Hand croſs'd, as we ſay, with Money, if he could. e is playing on the Word, and alluding to our old Silver-penny, ſed before King Edward the firſt his Time, which had a Croſs on ie Reverſe with a Creaſe, that it might be more eaſily broke into alves and Quarters, Half-pence and Farthings. From this Penny, id other ſubſequent Pieces that bore the like Impreſs, was our ommon expreſſion derived, I have not a Croſs about me; i. e. not a iece of Money. I thought, this Note might not be unneceſſary beauſe it ſerves to explain ſerveral other Paſſages, where the Poet upon this Term.

That man might ne'er be wretched for his mind.

Lucul. Where be our men?

Serv. Here, my Lord, in readineſs.

Luc. Our horſes.

Tim. O my good friends!
I have one word to ſay to you; look, my Lord,
I muſt entreat you, honour me ſo much
As to advance this jewel, accept and wear it,
Kind my Lord!

Luc. I am ſo far already in your gifts———

All. So are we all. [Exeunt Lucius, Lucullus, &c.

Enter a Servant.

Serv. My Lord, there are certain Nobles of the Senate newly alighted, and come to viſit you.

Tim. They are fairly welcome.

Re-enter Flavius.

Flav. I beſeech your Honour, vouchſafe me a word; it does concern you near.

Tim. Near! Why then another time I'll hear thee. I pr'ythee, let's be provided to ſhew them entertainment.

Flav. I ſcarce know how.

Enter another Servant.

2 Serv. May it pleaſe your Honour, Lord Lucius, out of his free love, hath preſented to you four milk-white horſes trapt in ſilver.

Tim. I ſhall accept them fairly: let the preſents
Be worthily entertain'd.

Enter a third Servant.

How now? what news?

3 Serv. Pleaſe you, my Lord, that honourable gentleman, Lord Lucullus, entreats your company to-morrow to hunt with him, and has ſent your Honour two brace of grey-hounds.

Tim. I'll hunt with him; and let them be received, not without fair reward.

Flav. What will this come to? he commands us to provide, le, and give great gifts, and all out of an empty

: Nor will he know his purſe, or yield me this,
ew him what a beggar his heart is,
of no power to make his wiſhes good;
romiſes fly ſo beyond his ſtate,
what he ſpeaks is all in debt; he owes for ev'ry word:
ſo kind, that he pays intereſt for't:

. You do yourſelves much wrong, you 'bate too of your own merits. Here, my Lord, a trifle

ord. With more than common thanks I will re-

ord. He has the very ſoul of bounty.

ord. Oh, I beſeech you, pardon me, my Lord,

my friend's affection with my own; I'll tell
ue. I'll call on you.

Lords. O, none ſo welcome.

. I take all, and your ſeveral viſitations id to heart, 'tis not enough to give;
nks, I could deal kingdoms to my friends,
e'er be weary. Alcibiades,

a pitcht field.

I defy land, my Lord.

ord. We are ſo virtuouſly bound———

rd. So infinitely endear'd——

Tim. All to you. Lights! more lights, more lights.

3 Lord. The beſt of happineſs, honour and fortunes Keep with you, Lord Timon.——

Tim. Ready for his friends. [Exeunt Lords.

Apem. What a coil's here,
Serving of becks and jutting out of bums!
I doubt, whether their legs be worth the ſums
That are giv'n for 'em. Friendſhip's full of dregs;
Methinks, falſe hearts ſhould never have ſound legs.
Thus honeſt fools lay out their wealth on court'ſies.

Tim. Now, Apemantus, if thou wert not ſullen,
I would be good to thee.

Apem. No, I'll nothing; for if I ſhould be brib'd too, there would be none left to rail upon thee, and then thou wouldſt ſin the faſter. Thou giv'ſt ſo long, Timon, (9) I fear me, thou wilt give away thyſelf in proper ſhortly. What need theſe feaſts, pomps, and vain-glories?

Tim. Nay, if you begin to rail on ſociety once, I am ſworn not to give regard to you. Farewel, and come with better muſick.

Apem. So——thou wilt not hear me now, thou ſhalt not then.
I'll lock thy heaven from thee:
Oh, that men's ears ſhould be
To counſel deaf, but not to flattery! [Exit.

(9) I fear me, thou wilt give away thyſelf in paper ſhortly.] i. e. be ruined by his Securities entered into. But this Senſe, as Mr. Warburton obſerves, is cold; and reliſhes very little of that Salt which is in Apemantus's other Reflections. He propoſes, ——give away thyſelf in proper ſhortly.

i. e. in Perſon; thy proper Self. This latter is an Expreſſion of our Author's in the Tempeſt;

And ev'n with ſuch like Valour Men hang and drown
Their proper ſelves.

ACT II.

Enter a Senator.

SENATOR.

Enter Caphis.

Cap. Here, Sir, what is your pleaſure?

Sen. Get on your cloak, and haſte you to Lord Timon;
Importune him for monies, be not ceas'd
With ſlight denial; nor then ſilenc'd with
"Commend me to your maſter"—and the cap
Plays in the right hand, thus:—but tell him, ſirrah,
My uſes cry to me, I muſt ſerve my turn
Out of mine own; his days and times are paſt,
And my reliance on his fracted dates
Has ſmit my credit. I love and honour him;
But muſt not break my back, to heal his finger.
Immediate are my needs, and my relief
Muſt not be toſt and turn'd to me in words,
But find ſupply immediate. Get you gone.
Put on a moſt importunate aſpect,
A viſage of demand: for I do fear,
When every feather ſticks in his own wing,
Lord Timon will be left a naked gull,
Who flaſhes now a Phœnix—Get you gone.

Cap. I go, Sir.

Sen. I go, Sir?—Take the bonds along with you, (11)
And have the dates in compt.

Cap. I will, Sir.

Sen. Go. [Exeunt.

(11) ——take the Bonds along with you,
And have the Dates in. Come.] The Abſurdity of this Paſſage is ſo glaring, that one cannot help wondering, None of our Poet's Editors ſhould have been ſagacious enough to ſtumble at it. Certainly, ever ſince Bonds were given, the Date was put in when the Bond was entered into: And theſe Bonds Timon had already given, and the Time limited for their Payment was lapſed. The Senator's Charge to his Servant muſt be to the Tenour as I have amended the Text; viz. Take good Notice of the Dates, for the better Computation of the Intereſt due upon them.

SCENE

SCENE changes to Timon's Hall.

Enter Flavius, with many bills in his hand.

Flav. NO care, no ſtop? ſo ſenſeleſs of expence,
That he will neither know how to maintain it,
Nor ceaſe his flow of riot? Takes no account
How things go from him, and reſumes no care
Of what is to continue: never mind
Was to be ſo unwiſe, to be ſo kind.
What ſhall be done?—he will not hear, 'till feel:
I muſt be round with him, now he comes from hunting.
Fy, fy, fy, fy.

Enter Caphis, Iſidore, and Varro.

Cap. Good-evening, Varro; what, you come for money?
Var. Is't not your buſineſs too?
Cap. It is; and your's too, Iſidore?
Iſid. It is ſo.
Cap. 'Would we were all diſcharg'd!
Var. I fear it.
Cap. Here comes the Lord.

Enter Timon, and his train.

Tim. So ſoon as dinner's done, we'll forth again.
My Alcibiades,——Well, what's your will?
[They preſent their bills.
Cap. My Lord, here is a note of certain dues.
Tim. Dues? whence are you?
Cap. Of Athens here, my Lord.
Tim. Go to my Steward.
Cap. Pleaſe it your Lordſhip, he hath put me off
To the ſucceſſion of new days, this month:
My maſter is awak'd by great occaſion,
To call upon his own; and humbly prays you,
That with your other noble parts you'll ſuit,
In giving him his right.
Tim. Mine honeſt friend,
I pr'ythee, but repair to me next morning.

Cap. Nay, good my Lord——

Tim. Contain thyſelf, good friend.

Var. One Varro's ſervant, my good Lord——

Iſid. From Iſidore, he prays your ſpeedy payment—

Cap. If you did know, my Lord, my maſter's wants—

Var. 'Twas due on forfeiture, my Lord, ſix weeks and paſt.——

Iſid. Your Steward puts me off, my Lord, and I Am ſent expreſsly to your Lordſhip.

Tim. Give me breath!—
I do beſeech you, good my Lords, keep on, [Exe. Lords.
I'll wait upon you inſtantly.——Come hither;
How goes the world, that I am thus encountred
With clam'rous claims of debt, of broken bonds,
And the detention of long-ſince-due debts,
Againſt my honour?

Flav. Pleaſe you, gentlemen,
The time is unagreeable to this buſineſs;
Your importunity ceaſe, 'till after dinner;
That I may make his Lordſhip underſtand
Wherefore you are not paid.

Tim. Do ſo, my friends.; ſee them well entertain'd.
[Exit Timon.

Flav. Pray, draw near. [Exit Flavius.

Enter Apemantus, and Fool.

Cap. Stay, ſtay, here comes the Fool with Apemantus, let's have ſome ſport with 'em.

Var. Hang him, he'll abuſe us.

Iſid. A plague upon him, dog!

Var. How doſt, fool?

Apem. Doſt dialogue with thy ſhadow?

Var. I ſpeak not to thee.

Apem. No, 'tis to thyſelf. Come away.

Iſid. There's the fool hangs on your back already.

Apem. No, thou ſtandſt ſingle, thou art not on him yet.

Cap. Where's the fool now?

Apem. He laſt aſk'd the queſtion. Poor rogues', and uſurers' men! bawds between gold and want!

All. What are we, Apemantus?

Apem.

Apem. Aſſes.

All. Why?

Apem. That you aſk me what you are, and do not know yourſelves. Speak to 'em, fool.

Fool. How do you, gentlemen?

All. Gramercies, good Fool, how does your miſtreſs?

Fool. She's e'en ſetting on water to ſcald ſuch chickens as you are. 'Would, we could ſee you at Corinth.

Apem. Good! gramercy!

Enter Page.

Fool. Look you, here comes my miſtreſſes's page.

Page. Why, how now, captain? what do you in this wiſe company? how doſt thou, Apemantus?

Apem. 'Would I had a rod in my mouth, that I might anſwer thee profitably.

Page. Pr'ythee, Apemantus, read me the ſuperſcription of theſe letters; I know not which is which.

Apem. Can'ſt not read?

Page. No.

Apem. There will little learning die then, that day thou art hang'd. This is to Lord Timon, this to Alcibiades. Go, thou waſt born a baſtard, and thou'lt die a bawd.

Page. Thou waſt whelpt a dog, and thou ſhalt famiſh, a dog's death. Anſwer not, I am gone. [Exit.

Apem. E'en ſo thou out-run'ſt grace.
Fool, I will go with you to Lord Timon's.

Fool. Will you leave me there?

Apem. If Timon ſtay at home——
You three ſerve three uſurers?

All. I would, they ſerv'd us.

Apem. So would I——as good a trick as ever hangman ſerv'd thief.

Fool. Are you three uſurers' men?

All. Ay, fool.

Fool. I think, no uſurer but has a fool to his ſervant. My miſtreſs is one, and I am her fool; when men come to borrow of your maſters, they approach ſadly, and go away merrily: but they enter my miſtreſs's houſe merrily, and go away ſadly. The reaſon of this?

Var.

Var. I could render one.

Apem. Do it then, that we may account thee a whore-maſter, and a knave; which notwithſtanding, thou ſhalt be no leſs eſteem'd.

Var. What is a whore-maſter, fool?

Fool. A fool in good clothes, and ſomething like thee. 'Tis a ſpirit; ſometimes it appears like a Lord, ſometimes like a lawyer, ſometimes like a philoſopher, with two ſtones more than's artificial one. He is very often like a knight; and generally, in all ſhapes that man goes up and down in, from fourſcore to thirteen, this ſpirit walks in.

Var. Thou art not altogether a fool.

Fool. Nor thou altogether a wiſe man; as much foolery as I have, ſo much wit thou lack'ſt.

Apem. That anſwer might have become Apemantus.

All. Aſide, aſide, here comes Lord Timon.

Enter Timon and Flavius.

Apem. Come with me, fool, come.

Fool. I do not always follow lover, elder brother and woman; ſometime, the philoſopher.

Flav. Pray you, walk near, I'll ſpeak with you anon.

[Exeunt Creditors, Apemantus and Fool.

Tim. You make me marvel; wherefore, ere this time,
Had you not fully laid my ſtate before me?
That I might ſo have rated my expence,
As I had leave of means.

Flav. You would not hear me;
At many leiſures I propos'd.

Tim. Go to:
Perchance, ſome ſingle vantages you took,
When my indiſpoſition put you back:
And that unaptneſs made you miniſter
Thus to excuſe yourſelf.

Flav. O my good Lord!
At many times I brought in my accounts,
Laid them before you; you would throw them off,
And ſay, you found them in mine honeſty.
When, for ſome trifling preſent, you have bid me

Return

Return ſo much, I've ſhook my head, and wept;
Yea, 'gainſt th' authority of manners, pray'd you
To hold your hand more cloſe. I did endure
Not ſeldom, nor no ſlight checks; when I have Prompted you in the ebb of your eſtate,
And your great flow of debts. My dear-lov'd Lord,
Though you hear now too late, yet now's a time;
The greateſt of your having lacks a half
To pay your preſent debts.

Tim. Let all my land be ſold.

Flav. 'Tis all engag'd, ſome forfeited and gone:
And what remains will hardly ſtop the mouth
Of preſent dues; the future comes apace:
What ſhall defend the interim, and at length
How goes our reck'ning?

Tim. To Lacedæmon did my land extend.

Flav. O my good Lord, the world is but a world;
Were it all yours, to give it in a breath,
How quickly were it gone!

Tim. You tell me true.

Flav. If you ſuſpect my huſbandry, or falſhood,
Call me before th' exacteſt auditors,
And ſet me on the proof. So the Gods bleſs me,
When all our offices have been oppreſt
With riotous feeders; when our vaults have wept
With drunken ſpilth of wine; when every room
Hath blaz'd with lights, and bray'd with minſtrelſy;
I have retir'd me to a waſteful cock,
And ſet mine eyes at flow.

Tim. Pr'ythee, no more.

Flav. Heav'ns! have I ſaid, the bounty of this Lord!
How many prodigal bits have ſlaves and peaſants
This night-englutted! who now is not Timon's?
What heart, head, ſword, force, means, but is Lord Timon's?
Great Timon, noble, worthy, royal Timon's?
Ah! when the means are gone, that buy this praiſe,
The breath is gone whereof this praiſe is made:
Feaſt-won, faſt-loſt; one cloud of winter ſhow'rs,
Theſe flies are coucht.

Tim. Come, ſermon me no further.
No villainous bounty yet hath paſt my heart;
Unwiſely, not ignobly, have I giv'n.
Why doſt thou weep? canſt thou the conſcience lack,
To think I ſhall lack friends? ſecure thy heart;
If I would broach the veſſels of my love,
And try the arguments of hearts by borrowing,
Men and men's fortunes could I frankly uſe,
As I can bid thee ſpeak.

Flav. Aſſurance bleſs your thoughts!

Tim. And in ſome ſort theſe wants of mine are crown'd,
That I account them bleſſings; for by theſe
Shall I try friends. You ſhall perceive how you
Miſtake my fortunes: in my friends I'm wealthy.
Within there, Ho! Flaminius, Servilius!

Enter Flaminius, Servilius, and other ſervants.

Serv. My Lord, my Lord.

Tim. I will diſpatch you ſev'rally.
You to Lord Lucius—to Lord Lucullus you, I hunted with his honour to-day—you to Sempronius—commend me to their loves; and I am proud, ſay, that my occaſions have found time to uſe 'em toward a ſupply of money; let the requeſt be fifty talents

Flam. As you have ſaid, my Lord.

Flav. Lord Lucius and Lucullus? hum—

Tim. Go, you, Sir, to the Senators; [To Flavius.
Of whom, even to the State's beſt health, I have Deſerv'd this hearing; bid 'em ſend o'th' inſtant
A thouſand talents to me.

Flav. I've been bold,
(For that I knew it the moſt gen'ral way)
To them to uſe your ſignet and your name;
But they do ſhake their heads, and I am here
No richer in return.

Tim. Is't true? can't be?

Flav. They anſwer in a joint and corporate voice,
That now they are at fall, want treaſure, cannot Do what they would; are ſorry—You are honourable—
But yet they could have wiſh't—they know not—Something

Something hath been amiſs—a noble nature
May catch a wrench—'would all were well—'tis pity—
And ſo intending other ſerious matters,
After diſtaſteful looks, and theſe hard fractions,
With certain half-caps, and cold-moving nods, (12)
They froze me into ſilence.

Tim. You Gods reward them!
I pr'ythee, man, look cheerly. Theſe old fellows
Have their ingratitude in them hereditary:
Their blood is cak'd, 'tis cold, it ſeldom flows,
'Tis lack of kindly warmth, they are not kind;
And, nature as it grows again tow'rd earth,
Is faſhion'd for the journey, dull and heavy.
Go to Ventidius——pr'ythee, be not ſad,
Thou'rt true, and juſt; ingenuouſly I ſpeak,
No blame belongs to thee; Ventidius lately
Bury'd his father, by whoſe death he's ſtepp'd
Into a great eſtate; when he was poor,
Impriſon'd, and in ſcarcity of friends,
I clear'd him with five talents. Greet him from me;
Bid him ſuppoſe, ſome good neceſſity
Touches his friend, which craves to be remember'd
With thoſe five talents. That had, give't theſe fellows
To whom 'tis inſtant due. Ne'er ſpeak, or think,
That Timon's fortunes 'mong his friends can ſink.

Ste. 'Would, I could not: that thought is bounty's foe;
Being free itſelf, it thinks all others ſo. [Exeunt.

(12) Cold moving Nods.] All the Editions exhibit theſe as two diſtinct Adjectives, to the Prejudice of the Author's Meaning: but they muſt be joined by an Hyphen, and make a Compound Adjective out of a Subſtantive and a Participle, and then we have the true Senſe of the Place; Cold-moving, Cold-provoking Nods ſo diſcouraging, that they chilled the very Ardour of our petition, and froze us into ſilence.

ACT

ACT III.

SCENE, Lucullus's Houſe in Athens.

Flaminius waiting, Enter a ſervant to him.

SERVANT.

I Have told my Lord of you; he is coming down to you.

Flam. I thank you, Sir.

Enter Lucullus.

Serv. Here's my Lord.

Lucul. One of Lord Timon's men; a gift, I warrant—Why, this hits right: I dreamt of a ſilver baſon and ewre to-night. Flaminius, honeſt Flaminius, you are very reſpectively welcome, Sir; fill me ſome wine. And how does that honourable, complete, free-hearted Gentleman of Athens, thy very bountiful good Lord and maſter?

Flam. His health is well, Sir.

Lucul. I am right glad that his health is well, Sir; and what haſt thou there under thy cloak, pretty Flaminius?

Flam. 'Faith, nothing but an empty box, Sir, which, in my Lord's behalf, I come to entreat your Honour to ſupply; who, having great and inſtant occaſion to uſe fifty talents hath ſent to your Lordſhip to furniſh him, nothing doubting your preſent aſſiſtance therein.

Lucul. La, la, la, la,—Nothing doubting, ſays he? alas, good Lord, a noble gentleman 'tis, if he would not keep ſo good a houſe. Many a time and often I ha' din'd with him, and told him on't; and come again to ſupper to him, on purpoſe to have him ſpend leſs. And yet he would embrace no counſel, take no warning by my coming; every man hath his fault, and honeſty is his. I ha' told him on't, but I could never get him from't.

Enter

Enter a ſervant, with wine.

Serv. Pleaſe your Lordſhip, here is the wine.

Lucul. Flaminius, I have noted thee always wiſe. Here's to thee.

Flam. Your Lordſhip ſpeaks your pleaſure.

Lucul. I have obſerv'd thee always for a towardly prompt ſpirit, give thee thy due: and one that knows what belongs to reaſon; and canſt uſe the time well, if the time uſe thee well. Good parts in thee.—Get you gone, firrah. [To the ſervant, who goes out.]—Draw nearer honeſt Flaminius; thy Lord's a bountiful gentleman, but thou art wiſe, and thou knoweſt well enough (altho' thou comeſt to me) that this is no time to lend money, eſpecially upon bare friendſhip without ſecurity. Here's three Solidares for thee; good boy, wink at me, and ſay, thou ſaw'ſt me not. Fare thee well.

Flam. Is't poſſible the world ſhould ſo much differ,
And we alive that liv'd? fly, damned baſeneſs,
To him that worſhips thee. [Throwing the money away.

Lucul. Ha! now I ſee thou art a fool, and fit for thy maſter. [Exit Lucullus.

Flam. May theſe add to the number that may ſcald thee:
Let molten coin be thy damnation,
Thou diſeaſe of a friend, and not himſelf?
Has friendſhip ſuch a faint and milky heart,
It turns in leſs than two nights? O you gods:
I feel my maſter's paſſion. This ſlave
Unto this hour has my Lord's meat in him:
Why ſhould it thrive, and turn to nutriment,
When he is turn'd to poiſon?
O! may diſeaſes only work upon't:
And when he's ſick to death, let not that part
Of nature, my Lord paid for, be of power
To expel ſickneſs, but prolong his hour! [Exit.

SCENE,

SCENE, a publick Street.

Enter Lucius, with three Strangers.

Luc. WHO, the Lord Timon? he is my very good friend, and an honourable gentleman.

1 Stran. We know him for no leſs, tho' we are but ſtrangers to him. But I can tell you one thing, my Lord, and which I hear from common rumours, now Lord Timon's happy hours are done and paſt, and his eſtate ſhrinks from him.

Luc. Fy, no, do not believe it: he cannot want for money.

2 Stran. But believe you this, my Lord, that not long ago one of his men was with the Lord Lucullus, to borrow fifty talents, nay, urg'd extremely for't, and ſhewed what neceſſity belong'd to't, and yet was deny'd.

Luc. How?

2 Stran. I tell you, deny'd, my Lord.

Luc. What a ſtrange caſe was that? now, before the Gods, I am aſham'd on't. Deny'd that honourable man? there was very little honour ſhew'd in that. For my own part, I muſt needs confeſs, I have received ſome ſmall kindneſſes from him, as money, plate, jewels, and ſuch like trifles, nothing comparing to his; yet had he miſtook him, and ſent him to me, I ſhould ne'er have deny'd his occaſion ſo many talents.

Enter Servilius.

Ser. See, by good hap, yonder's my Lord, I have ſweat to ſee his honour.——my honour'd Lord.——

[To Lucius.

Luc. Servilius! you are kindly met, Sir. Fare thee well, commend me to thy honourable virtuous Lord, my very exquiſite friend.

Ser. May it pleaſe your Honour, my Lord hath ſent——

Luc. Ha! What hath he ſent? I am ſo much endear'd to that Lord; he's ever ſending: how ſhall I thank him, think'ſt thou? and what has he ſent now?

Ser.

Ser. H'as only ſent his preſent occaſion now, my Lord; requeſting your Lordſhip to ſupply his inſtant uſe, with fifty talents.

Luc. I know, his Lordſhip is but merry with me; He cannot want fifty five hundred talents.

Ser. But in the mean time he wants leſs, my Lord. If his occaſion were not virtuous, I ſhould not urge it half ſo faithfully.

Luc. Doſt thou ſpeak ſeriouſly, Servilius?

Ser. Upon my ſoul, 'tis true, Sir.

Luc. What a wicked beaſt was I, to diſfurniſh myſelf againſt ſuch a good time, when I might ha' ſhewn myſelf honourable? how unluckily it hap'ned, that I ſhould purchaſe the day before for a little (12) dirt, and undo a great deal of honour? Servilius, now before the gods, I am not able to do——(the more beaſt, I ſay)——I was ſending to uſe Lord Timon myſelf, theſe gentlemen can witneſs; but I would not, for the wealth of Athens, I had don't now. Commend me bountifully to his good Lordſhip, and, I hope, his Honour will conceive the faireſt of me, becauſe I have no power to be kind. And tell him this from me, I count it one of my greateſt afflictions, that I cannot pleaſure ſuch an honourable gentleman. Good Servilius, will you befriend me ſo far, as to uſe my own words to him?

Ser. Yes, Sir, I ſhall. [Exit Servilius.

Luc. I'll look ye out a good turn, Servilius——
True, as you ſaid, Timon is ſhrunk, indeed;
And he, that's once deny'd, will hardly ſpeed. [Exit.

(12) That I ſhould purchaſe the day before for a little part, and undo a great deal of Honour?] Tho' there is a ſeeming plauſible Antitheſis, in the Terms, I am very well aſſured, they are corrupt at the bottom. For a little Part of what? Honour is the only Subſtantive that follows in the Sentence; but Men don't purchaſe for Honour, tho' ſometimes they may turn Purchaſers out of Oſtentation. How much is the Antitheſis improv'd by the Senſe which my Emendation gives? "That I ſhould be ſo unlucky to make this Purchaſe, for the "Lucre of a little Dirt, and undo a great deal of Honour!" This Manner of expreſſing contemptuouſly of Land, is very frequent with the Poets.

A Stream

1 Stran. Do you obſerve this, Hoſtilius?
2 Stran. Ay, too well.
1 Stran. Why, this is the world's ſoul;
Of the ſame piece is every flatterer's ſpirit: (13)
Who can call him his friend,
That dips in the ſame diſh; for, in my knowing,
Timon has been to this Lord as a father,
And kept his credit with his bounteous purſe:
Supported his eſtate; nay, Timon's money
Has paid his men their wages. He ne'er drinks,
But Timon's Silver treads upon his lip;
And yet, oh, ſee the monſtrouſneſs of man,
When he looks out in an ungrateful ſhape!
He does deny him (in reſpect of his)
What charitable men afford to beggars.
3 Stran. Religion groans at it.
1 Stran. For mine own part,
I never taſted Timon in my life;
Nor any of his bounties came o'er me,
To mark me for his friend. Yet, I proteſt,
For his right noble mind, illuſtrious virtue,
And honourable carriage,
Had his neceſſity made uſe of me,
I would have put my wealth into donation,
And the beſt half ſhould have return'd to him,
So much I love his heart; but, I perceive,
Men muſt learn now with pity to diſpenſe,
For policy ſits above conſcience. [Exeunt.

Enter a third Servant with Sempronius.

Sem. Muſt he needs trouble me in't? above all others?—
He might have tried lord Lucius, or Lucullus,
And now Ventidius is wealthy too,
Whom he redeem'd from priſon: All theſe three Owe their eſtates unto him.
Serv. Oh, my Lord,
They've all been touch'd, and all are found baſe metal;

(13) Is every Flatterer's Sport.] This Senſeleſs Corruption has run through all the Editions; and, as I ſuppoſe, without Suſpicion.

For

For they have all deny'd him.
Sem. How? deny'd him?
Ventidius and Lucullus both deny'd him?
And does he ſend to me? three! hum———
It ſhews but little love or judgment in him.
Muſt I be his laſt refuge? his friends, like phyſicians,(14)
Thriv'd, give him over? muſt I take the cure
On me? h'as much diſgrac'd me in't; I'm angry.
He might have known my Place; I ſee no ſenſe for't,
But his occaſions might have wooed me firſt:
For, in my conſcience, I was the firſt man
That e'er receiv'd gift from him.
And does he think ſo backwardly of me,
That I'll requite it laſt? no:
So it may prove an argument of laughter
To th' reſt, and 'mongſt Lords I be thought a fool:
I'd rather than the worth of thrice the ſum,
H'ad ſent to me firſt, but for my mind's ſake:
I'd ſuch a courage to have done him good.
But now return,
And with their faint Reply this Anſwer join;
Who 'bates mine honour, ſhall not know my coin. [Exit.

Serv. Excellent! your Lordſhip's a goodly villain. The devil knew not what he did, when he made man politick; he croſs'd himſelf by't; and I cannot think, but in the end the villainies of man will ſet him clear. How fairly this Lord ſtrives to appear foul? takes virtuous copies to be wicked: like thoſe that under hot, ardent, zeal would ſet whole Realms on fire. Of ſuch a nature is his politick love.
This was my Lord's beſt hope; now all are fled,
Save the Gods only. Now his friends are dead;

(14) ——— ——— his Friends like Phyſicians
Thriv'd, give him over?] I have reſtor'd this old Reading, only amended the Pointing which was faulty. Mr. Pope, ſuſpecting the Phraſe, has Subſtituted Three in the room of thriv'd, and ſo diſarm'd the Poet's Satire. Phyſicians thriv'd is no more than Phyſicians grown rich: Only the Adjective Paſſive of this Verb, indeed, is not ſo common in Uſe; and yet is it a familiar Expreſſion, to this day, to ſay, Such a one is well thriven on his Trade.

Doſ

Doors, that were ne'er acquainted with their wards
Many a bounteous year, muſt be employ'd
Now to guard ſure their maſter.
And this is all a liberal courſe allows;
Who cannot keep his wealth, muſt keep his houſe. [Exit.

SCENE changes to Timon's Hall.

Enter Varro, Titus, Hortenſius, Lucius, and other ſervants of Timon's creditors, who wait for his coming out.

Var. WEll met, good-morrow, Titus and Hortenſius.
Tit. The like to you, kind Varro.
Hor. Lucius, why do we meet together?
Luc. I think, one buſineſs does command us all. For mine is money.
Tit. So is theirs, and ours.

Enter Philo.

Luc. And Sir Philo's too.
Phi. Good day, at once.
Luc. Welcome, good brother. What d'you think the hour?
Phi. Labouring for nine.
Luc. So much?
Phi. Is not my Lord ſeen yet?
Luc. Not yet.
Phi. I wonder: he was wont to ſhine at ſeven.
Luc. Ay, but the days are waxed ſhorter with him: You muſt conſider that a Prodigal's courſe
Is like the ſun's, but not like his recoverable, I fear:
'Tis deepeſt winter in Lord Timon's purſe;
That is, one may reach deep enough, and yet
Find little.
Phi. I am of your fear for that.
Tit. I'll ſhew you how t' obſerve a ſtrange event: Your Lord ſends now for money.
Hor. True, he does.
Tit. And he wears jewels now of Timon's gift, For which I wait for money.
Hor. Againſt my heart.

Luc.

Luc. How ſtrange it ſhows,
Timon in this ſhould pay more than he owes!
And e'en as if your Lord ſhould wear rich jewels,
And ſend for money for 'em.

Hor. I'm weary of this charge, the Gods can witneſs:
I know, my Lord hath ſpent of Timon's wealth;
Ingratitude now makes it worſe than ſtealth.

Var. Yes, mine's three thouſand crowns: what's yours?

Luc. Five thouſand.

Var. 'Tis too much deep, and it ſhould ſeem by th' ſum,
Your maſter's confidence was above mine;
Elſe, ſurely, his had equall'd.

Enter Flaminius.

Tit. One of Lord Timon's men.

Luc. Flaminius! Sir, a word: pray, is my Lord
Ready to come forth?

Flam. No, indeed, he is not.

Tit. We attend his Lordſhip; pray, ſignify ſo much.

Flam. I need not tell him that, he knows you are too diligent.

Enter Flavius in a cloak, muffled.

Luc. Ha! is not that his Steward muffled ſo?
He goes away in a cloud: call him, call him.

Tit. Do you hear, Sir——

Var. By your leave, Sir.

Flav. What do you aſk of me, my friend?

Tit. We wait for certain money here, Sir.

Flav. If money were as certain as your waiting,
'Twere ſure enough.
Why then preferr'd you not your ſums and bills,
When your falſe maſters eat of my Lord's meat?
Then they would ſmile and fawn upon his debts,
And take down th' intereſt in their glutt'nous maws;
You do yourſelves but wrong to ſtir me up,
Let me paſs quietly:——
Believ't, my Lord and I have made an end;
I have no more to reckon, he to ſpend.

Luc. Ay, but this anſwer will not ſerve.

Flav.

Flav. If 'twill not ſerve, 'tis not ſo baſe as you; For you ſerve knaves. [Exit.

Var. How! what does his caſhier'd worſhip mutter?

Tit. No matter, what—he's poor, and that's revenge enough. Who can ſpeak broader than he that has no houſe to put his head in? ſuch may rail againſt great buildings.

Enter Servilius.

Tit. Oh, here's Servilius; now we ſhall have ſome anſwer.

Ser. If I might beſeech you gentlemen, to repair ſome other hour, I ſhould derive much from it. For take it of my ſoul,
My Lord leans wond'rouſly to diſcontent:
His comfortable temper has forſook him,
He is much out of health, and keeps his chamber.

Luc. Many do keep their chambers, are not ſick:
And if he be ſo far beyond his health,
Methinks, he ſhould the ſooner pay his debts,
And make a clear way to the Gods.

Ser. Good Gods!

Tit. We cannot take this for an anſwer.

Flam. [within.] Servilius, help—my Lord! my Lord.

Enter Timon, in a rage.

Tim. What, are my doors oppos'd againſt my paſſage?
Have I been ever free, and muſt my houſe
Be my retentive enemy, my goal?
The place, which I have feaſted, does it now,
Like all mankind, ſhew me an iron-heart?

Luc. Put in now, Titus.

Tit. My Lord, here's my bill.

Luc. Here's mine.

Var. And mine, my Lord.

Cap. And ours, my Lord.

Phi. And our bills.

Tim. Knock me down with 'em——cleave me to the girdle.

Luc. Alas! my Lord.

Tim. Cut out my heart in ſums.

Tit.

Tit. Mine, fifty talents.
Tim. Tell out my blood.
Luc. Five thouſand crowns, my Lord.
Tim. Five thouſand drops pay that.
What yours——and yours?
Var. My Lord——
Cap. My Lord——
Tim. Here tear me, take me, and the Gods fall on you. [Exit.

Hor. 'Faith, I perceive, our maſters may throw their caps at their money; theſe debts may be well call'd deſperate ones, for a mad man owes 'em. [Exeunt.

Re-enter Timon and Flavius.

Tim. They have e'en put my breath from me, the ſlaves. Creditors!——devils.
Flav. My dear Lord,—
Tim. What if it ſhould be ſo?——
Flav. My dear Lord,—
Tim. I'll have it ſo——My ſteward!
Flav. Here, my Lord.
Tim. So fitly!——Go, bid all my friends again, Lucius, Lucullus, and Sempronius. All.——
I'll once more feaſt the raſcals.
Flav. O my Lord!
You only ſpeak from your diſtracted ſoul;
There's not ſo much left as to furniſh out
A moderate table.
Tim. Be it not thy care:
Go, and invite them all, let in the tide
Of knaves once more: my cook and I'll provide. [Exe.

SCENE changes to the Senate-houſe.

Senators, and Alcibiades.

1 Sen. MY Lord, you have my voice to't, the fault's bloody;
'Tis neceſſary he ſhould die:
Nothing emboldens ſin ſo much as mercy.

2 Sen. Moſt true; the law ſhall bruiſe 'em.

Alc. Health, honour, and compaſſion to the ſenate!

1 Sen. Now, captain.

Alc. I am an humble ſuitor to your virtues:
For pity is the virtue of the law,
And none but tyrants uſe it cruelly.
It pleaſes time and fortune to lie heavy
Upon a friend of mine, who in hot blood
Hath ſtept into the law, which is paſt depth
To thoſe that without heed do plunge into't.
He is a man, ſetting his fault aſide,
Of virtuous honour, which buys out his fault;
Nor did he ſoil the fact with cowardiſe,
But with a noble fury, and fair ſpirit,
Seeing his reputation touch'd to death,
He did oppoſe his foe:
And with ſuch ſober and unnoted paſſion
He did behave his anger ere 'twas ſpent,
As if he had but prov'd an argument.

1 Sen. You undergo too ſtrict a paradox,
Striving to make an ugly deed look fair:
Your words have took ſuch pains, as if they labour'd
To bring Man-ſlaughter into form, ſet quarrelling
Upon the head of valour; which, indeed,
Is valour miſ-begot, and came into the world
When ſects and factions were but newly born.
He's truly valiant, that can wiſely ſuffer
The worſt that man can breathe, and make his wrong
His out-ſides; wear them like his rayment, carelefly;
And ne'er prefer his injuries to his heart,
To bring it into danger.
If wrongs be evils, and inforce us kill,
What folly 'tis to hazard life for ill?

Alc. My Lord,———

1 Sen. You cannot make groſs ſins look clear;
It is not valour to revenge, but bear.

Alc. My Lords, then, under favour, pardon me,
If I ſpeak like a captain.
Why do fond men expoſe themſelves to battle,
And not endure all threatnings, ſleep upon't,

nd let the foes quietly cut their throats,
'ithout repugnancy? but if there be ich valour in the bearing, what make we broad? why then, ſure, women are more valiant, hat ſtay at home, if bearing carry it;
he aſs, more than the lion; and the fellow,
oaden with irons, wiſer than the judge;
wiſdom be in ſuff'ring. Oh, my Lords,
s you are great, be pitifully good:
'ho cannot condemn raſhneſs in cold blood?
o kill, I grant, is ſin's extreameſt guſt,
it, in defence,——by mercy, 'tis moſt juſt.
o be in anger is impiety:
it who is man, that is not angry?
'eigh but the crime with this.
2 Sen. You breathe in vain.
Alc. In vain? his ſervice done
t Lacedæmon, and Byzantium,
'ere a ſufficient briber for his life.
1 Sen. What's that?
Alc. I ſay, my Lords, h'as done fair ſervice, nd ſlain in battle many of your enemies;
ow full of valour did he bear himſelf
the laſt conflict, and made plenteous wounds?
2 Sen. He has made too much plenty with 'em, e's a ſworn rioter; he has a ſin hat often drowns him, and takes valour priſoner.
'ere there no foes, that were enough alone
o overcome him. In that beaſtly fury
e has been known to commit outrages, nd cheriſh factions. 'Tis inferr'd to us,
is days are foul, and his drink dangerous.
1 Sen. He dies.
Alc. Hard fate! he might have died in war.
y Lords, if not for any parts in him,
'hough his right arm might purchaſe his own time, nd be in debt to none;) yet more to move you,
ake my deſerts to his, and join 'em both.
nd for I know, your reverend ages love
urſky, I'll pawn my victories,

My honours to you, on his good returns.
If by this crime he owes the law his life,
Why, let the war receive 't in valiant gore;
For law is ſtrict, and war is nothing more.

1 Sen. We are for law, he dies, urge it no more,
On height of our diſpleaſure: friend, or brother,
He forfeits his own blood, that ſpills another.

Alc. Muſt it be ſo? it muſt not be:
My Lords, I do beſeech you, know me.

2 Sen. How?

Alc. Call me to your remembrances.

3 Sen. What!——

Alc. I cannot think, but your age hath forgot me;
It could not elſe be, I ſhould prove ſo baſe,
To ſue, and be deny'd ſuch common grace.
My wounds ake at you.

1 Sen. Do you dare our anger?
'Tis in few words, but ſpacious in effect:
We baniſh thee for ever.

Alc. Baniſh me!
Baniſh your dotage, baniſh uſury,
That make the ſenate ugly.

1 Sen. If, after two day's ſhine, Athens contains thee,
Attend our weightier judgment.
And, (not to ſwell our ſpirit,)
He ſhall be executed preſently. [Exeunt.

Alc. Gods keep you old enough, that you may live
Only in bone, that none may look on you!
I'm worſe than mad: I have kept back their foes,
While they have told their money, and let out
Their coin upon large intereſt; I myſelf,
Rich only in large hurts.——All thoſe, for this?
Is this the balſam that the uſuring ſenate
Pours into captains wounds? ha! baniſhment?
It comes not ill: I hate not to be baniſht,
It is a cauſe worthy my ſpleen and fury,
That I may ſtrike at Athens. I'll cheer up
My diſcontented troops, and lay for hearts.
'Tis honour with moſt lands to be at odds;
Soldiers as little ſhould brook wrongs, as Gods. [Exit.

SCENE

SCENE changes to TIMON's Houſe.

Enter divers Senators, at ſeveral doors.

1 Sen. THE good time of the day to you, Sir.

2 Sen. I alſo wiſh it to you: I think, this honourable Lord did but try us this other day.

1 Sen. Upon that were my thoughts tiring, when we encountred. I hope, it is not ſo low with him, as he made it ſeem in the trial of his ſeveral friends.

2 Sen. It ſhould not be, by the perſuaſion of his new feaſting.

1 Sen. I ſhould think ſo: he hath ſent me an earneſt inviting, which many my near occaſions did urge me to put off: but he hath conjur'd me beyond them, and I muſt needs appear.

2 Sen. In like manner was I in debt to my importunate buſineſs; but he would not hear my excuſe. I am ſorry, when he ſent to borrow of me, that my proviſion was out.

1 Sen. I am ſick of that grief too, as I underſtand how all things go.

2 Sen. Every man's here ſo. What would he have borrow'd of you?

1 Sen. A thouſand pieces.

2 Sen. A thouſand pieces!

1 Sen. What of you?

3 Sen. He ſent to me, Sir——here he comes.

Enter Timon and Attendants.

Tim. With all my heart, gentlemen both —— and how fare you?

1 Sen. Ever at the beſt, hearing well of your Lordſhip.

2 Sen. The ſwallow follows not ſummer more willingly, than we your Lordſhip.

Tim. Nor more willingly leaves winter: ſuch ſummer-birds are men——Gentlemen, our dinner will not recompence this long ſtay: feaſt your ears with the muſick a while; if they will fare ſo harſhly as on the trumpet's ſound; we ſhall to't preſently.

1 Sen. I hope, it remains not unkindly with your Lordſhip, that I return'd you an empty meſſenger.

Tim. O Sir, let it not trouble you.

2 Sen. My noble Lord.

Tim. Ah, my good friend, what cheer?

[The banquet brought in.

2 Sen. Moſt honourable Lord, I'm e'en ſick of ſhame, that when your lordſhip t'other day ſent to me, I was ſo unfortunate a beggar.

Tim. Think not on't, Sir.

2 Sen. If you had ſent but two hours before ——

Tim. Let it not cumber your better remembrance. Come, bring in all together.

2 Sen. All cover'd diſhes!

3 Sen. Royal cheer, I warrant you.

3 Sen. Doubt not that, if money and the ſeaſon can yield it.

1 Sen. How do you? what's the news?

3 Sen. Alcibiades is baniſh'd: hear you of it?

Both. Alcibiades baniſh'd!

3 Sen. 'Tis ſo, be ſure of it.

1 Sen. How? how?

2 Sen. I pray you, upon what?

Tim. My worthy friends, will you draw near?

3 Se. I'll tell ye more anon. Here's a noble feaſt toward.

2 Sen. This is the old man ſtill.

3 Sen. Will't hold? will't hold?

2 Sen. It does, but time will, and ſo ——

3 Sen. I do conceive.

Tim. Each man to his ſtool, with that ſpur as he would to the lip of his miſtreſs: your diet ſhall be in all places alike. Make not a city-feaſt of it, to let the meat cool ere we can agree upon the firſt place. Sit, ſit.

The Gods require our thanks.

You great Benefactors, ſprinkle our ſociety with thankfulneſs. For your own gifts make yourſelves prais'd; but reſerve ſtill to give, leſt your Deities be deſpiſed. Lend to each man enough, that one need not lend to another. For were your Godheads to borrow of men, men would forſake the Gods. Make the meat beloved, more than the man that gives gives it. Let no assembly of twenty be without a score of villains. If there sit twelve women at the table, let a dozen of them be as they are—the rest of your fees, O Gods, the senators of Athens, together with the common lag of people, what is amiss in them, you Gods, make suitable for destruction. For these my friends———as they are to me nothing, so in nothing bless them, and to nothing are they welcome.

Uncover, dogs, and lap.

Some speak. What does his Lordship mean?

Some other. I know not.

Tim. May you a better feast never behold,
You knot of mouth-friends: smoke, and lukewarm water,
Is your perfection. This is Timon's last;
Who stuck and spangled you with flatteries,
Washes it off, and sprinkles in your faces
Your reaking villany. Live loath'd, and long,
Most smiling, smooth, detested parasites,
Courteous destroyers, affable wolves, meek bears,
You fools of fortune, trencher-friends, time-flies,
Cap-and-knee slaves, vapors, and minute-jacks; (15)
Of man and beast the infinite malady
Crust you quite o'er!——what, dost thou go?
Soft, take thy physick first——thou too—and thou—
[Throwing the dishes at them, and drives 'em out.
Stay, I will lend thee money, borrow none.
What! all in motion? henceforth be no feast,
Whereat a villain's not a welcome guest.
Burn house, sink Athens, henceforth hated be
Of Timon, man, and all humanity! [Exit.

(15 ——and minute Jacks
Of Man and Beast, the infinite Malady
Crust you quite o'er!] In what Sense could the Senators be called minute Jacks of Man and Beast? The Poet just before calls them Vapours; and certainly means to enforce that Image, by saying, they were Jacks not of a Minute's Trust, or Dependence. Then what could the infinite Malady signify, without something subjoined to give us a clearer Idea of it? As I point the Passage, it plainly means, May the whole Catalogue, the infinite Number of Distempers, that have ever invaded either Man or Beast, all be joined to plague you.

Re-enter the Senators.

1 Sen. How now, my Lords?

2 Sen. Know you the quality of Lord Timon's fury!

3 Sen. Pſha! did you ſee my cap?

4 Sen. I've loſt my gown.

1 Sen. He's but a mad Lord, and nought but humour ſways him. He gave me a jewel th' other day, and now he has beat it out of my cap. Did you ſee my jewel?

2 Sen. Did you ſee my cap?

3 Sen. Here 'tis.

4 Sen. Here lies my gown.

1 Sen. Let's make no ſtay.

2 Sen. Lord Timon's mad.

3 Sen. I feel't upon my bones.

4 Sen. One day he gives us diamonds, next day ſtones.

[Exeunt.

ACT IV.

SCENE, without the walls of Athens.

Enter TIMON.

LET me look back upon thee, O thou wall,
That girdleſt in thoſe wolves! dive in the earth,
And fence not Athens! Matrons, turn incontinent;
Obedience fail in children; ſlaves and fools
Pluck the grave wrinkled Senate from the bench,
And miniſter in their ſteads: to general filths
Convert o'th' inſtant, green Virginity!
Do't in your parents' eyes. Bankrupts, hold faſt;
Rather than render back, out with your knives, (16)

(16) ——— Bankrupts, hold faſt,
Rather than render back; out with your Knives,
And cut your Truſters' throats.] Thus has this Paſſage hitherto been moſt abſurdly pointed; even by the poetical Editors, Mr. Rowe, and Mr. Pope. I had reformed the Pointing; but am, however, to make my Acknowledgments to ſome anonymous Gentleman, who by Letter adviſed me to point it as I have done in the Text.

And

And cut your truſters' throats. Bound ſervants, ſteal!
Large-handed robbers your grave maſters are,
And pill by law. Maid, to thy maſter's bed;
Thy miſtreſs is o'th' brothel. Son of ſixteen,
Pluck the lin'd crutch from thy old limping ſire,
And with it beat his brains out! Fear and piety,
Religion to the Gods, peace, juſtice, truth,
Domeſtick awe, night-reſt, and neighbourhood,
Inſtruction, manners, myſteries and trades,
Degrees, obſervances, cuſtoms and laws,
Decline to your confounding contraries!
And yet confuſion live!—Plagues, incident to men,
Your potent and infectious fevers heap
On Athens, ripe for ſtroke! Thou cold Sciatica,
Cripple our ſenators, that their limbs may halt
As lamely as their manners. Luſt and liberty
Creep in the minds and marrows of our youth,
That 'gainſt the ſtream of virtue they may ſtrive,
And drown themſelves in riot! Itches, blains,
Sow all the Athenian boſoms, and their crop
Be general leproſy; breath infect breath,
That their ſociety (as their friendſhip) may
Be merely poiſon. Nothing I'll bear from thee,
But nakedneſs, thou deteſtable town!
Take thou that too, with multiplying banns;
Timon will to the woods, where he ſhall find
Th' unkindeſt beaſt much kinder than mankind.
The Gods confound (hear me, ye good Gods all)
Th' Athenians both within and out that wall:
And grant, as Timon grows, his hate may grow,
To the whole race of mankind, high and low! [Exit.

SCENE changes to TIMON's Houſe.

Enter Flavius, with two or three Servants.

1*S.* HEar you, good maſter ſteward, where's our maſter?
Are we undone, caſt off, nothing remaining?

Flav. Alack, my fellows, what ſhould I ſay to you?
Let me be recorded by the righteous Gods,

I am as poor as you.

1 Serv. Such a houſe broke!
So noble a maſter fall'n! all gone! and not
One friend to take his fortune by the arm,
And go along with him?

2 Serv. As we do turn our backs
From our companion, thrown into his grave,
So his familiars to his buried fortunes
Slink all away; leave their falſe vows with him,
Like empty purſes pick'd: and his poor ſelf,
A dedicated beggar to the air,
With his diſeaſe of all-ſhun'd poverty,
Walks, like contempt, alone.——More of our fell

Enter other Servants.

Flav. All broken implements of a ruin'd houſe

3 Serv. Yet do our hearts wear Timon's livery,
That ſee I by our faces; we are fellows ſtill,
Serving alike in ſorrow. Leak'd is our bark,
And we poor mates, ſtand on the dying deck,
Hearing the ſurges threat: we muſt all part
Into the ſea of air.

Flav. Good fellows all,
The lateſt of my wealth I'll ſhare amongſt you,
Where-ever we ſhall meet, for Timon's ſake,
Let's yet be fellows: ſhake our heads, and ſay,
(As 'twere a knell unto our maſter's fortunes)
We have ſeen better days. Let each take ſome
Nay put out all your hands; not one word more,
Thus part we rich in ſorrow, parting poor.

[He gives them money; they embrace, and part ſeveral
Oh, the firſt wretchedneſs that glory brings us!
Who would not wiſh to be from wealth exempt,
Since riches point to miſery and contempt?
Who'd be ſo mock'd with glory, as to live
But in a dream of friendſhip?
To have his pomp, and all what ſtate compounds,
But only painted, like his varniſh'd friends!
Poor honeſt Lord! brought low by his own heart,
Undone by goodneſs: ſtrange unuſual blood,

When man's worſt is, he does too much good.
Who then dares to be half ſo kind again?
For bounty, that makes Gods, does ſtill mar men.
My deareſt Lord, bleſt to be moſt accurs'd,
Rich only to be wretched; thy great fortunes
Are made thy chief afflictions. Alas, kind Lord!
He's flung in rage from this ungrateful ſeat
Of monſtrous friends: nor has he with him to Supply his life, or that which can command it:
I'll follow and enquire him out.
I'll ever ſerve his mind with my beſt will;
Whilſt I have gold, I'll be his ſteward ſtill. [Exit.

SCENE, the Woods.

Enter Timon.

Tim. O Bleſſed, breeding ſun, draw from the earth
Rotten humidity: below thy ſiſter's orb
Infect the air. Twinn'd brothers of one womb,
Whoſe procreation, reſidence, and birth
Scarce is divident, touch with ſeveral fortunes;
The greater ſcorns the leſſer. Not ev'n nature,
To whom all ſores lay ſiege, can bear great fortune
But by contempt of nature.
Raiſe me this beggar, and denude that Lord, (17)
The ſenator ſhall bear contempt hereditary,
The beggar native honour:
It is the paſture lards the weather's ſides, (18)

The

(17) Raiſe me this Beggar, and deny't that Lord,] Where is the Senſe and Engliſh of deny't that Lord? Deny him what? What preceding Noun is there, to which the Pronoun It is to be referred? And it would be abſurd to think the Poet meant, deny to raiſe that Lord. The Antithesis muſt be, let Fortune raiſe this Beggar, and let her ſtrip, and deſpoil that Lord of all his Pomp and Ornaments, &c. which Senſe is compleated by this ſlight Alteration,

-------and denude that Lord, Mr. Warburton.

(18) It is the Paſture lards the Beggar's Sides,] This, as the Editors have ordered it, is an idle Repetition at the beſt, ſuppoſing it did indeed contain the ſame Sentiment as the foregoing Line. But

The want that makes him lean. Who dares, who dares,
In purity of manhood ſtand upright,
And ſay, this man's a flatterer? if one be,
So are they all, for every greeze of fortune
Is ſmooth'd by that below. The learned pate
Ducks to the golden fool: All is oblique;
There's nothing level in our curſed natures,
But direct villany. Then be abhorr'd,
All feaſts, ſocieties, and throngs of men!
His ſemblable, yea, himſelf, Timon diſdains.——
Deſtruction phang mankind! Earth, yield me roots!
[Digging the earth.
Who ſeeks for better of thee, ſawce his palate
With thy moſt operant poiſon!——What is here?
Gold? yellow, glittering, precious gold?
No, Gods, I am no idle votariſt.
Roots, you clear heav'ns! thus much of this will make
Black, white; fair, foul; wrong, right;
Baſe, noble: old, young; coward, valiant.
You Gods! why this? what this? you Gods! why, this
Will lug your prieſts and ſervants from your ſides:
Pluck ſtout mens' pillows from below their heads.
This yellow ſlave
Will knit and break religions; bleſs th' accurs'd;
Make the hoar leproſy ador'd; place thieves,
And give them title, knee, and approbation,
With ſenators on the bench: this is it,
That makes the wappen'd widow wed again;
She whom the ſpittle-houſe, and ulcerous ſores
Would caſt the gorge at, this embalms and ſpices
To th'April day again. Come, damned earth,

But Shakeſpeare meant a quite different Thing: and having, like a ſenſible Writer, made a ſmart Obſervation, he illuſtrates it by a Similitude thus:

It is the Paſture lards the Weather's Sides,
The Want that makes him lean.

And the Similitude is extreamly beautiful, as conveying this ſatirical Reflexion; there is no more Difference between Man and Man in the Eſteem of ſuperficial or corrupt Judgments, than between a fat Sheep and a lean one. Mr. Warburton.

Thoſe

Thou common whore of mankind, that put'ſt odds
Among the rout of nations, I will make thee
Do thy right nature.—[March afar off.] Ha, a drum?
——thou'rt quick.
But yet I'll bury thee——thou'lt go, (ſtrong thief)
When gouty keepers of thee cannot ſtand
Nay, ſtay thou out for earneſt. [Keeping ſome gold.

Enter Alcibiades with drum and fife in warlike manner, and Phrynia and Timandra.

Alc. What art thou there? ſpeak.

Tim. A beaſt, as thou art. Cankers gnaw thy heart,
For ſhewing me again the eyes of man!

Alc. What is thy name? is man ſo hateful to thee,
That art thyſelf a man?

Tim. I am Miſanthropos, and hate mankind.
For thy part, I do wiſh thou wert a dog,
That I might love thee ſomething.

Alc. I know thee well:
But in thy fortunes am unlearn'd, and ſtrange.

Tim. I know thee too, and more than that I know thee,
I not deſire to know. Follow thy drum,
With man's blood paint the ground; gules, gules;—
Religious canons, civil laws are cruel;
Then what ſhould war be? this fell whore of thine
Hath in her more deſtruction than thy ſword,
For all her cherubin look.

Phry. Thy lips rot off!

Tim. I will not kiſs thee, then the rot returns
To thine own lips again.

Alc. How came the noble Timon to this change?

Tim. As the moon does, by wanting light to give:
But then renew I could not, like the moon;
There were no ſuns to borrow of.

Alc. Noble Timon, what friendſhip may I do thee?

Tim. None, but to maintain my opinion.

Alc. What is it, Timon?

Tim. Promiſe me friendſhip, but perform none. If thou wilt not promiſe, the Gods plague thee, for thou art a man: if thou doſt perform, confound thee, for thou art a man!

Alc. I have heard in ſome ſort of thy miſeries.

Tim. Thou ſaw'ſt them when I had proſperity.

Alc. I ſee them now, then was a bleſſed time.

Tim. As thine is now, held with a brace of harlots.

Timan. Is this th' Athenian minion, whom the world Voic'd ſo regardfully?

Tim. Art thou Timandra?

Timan. Yes.

Tim. Be a whore ſtill: they love thee not, that uſe thee: Give them diſeaſes, leaving with thee their luſt: Make uſe of thy ſalt-hours, ſeaſon the ſlaves For tubs and baths, bring down the roſe-cheek'd youth To th' tub-faſt, and the diet. (19)

Timan. Hang thee, monſter!

Alc. Pardon him, ſweet Timandra, for his wits Are drown'd and loſt in his calamities. I have but little gold of late, brave Timon, The want whereof doth daily make revolt In my penurious band. I heard and griev'd, How curſed Athens, mindleſs of thy worth, Forgetting thy great deeds, when neighbour ſtates, But for thy ſword and fortune, trod upon them——

Tim. I pr'ythee, beat thy drum, and get thee gone.

Alc. I am thy friend, and pity thee, dear Timon.

Tim. How doſt thou pity him, whom thou doſt trouble? I'ad rather be alone.

(19) To the Fubfaſt, and the Diet.] One might make a very long and vain Search, yet not be able to meet with this prepoſterous Word Fubfaſt, which has notwithſtanding paſſed current with all the Editors. The Author is alluding to the Lues Venerea, and its Effects. At that Time, the Cure of it was performed either by Guaiacum, or Mercurial Unctions: and in both Caſes the Patient was kept up very warm and cloſe; that in the firſt Application the Sweat might be promoted; and leſt, in the other, he ſhould take Cold, which was fatal. "The Regimen for the Courſe of Guaiacum (ſays Dr. Friend, "in his Hiſt. of Phyſick, Vol. II. p. 380.) was at firſt ſtrangely cir-"cumſtantial; and ſo rigorous, that the Patient was put into a "Dungeon in order to make him ſweat; and in that manner, as "Fallopius expreſſes it, the Bones and the very man himſelf was "macerated." As for the Unction, it was ſometimes continued for thirty-ſeven days; (as he obſerves, p. 375.) and during this time there was neceſſarily an extraordinary Abſtinence required. Mr. Warburton.

Why, fare thee well,
gold for thee.
. Keep it, I cannot eat it.
When I have laid proud Athens on a heap—
. Warr'ſt thou 'gainſt Athens?
Ay, Timon, and have cauſe.
. The Gods confound them all then in thy conqueſt, fter, thee, when thou haſt conquered!
Why me, Timon?
. That by killing of villains
waſt born to conquer my country.
› thy gold. Go on, here's gold, go on;
ı planetary plague, when Jove
'er ſome high-vic'd city hang his poiſon ſick air: Let not thy ſword ſkip one,
ot honour'd age for his white beard,
an uſurer. Strike me the matron, er habit only that is honeſt, ſ's a bawd. Let not the virgin's cheek ſoft thy trenchant ſword; for thoſe milk-paps, hrough the window-lawn bore at mens' eyes, (20)
ıt within the leaf of pity writ;
:m down horrible traitors. Spare not the babe, dimpled ſmiles from fools exhauſt their mercy;
it a baſtard, whom the oracle
loubtfully pronounc'd thy throat ſhall cut, ıince it ſans remorſe. Swear againſt objects,
mour on thine ears, and on thine eyes;
proof, nor yells of mothers, maids, nor babes,
ght of prieſt in holy veſtments bleeding,
›ierce a jot. There's gold to pay thy ſoldiers.
large confuſion; and, thy fury ſpent,
nded be thyſelf! ſpeak not, be gone.

That thro' the Window-barn bere at Men's Eyes.] I cannot ſcarce imagine, what Idea our wiſe Editors had of a Virgin's ›ro' a Window-barn: which, I am ſatisfied, muſt be a cor›ding. In ſhort, the Poet is alluding to the decent Cuſtom›ime of the Women covering their Necks and Boſoms either ›wn, or Cyprus; both which being tranſparent, the Poet ›ly calls it the Window-Lawn.

Alc-

Alc. Haſt thou gold yet?
I'll take the gold thou giv'ſt me, not thy counſel.
Ti. Doſt thou, or doſt thou not, heav'n's curſe upon thee!
Both. Give us ſome gold, good Timon: haſt thou more?
Tim. Enough to make a whore forſwear her trade,
And to make whole a bawd, (21) Hold up, you ſluts,
Your aprons mountant; you're not othable,
Although, I know, you'll ſwear; terribly ſwear
Into ſtrong ſhudders, and to heav'nly agues,
Th' immortal Gods that hear you. Spare your oaths;
I'll truſt to your conditions, be whores ſtill.
And he whoſe pious breath ſeeks to convert you,
Be ſtrong in whore, allure him, burn him up.
Let your cloſe fire predominate his ſmoke,
And be no turn-coats: yet may your pains ſix months
Be quite contrary. Make falſe hair, and thatch
Your poor thin roofs with burdens of the dead,
(Some that were hang'd, no matter:——)
Wear them, betray with them; and whore on ſtill:
Paint 'till a horſe may mire upon your face;
A pox of wrinkles!
Both. Well, more gold——what then?
Believe, that we'll do any thing for gold.
Tim. Conſumptions ſow
In hollow bones of man, ſtrike their ſharp ſhins,
And mar mens' ſpurring. Crack the lawyer's voice,
That he may never more falſe title plead,
Nor ſound his quillets ſhrilly. Hoar the Flamen,
That ſcolds againſt the quality of fleſh,

(21) And to make whore a Bawd] The Power of Gold, indeed, may be ſuppoſed great, that can make a Whore forſake her Trade; but what mighty Difficulty was there in making a Whore turn Bawd? And yet, 'tis plain, here he is deſcribing the mighty Power of Gold. He had before ſhewn, how Gold can perſuade to any Villainy; he now ſhews that it has ſtill a greater Force, and can even turn from Vice to the Practice, or, at leaſt, the Semblance of Virtue. We muſt therefore read, to reſtore Senſe to our Author,

And to make whole a Bawd——

i. e. not only to make her quit her Calling, but thereby reſtore her to Reputation. Mr. Warburton.

And

And not believes himſelf. Down with the noſe,
Down with it flat; take the bridge quite away
Of him, that his particular to foreſee
Smells from the general weal. Make curl'd pate ruffians bald,
And let the unſcarr'd braggarts of the war
Derive ſome pain from you. Plague all;
That your activity may defeat, and quell
The ſource of all erection.——There's more gold.
Do you damn others, and let this damn you,
And ditches grave you all!

Both. More counſel with more money, bounteous Timon.

Tim. More whore, more miſchief, firſt; I've given you earneſt.

Alc. Strike up the drum tow'rds Athens; farewel, Timon:
If I thrive well, I'll viſit thee again.

Tim. If I hope well, I'll never ſee thee more.

Alc. I never did thee harm.

Tim. Yes, thou ſpok'ſt well of me.

Alc. Call'ſt thou that harm?

Tim. Men daily find it. Get thee hence, away.
And take thy beagles with thee.

Alc. We but offend him: ſtrike.

[Exeunt Alcibiad. Phryn. and Timand.

Tim. That nature, being ſick of man's unkindneſs,
Should yet be hungry! Common mother, thou
Whoſe womb unmeaſurable, and infinite breaſt
Teems, and feeds all; oh thou! whoſe ſelf-ſame metal
(Whereof thy proud child, arrogant man, is puft)
Engenders the black toad, and adder blue,
The gilded newt, and eyeleſs venom'd worm:
With all th' abhorred births below criſp heav'n,
Whereon Hyperion's quick'ning fire doth ſhine;
Yield him, who all thy human ſons does hate,
From forth thy plenteous boſom, one poor root!
Enſear thy fertile and conceptious womb;
Let it no more bring out ingrateful man.
Go great with tygers, dragons, wolves and bears,
Teem with new monſters, whom thy upward face
Hath to the marbled manſion all above
Never preſented——O, a root——dear thanks!

Dry

Dry up thy marrows, veins, and plough-torn leas,
Whereof ingrateful man with liqu'riſh draughts,
And morſels unctious, greaſes his pure mind,
That from it all conſideration ſlips.———

Enter Apemantus.

More man? plague! plague!———

Apem. I was directed hither. Men report,
Thou doſt affect my manners, and doſt uſe them.

Tim. 'Tis then, becauſe thou doſt not keep a dog
Whom I would imitate; conſumption catch thee!

Apem. This is in thee a nature but affected,
A poor unmanly melancholy, ſprung
From change of fortune. Why this ſpade? this place?
This ſlave-like habit, and theſe looks of care?
Thy flatt'rers yet wear ſilk, drink wine, lie ſoft;
Hug their diſeas'd perfumes, and have forgot
That ever Timon was? Shame not theſe weeds, (22)
By putting on the cunning of a carper.
Be thou a flatt'rer now, and ſeek to thrive
By that which has undone thee; hinge thy knee,
And let his very breath, whom thou'lt obſerve,
Blow off thy cap; praiſe his moſt vicious ſtrain,
And call it excellent. Thou waſt told thus:
Thou gav'ſt thine ears, like tapſters, that bid welcome
To knaves, and all approachers: 'Tis moſt juſt
That thou turn raſcal: hadſt thou wealth again,
Raſcals ſhould have't. Do not aſſume my likeneſs.

Tim. Were I like thee, I'd throw away myſelf.

Apem. Thou'ſt caſt away thyſelf, being like thyſelf,
So long a mad-man, now a fool. What, think'ſt thou,

(22) Shame not theſe Woods.] But how did Timon any more ſhame the Woods by aſſuming the Character of a Cynick, than Apemantus did? the Poet certainly meant to make Apemantus ſay, Don't diſgrace this Garb, which thou haſt only affected to aſſume; and to ſeem the Creature thou art not by nature, but by the Force and Compulſion of Poverty. We muſt therefore reſtore,

——— Shame not theſe Weeds,

Apemantus, in ſeveral other Paſſages of the Scene, reproaches him with his Change of Garb.

That

That the bleak air, thy boiſterous chamberlain,
Will put thy ſhirt on warm? will theſe moiſt trees,
That have out-liv'd the eagle, page thy heels,
And ſkip when thou point'ſt out? will the cold brook,
Candied with ice, cawdle thy morning taſte
To cure thy o'er-night's ſurfeit? Call the creatures,
Whoſe naked natures live in all the ſpight
Of wreakful heav'n, whoſe bare unhouſed trunks,
To the conflicting elements expos'd,
Anſwer mere nature; bid them flatter thee;
O! thou ſhalt find———

Tim. A fool of thee; depart.

Apem. I love thee better now, than e'er I did.

Tim. I hate thee worſe.

Apem. Why?

Tim. Thou flatt'reſt miſery.

Apem. I flatter not; but ſay, thou art a caytiff.

Tim. Why doſt thou ſeek me out?

Apem. To vex thee.

Tim. Always a villain's office, or a fool's.
Do'ſt pleaſe thyſelf in't? (23)

Apem. Ay.

Tim. What! a knave too?

Apem. If thou didſt put this four cold habit on
To caſtigate thy pride, 'twere well; but thou
Doſt it enforcedly: thou'dſt Courtier be,
Wert thou not beggar. Willing miſery
Out-lives incertain pomp; is crown'd before:
The one is filling ſtill, never compleat;

(23) Tim. Always a Villain's Office or a Fool's.
Do'ſt pleaſe thyſelf in't?
Apem. Ay.
Tim. What! a knave too?] Mr. Warburton propoſes a Correction here, which, tho' it oppoſes the Reading of all the printed Copies, has great Juſtneſs and Propriety in it. He would read;
What! and know't too?
The Reaſoning of the Text, as it ſtands in the Books, is, in ſome ſort, concluding backward: or rather making a Knave's and Villain's Office different: which, ſurely, is abſurd. The Correction quite removes the Abſurdity, and gives this ſenſible Rebuke. "What! Do'ſt thou pleaſe thyſelf in vexing me, and at the ſame "time know it to be the Office of a Villain or Fool."

The

The other, at high wiſh: Beſt ſtates, contentleſs,
Have a diſtracted and moſt wretched Being;
Worſe than the worſt, content.
Thou ſhouldſt deſire to die, being miſerable.
Tim. Not by his breath, that is more miſerable.
Thou art a ſlave, whom fortune's tender arm
With favour never claſpt; but bred a dog.
Hadſt thou, like us, from our firſt ſwath proceeded
Through ſweet degrees that this brief world affords,
To ſuch, as may the paſſive drugs of it
Freely command; thou wouldſt have plung'd thyſelf
In general riot, melted down thy youth
In different beds of luſt, and never learn'd
The icy precepts of reſpect, but followed
The ſugar'd game before thee. But myſelf,
Who had the world as my confectionary,
The mouths, the tongues, the eyes, the hearts of men
At duty, more than I could frame employments;
That numberleſs upon me ſtuck, as leaves
Do on the oak; have with one winter's bruſh
Fall'n from their boughs, and left me open, bare
For every ſtorm that blows. I to bear this,
That never knew but better, is ſome burden.
Thy nature did commence in ſuff'rance, time
Hath made thee hard in't. Why ſhouldſt thou hate men
They never flatter'd thee. What haſt thou giv'n?
If thou wilt curſe, thy father, that poor rag,
Muſt be thy ſubject; who in ſpight put ſtuff
To ſome ſhe-beggar, and compounded thee
Poor rogue hereditary. Hence! be gone——
If thou hadſt not been born the worſt of men,
Thou hadſt been knave and flatterer.
Apem. Art thou proud yet?
Tim. Ay, that I am not thee.
Apem. I, that I was no prodigal.
Tim. I, that I am one now.
Were all the wealth I have, ſhut up in thee,
I'd give thee leave to hang it. Get thee gone——
That the whole life of Athens were in this!
Thus would I eat it. [Eating a ro

A

Apem. Here, I will mend thy feaſt.

Tim. Firſt mend my company, take away thyſelf.

Apem. So I ſhall mend my own, by th' lack of thine.

Tim. 'Tis not well mended ſo, it is but botcht; If not, I would it were.

Apem. What wouldſt thou have to Athens?

Tim. Thee thither in a whirlwind; if thou wilt, Tell them there, I have gold; look, ſo I have.

Apem. Here is no uſe for gold.

Tim. The beſt and trueſt: For here it ſleeps, and does no hired harm.

Apem. Where ly'ſt o'nights, Timon?

Tim. Under that's above me. Where feed'ſt thou o'days, Apemantus?

Apem. Where my ſtomach finds meat; or rather, where I eat it.

Tim. 'Would poiſon were obedient, and knew my mind!

Apem. Where wouldſt thou ſend it?

Tim. To ſawce thy diſhes.

Apem. The middle of humanity thou never kneweſt, but the extremity of both ends. When thou waſt in thy gilt, and thy perfume, they mockt thee for too much curioſity: in thy rags thou knoweſt none, but art deſpis'd for the contrary. There's a medlar for thee, eat it.

Tim. On what I hate I feed not.

Apem. Doſt hate a medlar?

Tim. Ay, though it look like thee.

Apem. An th' hadſt hated medlars ſooner, thou ſhouldſt have loved thyſelf better now. What man didſt thou ever know unthrift, that was beloved after his means.

Tim. Who, without thoſe means thou talk'ſt of, didſt thou ever know beloved?

Apem. Myſelf.

Tim. I underſtand thee, thou hadſt ſome means to keep a dog.

Apem. What things in the world canſt thou neareſt compare to thy flatterers?

Tim. Women neareſt; but men, men, are the things themſelves. What wouldſt thou do with the world, Apemantus, if it lay in thy power?

Apem. Give it the beaſts, to be rid of the men.

Tim. Wouldſt thou have thyſelf fall in the confuſion of men, or remain a beaſt with the beaſts?

Apem. Ay, Timon.

Tim. A beaſtly ambition, which the Gods grant thee to attain to! If thou wert a lion, the fox would beguile thee; if thou wert the lamb, the fox would eat thee; if thou wert the fox, the lion would ſuſpect thee, when, peradventure, thou wert accus'd by the aſs; if thou wert the aſs, thy dulneſs would torment thee; and ſtill thou liv'dſt but as a breakfaſt to the wolf. If thou wert the wolf, thy greedineſs would afflict thee; and oft thou ſhouldſt hazard thy life for thy dinner. Wert thou the unicorn, pride and wrath would confound thee, and make thine own ſelf the conqueſt of thy fury. Wert thou a bear, thou wouldſt be kill'd by the horſe; wert thou a horſe, thou wouldſt be ſeiz'd by the leopard; wert thou a leopard, thou wert german to the lion, and the ſpots of thy kindred were jurors on thy life, all thy ſafety were remotion, and thy defence abſence. What beaſt couldſt thou be, that were not ſubject to a beaſt? and what a beaſt art thou already, and ſeeſt not thy loſs in transformation!

Apem. If thou couldſt pleaſe me with ſpeaking to me, thou might'ſt have hit upon it here. The Commonwealth of Athens is become a foreſt of beaſts.

Tim. How has the aſs broke the wall, that thou art out of the City?

Apem. Yonder comes a Poet, and a Painter. The plague of company light upon thee! I will fear to catch it, and give way. When I know not what elſe to do, I'll ſee thee again.

Tim. When there is nothing living but thee, thou ſhalt be welcome.

I had rather be a Beggar's dog, than Apemantus.

Apem. Thou art the cap of all the fools alive.

Tim. 'Would, thou wert clean enough to ſpit upon.

A plague on thee! (24)

(24) Plague on thee!

Apem. —— Thou art too bad to curſe.] In the former Editions, this Apem. Thou art too bad to curſe.

Tim. All villains, that do ſtand by thee, are pure.
Apem. There is no leproſy but what thou ſpeak'ſt.
Tim. If I name thee.——I'll beat thee; but I ſhould infect my hands.
Apem. I would my tongue could rot them off!
Tim. Away, thou iſſue of a mangy dog!
Choler does kill me, that thou art alive:
I ſwoon to ſee thee.
Apem. 'Would, thou wouldſt burſt!
Tim. Away, thou tedious rogue, I am ſorry I ſhall loſe a ſtone by thee.
Apem. Beaſt!
Tim. Slave!
Apem. Toad!
Tim. Rogue! rogue! rogue!
[Apem. retreats backward, as going.
I am ſick of this falſe world, and will love nought
But ev'n the mere neceſſities upon it.
Then, Timon, preſently prepare thy grave;
Lie where the light foam of the ſea may beat
Thy grave-ſtone daily; make thine epitaph;
That death in me at others' lives may laugh.
O thou ſweet king-killer, and dear divorce
[Looking on the gold.
'Twixt natural ſon and ſire! thou bright defiler
Of Hymen's pureſt bed! thou valiant Mars!
Thou ever young, freſh, lov'd, and delicate wooer,
Whoſe Bluſh doth thaw the conſecrated ſnow,
That lies on Dian's lap! thou viſible God,
That ſoldreſt cloſe impoſſibilities,
And mak'ſt them kiſs! that ſpeak'ſt with every tongue,
To every purpoſe! Oh, thou touch of hearts!
Think, thy ſlave man rebels; and by thy virtue
Set them into confounding odds, that beaſts
May have the world in empire.

this whole Verſe was placed to Apemantus? by which, abſurdly, he was made to curſe Timon, and immediately to ſubjoin that he was too bad to curſe. My Diviſion entirely cures the Abſurdity; and makes Apemantus reply in Character.

Apem.

Apem. 'Would 'twere ſo,
But not till I am dead! I'll ſay, thou haſt gold:
Thou wilt be throng'd to ſhortly.

Tim. Throng'd to?

Apem. Ay.

Tim. Thy back, I pr'ythee———

Apem. Live, and love thy miſery!

Tim. Long live ſo, and ſo die! I am quit.

Apem. More things like men —— Eat, Timon, and abhor them. [Exit Apem.

Enter Thieves.

1 Thief. Where ſhould he have this gold? It is ſome poor fragment, ſome ſlender ort of his remainder. The mere want of gold, and the falling off of friends, drove him into this melancholy.

2 Thief. It is nois'd, he hath a maſs of treaſure.

3 Thief. Let us make the aſſay upon him; if he care not for't, he will ſupply us eaſily: if he covetouſly reſerve it, how ſhall's get it?

2 Thief. True: for he bears it not about him: 'tis hid.

1 Thief. Is not this he?

All. Where?

2 Thief. 'Tis his deſcription.

3 Thief. He; I know him.

All. Save thee, Timon.

Tim. Now, thieves.

All. Soldiers; not thieves.

Tim. Both too, and women's ſons.

All. We are not thieves, but men that much do want.

Tim. Your greateſt want is, you want much of meet. (25)

(25) ——— ——— you want much of meat.] Thus both the Player, and poetical Editors have given us this Paſſage; quite Sand-blind, as honeſt Launcelot ſays, to our Author's Meaning. If theſe poor Thieves wanted Meat, what greater Want could they be curs'd with, as they could not live on graſs and berries, and water? but I dare warrant, the Poet wrote;

——— — you want much of meet.

i. e. Much of what you ought to be; much of the Qualities befitting you as human Creatures.

Why,

Why ſhould you want? behold, the earth hath roots;
Within this mile break forth an hundred ſprings;
The oaks bear maſts, the briars ſcarlet hips:
The bounteous huſwife nature on each buſh
Lays her full meſs before you. Want? why want?

1 Thief. We cannot live on graſs, on berries, water,
As beaſts, and birds, and fiſhes.

Tim. Nor on the beaſts themſelves, the birds and fiſhes;
You muſt eat men. Yet thanks I muſt you con,
That you are thieves profeſt: that you work not
In holier ſhapes; for there is boundleſs theft
In limited profeſſions. Raſcals, thieves,
Here's gold. Go, ſuck the ſubtle blood o'th' grape,
'Till the high fever ſeeth your blood to froth,
And ſo 'ſcape hanging. Truſt not the phyſician,
His antidotes are poiſon, and he ſlays
More than you rob. Take wealth, and live together.
Do villany, do, ſince you profeſs to do't,
Like workmen; I'll example you with thievery.
The ſun's a thief, and with his great attraction
Robs the vaſt ſea. The moon's an arrant thief,
And her pale fire ſhe ſnatches from the ſun.
The ſea's a thief, whoſe liquid ſurge reſolves (26)
The mounds into ſalt tears. The earth's a thief,
That feeds and breeds by a compoſture ſtol'n
From gen'ral excrements, each thing's a thief.
The laws, your curb and whip, in their rough power
Have uncheck'd theft. Love not yourſelves, away,
Rob one another, there's more gold; cut throats;
All that you meet are thieves: to Athens go,

(26) The Sea's a Thief, whoſe liquid Surge reſolves
The Moon into ſalt Tears.] The Sea melting the Moon into Tears, is, I believe, a Secret in Philoſophy, which no body but Shakeſpeare's deep Editors ever dreamed of. There is another Opinion, which 'tis more reaſonable to believe that our Author may allude to; viz. that the Saltneſs of the Sea is cauſed by ſeveral Ranges, or Mounds of Roch-Salt under Water, with which reſolving Liquid the Sea was impregnated. This I think a ſufficient Authority for changing Moon into Mounds: and I am ſtill the more confirmed, becauſe Mr. Warburton, who did not know I had touch'd the Place, ſent me up the very ſame Correction.

Break open ſhops, for nothing can you ſteal
But thieves do loſe it: ſteal not leſs for what I give, and gold confound you howſoever! Amen. [Exit.

3 Thief. H'as almoſt charm'd me from my profeſſion, by perſuading me to it.

1 Thief. 'Tis in the malice of mankind, that he thus adviſes us; not to have us thrive in our myſtery.

2 Thief. I'll believe him as an enemy: and give over my trade.

1 Thief. Let us firſt ſee peace in Athens; (27)

2 Thief. There is no time ſo miſerable, but a man may be true. [Exeunt

ACT V.

SCENE, The Woods, and Timon's Cave

Enter FLAVIUS.

FLAVIUS.

O H, you Gods!
Is yon deſpis'd and ruinous man my Lord?
Full of decay and failing? oh, monument
And wonder of good deeds, evily beſtow'd!
What change of honour deſp'rate want has made?
What viler thing upon the earth, than friends,
Who can bring nobleſt minds to baſeſt ends?
How rarely does it meet with this time's guiſe,
When man was wiſht to love his enemies:
Grant, I may ever love, and rather woo
Thoſe that would miſchief me, than thoſe that do!

(27) 1 Thief. Let us firſt ſee Peace in Athens; &c.] This and the concluding little Speech have in all the Editions been placed to one Speaker: But, as Mr. Warburton very juſtly obſerved to me, 'tis evident, the latter Words ought to be put in the Mouth of the ſecond Thief, who is repenting, and leaving off his Trade.

H'as caught me in his eye, I will preſent
My honeſt grief to him; and, as my Lord,
Still ſerve him with my life.—My deareſt maſter!

Timon comes forward from his Cave,

Tim. Away! what art thou?

Flav. Have you forgot me, Sir?

Tim. Why doſt thou aſk that? I have forgot all men.
Then, if thou granteſt that thou art a man,
I have forgot thee.

Flav. An honeſt ſervant———

Tim. Then I know thee not:
I ne'er had honeſt man about me, all
I kept were knaves, to ſerve in meat to villains.

Flav. The Gods are witneſs,
Ne'er did poor ſteward wear a truer grief
For his undone Lord, than mine eyes for you.

Tim. What, doſt thou weep? come nearer, then I love thee.
Becauſe thou art a woman, and diſclaim'ſt
Flinty mankind; whoſe eyes do never give
But or through luſt, or laughter. Pity's ſleeping;
Strange times, that weep with laughing, not with weeping!

Flav. I beg of you to know me, good my Lord,
T' accept my grief, and, whilſt this poor wealth laſts,
To entertain me as your ſteward ſtill.

Tim. Had I a ſteward
So true, ſo juſt, and now ſo comfortable?
It almoſt turns my dangerous nature wild.———
Let me behold thy face: ſurely, this man
Was born of woman.
Forgive my gen'ral and exceptleſs raſhneſs,
Perpetual, ſober Gods! I do proclaim
One honeſt man: miſtake me not, but one:
No more, I pray; and he's a ſteward.
How fain would I have hated all mankind,
And thou redeem'ſt thyſelf: but all, ſave thee,
I fell with curſes.
Methinks, thou art more honeſt now, than wiſe;
For, by oppreſſing and betraying me,

Thou might'ſt have ſooner got another ſervice:
For many ſo arrive at ſecond maſters,
Upon their firſt Lord's neck. But tell me true,
(For I muſt ever doubt, though ne'er ſo ſure)
Is not thy kindneſs, ſubtle, covetous,
A uſuring kindneſs, as rich men deal gifts,
Expecting in return twenty for one?

Flav. No, my moſt worthy maſter, (in whoſe breaſt Doubt and ſuſpect, alas, are plac'd too late,)
You ſhould have fear'd falſe times, when you did feaſt
Suſpect ſtill comes, where an eſtate is leaſt.
That which I ſhew, heav'n knows, is merely love,
Duty, and zeal, to your unmatched mind,
Care of your food and living: and, believe it,
For any benefit that points to me
Either in hope, or preſent, I'd exchange
For this one wiſh, that you had power and wealth
To requite me by making rich yourſelf.

Tim. Look thee, 'tis ſo; thou ſingly honeſt man,
Here, take; the Gods out of my miſery
Have ſent thee treaſure. Go, live rich and happy:
But thus condition'd; Thou ſhalt build from men:
Hate all, curſe all, ſhew charity to none;
But let the famiſht fleſh ſlide from the bone,
Ere thou relieve the beggar. Give to dogs
What thou deny'ſt to men. Let priſons ſwallow 'em,
Debts wither 'em; be men like blaſted woods,
And may diſeaſes lick up their falſe bloods!
And ſo farewel, and thrive.

Flav. O, let me ſtay, and comfort you, my maſter.

Tim. If thou hat'ſt curſes,
Stay not, but fly, whilſt thou art bleſt and free;
Ne'er ſee thou man, and let me ne'er ſee thee.

[Exeunt ſeverally.

Enter Poet and Painter.

Pain. As I took note of the place, it can't be far where he abides.

Poet. What's to be thought of him? does the rumour hold for true, that he's ſo full of gold?

Pain

r. Certain. Alcibiades reports it: Phrynia and ra had gold of him: he likewiſe enrich'd poor ng ſoldiers with great quantity. 'Tis ſaid, he gave ward a mighty ſum.

. Then this breaking of his has been but a trial friends?

n. Nothing elſe: you ſhall ſee him a palm in Athens and flouriſh with the higheſt. Therefore, 'tis not we tender our loves to him, in this ſuppos'd dif- of his: it will ſhew honeſtly in us, and is very to load our purpoſes with what they travel for, e a juſt and true report that goes of his having.

t. What have you now to preſent unto him?

n. Nothing at this time but my viſitation: only I romiſe him an excellent piece.

t. I muſt ſerve him ſo too; tell him of an intent coming toward him.

n. Good as the beſt: promiſing is the very air o'th' it opens the eyes of expectation. Performance is he duller for his act, and, but in the plainer and er kind of people, the deed is quite out of uſe. To ſe, is moſt courtly, and faſhionable; performance nd of will or teſtament, which argues a great ſick- n his judment that makes it.

Re-enter Timon from his Cave, unſeen.

r. Excellent workman! thou canſt not paint a man l as thyſelf.

t. I am thinking, what I ſhall ſay I have provided m: it muſt be a perſonating of himſelf; a ſatire ſt the ſoftneſs of proſperity, with a diſcovery of the te flatteries that follow youth and opulency.

r. Muſt thou needs ſtand for a villain in thine own ? wilt thou whip thine own faults in other men ? , I have gold for thee.

t. Nay, let's ſeek him.

do we ſin againſt our own eſtate,

a we may profit meet, and come too late.

n. True:

Poet. While the day ſerves, before black-corner'd night, (28)
Find what thou want'ſt, by free and offer'd light.
Come.

Tim. I'll meet you at the turn———
What a God's gold, that he is worſhipped
In baſer temples, than where ſwine do feed!
'Tis thou that rigg'ſt the bark, and plow'ſt the Wave, (29)
Settleſt admired rev'rence in a ſlave;
To thee be worſhip, and thy ſaints for aye
Be crown'd with plagues, that thee alone obey!
'Tis fit I meet them.

Poet. Hail! worthy Tim.

Pain. Our late noble maſter.

Tim. Have I once liv'd to ſee two honeſt men?

Poet. Sir, having often of your bounty taſted,
Hearing you were retir'd, your friends fall'n off,
Whoſe thankleſs natures, (oh abhorred ſpirits!)
Not all the whips of heav'n are large enough——
What! to you!
Whoſe ſtar-like nobleneſs gave life and influence
To their whole being! I am rapt, and cannot Cover the monſtrous bulk of this ingratitude
With any ſize of words.

Tim. Let it go naked, men may ſee't the better: (30) You

(28) While the day ſerves, &c.] This Couplet in all the Editions is placed to the Painter, but, as it is, in Rhime, and a Sequel of the Sentiment begun by the Poet, I have made no Scruple to aſcribe it to him.

(29) 'Tis thou that rigg'ſt the Bark, and plow'ſt the Foam, Settleſt admired Rev'rence in a Slave;] As both the Couplet preceding, and following this, are in Rhime, I am very apt to ſuſpect, the Rhime is diſmounted here by an accidental Corruption; and therefore have ventur'd to replace Wave in the Room of Foam.

(30) Let it go, naked Men may ſee't the better;] Thus has this Paſſage been ſtupidly pointed through all the Editions, as if naked Men could ſee better than Men in their Clothes. I think verily, if there were any Room to credit the Experiment, ſuch Editors ought to go naked for the Improvement of their Eye-ſights. But, perhaps, they have as little Faith as Judgement in their own Readings. The Poet, in the preceding Speech haranguing on the Ingratitude of Timon's falſe Friends, ſays, he cannot cover the Monſtrous

You that are honeſt, by being what you are,
Make them beſt ſeen and known.
Pain. He, and myſelf,
Have travell'd in the great ſhower of your gifts,
And ſweetly felt it.
Tim. Ay, you're honeſt men.
Pain. We're hither come to offer you our ſervice.
Tim. Moſt honeſt men! why, how ſhall I requite you?
Can you eat roots, and drink cold water? no.
Both. What we can do, we'll do, to do you ſervice.
Tim. Y'are honeſt men; you've heard, that I have gold;
I'm ſure, you have; ſpeak truth, y'are honeſt men.
Pain. So it is ſaid, my noble Lord, but therefore Came not my friend, nor I.
Tim. Good honeſt man; thou draw'ſt a counterfeit
Beſt in all Athens; thou'rt, indeed, the beſt;
Thou counterfeit'ſt moſt lively.
Pain. So, ſo, my Lord.
Tim. E'en ſo, Sir, as I ſay—And for thy fiction,
Why, thy verſe ſwells with ſtuff ſo fine and ſmooth,
That thou art even natural in thine art.
But for all this, my honeſt-natur'd friends,
I muſt needs ſay, you have a little fault;
Marry, not monſtrous in you; neither wiſh I,
You take much pains to mend.
Both. Beſeech your honour
To make it known to us.
Tim. You'll take it ill.
Both. Moſt thankfully, my Lord.
Tim. Will you, indeed?
Both. Doubt it not, worthy Lord.
Tim. There's ne'er a one of you but truſts a knave,
That mightily deceives you.
Both. Do we, my Lord?
Tim. Ay, and you hear him cogg, ſee him diſſemble,
Know his groſs Patchery, love him, and feed him;

ſtrouſneſs of it with any Size of Words; to which Timon, as I have rectified the Pointing, very aptly replies;

Let it go naked——Men may ſee't the better.

Keep in your boſom, yet remain aſſur'd,
That he's a made-up villain.

Pain. I know none ſuch, my Lord.

Poet. Nor I.

Tim. Look you, I love you well, I'll give you
Rid me theſe villains from your companies;
Hang them, or ſtab them, drown them in a dra
Confound them by ſome courſe, and come to m
I'll give you gold enough.

Both. Name them, my Lord, let's know the Tim. You that way, and you this;——but company:

Each man apart, all ſingle and alone,
Yet an arch villain keeps him company.
If where thou art, two villains ſhall not be,
[To the
Come not near him.—If thou wouldſt not reſide
[To t
But where one villain is, then him abandon.
Hence, pack, there's gold; ye came for gold, ye
You have work for me; there's your payment, h
You are an Alchymiſt, make gold of that:
Out, raſcal dogs! [Beating, and driving

Enter Flavius and two Senators.

Flav. It is in vain that you would ſpeak with
For he is ſet ſo only to himſelf,
That nothing but himſelf, which looks like ma
Is friendly with him.

1 Sen. Bring us to his cave.
It is our part and promiſe to th' Athenians
To ſpeak with Timon.

1 Sen. At all times alike
Men are not ſtill the ſame; 'twas time and grie
That fram'd him thus. Time, with his fairer h
Offering the fortunes of his former days,
The former man may make him; bring us to
And chance it as it may.

Flav. Here is his cave:
Peace and content be here, Lord Timon! Timo

Look out, and ſpeak to friends, th' Athenians
By two of their moſt rev'rend ſenate greet thee;
Speak to them, noble Timon.

Enter Timon out of his cave.

Tim. Thou ſun, that comfort'ſt, burn!——
Speak, and be hang'd;
For each true word a bliſter, and each falſe
Be cauterizing to the root o'th' tongue,
Conſuming it with ſpeaking!

1 Sen. Worthy Timon,——

Tim.—Of none but ſuch as you, and you of Timon.

2 Sen. The ſenators of Athens greet thee, Timon.

Tim. I thank them. And would ſend them back the plague,
Could I but catch it for them.

1 Sen. O, forget
What we are ſorry for ourſelves, in thee:
The Senators, with one conſent of love,
Intreat thee back to Athens; who have thought
On ſpecial dignities, which vacant lie
For thy beſt uſe and wearing.

2 Sen. They confeſs
Tow'rd thee forgetfulneſs, too general, groſs:
Which now the publick body, (which doth ſeldom
Play the recanter) feeling in itſelf
A lack of Timon's aid, hath ſenſe withal
Of its own fall, reſtraining aid to Timon;
And ſends forth us to make their ſorrowed tender,
Together with a recompence more fruitful
Than their offence can weigh down by the dram;
Ay, ev'n ſuch heaps and ſums of love and wealth,
As ſhall to thee blot out what wrongs were theirs;
And write in thee the figures of their love,
Ever to read them thine.

Tim. You witch me in it,
Surprize me to the very brink of tears:
Lend me a fool's heart, and a woman's eyes,
And I'll beweep theſe comforts, worthy ſenators.

1 Sen. Therefore ſo pleaſe thee to return with us,

And of our Athens, thine and ours, to take
The Captainſhip: thou ſhalt be met with thanks,
Allow'd with abſolute power, and thy good name
Live with authority: ſoon we ſhall drive back
Of Alcibiades th' approaches wild,
Who, like a boar too ſavage, doth root up
His country's peace.

2 Sen. And ſhakes his threatning ſword
Againſt the walls of Athens.

1 Sen. Therefore, Timon——

Tim. Well, Sir, I will; therefore I will, Sir; thus—
If Alcibiades kill my countrymen,
Let Alcibiades know this of Timon,
That Timon cares not. If he ſack fair Athens,
And take our goodly aged men by th' beards,
Giving our holy virgins to the ſtain
Of contumelious, beaſtly, mad-brain'd war;
Then let him know,—and tell him, Timon ſpeaks it;
In pity of our aged, and our youth,
I cannot chooſe but tell him, that I care not.
And let him take't at worſt; for their knives care no
While you have throats to anſwer. For myſelf,
There's not a whittle in th' unruly camp,
But I do prize it at my love, before
The reverend'ſt throat in Athens. So I leave you
To the protection of the proſp'rous Gods,
As thieves to keepers.

Flav. Stay not, all's in vain.

Tim. Why, I was writing of my epitaph,
It will be ſeen to-morrow. My long ſickneſs
Of health and living now begins to mend,
And nothing brings me all things. Go, live ſtill:
Be Alcibiades your plague; you his;
And laſt ſo long enough!

1 Sen. We ſpeak in vain.

Tim. But yet I love my country, and am not
One that rejoices in the common wreck,
As common bruit doth put it.

1 Sen. That's well ſpoke.

Tim. Commend me to my loving countrymen.

1 Sen. Theſe words become your lips, as they paſs thro' them.

2 Sen. And enter in our ears, like great triumphers
In their applauding gates.

Tim. Commend me to them,
And tell them, that to eaſe them of their griefs,
Their fears of hoſtile ſtrokes, their aches, loſſes,
Their pangs of love, with other incident throes,
That nature's fragile veſſel doth ſuſtain
In life's uncertain voyage, I will do
Some kindneſs to them, teach them to prevent Wild Alcibiades' wrath.

2 Sen. I like this well, he will return again.

Tim. I have a tree, which grows here in my cloſe,
That mine own uſe invites me to cut down,
And ſhortly muſt I fell it. Tell my friends,
Tell Athens, in the frequence of degree,
From high to low throughout, that whoſo pleaſe
To ſtop affliction, let him take his haſte:
Come hither, ere my tree hath felt the ax,
And hang himſelf—I pray you, do my greeting.

Flav. Vex him no further, thus you ſtill ſhall find him.

Tim. Come not to me again, but ſay to Athens,
Timon hath made his everlaſting manſion
Upon the beached verge of the ſalt flood;
Which once a-day with his emboſſed froth
The turbulent ſurge ſhall cover: thither come,
And let my grave-ſtone be your oracle.
Lips, let four words go by, and language end:
What is amiſs, plague and infection mend!
Graves only be men's works, and death their gain!
Sun, hide thy beams! Timon hath done his reign.

[Exit Timon.

1 Sen. His diſcontents are unremoveably coupled to his nature.

2 Sen. Our hope in him is dead; let us return,
And ſtrain what other means is left unto us
In our dear peril.

1 Sen. It requires ſwift foot. [Exeunt.

SCENE

SCENE changes to the Walls of Athens.

Enter two other Senators, with a Meſſenger.

1 Sen. THou haſt painfully diſcover'd; are his files
As full as thy report?
Meſ. I have ſpoke the leaſt.
Beſides, his expedition promiſes
Preſent approach.
2 Sen. We ſtand much hazard, if they bring not Timon.
Meſ. I met a courier, one mine ancient friend;
Who, though in general part we were oppos'd,
Yet our old love made a particular force,
And made us ſpeak like friends. This man was riding
From Alcibiades to Timon's Cave,
With letters of intreaty, which imported
His fellowſhip i'th' cauſe againſt your city,
In part for his ſake mov'd.

Enter the other Senators.

1 Sen. Here come our brothers.
3 Sen. No talk of Timon, nothing of him expect.——
The enemies' drum is heard, and fearful ſcouring
Doth choak the air with duſt. In, and prepare;
Ours is the fall, I fear, our foes the ſnare. [Exeunt.

Enter a Soldier in the woods, ſeeking Timon.

Sol. By all deſcription this ſhould be the place.
Who's here? ſpeak, ho.——— No anſwer?———
What is this?———
Timon is dead, who hath out-ſtretch'd his ſpan;
Some beaſt rear'd this; here does not live a man. (31)

(31) Some Beaſt read this: here does not live a Man.] Some Beaſt read what? the Soldier had yet only ſeen the rude Pile of Earth heap'd up for Timon's Grave, and not the Inſcription upon it. My Friend Mr Warburton ingeniouſly adviſed me to amend the Text, as I have done. The Soldier, ſeeking by Order for Timon, ſees ſuch an irregular Mole, as he concludes muſt have been the Work-manſhip of ſome Beaſt inhabiting the Woods; and ſuch a Cavity, as either muſt have been ſo over-arched, or happened by the caſual Falling in of the Ground.

Dead

Dead, ſure, 'and this his grave; what's on this tomb?
I cannot read; the character I'll take with wax;
Our captain hath in every figure ſkill,
An ag'd interpreter, tho' young in days:
Before proud Athens he's ſet down by this,
Who's fall the mark of his ambition is. [Exit.

SCENE, before the Walls of Athens.

Trumpets ſounded. Enter Alcibiades with his Powers.

Alc. SOund to this coward and laſcivious town
Our terrible approach.
[Sound a parley. The Senators appear upon the walls.
'Till now you have gone on, and fill'd the time
With all licentious meaſure, making your wills
The ſcope of juſtice. 'Till now myſelf, and ſuch
As ſlept within the ſhadow of your power,
Have wander'd with our traverſt arms, and breath'd
Our ſufferance vainly. Now the time is fluſh,
When crouching marrow in the bearer ſtrong
Cries, of itſelf, no more: now breathleſs wrong
Shall ſit and pant in your great chairs of eaſe,
And purfy inſolence ſhall break his wind
With fear and horrid flight.

1 Sen. Noble and young,
When thy firſt griefs were but a mere conceit,
Ere thou hadſt power, or we had cauſe to fear;
We ſent to thee, to give thy rages balm,
To wipe out our ingratitude, with loves
Above their quantity.

2 Sen. So did we woo (32)

(32) ——— So did we wooe
Transformed Timon to our City's Love
By humble Meſſage, and by promis'd means:] Promis'd Means muſt import a Supply of Subſtance, the recruiting his ſunk Fortunes; but that is not all, in my Mind, that the Poet would aim at. The Senate had wooed him with humble Meſſage, and Promiſe of general Reparation for their Injuries and Ingratitude. This ſeems included in the ſlight Change which I have made ——— and by promiſ'd 'mends: and this Word, a poſtrophe'd, or otherwiſe, is uſed in common with Amends.

Trans

Transformed Timon to our city's love
By humble meſſage, and by promis'd 'mends:
We were not all unkind, nor all deſerve
The common ſtroke of war.

1 Sen. Theſe walls of ours
Were not erected by their hands, from whom
You have receiv'd your griefs: nor are they ſuch,
That theſe great tow'rs, trophies, and ſchools ſhould fall
For private faults in them.

2 Sen. Nor are they living,
Who were the motives that you firſt went out:
Shame, that they wanted cunning, in exceſs (33)
Hath broke their hearts. March on, oh, noble Lord,
Into our city with thy banners ſpread;
By decimation and a tithed death,
If thy revenges hunger for that food
Which nature loaths, take thou the deſtin'd tenth:
And by the hazard of the ſpotted die,
Let die the ſpotted.

1 Sen. All have not offended:
For thoſe that were, it is not ſquare to take
On thoſe that are, revenge: Crimes, like to lands,
Are not inherited. Then, dear countryman,
Bring in thy ranks, but leave without thy rage;
Spare thy Athenian cradle, and thoſe kin,
Which in the bluſter of thy wrath muſt fall
With thoſe that have offended; like a ſhepherd,
Approach the fold, and cull th' infected forth;
But kill not all together.

2 Sen. What thou wilt,

(33) Shame, that they wanted Cunning in Exceſs,
Hath broke their Hearts.] i. e. in other Terms, —— Shame, that they were not the cunning'ſt Men alive, hath been the Cauſe of their Death. For Cunning in Exceſs muſt mean this or nothing. O brave Editors! They had heard it ſaid, that too much Wit in ſome Caſes might be dangerous, and why not an abſolute Want of it? But had they the Skill or Courage to remove one perplexing Comma, the eaſy and genuine Senſe would immediately ariſe. "Shame in "exceſs (i. e. Extremity of Shame) that they wanted Cunning "(i. e. that they were not wiſe enough not to baniſh you;) hath "broke their Hearts."

Thus

Thou rather ſhalt enforce it with thy ſmile,
Than hew to't with thy ſword.

1 Sen. Set but thy foot
Againſt our rampir'd gates, and they ſhall ope:
So thou wilt ſend thy gentle heart before,
To ſay, thou'lt enter friendly.

2 Sen. Throw thy glove,
Or any token of thine honour elſe,
That thou wilt uſe the wars as thy redreſs,
And not as our confuſion: all thy powers
Shall make their harbour in our town, till we
Have ſeal'd thy full deſire.

Alc. Then there's my glove;
Deſcend, and open your uncharged ports;
Thoſe enemies of Timon's, and mine own,
Whom you yourſelves ſhall ſet out for reproof,
Fall, and no more; and to attone your fears
With my more noble meaning, not a man
Shall paſs his quarter, or offend the ſtream
Of regular juſtice in your city's bounds;
But ſhall be remedied by publick laws
At heavieſt anſwer.

Both. 'Tis moſt nobly ſpoken.——

Alc. Deſcend, and keep your words.

Enter a Soldier.

Sol. My noble General, Timon is dead;
Entomb'd upon the very hem o'th' ſea;
And on the grave-ſtone this inſculpture, which
With wax I brought away; whoſe ſoft impreſſion
Interpreteth for my poor ignorance.

[Alcibiades reads the epitaph.]

Here lies a wretched coarſe, of wretched ſoul bereft:
Seek not my name: a plague conſume you caitiffs left!
Here lie I Timon, who all living men did hate,
Paſs by, and curſe thy fill, but ſtay not here thy gait.

Theſe well expreſs in thee thy latter ſpirits:
Tho' thou abhor'dſt in us our human griefs,
Scorn'dſt our brains' flow, and thoſe our droplets, which

And I will uſe the olive with my ſword;

(24) ——— yet rich Conceit
Taught thee to make vaſt Neptune weep for aye
On thy low Grave, on faults forgiven. Dead
Is noble Timon, of whoſe Memory
Hereafter more.———] All the Editors, in their Learning and Sagacity, have ſuffered an unaccountable Abſurdity to paſs them in this Paſſage. Why was Neptune to weep on Timon's Faults forgiven? Or, indeed, what Faults had Timon committed, except againſt his own Fortune and happy Situation in Life? But the Corruption of the Text lies only in the bad Pointing, which I have diſengaged, and reſtored to the true Meaning. Alcibiades's whole Speech, as the Editors might have obſerved, is in Breaks, betwixt his Reflexions on Timon's Death, and his Addreſſes to the Athenian Senators: and as ſoon as he has commented on the Place of Timon's Grave, he bids the Senate ſet forward; tells them, he has forgiven their Faults; and promiſes to uſe them with Mercy.

ACT I.

SCENE, before the Capitol in ROME.

Enter the Tribunes and Senators aloft, as in the Senate. Enter Saturninus and his followers, at one door; and Baſſianus, and his followers, at the other, with Drum and Colours.

SATURNINUS.

NOBLE Patricians, Patrons of my Right,
Defend the juſtice of my Cauſe with arms:
And Countrymen, my loving followers,
Plead my ſucceſſive title with your ſwords.
I am the firſt-born Son of him, that laſt
Wore the imperial Diadem of Rome:
Then let my father's honours live in me,
Nor wrong mine age with this indignity.
Baſ. Romans, friends, foll'wers, favourers of my Right,
If ever Baſſianus, Cæſar's ſon,
Were gracious in the eyes of royal Rome,
Keep then this paſſage to the Capitol;
And ſuffer not diſhonour to approach
Th' imperial ſeat, to virtue conſecrate,
To juſtice, continence, and nobility:
But let deſert in pure election ſhine;
And, Romans, fight for freedom in your choice.

Enter

Enter Marcus Andronicus aloft with the Crown.

Mar. Princes, that ſtrive by factions, and by friends,
Ambitiouſly for Rule and Empery!
Know, that the People of Rome, for whom we ſtand
A ſpecial party, have by common voice,
In election for the Roman Empery,
Choſen Andronicus, ſurnamed Pius,
For many good and great deſerts to Rome.
A nobler man, a braver warrior,
Lives not this day within our city-walls.
He by the Senate is accited home,
From weary wars againſt the barb'rous Goths,
That with his ſons (a terror to our foes)
Hath yoak'd a nation ſtrong, train'd up in arms.
Ten years are ſpent, ſince firſt he undertook
This cauſe of Rome, and chaſtiſed with arms
Our enemies pride. Five times he hath return'd
Bleeding to Rome, bearing his valiant ſons
In coffins from the field.——
And now at laſt, laden with Honour's Spoils,
Returns the good Andronicus to Rome,
Renowned Titus, flouriſhing in arms.
Let us intreat, by honour of his Name,
Whom (worthily) you would have now ſucceed,
And in the Capitol and Senate's Right,
Whom you pretend to honour and adore,
That you withdraw you, and abate your ſtrength;
Diſmiſs your followers, and, as ſuitors ſhould,
Plead your deſerts in peace and humbleneſs.

Sat. How fair the Tribune ſpeaks, to calm my thoughts!

Baſ. Marcus Andronicus, ſo I do affy
In thy uprightneſs and integrity,
And ſo I love and honour thee and thine;
Thy noble brother Titus, and his ſons,
And her, to whom our thoughts are humbled all,
Gracious Lavinia, Rome's rich Ornament;
That I will here diſmiſs my loving friends;
And to my fortunes, and the people's favour,
Commit my cauſe in balance to be weigh'd. [Exe. Sol. Sat.

Sat. Friends, that have been thus forward in my right,
I thank you all, and here diſmiſs you all;
And to the love and favour of my country
Commit myſelf, my perſon and the Cauſe;
Rome, be as juſt and gracious unto me,
As I am confident and kind to thee.
Open the gates, and let me in.

Baſ. Tribunes, and Me, a poor Competitor.

[They go up into the Senate houſe.

Enter a Captain.

Cap. Romans, make way: the good Andronicus,
Patron of virtue, Rome's beſt champion,
Succeſsful in the battles that he fights,
With honour and with fortune is return'd,
From whence he circumſcribed with his ſword,
And brought to yoke the enemies of Rome.

Sound Drums and Trumpets, and then enter Mutius and Marcus: after them, two men bearing a coffin cover'd with black; then Quintus and Lucius. After them, Titus Andronicus; and then Tamora, the Queen of Goths, Alarbus, Chiron, and Demetrius, with Aaron the Moor, priſoners; ſoldiers, and other attendants. They ſet down the coffin, and Titus ſpeaks.

Tit. Hail, Rome, victorious in my mourning weeds! (1)
Lo, as the bark, that hath diſcharg'd her freight,
Returns with precious lading to the bay,
From whence at firſt ſhe weigh'd her anchorage;
Cometh Andronicus with laurel boughs,
To re-ſalute his country with his tears;
Tears of true joy for his return to Rome.

(1) Hail, Rome, victorious in thy mourning Weeds!] Mr. Warburton, and I concurred to ſuſpect that the Poet wrote;

—— in my mourning Weeds.

i. e. Titus would ſay; "Thou Rome, art victorious, tho' I am a "Mourrer for thoſe Sons, which I have loſt in obtaining that Vic-"tory."

Thou

Thou great Defender of this Capitol,
Stand gracious to the Rites that we intend!
Romans, of five and twenty valiant ſons,
Half of the number that King Priam had,
Behold the poor Remains, alive and dead!
Theſe, that ſurvive, let Rome reward with love;
Theſe, that I bring unto their lateſt home,
With burial among their Anceſtors.
Here Goths have given me leave to ſheath my ſword:
Titus, unkind, and careleſs of thine own,
Why ſuffer'ſt thou thy Sons, unburied yet,
To hover on the dreadful ſhore of Styx?
Make way to lay them by their brethren.
[They open the Tomb.
There greet in ſilence, as the dead are wont,
And ſleep in peace, ſlain in your country's wars:
O ſacred receptacle of my joys,
Sweet cell of virtue and nobility,
How many ſons of mine haſt thou in ſtore,
That thou wilt never render to me more?

Luc. Give us the proudeſt priſoner of the Goths,
That we may hew his limbs, and on a pile,
Ad manes Fratrum ſacrifice his fleſh,
Before this earthly priſon of their bones:
That ſo the ſhadows be not unappeas'd,
Nor we diſturb'd with prodigies on earth.

Tit. I give him you, the nobleſt that ſurvives:
The eldeſt ſon of this diſtreſſed Queen.

Tam. Stay, Roman brethren, gracious conqueror,
Victorious Titus, rue the tears I ſhed,
A mother's tears in paſſion for her ſon:
And, if thy ſons were ever dear to thee,
O, think my ſons to be as dear to me.
Sufficeth not, that we are brought to Rome, (2)

To

(2) Sufficeth not, that we are brought to Rome,
To beautify thy Triumphs', and return
Captive to thee and to thy Roman Yoak?] It is evident, as this Paſſage has hitherto been pointed, none of the Editors underſtood the true Meaning. If Tamora and her Family return captive to Rome, they muſt have been before Priſoners of War to the Romans:
to

To beautify thy triumphs and return,
Captive to thee and to thy Roman yoak?
But muſt my ſons be ſlaughter'd in the ſtreets,
For valiant doings in their country's cauſe?
O! if to fight for King and common-weal
Were piety in thine, it is in theſe:
Andronicus, ſtain not thy tomb with blood.
Wilt thou draw near the nature of the Gods?
Draw near them then in being merciful;
Sweet mercy is nobility's true badge.
Thrice-noble Titus, ſpare my firſt-born ſon.
Tit. Patient yourſelf, Madam, and pardon me.
Theſe are their brethren, whom you Goths behold
Alive and dead, and for their brethren ſlain
Religiouſly they aſk a ſacrifice;
To this your ſon is markt, and die he muſt,
T'appeaſe their groaning ſhadows that are gone.
Luc. Away with him, and make a fire ſtraight.
And with our ſwords, upon a pile of wood,
Let's hew his limbs, 'till they be clean conſum'd.
[Exe. Mutius, Marcus, Quintus and Lucus with Alarbus.
Tam. O cruel, irreligious, piety!
Chi. Was ever Scythia half ſo barbarous?
Dem. Oppoſe me, Scythia, to ambitious Rome.
Alarbus, go to reſt! and we ſurvive
To tremble under Titus' threatning looks.
Then, Madam, ſtand reſolv'd; but hope withal, and that is more than what is hinted, or ſuppoſed, any where in the Play. But the truth is, return is not a Verb but a Subſtantive; and relates to Titus and not to Tamora: The Regulation I have given the Text, I dare warrant, reſtores the Author's Intention.

To beautify thy Triumphs and Return.

o quit her bloody wrongs upon her foes.

Enter Mutius, Marcus, Quintus and Lucius.

Luc. See, Lord and father, how we have perform'd
Our Roman rites: Alarbus' limbs are lopt;
And intrails feed the ſacrificing fire;
Whoſe ſmoke, like incenſe, doth perfume the ſky.
Remaineth nought but to inter our brethren,
And with loud 'larums welcome them to Rome.
Tit. Let it be ſo, and let Andronicus
Make this his lateſt farewel to their ſouls.
[Then ſound trumpets, and lay the coffins in the tomb.
In peace and honour reſt you here, my ſons,
Rome's readieſt champions, repoſe you here,
Secure from worldly chances and miſhaps:
Here lurks no treaſon, here no envy ſwells;
Here grow no damned grudges, here no ſtorms,
No noiſe: but ſilence and eternal ſleep:
In peace and honour reſt you here, my ſons!

Enter Lavinia.

Lav. In peace and honour live Lord Titus long,
My noble Lord and father, live in fame!
Lo! at this tomb my tributary tears
I render, for my brethrens' obſequies:
And at thy feet I kneel, with tears of joy
Shed on the earth, for thy return to Rome.
O, bleſs me here with thy victorious hand,
Whoſe fortune Rome's beſt citizens applaud.

where ſhe and the other Trojan Captive Women were thither Hecuba by a Wile had decoy'd Polymnaſtor, in or petrate her Revenge. This we may learn from EURIP cuba; the only Author, that I can at preſent remember. our Writer muſt have gleaned this Circumſtance.

Tit. Kind Rome, that haſt thus lovingly reſerv'd
The Cordial of mine age, to glad mine heart!
Lavinia, live; out-live thy father's days, (4)
And Fame's eternal Date for virtue's praiſe!

Mar. Long live Lord Titus, my beloved brother,
Gracious triumpher in the eyes of Rome!

Tit. Thanks, gentle Tribune, noble brother Marcus.

Mar. And welcome, Nephews, from ſucceſsful wars,
You that ſurvive, and you that ſleep in fame:
Fair Lords, your fortunes are alike in all,
That in your country's ſervice drew your ſwords.
But ſafer triumph is this funeral pomp,
That hath aſpir'd to Solon's happineſs:
And triumphs over chance, in Honour's bed.
Titus Andronicus, the people of Rome,
Whoſe friend in juſtice thou haſt ever been,
Send thee by me their Tribune, and their truſt,
This Palliament of white and ſpotleſs hue;
And name thee in election for the Empire,
With theſe our late-deceaſed Emperor's ſons:
Be Candidatus then, and put it on;
And help to ſet a head on headleſs Rome.

Tit. A better head her glorious body fits,
Than his, that ſhakes for age and feebleneſs:
What! ſhould I don this robe, and trouble you?
Be choſe with Proclamations to-day,
To-morrow yield up Rule, reſign my life,
And ſet abroach new buſineſs for you all?
Rome, I have been thy ſoldier forty years,
And led my country's ſtrength ſucceſsfully;
And buried one and twenty valiant ſons,
Knighted in field, ſlain manfully in arms,
In Right and Service of their noble Country.
Give me a ſtaff of honour for mine age,

(4) Lavinia, live; out-live thy Father's days:
And Fame's eternal date for Virtue's praiſe!] Were the Text to be admitted genuine, nothing could be ſo abſurd as for Titus to wiſh, his Daughter might out-live the eternal Date of Fame. I have by the Change of a ſingle Monoſyllable, reſtor'd the Paſſage to a ſenſible and kind Wiſh.

The people's hearts, and wean them from themſel
Baſ. Andronicus, I do not flatter thee,
But honour thee, and will do till I die:
My faction if thou ſtrengthen with thy friends,
I will moſt thankful be; and thanks to men
Of noble minds is honourable meed.
Tit. People of Rome, and noble Tribunes here,
I ask your voices and your ſuffrages;
Will you beſtow them friendly on Andronicus?
Mar. To gratify the good Andronicus
And gratulate his ſafe return to Rome,
The People will accept whom he admits.
Tit. Tribunes, I thank you, and this ſuit I mak
That you create your Emperor's eldeſt ſon,
Lord Saturnine; whoſe virtues will, I hope,
Reflect on Rome, as Titan's rays on earth,
And ripen juſtice in this Common-weal.
Then if you will elect by my advice,
Crown him, and ſay,—Long live our Emperor!
Mar. With voices and applauſe of every ſort,
Patricians and Plebeians, we create
Lord Saturninus, Rome's great Emperor;
And ſay,—Long live our Emperor Saturnine!
[A long flouriſh till they come do
Sat. Titus Andronicus, for thy favours done
To us in our Election this day,
I give thee thanks in part of thy deſerts,

And will with deeds requite thy gentleneſs:
And for an onſet, Titus, to advance
Thy name, and honourable family,
Lavinia will I make my Empereſs,
Rome's royal Miſtreſs, Miſtreſs of my heart,
And in the ſacred Pantheon her eſpouſe:
Tell me, Andronicus, doth this motion pleaſe thee?

Tit. It doth, my worthy Lord; and in this match,
I hold me highly honoured of your Grace:
And here in ſight of Rome, to Saturninus,
King and Commander of our Common-weal,
The wide world's Emperor, do I conſecrate
My ſword, my chariot, and my priſoners;
Preſents well worthy Rome's imperial Lord.
Receive them then, the Tribute that I owe,
Mine Honour's Enſigns humbled at thy feet.

Sat. Thanks, noble Titus, father of my life!
How proud I am of thee, and of thy gifts,
Rome ſhall record; and when I do forget
The leaſt of theſe unſpeakable deſerts,
Romans forget your fealty to me.

Tit. Now, Madam, are you priſoner to an Emperor;
To him, that for your honour and your ſtate
Will uſe you nobly, and your followers.

Sat. A goodly lady, truſt me, of the hue [To Tamora.
That I would chuſe, were I to chuſe a new:
Clear up, fair Queen, that cloudy countenance;
Tho' chance of war hath wrought this change of cheer,
Thou com'ſt not to be made a ſcorn in Rome,
Princely ſhall be thy uſage every way.
Reſt on my word, and let not diſcontent
Daunt all your hopes: Madam, who comforts you,
Can make you greater than the Queen of Goths,
Lavinia, you are not diſpleas'd with this?

Lav. Not I, my Lord; ſith true nobility
Warrants theſe words in princely courteſy.

Sat. Thanks, ſweet Lavinia; Romans, let us go.
Ranſomleſs here we ſet our priſoners free;
Proclaim our honours, Lords, with trump and drum.

Baſ. Lord Titus, by your leave, this maid is mine.
[Seizing Lavinia.
Tit. How, Sir? are you in earneſt then, my Lord?
Baſ. Ay, noble Titus; and reſolved withal,
To do myſelf this Reaſon and this Right.
[The Emperor courts Tamora in dumb Show.
Mar. Suum cuique is our Roman juſtice:
This Prince in juſtice ſeizeth but his own.
Luc. And that he will, and ſhall, if Lucius live.
Tit. Traitors, avant! where is the Emperor's Guard?
Treaſon, my Lord; Lavinia is ſurpriz'd.
Sat. Surpriz'd! by whom?
Baſ. By him, that juſtly may
Bear his betroth'd from all the world away.
[Exit Baſſianus with Lavinia.
Mut. Brothers, help to convey her hence away,
And with my ſword I'll keep this door ſecure.
Tit. Follow, my Lord, and I'll ſoon bring her back.
Mut. My Lord, you paſs not here——
Tit. What! villain-boy,
Barr'ſt me my way in Rome? [He kills him.
Mut. Help, Lucius, help!
Luc. My Lord, you are unjuſt, and more than ſo;
In wrongful quarrel you have ſlain your ſon.
Tit. Nor thou, nor he, are any ſons of mine;
My ſons would never ſo diſhonour me.
Traitor, reſtore Lavinia to the Emperor.
Luc. Dead, if you will, but not to be his wife,
That is another's lawful promis'd love.
Sat. No, Titus, no, the Emperor needs her not;
Nor her, nor thee, nor any of thy ſtock;
I'll truſt by leiſure him, that mocks me once:
Thee never, nor thy traiterous haughty ſons,
Confederates all, thus to diſhonour me.
Was there none elſe in Rome to make a Stale of,
But Saturnine? full well, Andronicus,
Agree theſe deeds with that proud brag of thine,
That ſaid'ſt, I begg'd the Empire at thy hands.
Tit. O monſtrous! what reproachful words are theſe?
Sat.

at. But go thy ways: go give that changing piece, him that flouriſh'd for her with his ſword;
valiant ſon-in-law thou ſhalt enjoy:
e fit to bandy with thy lawleſs ſons,
ruffle in the Commonwealth of Rome.
it. Theſe words are razors to my wounded heart.
at. And therefore, lovely Tamora, Queen of Goths, at, like the ſtately Phœbe 'mong her Nymphs,
t over-ſhine the gallant'ſt Dames of Rome;
hou be pleas'd with this my ſudden choice,
old, I chuſe thee, Tamora, for my bride,
l will create thee Empereſs of Rome.
ak, Queen of Goths, doſt thou applaud my choice?
l here I ſwear by all the Roman Gods,
h prieſt and holy water are ſo near,
l tapers burn ſo bright, and every thing

ill not re-ſalute the ſtreets of Rome, climb my palace, till from forth this place
ad eſpous'd my bride along with me.
am. And here in ſight of heav'n to Rome I ſwear, Saturnine advance the Queen of Goths, will a handmaid be to his deſires,
oving nurſe, a mother to his youth.
at. Aſcend, fair Queen, Pantheon; Lords, accompany
r noble Emperor, and his lovely bride,
t by the heavens for Prince Saturnine;
oſe wiſdom hath her fortune conquered:
re ſhall we conſummate our ſpouſal rites. [Exeunt.

Manet Titus Andronicus.

it. I am not bid to wait upon this bride.
s, when wert thou wont to walk alone,
ionour'd thus, and challenged of wrongs?

nter Marcus Andronicus, Lucius, Quintus, and Marcus.

lar. Oh, Titus, ſee, oh, ſee, what thou haſt done!
bad quarrel ſlain a virtuous ſon.

Tit. No, fooliſh Tribune, no: no ſon of mine
Nor thou, nor theſe confederates in the deed,
That hath diſhonoured all our family;
Unworthy brother, and unworthy ſons.

Luc. But let us give him burial as becomes;
Give Mutius burial with our brethren.

Tit. Traitors, away! he reſts not in this tomb
This Monument five hundred years hath ſtood,
Which I have ſumptuouſly re-edified:
Here none but ſoldiers, and Rome's ſervitors,
Repoſe in fame: none baſely ſlain in brawls.
Bury him where you can, he comes not here.

Mar. My Lord, this is impiety in you;
My nephew Mutius' deeds do plead for him:
He muſt be buried with his brethen. [Titus's ſons]

Sons. And ſhall, or him we will accompany.

So trouble me no more, but get you gone.

His noble Nephew here in virtue's neſt,
That died in honour, and Lavinia's cauſe.
Thou art a Roman, be not barbarous.
The Greeks, upon advice, did bury Ajax,
That ſlew himſelf, and wiſe Laertes' ſon

ung Mutius then, that was thy joy,

all'ſt day is this, that ere I ſaw,
honour'd by my ſons in Rome:

here lie thy bones, ſweet Mutius, with thy friends,

[They all kneel, and ſay;

device or no, the heav'ns can tell:

riſh. Re-enter the Emperor, Tamora, Chiron, and Demetrius, with Aaron the Moor, at one door. At the other door, Baſſianus and Lavinia with others.

at. So, Baſſianus, you have plaid your prize;
l give you joy, Sir, of your gallant bride.
Baſ. And you of yours, my Lord; I ſay no more,
r wiſh no leſs, and ſo I take my leave.
at. Traitor, if Rome have law, or we have power, ou and thy faction ſhall repent this rape.
Baſ. Rape call you it, my Lord, to ſeize my own, true-betrothed love, and now my wife?
let the laws of Rome determine all;
an while I am poſſeſt of that is mine.
at. 'Tis good, Sir; you are very ſhort with us,
, if we live, we'll be as ſharp with you.
Baſ. My Lord, what I have done, as beſt I may

Anſwer I muſt, and ſhall do with my life;
Only thus much I give your Grace to know,
By all the duties which I owe to Rome,
This noble gentleman, Lord Titus here,
Is in opinion and in honour wrong'd;
That in the reſcue of Lavinia,
With his own hand did ſlay his youngeſt ſon,
In zeal to you, and highly mov'd to wrath
To be controll'd in that he frankly gave;
Receive him then to favour, Saturnine;
That hath expreſt himſelf in all his deeds,
A father and a friend to thee, and Rome.

Tit. Prince Baſſianus, leave to plead my deeds.
'Tis thou, and thoſe, that have diſhonour'd me:
Rome and the righteous heavens be my judge,
How I have lov'd and honour'd Saturnine.

Tam. My worthy Lord, if ever Tamora
Were gracious in thoſe princely eyes of thine,
Then hear me ſpeak, indifferently, for all;
And at my ſuit (ſweet) pardon what is paſt.

Sat. What, Madam! be diſhonour'd openly,
And baſely put it up without revenge?

Tam. Not ſo, my Lord; the Gods of Rome forefend,
I ſhould be author to diſhonour you!
But, on mine honour dare I undertake
For good Lord Titus' innocence in all;
Whoſe fury, not diſſembled, ſpeaks his griefs:
Then, at my ſuit, look graciouſly on him,
Loſe not ſo noble a friend on vain ſuppoſe,
Nor with ſour looks afflict his gentle heart.——
My Lord, be rul'd by me, be won at laſt,
Diſſemble all your griefs and diſcontents:
You are but newly planted in your throne;
Leſt then the people and Patricians too,
Upon a juſt ſurvey, take Titus' part;
And ſo ſupplant us for ingratitude,
Which Rome reputes to be a heinous ſin.
Yield at intreats, and then let me alone;
I'll find a day to maſſacre them all,

Aſide.

And

And raze their faction, and their family,
The cruel father, and his traiterous ſons,
To whom I ſued for my dear ſon's life:
And make them know, what 'tis to let a Queen
Kneel in the ſtreets, and beg for grace in vain—
Come, come, ſweet Emperor,——come, Andronicus——
Take up this good old man, and chear the heart,
That dies in tempeſt of thy angry frown.

Aſide.

Sat. Riſe, Titus, riſe; my Empreſs hath prevail'd.

Tit. I thank your Majeſty, and her; my Lord,
Theſe words, theſe looks infuſe new life in me.

Tam. Titus, I am incorporate in Rome,
A Roman now adopted happily:
And muſt adviſe the Emperor for his good.
This day all quarrels die, Andronicus,
And let it be my honour, good my Lord,
That I have reconcil'd your friends and you.
For you, Prince Baſſianus, I have paſt
My word and promiſe to the Emperor,
That you will be more mild and tractable.
And fear not, Lords, and you, Lavinia,
By my advice all-humbled on your knees,
You ſhall aſk pardon of his Majeſty.

Luc. We do, and vow to heaven and to his Highneſs,
That what we did was mildly, as we might,
Tend'ring our ſiſter's honour and our own.

Mar. That on mine honour here I do proteſt.

Sat. Away, and talk not; trouble us no more.——

Tam. Nay, nay, ſweet Emperor, we muſt all be friends.
The Tribune and his Nephews kneel for grace,
I will not be denied; ſweet heart, look back.

Sat. Marcus, for thy ſake, and thy brother's here,
And at my lovely Tamora's intreats,
I do remit theſe young men's heinous faults.
Lavinia, though you left me like a churl,
I found a friend; and ſure, as death, I ſwore,
I would not part a bachelor from the prieſt.
Come, if the Emperor's court can feaſt two brides;
You are my gueſt, Lavinia, and your friends;

This day ſhall be a love-day, Tamora.
Tit. To-morrow an it pleaſe your Majeſty,
To hunt the panther and the hart with me,
With horn and hound, we'll give your Grace Bon-jour.
Sat. Be it ſo, Titus, and grammercy too. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE, before the Palace.

Enter Aaron alone.

AARON.

NOW climbeth Tamora Olympus' top,
Safe out of fortune's ſhot; and ſits aloft,
Secure of thunder's crack, or lightning flaſh;
Advanc'd above pale envy's threatning reach.
As when the golden ſun ſalutes the morn,
And, having gilt the ocean with his beams,
Gallops the zodiack in his gliſtring coach,
And over-looks the higheſt-peering hills:
So Tamora———
Upon her wit doth earthly honour wait,
And virtue ſtoops and trembles at her frown.
Then, Aaron, arm thy heart, and fit thy thoughts,
To mount aloft with thy imperial miſtreſs,
And mount her pitch; whom thou in triumph long
Haſt priſoner held, fetter'd in amorous chains;
And faſter bound to Aaron's charming eyes,
Than is Prometheus ty'd to Caucaſus.
Away with ſlaviſh weeds, and idle thoughts,
I will be bright and ſhine in pearl and gold,
To wait upon this new-made Empereſs.
To wait, ſaid I? to wanton with this Queen,
This Goddeſs, this Semiramis;———this Queen,
This Syren, that will charm Rome's Saturnine,

And

And ſee his ſhipwreck, and his common-weal's.
Holla! what ſtorm is this?

Enter Chiron and Demetrius, braving.

Dem. Chiron, thy years want wit, thy wit wants edge
And manners, to intrude where I am grac'd;
And may, for aught thou know'ſt, affected be.
Chi. Demetrius, thou doſt over-ween in all,
And ſo in this, to bear me down with braves:
'Tis not the difference of a year or two
Makes me leſs gracious, or thee more fortunate;
I am as able, and as fit as thou,
To ſerve, and to deſerve my miſtreſs' grace;
And that my ſword upon thee ſhall approve,
And plead my paſſion for Lavinia's love.
Aar. Clubs, clubs! —— theſe lovers will not keep the peace.
Dem. Why, boy, although our mother (unadvis'd)
Gave you a dancing rapier by your ſide,
Are you ſo deſp'rate grown to threat your friends?
Go to; have your lath glu'd within your ſheath,
'Till you know better how to handle it.
Chi. Mean while, Sir, with the little ſkill I have,
Full well ſhalt thou perceive how much I dare.
Dem. Ay, boy, grow ye ſo brave? [They draw.
Aar. Why, how now, Lords?
So near the Emperor's palace dare you draw?
And maintain ſuch a quarrel openly?
Full well I wot the ground of all this grudge:
I would not for a million of gold,
The cauſe were known to them it moſt concerns.
Nor would your noble mother, for much more,
Be ſo diſhonour'd in the court of Rome.
For ſhame, put up——
Chi. Not I, 'till I have ſheath'd (5)

(5) ——Not I, 'till I have ſheath'd
My Rapier in his boſom,——] This Speech, which has been all along given to Demetrius, as the next has been to Chiron, I have, by the Advice of Mr. Warburton, vice verſa, given to Chiron and Demetrius: for it is Demetrius, as it appears from the Tenour of the Scene, who had thrown out reproachful Speeches on Chiron.

My rapier in his boſom, and withal
Thruſt theſe reproachful ſpeeches down his throat,
That he hath breath'd in my diſhonour here.
Dem. For that I am prepar'd and full reſolv'd,——
Foul-ſpoken coward! thou thundreſt with thy tongue,
And with thy weapon nothing dar'ſt perform.
Aar. Away, I ſay.———
Now by the Gods, that warlike Goths adore,
This petty brabble will undo us all;
Why, Lords—and think you not, how dangerous
It is to jet upon a Prince's right?
What is Lavinia then become ſo looſe,
Or Baſſianus ſo degenerate,
That for her love ſuch quarrels may be broacht,
Without controllment, juſtice, or revenge?
Young Lords, beware—and ſhould the Empreſs know
This diſcord's ground, the muſick would not pleaſe.
Chi. I care not, I, knew ſhe and all the world;
I love Lavinia more than all the world.
Dem. Youngling, learn thou to make ſome meaner choice;
Lavinia is thy elder brother's hope.
Aar. Why, are ye mad! or know ye not, in Rome
How furious and impatient they be,
And cannot brook competitors in love?
I tell you, Lords, you do but plot your deaths
By this device.
Chi. Aaron, a thouſand deaths would I propoſe,
To atchieve her whom I do love.
Aar. To atchieve her——how?
Dem. Why mak'ſt thou it ſo ſtrange?
She is a woman, therefore may be woo'd;
She is a woman, therefore may be won;
She is Lavinia, therefore muſt be lov'd.
What, man! more water glideth by the mill
Than wots the miller of; and eaſy it is
Of a cut loaf to ſteal a ſhive, we know:
Tho' Baſſianus be the Emperor's brother,
Better than he have yet worn Vulcan's badge.
Aar. Ay, and as good as Saturninus may. [Aſide.
Dem.

Dem. Then why ſhould he deſpair, that knows to court it
With words, fair looks, and liberality?
What, haſt thou not full often ſtruck a doe,
And borne her cleanly by the keeper's noſe?

Aar. Why then, it ſeems, ſome certain ſnatch or ſo
Would ſerve your turns.

Chi. Ay, ſo the turn were ſerved.

Dem. Aaron, thou haſt hit it.

Aar. 'Would you had hit it too,
Then ſhould not we be tir'd with this ado:
Why, hark ye, hark ye—and are you ſuch fools, (6)
To ſquare for this? would it offend you then
That both ſhould ſpeed!

Chi. 'Faith, not me.

Dem. Nor me, ſo I were one.

Aar. For ſhame, be friends; and join for that you jar.
'Tis policy and ſtratagem muſt do
That you affect; and ſo muſt you reſolve,
That what you cannot, as you would, atchieve,
You may perforce accompliſh as you may.
Take this of me, Lucrece was not more chaſte
Than this Lavinia, Baſſianus' love;
A ſpeedier courſe than ling'ring languiſhment
Muſt we purſue, and I have found the path.
My Lords, a ſolemn hunting is in hand,
There will the lovely Roman ladies troop:
The foreſt-walks are wide and ſpacious,
And many unfrequented plots there are,
Fitted by kind for rape and villany:
Single you thither then this dainty doe,

(6) ——and are you ſuch Fools
To ſquare for this?——Would it offend you then——
Chi. Faith, not me.
Dem. Nor me, ſo I were one.] This is, Verbum ſat ſapienti, with a Vengeance. The two Brothers ſhew more Sagacity in this Paſſage, than they do throughout the Play beſides; for they make their Anſwer to Aaron, without ever ſtaying to hear him propound his Queſtion. But there is no Occaſion for this Spirit of Divination. The Supplement, which I have made, is reſtored from the Old Quarto, which Mr. Pope pretends to have collated.

nd ſtrike her home by force, if not by words:
his way, or not at all, ſtand you in hope.
ome, come, our Empreſs with her ſacred wit
o villany and vengeance conſecrate,
We will acquaint with all that we intend;
And ſhe ſhall file our engines with advice,
That will not ſuffer you to ſquare yourſelves,
But to your wiſhes' height advance you both.
The Emperor's court is like the houſe of fame,
The palace full of tongues, of eyes, of ears:
The woods are ruthleſs, dreadful, deaf and dull;
There ſpeak, and ſtrike, brave boys, and take your turns,
There ſerve your luſts, ſhadow'd from heaven's eye;
And revel in Lavinia's treaſury.
Chi. Thy counſel, lad, ſmells of no cowardiſe.
Dem. Sit fas aut nefas, 'till I find the ſtream
To cool this heat, a charm to calm theſe fits,
Per Styga, per Manes vehor.——— [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a Foreſt.

Enter Titus Andronicus and his three Sons, with hounds and horns, and Marcus.

Tit. THE hunt is up, the morn is bright and gray;
The fields are fragrant, and the woods are green:
Uncouple here, and let us make a bay:
And wake the Emperor and his lovely bride,
And rouze the Prince, and ring a hunter's peal,
That all the court may echo with the noiſe.
Sons, let it be your charge, as it is ours,
To tend the Emperor's perſon carefully:
I have been troubled in my ſleep this night,
But dawning day new comfort hath inſpir'd.

Here a cry of hounds, and wind horns in a peal: then enter Saturninus, Tamora, Baſſianus, Lavinia, Chiron, Demetrius and their Attendants.

Tit. Many good-morrows to your Majeſty;
Madam, to you as many and as good.

I promiſed your Grace a hunter's peal.
Sat. And you have rung it luſtily, my Lords,
Somewhat too early for new-married ladies.
Baſ. Lavinia, how ſay you?
Lav. I ſay, no:
I have been broad awake two hours and more.
Sat. Come on then, horſe and chariots let us have,
And to our ſport: Madam, now ye ſhall ſee
Our Roman hunting.
Mar. I have dogs, my Lord,
Will rouze the proudeſt panther in the chaſe,
And climb the higheſt promontory-top.
Tit. And I have horſe will follow, where the game
Makes way, and run like ſwallows o'er the plain.
Dem. Chiron, we hunt not, we, with horſe nor hound;
But hope to pluck a dainty doe to ground. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a deſart part of the Foreſt.

Enter Aaron alone.

Aar. HE, that had wit, would think, that I had none,
To bury ſo much gold under a tree;
And never after to inherit it.
Let him, that thinks of me ſo abjectly,
Know, that this gold muſt coin a ſtratagem;
Which, cunningly effected, will beget
A very excellent piece of villany;
And ſo repoſe, ſweet gold, for their unreſt,
That have their alms out of the Empreſs' cheſt.

Enter Tamora.

Tam. My lovely Aaron, wherefore look'ſt thou ſad,
When every thing doth make a gleeful boaſt?
The birds chaunt melody on every buſh,
The ſnake lies rolled in the chearful ſun,
The green leaves quiver with the cooling wind,
And make a checquer'd ſhadow on the ground:
Under their ſweet ſhade, Aaron, let us ſit,

And

And whilſt the babling echo mocks the hounds,
Replying ſhrilly to the well-tun'd horns,
As if a double hunt were heard at once
Let us ſit down and mark their yelling noiſe:
And after conflict, ſuch as was ſuppos'd
The wandring Prince and Dido once enjoy'd,
When with a happy ſtorm they were ſurpriz'd,
And curtain'd with a counſel-keeping cave;
We may, each wreathed in the other's arms,
(Our paſtimes done) poſſeſs a golden ſlumber;
Whilſt hounds and horns, and ſweet melodious birds
Be unto us, as is a nurſe's ſong
Of lullaby, to bring her babe aſleep.

Aar. Madam, though Venus govern your deſires,
Saturn is dominator over mine:
What ſignifies my deadly-ſtanding eye,
My ſilence, and my cloudy melancholy,
My fleece of woolly hair, that now uncurls,
Even as an adder, when ſhe doth unrowl
To do ſome fatal execution?
No, Madam, theſe are no venereal ſigns;
Vengeance is in my heart, death in my hand;
Blood and revenge are hammering in my head.
Hark, Tamora, (the Empreſs of my ſoul,
Which never hopes more heav'n than reſts in thee)
This is the day of doom for Baſſianus;
His Philomel muſt loſe her tongue to-day;
Thy ſons make pillage of her chaſtity,
And waſh their hands in Baſſianus' blood.
Seeſt thou this letter, take it up, I pray thee,
And give the King this fatal-plotted ſcrowl;
Now queſtion me no more, we are eſpied;
Here comes a parcel of our hopeful booty,
Which dread not yet their lives' deſtruction.

Tam. Ah, my ſweet Moor, ſweeter to me than life.

Aar. No more, great Empreſs, Baſſianus comes;
Be croſs with him, and I'll go fetch thy ſons
To back thy quarrels, whatſoe'er they be. [Exit.

Enter

Enter Baſſianus and Lavinia.

'aſ. Whom have we here? Rome's royal Empreſs?
'urniſh'd of her well-beſeeming troops?
is it Dian, habited like her,
o hath abandoned her holy groves,
ſee the general hunting in this foreſt?
am. Saucy controller of our private ſteps:
I the power, that, ſome ſay, Dian had,
temples ſhould be planted preſently
h horns, as was Actæon's; and the hounds ıld drive upon thy new-transformed limbs, nannerly intruder as thou art!
av. Under your patience, gentle Empreſs, thought, you have a goodly gift in horning;
to be doubted, that your Moor and you
ſingled forth to try experiments:
ſhield your huſband from his hounds to-day!
pity, they ſhould take him for a ſtag.
aſ. Believe me, Queen, your ſwarth Cimmerian
ı make your honour of his body's hue,
:ted, deteſted, and abominable.
are you ſequeſtred from all your train?
ıounted from your ſnow-white goodly ſteed,
wandred hither to an obſcure plot,
)mpanied with a barbarous Moor,
ıul deſire had not conducted you?
w. And being intercepted in your ſport, ıt reaſon, that my noble Lord be rated ſaucineſs.——I pray you, let us hence.
let her joy her raven-colour'd love;
valley fits the purpoſe paſſing well.
ſ. The King my brother ſhall have note of this.
w. Ay, for theſe ſlips have made him noted long.
l King, to be ſo mightily abus'd.
m. Why have I patience to endure all this?

Enter Chiron and Demetrius.

n. How now, dear Sovereign and our gracious mother, does your Highneſs look ſo pale and wan?

Tam.

Tam. Have I not reaſon, think you, to look pale?
Theſe two have tic'd me hither to this place;
A barren and deteſted vale, you ſee, it is.
The trees, tho' ſummer, yet forlorn and lean,
O'ercome with moſs, and baleful miſſeltoe.
Here never ſhines the ſun; here nothing breeds,
Unleſs the nightly owl, or fatal rav'n,
And when they ſhew'd me this abhorred pit,
They told me, here at dead time of the night,
A thouſand fiends, a thouſand hiſſing ſnakes,
Ten thouſand ſwelling toads, as many urchins,
Would make ſuch fearful and confuſed cries,
As any mortal body, hearing it,
Should ſtraight fall mad, or elſe die ſuddenly.
No ſooner had they told this helliſh tale,
But ſtraight they told me, they would bind me here,
Unto the body of a diſmal yew;
And leave me to this miſerable death:
And then they call'd me foul adultereſs,
Laſcivious Goth, and all the bittereſt terms
That ever ear did hear to ſuch effect.
And had you not by wondrous fortune come,
This vengeance on me had they executed:
Revenge it, as you love your mother's life;
Or be ye not from henceforth call'd my children.

Dem. This is a witneſs that I am thy ſon.
[Stabs Baſſianus.

Chi. And this for me, ſtruck home to ſhew my ſtrength.
[Stabbing him likewiſe.

Lav. I, come, Semiramis;—nay, barbarous Tamora; (7)
For no name fits thy nature but thy own.

Tam. Give me thy poniard; you ſhall know, my boys,

(7) I come, Semiramis, nay barbarous Tamora,]
By an Inaccuracy of the Pointing, the Editors have all along made Nonſenſe of this Paſſage. But the Poet's Meaning is this; Lavinia, ſeeing her Huſband ſtabbed by the Queen's two Sons, expects and invites the Queen to ſerve her in the ſame kind, and put an end to her Miſeries. Ay, is very frequently writ, I, in Editions of our Author's Time.

Your

Your mother's hand ſhall right your mother's wrong.
Dem. Stay, Madam, here is more belongs to her;
Firſt, thraſh the corn, then after burn the ſtraw:
This minion ſtood upon her chaſtity,
Upon her nuptial vow, her loyalty,
And with that painted hope ſhe braves your Mightineſs;
And ſhall ſhe carry this unto her grave?
Chi. An if ſhe do, I would I were an eunuch.
Drag hence her huſband to ſome ſecret hole,
And make his dead trunk pillow to our luſt.
Tam. But when you have the honey you deſire,
Let not this waſp out-live us both to ſting.
Chi. I warrant, Madam, we will make that ſure;
Come, miſtreſs, now perforce we will enjoy
That nice-preſerved honeſty of yours.
Lav. O Tamora, thou bear'ſt a woman's face——
Tam. I will not hear her ſpeak; away with her.
Lav. Sweet Lords, intreat her hear me but a word—
Dem. Liſten, fair Madam; let it be your glory
To ſee her tears; but be your heart to them,
As unrelenting flints to drops of rain.
Lav. When did the tyger's young ones teach the dam?
O, do not teach her wrath; ſhe taught it thee;
The milk, thou ſuck'dſt from her, did turn to marble;
Even at thy teat thou hadſt thy tyranny.
Yet every mother breeds not ſons alike;
Do thou intreat her, ſhew a woman pity. [To Chiron.
Ch. What! wouldſt thou have me prove myſelf a baſtard?
Lav. 'Tis true, the raven doth not hatch the lark:
Yet have I heard, (Oh, could I find it now!)
The lion, mov'd with pity, did endure
To have his princely paws par'd all away.
Some ſay, that ravens foſter forlorn children,
The whilſt their own birds famiſh in their neſts:
Oh, be to me, tho' thy hard heart ſay, no,
Nothing ſo kind, but ſomething pitiful.
Tam. I know not what it means: away with her.
Lav. Oh, let me teach thee: for my father's ſake,
(That gave thee life, when well he might have ſlain thee)
Be not obdurate, open thy deaf ears.

Tam.

Tam. Hadſt thou in perſon ne'er offended me,
Ev'n for his ſake am I now pitileſs:
Remember, boys, I pour'd forth tears in vain,
To ſave your brother from the ſacrifice;
But fierce Andronicus would not relent:
Therefore away with her, and uſe her as you will;
The worſe to her, the better lov'd of me.

Lav. O Tamora, be call'd a gentle Queen,
And with thine own hands kill me in this place;
For 'tis not life that I have begg'd ſo long;
Poor I was ſlain, when Baſſianus dy'd.

Tam. What begg'ſt thou then? fond woman, let me go.

Lav. 'Tis preſent death I beg; and one thing more,
That womanhood denies my tongue to tell:
O, keep me from their worſe-than-killing luſt,
And tumble me into ſome loatl ſome pit;
Where never man's eye may behold my body:
Do this, and be a charitable murderer.

Tam. So ſhould I rob my ſweet ſons of their fee.
No; let them ſatisfy their luſt on thee.

Dem. Away! For thou haſt ſtaid us here too long.

Lav. No grace? no woman-hood? ah beaſtly creature!
The blot and enemy of our general name!
Confuſion fall———

Chi. Nay, then I'll ſtop your mouth——bring thou her huſband; [Dragging off Lavinia.
This is the hole, where Aaron bid us hide him. [Exeunt.

Tam. Farewel, my ſons; ſee, that you make her ſure.
Ne'er let my heart know merry chear indeed,
'Till all th' Andronici be made away.
Now will I hence to ſeek my lovely Moor,
And let my ſpleenful ſons this trull deflour. [Exit.

Enter Aaron, with Quintus and Marcus.

Aar. Come on, my Lords, the better foot before;
Strait will I bring you to the loathſome pit,
Where I eſpied the Panther faſt aſleep.

Quin. My ſight is very dull, whate'er it bodes.

Mar. And mine, I promiſe you: were't not for ſhame,

Well

/ell could I leave our ſport to ſleep a while.

[Marcus falls into the pit.

Quin. What, art thou fallen? what ſubtle hole is this,
/hoſe mouth is cover'd with rude-growing briars,
'pon whoſe leaves are drops of new-ſhed blood,
s freſh as morning-dew diſtill'd on flowers?
very fatal place it ſeems to me:
peak, brother, haſt thou hurt thee with the fall?

Mar. O brother, with the diſmalleſt object
'hat ever eye, with ſight, made heart lament.

Aar. Now will I fetch the King to find them here;
'hat he thereby may have a likely gueſs,
low theſe were they, that made away his brother.

[Exit Aaron.

Mar. Why doſt not comfort me, and help me out
'rom this unhallow'd and blood-ſtained hole?

Quin. I am ſurprized with an uncouth fear;
chilling ſweat o'er-runs my trembling joints;
/y heart ſuſpects, more than mine eye can ſee.

Mar. To prove thou haſt a true-divining heart,
Aaron and thou, look down into the den,
And ſee a fearful ſight of blood and death.

Quin. Aaron is gone; and my compaſſionate heart
Will not permit my eyes once to behold
The thing, whereat it trembles by ſurmiſe:
), tell me how it is; for ne'er till now
Was I a child, to fear I know not what.

Mar. Lord Baſſianus lies embrewed here,
All on a heap, like to a ſlaughter'd lamb,
n this deteſted, dark, blood-drinking pit.

Quin. If it be dark, how doſt thou know 'tis he?

Mar. Upon his bloody finger he doth wear
A precious ring, that lightens all the hole:
Which, like a taper in ſome monument,
Doth ſhine upon the dead man's earthy cheeks;
And ſhews the ragged entrails of this pit.
So pale did ſhine the moon on Pyramus,
When he by night lay bath'd in maiden blood.
O brother, help me with thy fainting hand,
If fear hath made thee faint, as me it hath)

Out of this fell devouring receptacle,
As hateful as Cocytus' miſty mouth.

Quin. Reach me thy hand, that I may help thee out,
Or, wanting ſtrength to do thee ſo much good,
I may be pluck'd into the ſwallowing womb
Of this deep pit, poor Baſſianus' grave.
I have no ſtrength to pluck thee to the brink.

Mar. And I no ſtrength to climb without thy help.

Quin. Thy hand once more; I will not looſe again,
'Till thou art here aloft, or I below.
Thou canſt not come to me, I come to thee. [Falls in.

Enter the Emperor, and Aaron.

Sat. Along, with me;—I'll ſee what hole is here,
And what he is, that now is leap'd into't.
Say, who art thou, that lately didſt deſcend
Into this gaping hollow of the earth?

Mar. Th' unhappy ſon of old Andronicus,
Brought hither in a moſt unlucky hour,
To find thy brother Baſſianus dead.

Sat. My brother dead? I know thou doſt but jeſt:
He and his lady both are at the lodge,
Upon the north-ſide of this pleaſant chaſe;
'Tis not an hour ſince I left him there.

Mar. We know not where you left him all alive,
But out, alas! here have we found him dead.

Enter Tamora with Attendants; Andronicus, and Lucius.

Tam. Where is my Lord, the King?

Sat. Here, Tamora; though griev'd with killing grief.

Tam. Where is thy brother Baſſianus?

Sat. Now to the bottom doſt thou ſearch my wound;
Poor Baſſianus here lies murdered.

Tam. Then all too late I bring this fatal writ,
The complot of this timeleſs tragedy;
And wonder greatly, that man's face can fold
In pleaſing ſmiles ſuch murderous tyranny.

[She giveth Saturninus a letter.

Satur-

Saturninus reads the letter.

And if we miſs to meet him handſomely,
Sweet huntſman, Baſſianus 'tis we mean;
Do thou ſo much as dig the grave for him,
Thou know'ſt our meaning: look for thy reward
Among the nettles at the elder-tree,
Which overſhades the mouth of that ſame pit,
Where we decreed to bury Baſſianus.
Do this, and purchaſe us thy laſting friends.

Oh, Tamora! was ever heard the like?
This is the pit, and this the elder-tree:
Look, Sirs, if you can find the huntſman out,
That ſhould have murder'd Baſſianus here.

Aar. My gracious Lord, here is the bag of gold.

Sat. Two of thy whelps, fell curs of bloody kind,
Have here bereft my brother of his life. [To Titus.
Sirs, drag them from the pit unto the priſon,
There let them 'bide, until we have devis'd
Some never-heard-of torturing pain for them.

Tam. What, are they in this pit? oh wond'rous thing!
How eaſily murder is diſcovered?

Tit. High Emperor, upon my feeble knee
I beg this boon, with tears not lightly ſhed,
That this fell fault of my accurſed ſons,
(Accurſed, if the fault be prov'd in them—)

Sat. If it be prov'd! you ſee, it is apparent.
Who found this letter? Tamora, was it you?

Tam. Andronicus himſelf did take it up.

Tit. I did, my Lord; yet let me be their bail.
For by my father's reverend tomb, I vow,
They ſhall be ready at your Highneſs' will,
To anſwer their ſuſpicion with their lives.

Sat. Thou ſhalt not bail them: ſee, thou follow me:
Some bring the murder'd body, ſome the murderers.
Let them not ſpeak a word, the guilt is plain;
For, by my ſoul, were there worſe end than death,
That end upon them ſhould be executed.

Tam

Tam. Andronicus, I will entreat the King;
Fear not thy ſons, they ſhall do well enough.
Tit. Come, Lucius, come, ſtay not to talk with them.
[Exeunt ſeverally.

Enter Demetrius and Chiron, with Lavinia, raviſh'd; her hands cut off, and her tongue cut out.

Dem. So, now go tell (an if thy tongue can ſpeak)
Who 'twas that cut thy tongue, and raviſh'd thee.
Chi. Write down thy mind, bewray thy meaning ſo;
And (if thy ſtumps will let thee) play the ſcribe.
Dem. See, how with ſigns and tokens ſhe can ſcrowl.
Chi. Go home, call for ſweet water, waſh thy hands.
Dem. She has no tongue to call, or hands to waſh;
And ſo let's leave her to her ſilent walks.
Chi. If 'twere my caſe, I ſhould go hang myſelf.
Dem. If thou hadſt hands to help thee knit the cord.
[Exeunt Dem. and Chiron.

Enter Marcus to Lavinia.

Mar. Who's this, my Niece, that flies away ſo faſt?
Couſin, a word; where is your huſband?
If I do dream, 'would all my wealth would wake me!
If I do wake, ſome planet ſtrike me down,
That I may ſlumber in eternal ſleep!
Speak, gentle Niece, what ſtern ungentle hands
Have lopp'd, and hew'd, and made thy body bare
Of her two branches, thoſe ſweet ornaments, (8)
Whoſe circling ſhadows Kings have ſought to ſleep in?
And might not gain ſo great a happineſs,
As have thy love! why doſt not ſpeak to me?
Alas, a crimſon river of warm blood,

(8) ——— thoſe ſweet Ornaments,
Whoſe circling Shadows Kings have ſought to ſleep in,
And might not gain ſo great an Happineſs,
As half thy Love! As half her Love? But might they gain any part of her Love? Or would ſhe not conſent to embrace 'em ſo much as with one Arm? The Poet had no ſuch Stuff in his Thoughts. My Correction reſtores the true Meaning; that, tho' Princes languiſhed to ſleep in her Arms, they could not obtain their Suit, or have her Love.

Like

Like to a bubbling fountain ſtirr'd with wind,
Doth riſe and fall between thy roſy lips,
Coming and going with thy honey breath.
But, ſure, ſome Tereus hath defloured thee;
And, leſt thou ſhouldſt detect him, cut thy tongue.
Ah, now thou turn'ſt away thy face for ſhame!
And, notwithſtanding all this loſs of blood,
(As from a conduit with their iſſuing ſpouts,)
Yet do thy cheeks look red as Titan's face,
Bluſhing to be encountered with a cloud.——
Shall I ſpeak for thee? ſhall I ſay, 'tis ſo?
O, that I knew thy heart, and knew the beaſt,
That I might rail at him to eaſe my mind!
Sorrow concealed, like an oven ſtopt,
Doth burn the heart to cinders where it is.
Fair Philomela, ſhe but loſt her tongue,
And in a tedious ſampler ſew'd her mind.
But, lovely Niece, that mean is cut from thee;
A craftier Tereus haſt thou met withal,
And he hath cut thoſe pretty fingers off,
That could have better ſew'd than Philomel.
Oh, had the monſter ſeen thoſe lily hands
Tremble, like aſpen leaves, upon a lute,
And make the ſilken ſtrings delight to kiſs them;
He would not then have touch'd them for his life.
Or had he heard the heav'nly harmony,
Which that ſweet tongue hath made;
He would have dropt his knife, and fell aſleep,
As Cerberus at the Thracian Poet's feet.
Come, let us go, and make thy father blind;
For ſuch a ſight will blind a father's eye.
One hour's ſtorm will drown the fragrant meads,
What will whole months of tears thy father's eyes?
Do not draw back, for we will mourn with thee:
Oh, could our mourning eaſe thy miſery! [Exeunt.

ACT III.

SCENE, a Street in Rome.

Enter the Judges and Senators, with Marcus and Quintus bound, paſſing on the ſtage to the place of execution, and Titus going before, pleading.

TITUS.

HEAR me, grave fathers; noble Tribunes, ſtay,
For pity of mine age, whoſe youth was ſpent
In dangerous wars, whilſt you ſecurely ſlept:
For all my blood in Rome's great quarrel ſhed,
For all the froſty nights that I have watcht,
And for theſe bitter tears, which you now ſee
Filling the aged wrinkles in my cheeks,
Be pitiful to my condemned ſons,
Whoſe ſouls are not corrupted, as 'tis thought.
For two and twenty ſons I never wept,
Becauſe they died in honour's lofty bed.

[Andronicus lieth down, and the judges paſs by him.

For theſe, theſe, Tribunes, in the duſt I write
My heart's deep langour, and my ſoul's ſad tears:
Let my tears ſtanch the earth's dry appetite,
My ſons' ſweet blood will make it ſhame and bluſh:
O earth! I will befriend thee more with rain, [Exeunt.
That ſhall diſtil from theſe two ancient ruins,
Than youthful April ſhall with all his ſhowers;
In ſummer's drought I'll drop upon thee ſtill;
In winter, with warm tears I'll melt the ſnow;
And keep eternal ſpring-time on thy face,
So thou refuſe to drink my dear ſons' blood.

Enter Lucius with his ſword drawn.

Oh, reverend Tribunes! gentle aged men!
Unbind my ſons, reverſe the doom of death:

An

And let me ſay, (that never wept before)
My tears are now prevailing orators.

Luc. Oh, noble father, you lament in vain;
The Tribunes hear you not, no man is by;
And you recount your ſorrows to a ſtone.

Tit. Ah, Lucius, for thy brothers let me plead;——
Grave Tribunes, once more I intreat of you——

Luc. My gracious Lord, no Tribune hears you ſpeak.

Tit. Why, 'tis no matter, man; if they did hear,
They would not mark me; or, if they did mark,
They would not pity me.——
Therefore, I tell my ſorrows to the ſtones,
Who, tho' they cannot anſwer my diſtreſs,
Yet in ſome ſort they're better than the Tribunes,
For that they will not intercept my tale;
When I do weep, they humbly at my feet
Receive my tears, and ſeem to weep with me;
And were they but attired in grave weeds,
Rome could afford no Tribune like to theſe.
A ſtone is ſoft as wax, Tribunes more hard than ſtones:
A ſtone is ſilent, and offendeth not,
And Tribunes with their tongues doom men to death.
But wherefore ſtand'ſt thou with thy weapon drawn?

Luc. To reſcue my two brothers from their death;
For which attempt, the judges have pronounc'd
My everlaſting doom of baniſhment.

Tit. O happy man, they have befriended thee:
Why, fooliſh Lucius, doſt thou not perceive,
That Rome is but a wilderneſs of tygers:
Tygers muſt prey, and Rome affords no prey
But me and mine; how happy art thou then,
From theſe devourers to be baniſhed?
But who comes with our brother Marcus here?

Enter Marcus, and Lavinia.

Mar. Titus, prepare thy noble eyes to weep,
Or, if not ſo, thy noble heart to break:
I bring conſuming ſorrow to thine age.

Tit. Will it conſume me? let me ſee it then.

Mar. This was thy daughter.

Tit. Why, Marcus, ſo ſhe is.

Luc. Ah me! this object kills me.

Tit. Faint-hearted boy, ariſe and look upon her:
Speak, my Lavinia, what accurſed hand
Hath made thee handleſs, in thy father's ſpight? (9)
What fool hath added water to the ſea?
Or brought a faggot to bright-burning Troy?
My grief was at the height before thou cam'ſt,
And now, like Nilus, it diſdaineth bounds:
Give me a ſword, I'll chop off my hands too,
For they have fought for Rome, and all in vain:
And they have nurs'd this woe, in feeding life:
In bootleſs prayer have they been held up,
And they have ſerv'd me to effectleſs uſe.
Now all the ſervice I require of them,
Is that the one will help to cut the other:
'Tis well, Lavinia, that thou haſt no hands,
For hands to do Rome ſervice are but vain.

Luc. Speak, gentle ſiſter, who hath martyr'd thee?

Mar. O, that delightful engine of her thoughts,
That blab'd them with ſuch pleaſing eloquence,
Is torn from forth that pretty hollow cage,
Where, like a ſweet melodious bird, it ſung
Sweet various notes, inchanting every ear!

Luc. Oh, ſay thou for her, who hath done this deed?

Mar. O, thus I found her ſtraying in the park,
Seeking to hide herſelf; as doth the deer,
That hath receiv'd ſome unrecuring wound.

Tit. It was my deer; and he, that wounded her,
Hath hurt me more than had he kill'd me dead:

(9) ——— what accurſed Hand
Hath made thee handleſs in thy Father's Sight?] But though Lavinia appeared handleſs in her Father's Preſence, ſhe was not made ſo in his Sight. And if that be the true Reading, it can at beſt bear but this poor Meaning, What curſed Hand hath robbed thee of thy Hands, for thy Father to ſee thee in that Condition? The ſlight Alteration, I have given, adds a much more reaſonable Complaint, and aggravates the Sentiment. What curſed Hand hath robbed thee of thy Hands, only in Deſpight to thy Father, only to encreaſe his Torments?

For now I ſtand as one upon a rock,
Environ'd with a wilderneſs of ſea,
Who marks the waxing tide grow wave by wave;
Expecting ever when ſome envious ſurge
Will in his briniſh bowels ſwallow him.
This way to death my wretched ſons are gone;
Here ſtands my other ſon, a baniſh'd man;
And here my brother, weeping at my woes.
But that, which gives my ſoul the greateſt ſpurn,
Is dear Lavinia, dearer than my ſoul.——
Had I but ſeen thy picture in this plight,
It would have madded me. What ſhall I do,
Now I behold thy lovely body ſo?
Thou haſt no hands to wipe away thy tears,
Nor tongue to tell me who hath martyr'd thee;
Thy huſband he is dead; and for his death
Thy brothers are condemn'd, and dead by this.
Look, Marcus! ah, ſon Lucius, look on her:
When I did name her brothers, then freſh tears
Stood on her cheeks; as doth the honey-dew
Upon a gather'd lily almoſt wither'd.

Mar. Perchance, ſhe weeps, becauſe they kill'd her huſband.

Perchance, becauſe ſhe knows them innocent.

Tit. If they did kill thy huſband, then be joyful,
Becauſe the law hath ta'en revenge on them.
No, no, they would not do ſo foul a deed;
Witneſs the ſorrow, that their ſiſter makes.
Gentle Lavinia, let me kiſs thy lips,
Or make ſome ſigns how I may do thee eaſe:
Shall thy good Uncle, and thy brother Lucius,
And thou, and I, ſit round about ſome fountain,
Looking all downwards to behold our cheeks,
How they are ſtain'd like meadows yet not dry
With miry ſlime left on them by a flood?
And in the fountain ſhall we gaze ſo long,
'Till the freſh taſte be taken from that clearneſs,
And made a brine-pit with our bitter tears?
Or ſhall we cut away our hands like thine?
Or ſhall we bite our tongues, and in dumb ſhows

Pass the remainder of our hateful days?
What shall we do? let us that have our tongues,
Plot some device of further misery,
To make us wondred at in time to come.
Luc. Sweet father, cease your tears; for, at your gri
See, how my wretched sister sobs and weeps.
Mar. Patience, dear Niece; good Titus, dry thine ey
Tit. Ah, Marcus, Marcus! brother, well I wot,
Thy napkin cannot drink a tear of mine,
For thou, poor man, hast drown'd it with thine own.
Luc. Ah, my Lavinia, I will wipe thy cheeks.
Tit. Mark, Marcus, mark; I understand her signs;
Had she a tongue to speak, now would she say
That to her brother which I said to thee.
His napkin, with his true tears all bewet,
Can do no service on her sorrowful cheeks.
Oh, what a sympathy of woe is this!
As far from help as Limbo is from bliss.

Enter Aaron.

Aar. Titus Andronicus, my Lord the Emperor
Sends thee this word; that if thou love thy sons,
Let Marcus, Lucius, or thyself, old Titus,
Or any one of you, chop off your hand,
And send it to the King; he for the same
Will send thee hither both thy sons alive,
And that shall be the ransom for their fault.
Tit. Oh, gracious Emperor! oh, gentle Aaron!
Did ever raven sing so like a lark,
That gives sweet tidings of the sun's uprise?
With all my heart, I'll send the Emperor my hand;
Good Aaron, wilt thou help to chop it off?
Luc. Stay, father, for that noble hand of thine,
That hath thrown down so many enemies,
Shall not be sent; my hand will serve the turn.
My youth can better spare my blood than you,
And therefore mine shall save my brothers' lives.
Mar. Which of your hands hath not defended Rome,
And rear'd aloft the bloody battle-ax,

Writing

iting deſtruction on the enemies' caſque ? (10)
none of both but are of high deſert :
hand hath been but idle, let it ſerve
ranſom my two Nephews from their death ;
en have I kept it to a worthy end.
lar. Nay, come, agree, whoſe hand ſhall go along,
fear they die before their pardon come.
lar. My hand ſhall go.
uc. By heav'n, it ſhall not go.
it. Sirs, ſtrive no more, ſuch wither'd herbs as theſe meet for plucking up, and therefore mine.
uc. Sweet father, if I ſhall be thought thy ſon, me redeem my brothers both from death.
lar. And for our father's ſake, and mother's care,
w let me ſhew a brother's love to thee.
it. Agree between you, I will ſpare my hand.
uc. Then I'll go fetch an ax.
lar. But I will uſe the ax. [Exe. Lucius and Marcus.
it. Come hither, Aaron, I'll deceive them both,
id me thy hand, and I will give thee mine.
lar. If that be call'd deceit, I will be honeſt,
d never, whilſt I live, deceive men ſo.
I'll deceive you in another ſort,
d that, you'll ſay, ere half an hour paſs. [Aſide.
[He cuts off Titus's hand.

10) Which of your Hands hath not defended Rome,
And rear'd aloft the bloody Battle-ax,
Writing Deſtruction on the Enemies' Caſtle ?] This is a Paſſage, ch ſhews a moſt wonderful Sagacity in our Editors. They could ſure, intend an Improvement of the Art Military, by teaching hat it was ever a Cuſtom to hew down Caſtles with the Battle-Axe. could they have a Deſign to tell us, that they wore Caſtles for- ly on their heads for defenſive Armour ? I ventured, ſome time to correct the Paſſage thus ; an Helmet ; from the French Word, une Caſque. A broken k he Manuſcript might eaſily be miſtaken for t l, and thus a Caſtle built at once. But as I think it is much more feiſible to ſplit Helmet with a Battle-ax, than to cut down a Caſtle with it, I ſhall inue to ſtand by my Emendation.

Writing Deſtruction on the Enemies' Caſk.

Enter Lucius and Marcus again.

Tit. Now ſtay your ſtrife; what ſhall be, is diſpatch'd:
Good Aaron, give his Majeſty my hand:
Tell him, it was a hand that warded him
From thouſand dangers, bid him bury it:
More hath it merited; that let it have.
As for my ſons, ſay, I account of them
As jewels purchas'd at an eaſy price;
And yet dear too, becauſe I bought mine own.

Aar. I go, Andronicus; and for thy hand
Look by and by to have thy ſons with thee:
Their heads, I mean.—Oh, how this villainy [Aſide.
Doth fat me with the very thought of it!
Let fools do good, and fair men call for grace,
Aaron will have his ſoul black like his face. [Exit.

Tit. O heav'n!—I lift this one hand up to heav'n,
And bow this feeble ruin to the earth;
If any Power pities wretched tears,
To that I call:—What, wilt thou kneel with me?
Do then, dear heart, for heav'n ſhall hear our prayers;
Or with our ſighs we'll breathe the welkin dim,
And ſtain the ſun with fogs, as ſometime clouds,
When they do hug him in their melting boſoms.

Mar. Oh! brother, ſpeak with poſſibilities,
And do not break into theſe deep extremes.

Tit. Is not my ſorrow deep, having no bottom?
Then be my paſſions bottomleſs with them.

Mar. But yet let reaſon govern thy lament.

Tit. If there were reaſon for theſe miſeries,
Then into limits could I bind my woes.
When heav'n doth weep, doth not the earth o'erflow?
If the winds rage, doth not the ſea wax mad,
Threatning the welkin with his big-ſwol'n face?
And wilt thou have a ranſom for this coil?
I am the ſea; hark, how her ſighs do blow;
She is the weeping welkin, I the earth:
Then muſt my ſea be moved with her ſighs,
Then muſt my earth with her continual tears

Become

e a deluge, overflow'd and drown'd:
ıy, my bowels cannot hide her woes,
ke a drunkard, muſt I vomit them;
ive me leave, for loſers will have leave
: their ſtomachs with their bitter tongues.

a Meſſenger, bringing in two heads and a hand.

Worthy Andronicus, ill art thou repay'd ıt good hand thou ſent'ſt the Emperor;
re the heads of thy two noble ſons,
:re's thy hand in ſcorn to thee ſent back;
:ief's their ſport, thy reſolution mockt:
/oe is me to think upon thy woes,
han remembrance of my father's death. [Exit.
. Now let hot Ætna cool in Sicily,
: my heart an ever-burning hell;
miſeries are more than may be borne!
:p with them that weep doth eaſe ſome deal,
row flouted at is double death.
Ah, that this ſight ſhould make ſo deep a wound,
:t deteſted life not ſhrink thereat;
ver death ſhould let life bear his name,
life hath no more intereſt but to breathe.
Alas, poor heart, that kiſs is comfortleſs,
:en water to a ſtarved ſnake.
When will this fearful ſlumber have an end?
Now, farewel, flattery! die, Andronicus;
loſt not ſlumber; ſee, thy two ſons' heads,
arlike hand; thy mangled daughter here;
her baniſh'd ſon with this dear ſight
pale and bloodleſs; and thy brother I, ke a ſtony image, cold and numb.
ow no more will I controll thy griefs; (12)

lb, now no more will I controll my Griefs;] I read, ---- thy Marcus had before perſuaded Titus to be temperate and he Exceſs of his Sorrows: but now, ſays he, that ſo mi- n Object is preſented to your Sight as a dear Daughter ſo abus'd, e'en indulge your Sorrows till they put an end to trable Life.

Rend off thy ſilver hair, thy other hand
Gnawing with thy teeth, and be this diſmal ſight
The cloſing up of your moſt wretched eyes!
Now is a time to ſtorm, why art thou ſtill?

Tit. Ha, ha, ha!———

Mar. Why doſt thou laugh? it fits not with this hour.

Tit. Why, I have not another tear to ſhed;
Beſides, this ſorrow is an enemy,
And would uſurp upon my watry eyes,
And make them blind with tributary tears;
Then which way ſhall I find Revenge's cave?
For theſe two heads do ſeem to ſpeak to me,
And threat me, I ſhall never come to bliſs,
'Till all theſe miſchiefs be return'd again,
Even in their throats that have committed them.
Come, let me ſee, what taſk I have to do———
You heavy people, circle me about;
That I may turn me to each one of you,
And ſwear unto my ſoul to right your wrongs.
The vow is made;——come, Brother, take a head,
And in this hand the other will I bear;
Lavinia, thou ſhalt be employed in theſe things;
Bear thou my hand, ſweet wench, between thy teeth;
As for thee boy, go get thee from my ſight,
Thou art an exile, and thou muſt not ſtay.
Hie to the Goths, and raiſe an army there;
And if you love me, as I think you do,
Let's kiſs and part, for we have much to do. [Exeunt.

Manet Lucius.

Luc. Farewel, Andronicus, my noble father,
The woful'ſt man that ever liv'd in Rome;
Farewel, proud Rome, 'till Lucius come again,
He leaves his pledges dearer than his life;
Farewel, Lavinia, my noble ſiſter,
O, 'would thou wert as thou tofore haſt been!
But now nor Lucius nor Lavinia lives.
But in oblivion and hateful griefs;
If Lucius live, he will requite your wrongs,

And

And make proud Saturninus and his Empreſs
Beg at the gates, like Tarquin and his Queen.
Now will I to the Goths, and raiſe a Power,
To be reveng'd on Rome and Saturnine. [Exit Lucius.

SCENE, an Apartment in Titus's Houſe.

A BANQUET.

Enter Titus, Marcus, Lavinia, and young Lucius, a Boy.

Tit. SO, ſo, now ſit; and look, you eat no more
Than will preſerve juſt ſo much ſtrength in us,
As will revenge theſe bitter woes of ours.
Marcus, unknit that ſorrow-wreathen knot;
Thy niece and I, poor creatures, want our hands,
And cannot paſſionate our ten-fold grief
With folded arms. This poor right hand of mine
Is left to tyrannize upon my breaſt;
And when my heart, all mad with miſery,
Beats in this hollow priſon of my fleſh,
Then thus I thump it down.——
Thou map of woe, that thus doſt talk in ſigns!
When thy poor heart beats with outragious beating,
Thou canſt not ſtrike it thus to make it ſtill;
Wound it with ſighing, girl, kill it with groans;
Or get ſome little knife between thy teeth.
And juſt againſt thy heart make thou a hole,
That all the tears, that thy poor eyes let fall,
May run into that ſink, and ſoaking in,
Drown the lamenting fool in ſea-ſalt tears.

Mar. Fy, brother, fy, teach her not thus to lay
Such violent hands upon her tender life.

Tit. How now! has ſorrow made thee doat already?
Why, Marcus, no man ſhould be mad but I;
What violent hands can ſhe lay on her life?
Ah, wherefore doſt thou urge the name of hand,——
To bid Æneas tell the tale twice o'er,
How Troy was burnt, and he made miſerable?
O, handle not the theme: no talk of hands,——

Left

Leſt we remember ſtill, that we have none.
Fy, fy, how frantickly I ſquare my talk,
As if we ſhould forget we had no hands,
If Marcus did not name the word of hands?
Come, let's fall to, and, gentle girl, eat this.
Here is no drink: hark, Marcus, what ſhe ſays,
I can interpret all her martyr'd ſigns;
She ſays, ſhe drinks no other drink but tears,
Brew'd with her ſorrows, meſh'd upon her cheeks.
Speechleſs complaint!——O, I will learn thy thought;
In thy dumb action will I be as perfect,
As begging hermits in their holy prayers.
Thou ſhalt not ſigh, nor hold thy ſtumps to heav'n,
Nor wink, nor nod, nor kneel, nor mak a ſign,
But I, of theſe, will wreſt an alphabet,
And by ſtill practice learn to know thy meaning.
Boy. Good grandſire, leave theſe bitter, deep, laments;
Make my Aunt merry with ſome pleaſing tale.
Mar. Alas, the tender boy, in paſſion mov'd,
Doth weep to ſee his grandſire's heavineſs.
Tit. Peace, tender ſapling; thou art made of tears,
And tears will quickly melt thy life away.
[Marcus ſtrikes the diſh with a knife.
What doſt thou ſtrike at, Marcus, with thy knife?
Mar. At that that I have kill'd, my Lord, a fly.
Tit. Out on thee, murderer; thou kill'ſt my heart;
Mine eyes are cloy'd with view of tyranny:
A deed of death done on the innocent
Becomes not Titus' brother; get thee gone,
I ſee thou art not for my company.
Mar. Alas, my Lord, I have but kill'd a fly.
Tit. But?—how if that fly had a father and mother!
How would he hang his ſlender gilded wings,
And buz lamenting Dolings in the air? (12)

(12) And buz lamenting Doings in the Air.] Lamenting Doings, is a very idle Expreſſion, and conveys no Idea. The Alteration, which I have made, tho' it is but the Addition of a ſingle Letter, is a great Increaſe to the Senſe: and tho', indeed, there is ſomewhat of a Tautology in the Epithet and Subſtantive annext to it, yet that's no new Thing with our Author.

Poor harmleſs fly,
That with his pretty buzzing melody,
Came here to make us merry;
And thou haſt kill'd him.

Mar. Pardon me, Sir, it was a black ill-favour'd fly,
Like to the Empreſs' Moor; therefore I kill'd him.

Tit. O, O, O,
Then pardon me for reprehending thee,
For thou haſt done a charitable deed:
Give me thy knife, I will inſult on him,
Flattering myſelf, as if it were the Moor
Come hither purpoſely to poiſon me.
There's for thyſelf, and that's for Tamora:
Yet ſtill, I think, we are not brought ſo low,
But that between us we can kill a fly,
That comes in likeneſs of a cole black Moor.

Mar. Alas, poor man, grief has ſo wrought on him.
He takes falſe ſhadows for true ſubſtances.
Come, take away; Lavinia, go with me;
I'll to thy cloſet, and go read with thee
Sad ſtories, chanced in the times of old.
Come boy, and go with me; thy ſight is young,
And thou ſhalt read, when mine begins to dazzle.

[Exeunt.

ACT IV.

SCENE, Titus's Houſe.

Enter young Lucius, and Lavinia running after him; and the boy flies from her, with his books under his arm. Enter Titus and Marcus.

BOY.

HELP, grandſire, help; my Aunt Lavinia
Follows me every where, I know not why.
Good uncle Marcus, ſee, how ſwift ſhe comes:

Alas,

Alas, ſweet Aunt, I know not what you mean.
Mar. Stand by me, Lucius, do not fear thy Aunt.
Tit. She loves thee, boy, too well to do thee harm.
Boy. Ay, when my father was in Rome, ſhe did.
Mar. What means my niece Lavinia by theſe ſigns?
Tit. Fear thou not, Lucius, ſomewhat doth ſhe mean:
See, Lucius, ſee, how much ſhe makes of thee:
Some whither would ſhe have thee go with her.
Ah, boy, Cornelia never with more care
Read to her ſons, than ſhe hath read to thee,
Sweet poetry, and Tully's oratory:
Canſt thou not gueſs wherefore ſhe plies thee thus?
Boy. My Lord, I know not, I, nor can I gueſs,
Unleſs ſome fit or frenzy do poſſeſs her:
For I have heard my grandſire ſay full oft,
Extremity of grief would make men mad.
And I have read, that Hecuba of Troy
Ran mad through ſorrow; that made me to fear;
Although, my Lord, I know my noble Aunt
Loves me as dear as e'er my Mother did:
And would not, but in fury, fright my youth;
Which made me down to throw my books, and fly,
Cauſeleſs, perhaps, but pardon me, ſweet Aunt;
And, Madam, if my uncle Marcus go,
I will moſt willingly attend your ladyſhip.
Mar. Lucius, I will.
Tit. How now, Lavinia? Marcus, what means this?
Some book there is that ſhe deſires to ſee.
Which is it, girl, of theſe? open them, boy.
But thou art deeper read, and better ſkill'd:
Come and make choice of all my library
And ſo beguile thy ſorrow, 'till the heav'ns
Reveal the damn'd contriver of this deed:
Why lifts ſhe up her arms in ſequence thus?
Mar. I think, ſhe means, that there was more than one
Confederate in the fact: Ay, more there was:
Or elſe to heav'n ſhe heaves them for revenge.
Tit. Lucius, what book is that ſhe toſſes ſo?
Boy. Grandſire, 'tis Ovid's Metamorphoſes;
My mother gave it me.

Mar.

Mar. For love of her that's gone,
Perhaps ſhe cull'd it from among the reſt.
Tit. Soft! ſee, how buſily ſhe turns the leaves!
Help her: what would ſhe find? Lavinia, ſhall I read?
This is the tragick Tale of Philomel,
And treats of Tereus' treaſon and his rape;
And rape, I fear, was root of thine annoy.
Mar. See, brother, ſee; note, how ſhe quotes the leaves.
Tit. Lavinia, wert thou thus ſurpriz'd, ſweet girl,
Raviſh'd and wrong'd as Philomela was,
Forc'd in the ruthleſs, vaſt, and gloomy woods?
See, ſee;———
Ay, ſuch a place there is, where we did hunt,
(O had we never, never, hunted there!)
Pattern'd by that the Poet here deſcribes,
By nature made for murders and for rapes.
Mar. O, why ſhould Nature build ſo foul a den,
Unleſs the Gods delight in tragedies!
Tit. Give ſigns, ſweet Girl, for here are none but friends,
What Roman Lord it was durſt do the deed;
Or ſlunk not Saturnine, as Tarquin erſt,
That left the camp to ſin in Lucrece' bed?
Mar. Sit down, ſweet niece; brother, ſit down by me.
Apollo, Pallas, Jove or Mercury,
Inſpire me, that I may this treaſon find.
My Lord, look here; look here Lavinia.
[He writes his name with his ſtaff, and guides it with his feet and mouth.
This ſandy plot is plain; guide, if thou can'ſt,
This after me, when I have writ my name,
Without the help of any hand at all.
Curſt be that heart, that forc'd us to this ſhift!
Write thou, good Niece; and here diſplay, at leaſt,
What God will have diſcover'd for revenge:
Heav'n guide thy pen, to print thy ſorrows plain,
That we may know the traitors, and the truth!
[She takes the ſtaff in her mouth, and guides it with her ſtumps, and writes.
Tit. Oh, do you read, my Lord, what ſhe hath writ?
Stuprum, Chiron, Demetrius.

Mar:

Mar. What, what!——the luſtful Sons of Tamora
Performers of this hateful bloody deed?

Tit. Magne Dominator Poli,
Tam lentus audis ſcelera! tam lentus vides!

Mar. Oh, calm thee, gentle Lord; although, I know,
There is enough written upon this earth,
To ſtir a mutiny in the mildeſt thoughts,
And arm the minds of infants to exclaims.
My Lord, kneel down with me: Lavinia kneel,
And kneel, ſweet boy, the Roman Hector's hope,
And ſwear with me, (as, with the woeful peer,
And father, of that chaſte diſhonoured Dame,
Lord Junius Brutus ſware for Lucrece' rape,)
That we will proſecute (by good advice) (13)
Mortal revenge upon theſe traiterous Goths;
And ſee their blood, ere die with this reproach.

Tit. 'Tis ſure enough, if you knew how.
But if you hurt theſe bare-whelps, then beware,
The dam will wake; and if ſhe wind you once,
She's with the lion deeply ſtill in league;
And lulls him whilſt ſhe playeth on her back,
And, when he ſleeps, will ſhe do what ſhe liſt.
You're a young huntſman, Marcus, let it alone;
And come, I will go get a leaf of braſs,
And with a gad of ſteel will write theſe words,
And lay it by; the angry northern wind

(13) That we will proſecute (by good Advice)
Mortal Revenge upon theſe traiterous Goths;
And ſee their Blood, or die with this Reproach.] But if they endeavoured to throw off the Reproach, tho' they fell in the Attempt, they could not be properly ſaid to die with that Reproach. Marcus muſt certainly mean that they would have Revenge on their Enemies, and ſpill their Blood, rather than they would tamely ſit down, and die, under ſuch Injuries. For this Reaſon I have corrected the Text,

——————— ere die with this Reproach:

I am not to learn, that or formerly was equivalent to ere.——Or, before, ere: Gloſſ. to Urrey's Chaucer.——Or, for ere: quod etiamnum in agro Lincolnienſi frequentiſſime uſurpatur, Skinner in his Gloſſary of Uncommon Words.---- But this Uſage was too obſolete for our Shakeſpeare's Time.

Will

Will blow theſe ſands, like Sybil's leaves, abroad,
And where's your leſſon then? boy, what ſay you?

Boy. I ſay, my Lord that if I were a man,
Their mother's bed-chamber ſhould not be ſafe,
For theſe bad bond-men to the yoke of Rome.

Mar. Ay, that's my boy! thy father hath full oft
For this ungrateful country done the like.

Boy. And, Uncle, ſo will I, an if I live.

Tit. Come, go with me into my armoury.
Lucius, I'll fit thee; and withal, my boy
Shall carry from me to the Empreſs' ſons
Preſents, that I intend to ſend them both.
Come, come, thou'll do my meſſage, wilt thou not?

Boy. Ay, with my dagger in their boſom, grandſire.

Tit. No, boy, not ſo; I'll teach thee another courſe.
Lavinia, come; Marcus, look to my houſe:
Lucius and I'll go brave it at the court,
Ay, marry, will we, Sir; and we'll be waited on.

[Exeunt.

Mar. O Heavens, can you hear a good man groan,
And not relent, or not compaſſion him?
Marcus, attend him in his ecſtaſy,
That hath more ſcars of ſorrow in his heart,
Than foe-mens' marks upon his batter'd ſhield;
But yet ſo juſt, that he will not revenge;
Revenge the Heaven's for old Andronicus! [Exit.

SCENE, changes to the Palace.

Enter Aaron, Chiron, and Demetrius at one door: and at another door young Lucius, and another, with a bundle of weapons and verſes writ upon them.

Chi. Demetrius, here's the ſon of Lucius;
He hath ſome meſſage to deliver us.

Aar. Ay, ſome mad meſſage from his mad grandfather.

Boy. My Lords, with all the humbleneſs I may,
I greet your honours from Andronicus;
And pray the Roman Gods, confound you both.

Dem.

Dem. Gramercy, lovely Lucius, what's the news?
Boy. That you are both decypher'd (that's the news)
For villains mark'd with rape. May it pleaſe you,
My grandſire, well advis'd, hath ſent by me
The goodlieſt weapons of his armoury,
To gratify your honourable youth,
The hope of Rome; for ſo he bade me ſay:
And ſo I do, and with his gifts preſent
Your Lordſhips, that whenever you have need,
You may be armed and appointed well.
And ſo I leave you both, like bloody villains. [Exit.
Dem. What's here, a ſcrowl, and written round about?
Let's ſee.
Integer vitæ, ſceleriſque purus,
Non eget Mauri jaculis nec arcu.
Chi. O, 'tis a verſe in Horace, I know it well:
I read it in the Grammar long ago.
Aar. Ay, juſt; ——a verſe in Horace—— right, you have it ——
Now, what a thing it is to be an aſs?
Here's no fond jeſt; th' old man hath found their guilt, (14)
And ſends the weapons wrap'd about with lines,
That wound, beyond their feeling, to the quick:
But were our witty Empreſs well a-foot,
She would applaud Andronicus' conceit:
But let her reſt in her unreſt a-while.
And now, young Lords, was't not a happy ſtar
Led us to Rome ſtrangers, and more than ſo,
Captives, to be advanced to this height?
It did me good before the palace-gate
To brave the Tribune in his brother's hearing.
Dem. But me more good, to ſee ſo great a Lord
Baſely inſinuate, and ſend us gifts.
Aar. Had he not reaſon, Lord Demetrius?

(14) Here's no ſound jeaſt;] But, I think, I may venture to ſay, here's no ſound Senſe. Doubtleſs, the Poet wrote, here's no fond jeaſt, i. e. no idle, fooliſh one; but a Sarcaſm deliberately thrown, and grounded on Reaſon.

Did

/ou not uſe his daughter very friendly?
m. I would, we had a thouſand Roman dames ch a bay, by turn to ſerve our luſt.
i. A charitable wiſh, and full of love.
r. Here lacketh but your mother to ſay Amen.
i. And that would ſhe for twenty thouſand more.
m. Come, let us go, and pray to all the Gods ur beloved mother in her pains.
r. Pray to the devils; the Gods have given us over.
[Flouriſh.
m. Why do the Emp'ror's trumpets flouriſh thus?
i. Belike, for joy the Emp'ror hath a ſon.
m. Soft, who comes here?

Enter Nurſe, with a Black-a-moor Child.

r. Good-morrow, Lords:
ll me, did you ſee Aaron the Moor?
r. Well, more or leſs, or ne'er a whit at all,
Aaron is, and what with Aaron now?
r. O gentle Aaron, we are all undone:
help, or woe betide thee evermore!
r. Why, what a caterwauling doſt thou keep?
: doſt thou wrap and fumble in thine arms?
r. O that which I would hide from heaven's eye, Empreſs' ſhame, and ſtately Rome's diſgrace.
; deliver'd, Lords, ſhe is deliver'd.
r. To whom?
r. I mean, ſhe is brought to bed.
r. Well, God give her good reſt!
: hath he ſent her?
r. A devil.
r. Why, then ſhe is the devil's dam: a joyful iſſue.
r. A joyleſs, diſmal, black, and ſorrowful iſſue.
is the babe, as loathſome as a toad,
igſt the faireſt b[illegible]ders of our clime.
Empreſs ſends it thee, thy ſtamp, thy ſeal:
bids thee chriſten it with thy dagger's point.
r. Out, out, you whore! is black ſo baſe a hue?
: blowſe, you are a beauteous bloſſom, ſure.

Dem. Villain, what haſt thou done?
Aar. That which thou canſt not undo.
Chi. Thou haſt undone our mother.
Aar. Villain, I've done thy mother.
Dem. And therein, helliſh dog, thou haſt undone.
Woe to her chance, and damn'd her loathed choice,
Accurs'd the offspring of ſo foul a fiend!
Chi. It ſhall not live.
Aar. It ſhall not die.
Nur. Aaron, it muſt, the mother wills it ſo.
Aar. What, muſt it, nurſe? then let no man but I
Do execution on my fleſh and blood.
Dem. I'll broach the tadpole on my rapier's point:
Nurſe, give it me, my ſword ſhall ſoon diſpatch it.
Aar. Sooner this ſword ſhall plough thy bowels up.
Stay, murderous villains, will you kill your brother?
Now, by the burning tapers of the ſky,
That ſhone ſo brightly when this boy was got,
He dies upon my ſcymitar's ſharp point,
That touches this my firſt-born ſon and heir.
I tell you, younglings, not Enceladus
With all his threatning band of Typhon's brood,
Nor great Alcides, nor the God of war,
Shall ſeize this prey out of his father's hands.
What, what, ye ſanguine ſhallow-hearted boys,
Ye white-lim'd walls, ye ale-houſe painted ſigns,
Coal-black is better than another hue,
In that it ſcorns to bear another hue:
For all the water in the ocean
Can never turn the ſwan's black legs to white,
Although ſhe lave them hourly in the flood.
Tell the Empreſs from me, I am of age
To keep mine own; excuſe it, how ſhe can.
Dem. Wilt thou betray thy noble miſtreſs thus?
Aar. My miſtreſs is my miſtreſs; this, myſelf;
The vigour and the picture of my youth.
This, before all the world do I prefer;
This, maugre all the world, will I keep ſafe;
Or ſome of you ſhall ſmoke for it in Rome.
Dem. By this our mother is for ever ſham'd.

Ch

Chi. Rome will deſpiſe her for this foul eſcape.
Nur. The Emperor in his rage will doom her death.
Chi. I bluſh to think upon this ignominy.
Aar. Why, there's the privilege your beauty bears:
Fy, treacherous hue, that will betray with bluſhing
The cloſe enacts and counſels of the heart!
Here's a young lad fram'd of another leer,
Look, how the black ſlave ſmiles upon the father;
As who ſhould ſay, "Old lad, I am thine own."
He is your brother, Lords; ſenſibly fed
Of that ſelf-blood, that firſt gave life to you;
And from that womb, where you impriſon'd were,
He is infranchiſed and come to light:
Nay, he's your brother by the ſurer ſide;
Although my ſeal is ſtamped in his face.
Nur. Aaron, what ſhall I ſay unto the Empreſs?
Dem. Adviſe thee, Aaron, what is to be done,
And we will all ſubſcribe to thy advice:
Save you the child, ſo we may be all ſafe.
Aar. Then ſit we down, and let us all conſult.
My ſon and I will have the wind of you:
Keep there: now talk at pleaſure of your ſafety.
[They ſit on the ground.
Dem. How many women ſaw this child of his?
Aar. Why, ſo, brave Lords; when we all join in league,
I am a lamb; but if you brave the Moor,
The chafed boar, the mountain lioneſs,
The ocean ſwells not ſo as Aaron ſtorms:
But ſay again, how many ſaw the child?
Nur. Cornelia the midwife, and myſelf——
And no one elſe but the deliver'd Empreſs.
Aar. The Empreſs, the midwife, and yourſelf——
Two may keep counſel, when the third's away:
Go to the Empreſs, tell her, this I ſaid——[He kills her.
Week,—week!—ſo cries a pig, prepar'd to th' ſpit.
Dem. What mean'ſt thou, Aaron? wherefore didſt thou this?
Aar. O Lord, Sir, 'tis a deed of policy:
Shall ſhe live to betray this guilt of ours?
A long-tongu'd babling goſſip? no, Lords, no.

And now be it known to you my full intent:
Not far, one Muliteus lives, my country-man,
His wife but yeſternight was brought to bed,
His child is like to her, fair as you are:
Go pack with him, and give the mother gold,
And tell them both the circumſtance of all;
And how by this their child ſhall be advanc'd,
And be received for the Emp'ror's heir,
And ſubſtituted in the place of mine,
To calm this tempeſt whirling in the court;
And let the Emperor dandle him for his own.
Hark ye, my Lords, ye ſee, I have given her phyſick;
And you muſt needs beſtow her funeral;
The fields are near, and you are gallant grooms:
This done, ſee, that you take no longer days,
But ſend the midwife preſently to me.
The midwife and the nurſe well made away,
Then let the ladies tattle what they pleaſe.

Chi. Aaron, I ſee, thou wilt not truſt the air
With ſecrets.

Dem. For this care of Tamora,
Herſelf and hers are highly bound to thee. [Exeunt.

Aar. Now to the Goths, as ſwift as ſwallow flies,
There to diſpoſe this treaſure in my arms,
And ſecretly to greet the Empreſs' friends.
Come on, you thick-lip'd ſlave, I bear you hence,
For it is you that put us to our ſhifts:
I'll make you feed on berries, and on roots,
And feed on curds and whey, and ſuck the goat,
And cabin in a cave; and bring you up
To be a warrior, and command a camp. [Exit.

SCENE

SCENE, a Street near the Palace.

Enter Titus, old Marcus, young Lucius, and other Gentlemen with bows; and Titus bears the arrows with letters on the end of them.

Tit. COme, Marcus, come; kinſmen, this is the way.
Sir boy, now let me ſee your archery.
Look, ye draw home enough, and 'tis there ſtraight;
Terras Aſtræa reliquit—be you remember'd, Marcus—.
She's gone, ſhe's fled—Sirs, take you to your tools;
You couſins, ſhall go ſound the ocean,
And caſt your nets; haply, you may find her in the ſea;
Yet there's as little juſtice as at land——
No, Publius and Sempronius; you muſt do it,
'Tis you muſt dig with mattock and with ſpade,
And pierce the inmoſt centre of the earth:
Then, when you come to Pluto's region,
I pray you, deliver this petition,
Tell him it is for juſtice, and for aid;
And that it comes from old Andronicus,
Shaken with ſorrows in ungrateful Rome.
Ah, Rome!——Well, well, I made thee miſerable,
What time I threw the people's ſuffrages
On him, that thus doth tyrannize o'er me.
Go, get you gone, and, pray, be careful all,
And leave you not a man of war unſearch'd;
This wicked Emperor may have ſhip'd her hence,
And, kinſmen, then we may go pipe for juſtice.

Mar. Oh Publius, is not this a heavy caſe,
To ſee thy noble Uncle thus diſtract?

Pub. Therefore, my Lord, it highly us concerns,
By day and night t'attend him careſully:
And feed his humour kindly as we may,
'Till time beget ſome careful remedy.

Mar. Kinſmen, his ſorrows are paſt remedy,
Join with the Goths, and with revengeful war
Take wreak on Rome for this ingratitude.
And vengeance on the traitor Saturnine.

Tit. Publius, how now? how now, my maſters,
What, have you met with her?
Pub. No, my good Lord, but Pluto ſends you word,
If you will have revenge from hell, you ſhall:
Marry, for juſtice, ſhe is ſo employ'd,
He thinks, with Jove in heav'n, or ſomewhere elſe;
So that perforce you muſt needs ſtay a time.
Tit. He doth me wrong to feed me with delays.
I'll dive into the burning lake below,
And pull her out of Acheron by the heels.
Marcus, we are but ſhrubs, no cedars we,
No big-bon'd men, fram'd of the Cyclops' ſize;
But metal, Marcus, ſteel to th' very back;
Yet wrung with wrongs, more than our backs can bear.
And ſith there is no juſtice in earth nor hell,
We will ſollicit heav'n, and move the Gods,
To ſend down juſtice for to wreak our wrongs:
Come, to this gear; you're a good archer, Marcus.
[He gives them the arrows.
Ad Jovem, that's for you——here, ad Apollinem——
Ad Martem, that's for myſelf;
Here, boy, to Pallas——here, to Mercury——
To Saturn and to Cælus——not to Saturnine——
You were as good to ſhoot againſt the wind.
To it, boy; Marcus—looſe when I bid:
O' my word, I have written to effect,
There's not a God left unſollicited.
Mar. Kinſmen, ſhoot all your ſhafts into the Court,
We will afflict the Emperor in his pride. [They ſhoot.
Tit. Now, maſters, draw; oh, well ſaid, Lycius:
Good boy, in Virgo's lap, give it Pallas.
Mar. My Lord, I am a mile beyond the moon;
Your letter is with Jupiter by this.
Tit. Ha, ha, Publius, Publius, what haſt thou done?
See, ſee, thou'ſt ſhot off one of Taurus' horns.
Mar. This was the ſport, my Lord; when Publius ſhot,
The bull being gall'd, gave Aries ſuch a knock,
That down fell both the ram's horns in the Court,
And who ſhould find them but the Empreſs' villain:
She laugh'd, and told the Moor, he ſhould not chuſe

n. Who? the gibbet-maker? he ſays, that he

Tut, what ſays Jupiter, I aſk thee?
n. Alas, Sir, I know not Jupiter, drank with him in all my life.
Why, villain, art not thou the carrier?
n. Ay, of my pigeons, Sir, nothing elſe.
Why, didſt thou not come from heav'n?
n. From heav'n? alas, Sir, I never came there.
rbid, I ſhould be ſo bold to preſs into heav'n in

Why, Sir, that is as fit as can be to ſerve for Clown. I warrant you, Sir, let me alone.

Tit. Sirrah, haſt thou a knife? come, let me ſee it.
Here, Marcus, fold it in the oration,
For thou haſt made it like an humble ſuppliant;
And when thou haſt given it the Emperor,
Knock at my door, and tell me, what he ſays.

Clown. God be with you, Sir, I will.

Tit. Come, Marcus, let us go. Publius, follow me.
[Exeunt.

SCENE, The Palace.

Enter Emperor and Empreſs, and her two ſons; the Emperor brings the arrows in his hand, that Titus ſhot.

Sa. WHy, Lords, what wrongs are theſe? was ever ſeen
An Emperor of Rome thus over-borne,
Troubled, confronted thus, and for th' extent
Of equal juſtice, us'd in ſuch contempt?
My Lords, you know, as do the mightful Gods,
(However the diſturbers of our peace
Buz in the people's ears) there nought hath paſt,
But even with law againſt the wilful ſons
Of old Andronicus. And what an if
His ſorrows have ſo overwhelm'd his wits,
Shall we be thus afflicted in his wreaks,
His fits, his frenſy, and his bitterneſs?
And now he writes to heav'n for his redreſs.
See, here's to Jove, and this to Mercury,
This to Apollo, this to the God of war:
Sweet ſcrowls, to fly about the ſtreets of Rome!
What's this, but libelling againſt the Senate,
And blazoning our injuſtice ev'ry where?
A goodly humour, is it not, my Lords?
As who would ſay, in Rome no juſtice were.
But if I live, his feigned ecſtaſies
Shall be no ſhelter to theſe outrages:
But he and his ſhall know, that juſtice lives
In Saturninus' health; whom, if ſhe ſleep,
He'll ſo awake, as ſhe in fury ſhall

f the proud'ſt conſpirator that lives.
. My gracious Lord, my lovely Saturnine,
f my life, commander of my thought,
hee, and bear the faults of Titus' age,
ects of ſorrow for his valiant ſons,
loſs hath pierc'd him deep, and ſcarr'd his heart;
ther comfort his diſtreſſed plight,
proſecute the meaneſt, or the beſt, ſe contempts——Why, thus it ſhall become vitted Tamora to gloſe with all:
itus, I have touch'd thee to the quick,
ſe-blood out: if Aaron now be wiſe,
s all ſafe, the anchor's in the port. [Aſide.

Enter Clown.

ıow, good fellow, wouldſt thou ſpeak with us?
Yea, forſooth, an your Miſterſhip be Emperial.
Empreſs I am, but yonder ſits the Emperor.
Tis he: God and St. Stephen give you good-even:
ɔrought you a letter and a couple of pigeons here.
[He reads the letter.
Go, take him away, and hang him preſently.
n. How much money muſt I have?
Come, ſirrah, thou muſt be hang'd.
n. Hang'd! by'r lady, then I have brought up to a fair end. [Exit.
Deſpightful and intolerable wrongs!
endure this monſtrous villany?
, from whence this ſame device proceeds;
is be borne? as if his traiterous ſons,
y'd by law for murder of our brother,
y my means been butcher'd wrongfully?
ag the villain hither by the hair,
e nor honour ſhall ſhape privilege.
ɜ proud mock I'll be thy ſlaughter-man;
ıtick wretch, that holp'ſt to make me great,
ɜ thyſelf ſhould govern Rome and me.

Enter Æmilius. (15)

Sat. What news with thee, Æmilius?

Æm. Arm, arm, my Lords; Rome never had more cauſe;
The Goths have gather'd head, and with a power
Of high-reſolved men, bent to the ſpoil,
They hither march amain, under the conduct
Of Lucius, ſon to old Andronicus:
Who threats in courſe of his revenge to do
As much as ever Coriolanus did.

Sat. Is warlike Lucius general of the Goths?
Theſe tidings nip me, and I hang the head
As flowers with froſt, or graſs beat down with ſtorms.
Ay, now begin our ſorrows to approach;
'Tis he, the common people love ſo much:
Myſelf hath often over-heard them ſay,
(When I have walked like a private man)
That Lucius' baniſhment was wrongfully,
And they have wiſh'd, that Lucius were their Emperor.

Tam. Why ſhould you fear? is not our city ſtrong?

Sat. Ay, but the citizens favour Lucius,
And will revolt from me, to ſuccour him.

Tam. King, be thy thoughts imperious like thy name.
Is the ſun dim'd, that gnats do fly in it?
The eagle ſuffers little birds to ſing,
And is not careful what they mean thereby,

(15) Enter Nuntius Æmilius.] Thus the old Books have deſcribed this Character: and, I believe, I can account for the Formality, from the Ignorance of the Editors. In the Author's Manuſcript, I preſume, 'twas writ, Enter Nuntius; and they obſerving, that he is immediately called Æmilius, thought proper to give him his whole Title, and ſo clapped in Enter Nuntius Æmilius. —— Mr. Pope has very critically followed them; and ought, methinks, to have given his new-adopted Citizen Nuntius a place in the Dramatis Perſonæ. If this Gentleman has diſcovered any Roman Family, that had the Prænomen of Nuntius; it is a Secret, I dare ſay, more than Cariſius, Diomedes Grammaticus, or the Faſti Capitolini, were ever acquainted with. Shakeſpeare meant no more than, Enter Æmilius as a Meſſenger.

Knowing

Knowing, that with the ſhadow of his wings
He can at pleaſure ſtint their melody;
Even ſo may'ſt thou the giddy men of Rome.
Then cheer thy ſpirit, for know, thou Emperor,
I will enchant the old Andronicus
With words more ſweet, and yet more dangerous,
Than baits to fiſh, or honey-ſtalks to ſheep:
When as the one is wounded with the bait,
The other rotted with delicious food.

Sat. But he will not intreat his ſon for us.

Tam. If Tamora intreat him, then he will;
For I can ſmooth, and fill his aged ear
With golden promiſes; that were his heart
Almoſt impregnable, his old ears deaf,
Yet ſhould both ear and heart obey my tongue.
Go thou before as our embaſſador; [To Æmilius.
Say, that the Emperor requeſts a parley
Of warlike Lucius, and appoint the meeting.

Sat. Æmilius, do this meſſage honourably;
And if he ſtand on hoſtage for his ſafety,
Bid him demand what pledge will pleaſe him beſt.

Æmil. Your bidding ſhall I do effectually. [Exit.

Tam. Now will I to that old Andronicus,
And temper him, with all the art I have,
To pluck proud Lucius from the warlike Goths,
And now, ſweet Emperor, be blith again,
And bury all thy fear in my devices.

Sat. Then go ſucceſsfully, and plead to him. [Exe.

ACT V.

SCENE, A Camp, at a ſmall diſtance from Rome.

Enter Lucius with Goths, with drum and ſoldiers.

LUCIUS.

APPROVED warriors, and my faithful friends,
I have received letters from great Rome,
Which ſignify, what hate they bear their Emp'ror,
And how deſirous of our ſight they are.
Therefore, great Lords, be, as your titles witneſs,
Imperious and impatient of your wrongs;
And wherein Rome hath done you any ſcathe,
Let him make treble ſatisfaction.

Goth. Brave ſlip, ſprung from the great Andronicus,
(Whoſe name was once our terror, now our comfort)
Whoſe high exploits and honourable deeds
Ingrateful Rome requites with foul contempt,
Be bold in us; we'll follow, where thou lead'ſt:
Like ſtinging bees in hotteſt ſummer's day,
Led by their maſter to the flower'd fields,
And be aveng'd on curſed Tamora.

Omn. And, as he ſaith, ſo ſay we all with him.

Luc. I humbly thank him, and I thank you all.
But who comes here, led by a luſty Goth?

Enter a Goth leading Aaron, with his child in his arms.

Goth. Renowned Lucius, from our troops I ſtray'd
To gaze upon a ruinous monaſtery:
And as I earneſtly did fix mine eye
Upon the waſted building, ſuddenly
I heard a child cry underneath a wall;
I made unto the noiſe, when ſoon I heard
The crying babe controll'd with this diſcourſe:

" Peace, tawny ſlave, half me and half thy dam.
" Did not thy hue bewray whoſe brat thou art,
" Had Nature lent thee but thy mother's look,
" Villain, thou might'ſt have been an Emperor:
" But where the bull and cow are both milk-white,
" They never do beget a cole-black calf;
" Peace, villain, peace? (ev'n thus he rates the babe)
" For I muſt bear thee to a truſty Goth;
" Who, when he knows thou art the Empreſs' babe,
" Will hold thee dearly for thy mother's ſake."
With this, my weapon drawn, I ruſh'd upon him,
Surpriz'd him ſuddenly, and brought him hither,
To uſe as you think needful of the man.

Luc. O worthy Goth, this is th' incarnate devil,
That robb'd Andronicus of his good hand;
This is the pearl that pleas'd your Empreſs' eye,
And here's the baſe fruit of his burning luſt.
Say, wall-ey'd ſlave, whither would'ſt thou convey
This growing image of thy fiend-like face?
Why doſt not ſpeak? what! deaf? no! not a word?
A halter, ſoldiers; hang him on this tree,
And by his ſide his fruit of baſtardy.

Aar. Touch not the boy, he is of royal blood.

Luc. Too like the ſire for ever being good.
Firſt, hang the child, that he may ſee it ſprawl,
A ſight to vex the father's ſoul withal.
Get me a ladder. (16)

Aar. Lucius, ſave the child,
And bear it from me to the Empereſs;
If thou do this, I'll ſhew thee wond'rous things,
That highly may advantage thee to hear;

(16) Aar. Get me a Ladder. Lucius, ſave the Child.] All the printed Editions have given this whole Verſe to Aaron. But why ſhould the Moor here ask for a Ladder, who earneſtly wanted to have his Child ſav'd? Unleſs the Poet is ſuppoſed to mean for Aaron, that, if they would get him a Ladder, he would reſolutely hang himſelf out of the way, ſo they would ſpare the Child. But I much rather ſuſpect there is an old Error in prefixing the Names of the Perſons; and that Lucius ought to call for the Ladder, and then Aaron very properly intreats of Lucius to ſave the Child.

If thou wilt not, befall what may befall,
I'll ſpeak no more; but vengeance rot you all!
Luc. Say on, and if it pleaſe me which thou ſpeak'ſt,
Thy child ſhall live, and I will ſee it nouriſh'd.
Aar. An if it pleaſe thee? why, aſſure thee, Lucius,
'Twill vex thy ſoul to hear what I ſhall ſpeak:
For I muſt talk of murders, rapes and maſſacres,
Acts of black night, abominable deeds,
Complots of miſchief, treaſon, villanies,
Ruthful to hear, yet piteouſly perform'd:
And this ſhall all be buried by my death,
Unleſs thou ſwear to me, my child ſhall live.
Luc. Tell on thy mind; I ſay, thy child ſhall live.
Aar. Swear, that he ſhall; and then I will begin.
Luc. Who ſhould I ſwear by? thou believ'ſt no God:
That granted, how can'ſt thou believe an oath?
Aar. What if I do not! as, indeed I do not;
Yet, for I know thou art religious,
And haſt a thing within thee called Conſcience,
With twenty popiſh tricks and ceremonies
Which I have ſeen thee careful to obſerve:
Therefore I urge thy oath; (for that, I know,
An idiot holds his bauble for a God,
And keeps the oath, which by that God he ſwears,
To that I'll urge him;)——therefore thou ſhalt vow
by that ſame God, what God ſoe'er it be,
That thou ador'ſt and haſt in reverence,
To ſave my boy, nouriſh and bring him up;
Or elſe I will diſcover nought to thee.
Luc. Ev'n by my God I ſwear to thee, I will.
Aar. Firſt, know thou, I begot him on the Emp
Luc. O moſt inſatiate, luxurious, woman!
Aar. Tut, Lucius, this was but a deed of char
To that which thou ſhalt hear of me anon.
'Twas her two ſons, that murder'd Baſſianus;
They cut thy ſiſter's tongue, and raviſh'd her,
And cut her hands, and trim'd her as thou ſaw
Luc. Oh, deteſtable villain! call'ſt thou that tr
Aar. Why, ſhe was waſhed, and, cut and tr
And 'twas trim ſport for them that had the do

Luc. O barb'rous beaſtly villains like thyſelf!
Aar. Indeed I was the tutor to inſtruct them:
That codding ſpirit had they from their mother,
As ſure a card as ever won the ſet;
That bloody mind, I think, they learn'd of me,
As true a dog as ever fought at head;——
Well; let my deeds be witneſs of my worth.
I train'd the brethren to that guileful hole,
Where the dead corps of Baſſianus lay:
I wrote the letter that thy father found,
And hid the gold within the letter mention'd;
Confed'rate with the Queen, and her two ſons.
And what not done, that thou haſt cauſe to rue,
Wherein I had no ſtroke of miſchief in't!
I plaid the cheater for thy father's hand,
And when I had it, drew myſelf apart,
And almoſt broke my heart with extream laughter.
I pry'd me through the crevice of a wall,
When for his hand he had his two ſons' heads;
Beheld his tears, and laugh'd ſo heartily,
That both mine eyes were rainy like to his:
And when I told the Empreſs of this ſport,
She ſwooned almoſt at my pleaſing Tale,
And for my tidings gave me twenty kiſſes.
Goth. What! can'ſt thou ſay all this, and never bluſh!
Aar. Ay, like a black dog, as the ſaying is.
Luc. Art thou not ſorry for theſe heinous deeds?
Aar. Ay, that I had not done a thouſand more.
Ev'n now I curſe the day (and yet, I think,
Few come within the compaſs of my curſe)
Wherein I did not ſome notorious Ill,
As kill a man, or elſe deviſe his death;
Raviſh a maid, or plot the way to do it;
Accuſe ſome innocent, and forſwear myſelf;
Set deadly enmity between two friends;
Make poor men's cattle break their necks;
Set fire on barns and hay-ſtacks in the night,
And bid the owners quench them with their tears:
Oft have I digg'd up dead men from their graves,
And ſet them upright at their dear friends' doors,

Ev'n when their ſorrow was almoſt forgot;
And on their ſkins, as on the bark of trees,
Have with my knife carved in Roman letters,
" Let not your ſorrow die, though I am dead."
Tut, I have done a thouſand dreadful things,
As willingly as one would kill a fly:
And nothing grieves me heartily indeed,
But that I cannot do ten thouſand more.

Luc. Bring down the devil, for he muſt not die
So ſweet a death, as hanging preſently.

Aar. If there be devils, 'would I were a devil,
To live and burn in everlaſting fire,
So I might have your company in hell,
But to torment you with my bitter tongue!

Luc. Sirs, ſtop his mouth, and let him ſpeak no more.

Enter Æmilius.

Goth. My Lord, there is a meſſenger from Rome
Deſires to be admitted to your preſence.

Luc. Let him come near.——
Welcome, Æmilius, what's the news from Rome?

Æmil. Lord Lucius, and you Princes of the Goths,
The Roman Emperor greets you all by me;
And, for he underſtands you are in arms,
He craves a parley at your father's houſe,
Willing you to demand your hoſtages,
And they ſhall be immediately deliver'd.

Goth. What ſays our General?

Luc. Æmilius, let the Emperor give his pledges
Unto my father and my uncle Marcus,
And we will come: march away. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Titus's Palace in Rome.

Enter Tamora, Chiron, and Demetrius, diſguis'd.

Tam. THus, in theſe ſtrange and ſad habiliments,
I will encounter with Andronicus:
And ſay, I am Revenge ſent from below,
To join with him, and right his heinous wrongs.

Knock

Knock at the ſtudy, where, they ſay, he keeps,
To ruminate ſtrange plots of dire revenge;
Tell him, Revenge is come to join with him,
And work confuſion on his enemies.

[They knock, and Titus appears above.

Tit. Who doth moleſt my contemplation?
Is it your trick to make me ope the door,
That ſo my ſad decrees may fly away,
And all my ſtudy be to no effect?
You are deceiv'd; for what I mean to do,
See, here in bloody lines I have ſet down;
And what is written ſhall be executed.

Tam. Titus, I am come to talk with thee.

Tit. No, not a word: how can I grace my talk,
Wanting a hand to give it that accord?
Thou haſt the odds of me, therefore no more.

Tam. If thou did'ſt know me, thou would'ſt talk with me.

Tit. I am not mad; I know thee well enough;
Witneſs this wretched ſtump, theſe crimſon lines,
Witneſs theſe trenches, made by grief and care,
Witneſs the tiring day and heavy night;
Witneſs all ſorrow, that I know thee well
For our proud Empreſs, mighty Tamora:
Is not thy coming for my other hand?

Tam. Know thou, ſad man, I am not Tamora:
She is thy enemy, and I thy friend;
I am Revenge, ſent from th' infernal Kingdom,
To eaſe the gnawing Vulture of thy mind,
By working wreakful vengeance on thy foes.
Come down, and welcome me to this world's light;
Confer with me of murder and of death;
There's not a hollow cave, nor lurking place,
No vaſt obſcurity, or miſty vale,
Where bloody Murder or deteſted Rape
Can couch for fear, but I will find them out;
And in their ears tell them my dreadful name,
Revenge, which makes the foul offenders quake.

Tit. Art thou Revenge? and art thou ſent to me,
To be a torment to mine enemies?

Tam

Tam. I am; therefore come down, and welcome me.
Tit. Do me ſome ſervice, ere I come to thee:
Lo, by thy ſide where Rape, and Murder, ſtands;
Now give ſome 'ſurance that thou art Revenge,
Stab them, or tear them on thy chariot-wheels;
And then I'll come and be thy waggoner,
And whirl along with thee about the globes:
Provide two proper Palfries black as jet,
To hale thy vengeful waggon ſwift away,
And find out murders in their guilty caves.
And when thy car is loaden with their heads,
I will diſmount, and by thy waggon-wheel
Trot like a ſervile foot-man all day long;
Even from Hyperion's riſing in the eaſt,
Until his very downfal in the ſea.
And day by day I'll do this heavy task,
So thou deſtroy Rapine and Murder there.
Tam. Theſe are my miniſters, and come with me.
Tit. Are they thy miniſters? what are they call'd?
Tam. Rapine and Murder; therefore called ſo,
'Cauſe they take vengeance on ſuch kind of men.
Tit. Good Lord, how like the Empreſs' ſons they are,
And you the Empreſs! but we wordly men
Have miſerable and miſtaking eyes:
O ſweet Revenge, now do I come to thee,
And if one arm's embracement will content thee,
I will embrace thee in it by and by.
[Exit Titus from above.
Tam. This cloſing with him fits his lunacy.
Whate'er I forge to feed his brain-ſick fits,
Do you uphold, and maintain in your ſpeech,
For now he firmly takes me for Revenge;
And, being credulous in this mad thought,
I'll make him ſend for Lucius, his ſon:
And whilſt I at a banquet hold him ſure.
I'll find ſome cunning practice out of hand,
To ſcatter and diſperſe the giddy Goths,
Or, at the leaſt, make them his enemies:
See, here he comes, and I muſt ply my theme.

Enter

Enter Titus.

Tit. Long have I been forlorn, and all for thee:
Welcome, dread fury, to my woeful houſe;
Rapine and Murder, you are welcome too:
How like the Empreſs and her ſons you are!
Well are you fitted, had you but a Moor;
Could not all hell afford you ſuch a devil?
For, well I wot, the Empreſs never wags,
But in her company there is a Moor;
And would you repreſent our Queen aright,
It were convenient you had ſuch a devil:
But welcome, as you are: what ſhall we do?

Tam. What wouldſt thou have us do, Andronicus?

Dem. Shew me a murderer, I'll deal with him.

Chi. Shew me a villain, that has done a rape,
And I am ſent to be reveng'd on him.

Tam. Shew me a thouſand, that have done thee wrong;
And I will be revenged on them all

Tit. Look round about the wicked ſtreets of Rome,
And when thou find'ſt a man that's like thyſelf,
Good Murder, ſtab him; he's a muderer.
Go thou with him, and when it is thy hap
To find another that is like to thee,
Good Rapine, ſtab him; he is a raviſher.
Go thou with them, and in the Emperor's Court
There is a Queen attended by a Moor;
Well may'ſt thou know her by thy own proportion,
For up and down ſhe doth reſemble thee;
I pray thee, do on them ſome violent death;
They have been violent to me and mine.

Tam. Well haſt thou leſſon'd us, this ſhall we do.
But would it pleaſe thee, good Andronicus,
To ſend for Lucius thy thrice-valiant ſon,
Who leads tow'rds Rome a band of warlike Goths,
And bid him come and banquet at thy houſe.
When he is here, ev'n at thy ſolemn feaſt,
I will bring in the Empreſs and her ſons,
The Emperor himſelf, and all thy foes;
And at thy mercy ſhall they ſtoop and kneel,

And on them ſhall thou eaſe thy angry heart:
What ſays Andronicus to this device?

Tit. Marcus, my brother!——'tis ſad Titus calls:

Enter Marcus.

Go, gentle Marcus, to thy nephew Lucius;
Thou ſhalt enquire him out among the Goths:
Bid him repair to me: and bring with him
Some of the chiefeſt Princes of the Goths;
Bid him encamp his ſoldiers where they are;
Tell him, the Emperor and the Empreſs too
Feaſt at my houſe, and he ſhall feaſt with them;
This do thou for my love, and ſo let him,
As he regards his aged father's life.

Mar. This will I do, and ſoon return again. [Exit.

Tam. Now will I hence about my buſineſs,
And take my miniſters along with me.

Tit. Nay, nay, let Rape and Murder ſtay with me;
Or elſe I'll call my brother back again,
And cleave to no revenge but Lucius.

Tam. What ſay you, boys, will you abide with him,
Whiles I go tell my Lord, the Emperor,
How I have govern'd our determin'd jeſt?
Yield to his humour, ſmooth, and ſpeak him fair,
And tarry with him 'till I come again.

Tit. I know them all, tho' they ſuppoſe me mad;
And will o'er-reach them in their own devices:
A pair of curſed hell-hounds and their dam. [Aſide.

Dem. Madam, depart at pleaſure, leave us here.

Tam. Farewel Andronicus; Revenge now goes
To lay a complot to betray thy foes. [Exit Tamora.

Tit. I know thou doſt; and, ſweet Revenge, farewel.

Chi. Tell us, old man, how ſhall we be employ'd?

Tit. Tut, I have work enough for you to do.
Publius, come hither, Caius and Valentine!

Enter Publius and Servants.

Pub. What is your will?

Tit. Know ye theſe two?

Pub.

Pub. The Empreſs' ſons,
I take them, Chiron, and Demetrius.
Tit. Fy, Publius, fy! thou art too much deceiv'd,
The one is Murder, Rape is th' other's name;
And therefore bind them, gentle Publius;
Caius and Valentine, lay hands on them;
Oft have you heard me wiſh for ſuch an hour,
And now I find it, therefore bind them ſure. [Exit Titus.
Chi. Villains, forbear; we are the Empreſs' ſons.
Pub. And therefore do we what we are commanded.
Stop cloſe their mouths; let them not ſpeak a word.
Is he ſure bound? look, that ye bind them faſt.

Enter Titus Andronicus with a Knife, and Lavinia with a Baſon.

Tit. Come, come, Lavinia; look, thy foes are bound;
Sir, ſtop their mouths, let them not ſpeak to me,
But let them hear what fearful words I utter.
Oh, villains, Chiron and Demetrius!
Here ſtands the ſpring whom you have ſtain'd with mud,
This goodly ſummer with your winter mixt:
You kill'd her huſband, and for that vile fault
Two of her brothers were condemn'd to death;
My hand cut off, and made a merry jeſt;
Both her ſweet hands, her tongue, and that more dear
Than hands or tongue, her ſpotleſs chaſtity,
Inhuman traitors, you conſtrain'd and forc'd.
What would ye ſay, if I ſhould let you ſpeak?
Villains!—for ſhame, you could not beg for grace.
Hark, wretches, how I mean to martyr you.
This one hand yet is left to cut your throats,
Whilſt that Lavinia 'twixt her ſtumps doth hold
The baſon, that receives your guilty blood
You know, your mother means to feaſt with me,
And calls herſelf Revenge, and thinks me mad——
Hark, villains, I will grind your bones to duſt,
And with your blood and it I'll make a paſte;
And of the paſte a coffin will I rear,
And make two paſties of your ſhameful heads;

And bid that ſtrumpet, your unhallow'd dam,
Like to the earth, ſwallow her own increaſe.
This is the feaſt that I have bid her to,
And this the banquet ſhe ſhall ſurfeit on;
For worſe than Philomel you us'd my daughter,
And worſe than Procne I will be reveng'd.
And now prepare your throats: Lavinia, come,
Receive the blood; and, when that they are dead,
Let me go grind their bones to powder ſmall,
And with this hateful liquor temper it;
And in that paſte let their vile heads be bak'd.
Come, come, be every one officious
To make this banquet, which I wiſh might prove
More ſtern and bloody than the Centaurs' feaſt.
[He cuts their throats.
So, now bring them in, for I'll play the cook,
And ſee them ready 'gainſt the mother comes. [Exeunt.

Enter Lucius, Marcus, and Goths with Aaron Priſoner.

Luc. Uncle Marcus, ſince it is my father's mind
That I repair to Rome, I am content.
Goth. And ours with thine, befall what fortune will.
Luc. Good uncle, take you in this barbarous Moor,
This ravenous tiger, this accurſed devil;
Let him receive no ſuſtenance, fetter him,
'Till he be brought unto the Emp'ror's face,
For teſtimony of theſe foul proceedings;
And ſee, the ambuſh of our friends be ſtrong;
I fear, the Emperor means no good to us.
Aar. Some devil whiſper curſes in my ear,
And prompt me, that my tongue may utter forth
The venomous malice of my ſwelling heart!
Luc. Away, inhuman dog, unhallow'd ſlave.
[Exeunt Goths with Aaron.
Sirs, help our uncle to convey him in. [Flouriſh.
The trumpets ſhew, the Emperor is at hand.

Sound trumpets. Enter Emperor and Empreſs, with Tribunes and others.

Sat. What, hath the firmament more ſuns than one?

Luc.

Lac. What boots it thee to call thyſelf a Sun?
Mar. Rome's Emperor, and Nephew, break the parley;
Theſe quarrels muſt be quietly debated:
The feaſt is ready, which the careful Titus
Hath ordain'd to an honourable end,
For peace, for love, for league, and good to Rome:
Pleaſe you therefore draw nigh and take your places.
Sat. Marcus, we will. [Hautboys.

A Table brought in. Enter Titus like a Cook, placing the meat on the Table, and Lavinia with a veil over her face.

Tit. Welcome, my gracious Lord; welcome, dread Queen,
Welcome, ye warlike Goths, welcome, Lucius,
And welcome, all; although the cheer be poor,
'Twill fill your ſtomachs, pleaſe you eat of it.
Sat. Why art thou thus attir'd, Andronicus?
Tit. Becauſe I would be ſure to have all well,
To entertain your Highneſs, and your Empreſs.
Tam. We are beholden to you, good Andronicus.
Tit. And if your Highneſs knew my heart, you were.
My Lord the Emperor, reſolve me this;
Was it well done of raſh Virginius,
To ſlay his daughter with his own right-hand,
Becauſe ſhe was enforc'd, ſtain'd, and deflour'd?
Sat. It was, Andronicus.
Tit. Your reaſon, mighty Lord?
Sat. Becauſe the girl ſhould not ſurvive her ſhame,
And by her preſence ſtill renew his ſorrows.
Tit. A reaſon mighty, ſtrong, and effectual,
A pattern, precedent, and lively warrant,
For me, moſt wretched, to perform the like:
Die, die, Lavinia, and thy ſhame with thee,
And with thy ſhame thy father's ſorrow die! [He kills her.
Sat. What haſt thou done, unnatural and unkind?
Tit. Kill'd her, for whom my tears have made me blind.
I am as woeful as Virginius was,
And have a thouſand times more cauſe than he
To do this outrage. And it is now done.

Sat

Sat. What, was ſhe raviſh'd? tell, who did the deed?
Tit. Will't pleaſe you eat, will't pleaſe your Highneſs feed?
Tam. Why haſt thou ſlain thine only daughter thus?
Tit. Not I, 'twas Chiron and Demetrius.
They raviſh'd her, and cut away her tongue,
And they, 'twas they, that did her all this wrong.
Sat. Go, fetch them hither to us preſently.
Tit. Why, there they are both, baked in that pye,
Whereof their mother daintily hath fed;
Eating the fleſh, that ſhe her ſelf hath bred.
'Tis true, 'tis true; witneſs, my knife's ſharp point.
[He ſtabs the Empreſs.
Sat. Die, frantick wretch, for this accurſed deed.
[He ſtabs Titus.
Luc. Can the ſon's eye behold his father bleed?
There's meed for meed, death for a deadly deed.
[Lucius ſtabs the Emperor.
Mar. You ſad-ſac'd men, people and ſons of Rome,
By uprore ſever'd, like a flight of fowl
Scatter'd by winds and high tempeſtuous guſts,
Oh, let me teach you how to knit again
This ſcatter'd corn into one mutual ſheaf,
Theſe broken limbs again into one body.
Goth. Let Rome herſelf be bane unto herſelf;
And ſhe whom mighty kingdoms curtſy to,
Like a forlorn and deſperate caſt-away,
Do ſhameful execution on herſelf.
Mar. But if my froſty ſighs and chaps of age,
Grave witneſſes of true experience,
Cannot induce you to attend my words,
Speak, Rome's dear friend; as erſt our Anceſtor,
[To Lucius.
When with his ſolemn tongue he did diſcourſe
To love-ſick Dido's ſad attending ear,
The ſtory of that baleful burning night,
When ſubtile Greeks ſurpriz'd King Priam's Troy:
Tell us, what Sinon hath bewitch'd our ears,
Or who hath brought the fatal engine in,
That gives our Troy, our Rome, the civil wound.

My

My heart is not compact of flint, nor ſteel;
Nor can I utter all our bitter grief,
But floods of tears will drown my oratory,
And break my very utt'rance; even in the time
When it ſhould move you to attend me moſt,
Lending your kind commiſeration.
Here is a captain, let him tell the tale,
Your hearts will throb and weep to hear him ſpeak.

Luc. Then, noble auditory, be it known to you,
That curſed Chiron and Demetrius
Were they, that murdered our Emperor's brother,
And they it were, that raviſhed our ſiſter:
For their fell faults our brothers were beheaded,
Our father's tears deſpis'd, and baſely cozen'd
Of that true hand, that fought Rome's quarrel out,
And ſent her enemies into the grave.
Laſtly, myſelf unkindly baniſhed,
The gates ſhut on me, and turn'd weeping out,
To beg relief among Rome's enemies;
Who drown'd their enmity in my true tears,
And op'd their arms t'embrace me as a friend:
And I am turn'd forth, be it known to you,
That have preſerv'd her welfare in my blood,
And from her boſom took the enemy's point,
Sheathing the ſteel in my advent'rous body.
Alas!—you know, I am no vaunter, I;
My ſcars can witneſs, dumb although they are,
That my report is juſt, and full of truth.
But, ſoft, methinks, I do digreſs too much,
Citing my worthleſs praiſe: oh, pardon me,
For when no friends are by, men praiſe themſelves.

Mar. Now is my tongue to ſpeak: behold this child,
Of this was Tamora delivered;
The iſſue of an irreligious Moor,
Chief architect and plotter of theſe woes;
The villain is alive in Titus' houſe, (17)
Damn'd

(17) The Villain is alive in Titus' houſe,
And as he is, to witneſs this is true.] The Villain alive, and as he is, ſurely, can never be right. The Manuſcript muſt have been obſcur

Damn'd as he is, to witneſs this is true.
Now judge, what cauſe had Titus to revenge
Theſe wrongs, unſpeakable, paſt patience,
Or more than any living man could bear.
Now you have heard the truth, what ſay you, Romans?
Have we done aught amiſs? ſhew us wherein,
And from the place where you behold us now,
The poor remainder of Andronicus,
We'll hand in hand all head-long caſt us down,
And on the ragged ſtones beat out our brains,
And make a mutual Cloſure of our houſe:
Speak Romans, ſpeak; and, if you ſay, we ſhall,
Lo, hand in hand, Lucius and I will fall.

Æm. Come, come, thou reverend man of Rome,
And bring our Emperor gently in thy hand,
Lucius our Emperor: for, well I know,
The common voice do cry, it ſhall be ſo.

Mar. Lucius, all hail, Rome's royal Emperor!
Go, go, into old Titus' ſorrowful houſe,
And hither hale that miſbelieving Moor,
To be adjudg'd ſome direful ſlaughtering death,
As puniſhment for his moſt wicked life.
Lucius, all hail, Rome's gracious governour!

Luc. Thanks, gentle Romans: may I govern ſo,
To heal Rome's harm, and drive away her woe!
But, gentle people, give me aim a while,
For nature puts me to a heavy taſk:
Stand all aloof; but, uncle, draw you near,
To ſhed obſequious tears upon this trunk;
Oh, take this warm kiſs on thy pale cold lips,
Theſe ſorrowful drops upon thy blood-ſtain'd face;
The laſt true duties of thy noble ſon.

obſcure and blindly writ, ſo that the firſt Editors could not make out the Word, which I have ventured to reſtore. The Epithet, I have replaced, admirably ſorts with the Moor's Character: and Lucius uſes it again, ſpeaking of him at the Concluſion of the Play.

See juſtice done on Aaron that damned Moor.

Beſides, damn'd as he is,——is a Mode of Expreſſion familiar with our Author.

Mar.

Mar. Ay, tear for tear, and loving kiſs for kiſs,
Thy brother Marcus tenders on thy lips:
O, were the ſum of theſe that I ſhould pay
Countleſs and infinite, yet would I pay them!

Luc. Come hither, boy; come, come, and learn of us
To melt in ſhowers; thy grandſire lov'd thee well;
Many a time he danc'd thee on his knee;
Sung thee aſleep, his loving breaſt thy pillow:
Many a matter hath he told to thee,
Meet and agreeing with thy infancy;
In that reſpect then, like a loving child,
Shed yet ſome ſmall drops from thy tender ſpring,
Becauſe kind nature doth require it ſo;
Friends ſhould aſſociate friends, in grief and woe:
Bid him farewel, commit him to the grave;
Do him that kindneſs, and take leave of him.

Boy. O grandſire, grandſire! ev'n with all my heart,
'Would I were dead, ſo you did live again——
O Lord, I cannot ſpeak to him for weeping——
My tears will choak me, if I ope my mouth.

Enter Romans with Aaron.

Rom. You ſad Andronici, have done with woes:
Give ſentence on this execrable wretch,
That hath been breeder of theſe dire events.

Luc. Set him breaſt deep in earth, and famiſh him:
There let him ſtand, and rave and cry for food:
If any one relieves or pities him,
For the offence he dies: this is our doom.
Some ſtay to ſee him faſtned in the earth.

Aar. O, why ſhould wrath be mute, and fury dumb—
I am no baby, I, that with baſe prayers
I ſhould repent the evil I have done:
Ten thouſand worſe, than ever yet I did,
Would I perform, if I might have my will:
If one good deed in all my life I did,
I do repent it from my very ſoul.

Luc. Some loving friends convey the Emp'ror hence,
And give him burial in his father's grave.

My

My father and Lavinia ſhall forthwith
Be cloſed in our houſhold's monument:
As for that heinous tygreſs Tamora,
No funeral rites, nor man in mournful weeds,
No mournful bell ſhall ring her burial;
But throw her forth to beaſts and birds of prey;
Her life was beaſt-like, and devoid of pity;
And, being ſo, ſhall have like want of pity.
See juſtice done on Aaron that damn'd Moor,
From whom our heavy haps had their beginning;
Then, afterwards, we'll order well the State;
That like events may ne'er it ruinate. [Exeunt omnes.

MACBETH.

ACT I.

SCENE, An open Place.

Thunder and Lightning. Enter three Witches.

1 WITCH.

WHEN ſhall we three meet again?
In thunder, lightning, or in rain?

2 Witch. When the hurly-burley's done,
When the battle's loſt and won.

3 Witch. That will be ere ſet of ſun.

1 Witch. Where the place?

2 Witch. Upon the heath.

3 Witch. There I go to meet Macbeth.

1 Witch. I come, I come, Grimalkin.——

2 Witch. Padocke calls——anon!

All. Fair is foul, and foul is fair,
Hover through the fog and filthy air.

[They riſe from the ſtage, and fly away.

SCENE changes to the Palace at Foris.

Enter King, Malcolm, Donalbain, Lenox, with Attendants, meeting a bleeding Captain.

King. WHat bloody man is that? he can report,
As ſeemeth by his plight, of the revolt
The neweſt ſtate.
Mal. This is the ſerjeant,
Who like a good and hardy ſoldier fought
'Gainſt my captivity. Hail, hail, brave friend!
Say to the King the knowledge of the broil,
As thou didſt leave it.
Cap. Doubtful long it ſtood:
As two ſpent ſwimmers that do cling together,
And choak their art: the mercileſs Macdonel
(Worthy to be a rebel; for to that
The multiplying villainies of nature
Do ſwarm upon him) from the weſtern iſles
Of Kernes and Gallow-glaſſes was ſupply'd;
And fortune, on his damned quarry ſmiling,
Shew'd like a rebel's whore. But all too weak:
For brave Macbeth (well he deſerves that name)
Diſdaining fortune, with his brandiſht ſteel
Which ſmok'd with bloody execution,
Like valour's minion carved out his paſſage,
'Till he had fac'd the ſlave;
Who ne'er ſhook hands nor bid farewel to him,
Till he unſeam'd him from the nave to th' chops,
And fix'd his head upon our battlements.
King. Oh, valiant Couſin! worthy gentleman!
Cap. As whence the ſun 'gins his reflection,
Shipwrecking ſtorms and direful thunders break;
So from that ſpring, whence comfort ſeem'd to come, (1)
Diſ-

(1) So from that Spring, whence Comfort ſeem'd to come,
Diſcomfort ſwell'd.] I have not diſturbed the Text here, as the Senſe does not abſolutely require it; tho' Dr. Thirlby preſcribes a very ingenious and eaſy Correction:

Diſcomfort ſwell'd. Mark, King of Scotland, mark;
No ſooner juſtice had, with valour arm'd,
Compell'd theſe ſkipping Kernes to truſt their heels;
But the Norweyan Lord, ſurveying 'vantage,
With furbiſht arms and new ſupplies of men
Began a freſh aſſault.

King. Diſmay'd not this
Our captains, Macbeth and Banquo?

Cap. Yes,
As ſparrows, eagles; or the hare, the lion.
If I ſay ſooth, I muſt report, they were
As cannons overcharg'd; with double cracks, (2)
So they redoubled ſtrokes upon the foe:
Except they meant to bathe in reeking wounds,
Or memorize another Golgotha,
I cannot tell——
But I am faint, my gaſhes cry for help.——

King. So well thy words become thee, as thy wounds:
They ſmack of honour both. Go, get him ſurgeons.

Enter Roſſe and Angus.

But who comes here?

Mal. The worthy Thane of Roſſe.

Len. What haſte looks through his eyes?
So ſhould he look, that ſeems to ſpeak things ſtrange.

Roſſe. God ſave the King!

King. Whence cam'ſt thou, worthy Thane?

So from the Spring, whence Comfort ſeem'd to come,
Diſcomforts well'd.

i. e. ſtream'd, flow'd forth: a Word that peculiarly agrees with the Metaphor of a Spring. The Original is Anglo-Saxon pezllian, ſcaturire; which very well expreſſes the Diffuſion and Scattering of Water from its Head.

(2) ——I muſt report they were
As Cannons overcharg'd with double Cracks.] Cannons overcharged with Cracks I have no Idea of: My Pointing, I think, gives the eaſy and natural Senſe. Macbeth and Banquo were like Cannons overcharged; why? becauſe they redoubled Strokes on the Foe with twice the Fury, and Impetuoſity, as before.

Roſſe. From Fife, great King,
Where the Noweyan Banners flout the ſky,
And fan our people cold.
Norway, himſelf with numbers terrible, (3)
Aſſiſted by that moſt diſloyal traitor
The Thane of Cawdor, 'gan a diſmal conflict:
'Till that Bellona's bridegroom, lapt in proof, (4)
Confronted him with ſelf-compariſons,
Point againſt point rebellious, arm 'gainſt arm,
Curbing his laviſh ſpirit. To conclude,
The victory fell on us.

King. Great happineſs!

Roſſe. Now Sweno, Norway's King, craves compoſition:
Nor would we deign him burial of his men,
'Till he diſburſed, at Saint Colmes-kill-iſle,
Ten thouſand dollars, to our gen'ral uſe.

King. No more that Thane of Cawdor ſhall deceive
Our boſom int'reſt. Go, pronounce his death;
And with his former Title greet Macbeth.

Roſſe. I'll ſee it done.

King. What he hath loſt, noble Macbeth hath won.
[Exeunt.

(3) Norway himſelf, with Numbers terrible,
Aſſiſted by that, &c.] Norway himſelf aſſiſted, &c. is a Reading we owe to the Editors, not to the Poet. That Energy and Contraſt of Expreſſion are loſt, which my Pointing reſtores. The Senſe is, Norway, who was in himſelf terrible by his own Numbers, when aſſiſted by Cawdor, became yet more terrible.

(4) Till that Bellona's Bridegroom, lapt in Proof,
Confronted him with ſelf-Compariſons,
Point againſt point, rebellious arm 'gainſt arm,
Curbing his laviſh Spirit.] Here again we are to quarrel with the Tranſpoſition of an innocent Comma; which however becomes dangerous to Senſe, when in the Hands either of a careleſs or ignorant Editor. Let us ſee who is it, that brings this rebellious Arm? Why, it is Bellona's Bridegroom: and who is he, but Macbeth. We can never believe our Author meant any thing like this. My Regulation of the Pointing reſtores the true Meaning; that the loyal Macbeth confronted the diſloyal Cawdor, arm to arm.

SCENE

SCENE changes to the Heath.

Thunder. Enter the three Witches.

Witch. WHere haſt thou been, ſiſter?
2 Witch. Killing ſwine.
3 Witch. Siſter, where thou?
1 Witch. A ſailor's wife had cheſnuts in her lap,
And mouncht, and mouncht, and mouncht. Give me, quoth I.
Aroint thee, witch!——the rump-fed ronyon cries.
Her huſband's to Aleppo gone, maſter o'th' Tyger:
But in a ſieve I'll thither ſail,
And like a rat without a tail,
I'll do—I'll do—and I'll do.
2 Witch. I'll give thee a wind.
1 Witch. Thou art kind.
3 Witch. And I another.
1 Witch. I myſelf have all the other,
And the very points they blow;
All the quarters that they know,
'th' ſhip-man's card.——
I will drain him dry as hay;
Sleep ſhall neither night nor day
Hang upon his pent-houſe lid;
He ſhall live a man forbid;
Weary ſev'n-nights, nine times nine,
Shall he dwindle, peak and pine:
Though his bark cannot be loſt,
Yet it ſhall be tempeſt-toſt.
Look, what I have.
2 Witch. Shew me, ſhew me.
1 Witch. Here I have a pilot's thumb,
Wreckt as homeward he did come. [Drum within.
3 Witch. A drum, a drum!
Macbeth doth come!
All. The Weïrd ſiſters, hand in hand, (5)
Poſters

(5) The wayward Siſters, hand in hand,] The Witches are here ſpeaking of themſelves, and it is worth an Enquiry why they ſhould ſtile

Poſters of the ſea and land,
Thus do go about, about,
Thrice to thine, and thrice to mine,
And thrice again to make up nine!
Peace,——the charm's wound up.

Enter Macbeth and Banquo, with Soldiers and other Attendants.

Macb. So foul and fair a day I have not ſeen.
Ban. How far is't call'd to Foris? — What are theſe,
So wither'd, and ſo wild in their attire,
That look not like the inhabitants o'th' earth,
And yet are on't? Live you, or are you aught
That man may queſtion? You ſeem to underſtand me,
By each at once her choppy finger laying
Upon her ſkinny lips;——You ſhould be women,
And yet your beards forbid me to interpret,
That you are ſo.
Macb. Speak, if you can; what are you?
1 Witch. All-hail, Macbeth! hail to thee, Thane of Glamis!
2 Witch. All-hail, Macbeth! hail to thee, Thane of Cawdor!
3 Witch. All-hail, Macbeth! that ſhalt be King hereafter.
Ban. Good Sir, why do you ſtart, and ſeem to fear
Things that do ſound ſo fair? I'th' name of truth,
Are ye fantaſtical, or that indeed [To the Witches.
Which outwardly ye ſhew? my noble partner
You greet with preſent grace, and great prediction
Of noble having, and of royal hope,
That he ſeems rapt withal; to me you ſpeak not.

ſtile themſelves the weyward, or wayward Siſters. This Word in its general Acceptation ſignifies, perverſe, froward, moody, obſtinate, untractable, &c. and is every where ſo uſed by our Shakeſpeare. It is improbable, the Witches would adopt this Epithet to themſelves, in any of theſe Senſes; and therefore we are to look a little farther for the Poet's Word and Meaning. Wierd, in the Scotch Language, ſignifies a Witch, or Wizard: and therefore, in every Paſſage, where there is any Relation to theſe Witches or Wizards, my Emendation muſt be embraced, and we muſt read Wierd, or Weird.

If you can look into the ſeeds of time,
And ſay, which grain will grow and which will not;
Speak then to me, who neither beg, nor fear,
Your favours, nor your hate.

1 Witch. Hail!

2 Witch. Hail!

3 Witch. Hail!

1 Witch. Leſſer than Macbeth, and greater.

2 Witch. Not ſo happy, yet much happier.

3 Witch. Thou ſhall get Kings, though thou be none;
So, all hail, Macbeth and Banquo!

1 Witch. Banquo and Macbeth, all-hail!

Macb. Stay, you imperfect ſpeakers, tell me more:
By Sinel's death, I know, I'm Thane of Glamis;
But how, of Cawdor? the Thane of Cawdor lives,
A proſp'rous gentleman; and, to be King,
Stands not within the proſpect of belief,
No more than to be Cawdor. Say, from whence
You owe this ſtrange intelligence? or why
Upon this blaſted heath you ſtop our way,
With ſuch prophetick greeting?—ſpeak, I charge you.
[Witches vaniſh.

Ban. The earth hath bubbles, as the water has;
And theſe are of them: whither are they vaniſh'd?

Macb. Into the air: and what ſeem'd corporal
Melted, as breath, into the wind.———
'Would they had ſtaid!

Ban. Were ſuch things here, as we do ſpeak about? (6)
Or have we eaten of the inſane root,

(6) Were ſuch Things here, as we do ſpeak about?
Or have we eaten of the inſane Root,
That takes the Reaſon priſoner?]

Hector Boethius, who gives us an Account of Sueno's Army being intoxicated by a Preparation put upon them by their ſubtle Enemy, informs us; that there is a Plant, which grows in great Quantity in Scotland, called Solatrum Amentiale; that its Berries are purple, or rather black, when full ripe; and have a Quality of laying to Sleep; or of driving into Madneſs, if a more than ordinary Quantity of them be taken. This Paſſage of Boethius, I dare ſay, our Poet had an Eye to: and, I think, it fairly accounts for his Mention of the inſane Root.

That takes the reaſon priſoner?

Macb. Your children ſhall be Kings.

Ban. You ſhall be King.

Macb. And Thane of Cawdor too; went it not ſo?

Ban. To th' ſelf ſame tune, and words; who's here?

Enter Roſſe and Angus.

Roſſe. The King hath happily receiv'd, Macbeth,
The news of thy ſucceſs; and when he reads
Thy perſonal venture in the rebels' fight,
His wonders and his praiſes do contend,
Which ſhould be thine, or his. Silenc'd with that,
In viewing o'er the reſt o'th' ſelf-ſame day,
He finds thee in the ſtout Norweyan ranks,
Nothing afraid of what thyſelf didſt make,
Strange images of death. As thick as hail,
Came poſt on poſt; and every one did bear
Thy praiſes in his kingdom's great defence:
And pour'd them down before him.

Ang. We are ſent,
To give thee, from our royal maſter, thanks;
Only to herald thee into his ſight,
Not pay thee.

Roſſe. And for an earneſt of a greater honour,
He bade me, from him, call thee Thane of Cawdor:
In which addition, hail, moſt worthy Thane!
For it is thine.

Ban. What, can the devil ſpeak true?

Macb. The Thane of Cawdor lives;
Why do you dreſs me in his borrow'd robes?

Ang. Who was the Thane, lives yet;
But under heavy judgment bears that life,
Which he deſerves to loſe. Whether he was Combin'd with Norway, or did line the rebel
With hidden help and 'vantage; or that with both
He labour'd in his country's wreck, I know not;
But treaſons capital, confeſs'd and prov'd,
Have overthrown him.

Macb. Glamis and Thane of Cawdor! [Aſide.

The greateſt is behind. Thanks for your pains. [To An.
Do you not hope, your children ſhall be Kings. [To Ban.
When thoſe that gave the Thane of Cawdor to me,
Promis'd no leſs to them?
Ban. That, truſted home,
Might yet enkindle you unto the crown,
Beſides the Thane of Cawdor. But 'tis ſtrange:
And oftentimes, to win us to our harm,
The inſtruments of darkneſs tell us truths;
Win us with honeſt trifles, to betray us
In deepeſt conſequence.
Couſins, a word, I pray you. [To Roſſe and Angus.
Macb. Two truths are told, [Aſide.
As happy prologues to the ſwelling act
Of the imperial theme. I thank you, gentlemen——,
This ſupernatural ſolliciting
Cannot be ill; cannot be good.——If ill,
Why hath it giv'n me earneſt of ſucceſs,
Commencing in a truth? I'm Thane of Cawdor.
If good; why do I yield to that ſuggeſtion,
Whoſe horrid image doth unfix my hair,
And make my ſeated heart knock at my ribs
Againſt the uſe of nature? preſent feats (7)
Are leſs than horrible imaginings.
My thought, whoſe murder yet is but fantaſtical,
Shakes ſo my ſingle ſtate of man, that function
Is ſmother'd in ſurmiſe; and nothing is,

(7) ——————preſent Fears
Are leſs than horrible Imaginings.] Macbeth, while he is projecting the Murder, which he afterwards puts in Execution, is thrown into the moſt agonizing Affright at the Proſpect of it: which ſoon recovering from, thus he reaſons on the Nature of his Diſorder. But Imaginings are ſo far from being more or leſs than preſent Fears, that they are the ſame Things under different Words. Shakeſpeare certainly wrote;
——————preſent Feats
Are leſs than horrible Imaginings.
i. e. When I come to execute this Murder, I ſhall find it much leſs dreadful than my frighted Imagination now preſents it to me. A conſideration drawn from the Nature of the Imagination.
Mr. Warburton.

But what is not.

Ban. Look, how our partner's rapt!

Macb. If chance will have me King, why, chance may crown me, [Aſide.

Without my ſtir.

Ban. New Honours, come upon him,
Like our ſtrange garments cleave not to their mould,
But with the aid of uſe.

Macb. Come what come may,
Time and the hour runs thro' the rougheſt day.

Ban. Worthy Macbeth, we ſtay upon your leiſure.

Macb. Give me your favour: my dull brain was wrought
With things forgot. Kind gentlemen, your pains
Are regiſtred where every day I turn
The leaf to read them——Let us toward the King;
Think, upon what hath chanc'd; and at more time,
[To Banquo.
(The Interim having weigh'd it,) let us ſpeak
Our free hearts each to other.

Ban. Very gladly.

Macb. 'Till then enough: come friends. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Palace.

Flouriſh. Enter King, Malcolm, Donalbain, Lenox, and Attendants.

King. IS execution done on Cawdor yet?
Or not thoſe in commiſſion yet return'd?

Mal. My liege,
Thy are not yet come back. But I have ſpoke
With one that ſaw him die; who did report,
That very frankly he confeſs'd his treaſons;
Implor'd your Highneſs' pardon, and ſet forth
A deep repentance; nothing in his life
Became him like the leaving it. He dy'd,
As one, that had been ſtudied in his death,
To throw away the deareſt thing he ow'd,
As 'twere a careleſs trifle.

King.

King. There's no art,
To find the mind's conſtruction in the face:
He was a gentleman, on whom I built
An abſolute truſt.

Enter Macbeth, Banquo, Roſſe, and Angus.

O worthieſt couſin!
The ſin of my ingratitude e'en now
Was heavy on me. Thou'rt ſo far before,
That ſwifteſt wing of recompence is ſlow,
To overtake thee. 'Would, thou'dſt leſs deſerv'd,
That the promotion both of thanks and payment
Might have been mine! only I've left to ſay,
More is thy due, than more than all can pay.
Macb. The ſervice and the loyalty I owe,
In doing it, pays itſelf. Your Highneſs' part
Is to receive our duties; and our duties
Are to your throne, and ſtate, children and ſervants;
Which do but what they ſhould, by doing every thing
Safe tow'rd your love and honour.
King. Welcome hither:
I have begun to plant thee, and will labour
To make thee full of growing. Noble Banquo,
Thou haſt no leſs deſerv'd; and muſt be known
No leſs to have done ſo: let me enfold thee,
And hold thee to my heart.
Ban. There if I grow,
The harveſt is your own.
King. My plenteous joys,
Wanton in fulneſs, ſeek to hide themſelves
In drops of ſorrow. Sons, kinſmen, Thanes,
And you whoſe places are the neareſt, know,
We will eſtabliſh our eſtate upon
Our eldeſt Malcolm, whom we name hereafter
The Prince of Cumberland: which honour muſt,
Not unaccompanied, inveſt him only;
But ſigns of nobleneſs, like ſtars, ſhall ſhine
On all deſervers——Hence to Inverneſs,
And bind us further to you.

Macb.

Macb. The reſt is labour, which is not us'd for you;
I'll be myſelf the harbinger, and make joyful
The hearing of my wife with your approach;
So humbly take my leave.

King. My worthy Cawdor!

Mab. The Prince of Cumberland!——that is a ſtep,
On which I muſt fall down, or elſe o'er-leap, [Aſide.
For in my way it lies. Stars, hide your fires!
Let not light ſee my black and deep deſires;
The eye wink at the hand! yet let that be,
Which the eye fears, when it is done, to ſee. [Exit.

King. True, worthy Banquo; he is full ſo valiant;
And in his commendations I am fed;
It is a banquet to me. Let us after him,
Whoſe care is gone before to bid us welcome:
It is a peerleſs kinſman. [Flouriſh. Exeunt.

SCENE changes to an Apartment in Macbeth's Caſtle, at Inverneſs.

Enter Lady Macbeth alone, with a letter.

Lady. THEY met me in the day of ſucceſs; and I have learn'd by the perfecteſt report, they have more in them than mortal knowledge. When I burnt in deſire to queſtion them further, they made themſelves air, into which they vaniſh'd. While I ſtood rapt in the wonder of it, came Miſſives from the King, who all-hail'd me, Thane of Cawdor; by which title, before, theſe weird ſiſters ſaluted me, and referr'd me to the coming on of time, with hail, King that ſhalt be! This have I thought good to deliver thee (my deareſt Partner of Greatneſs) that thou might'ſt not loſe the dues of rejoicing, by being ignorant of what Greatneſs is promis'd thee. Lay it to thy heart, and farewel.

Glamis thou art, and Cawdor——and ſhalt be
What thou art promis'd. Yet do I fear thy nature;
It is too full o'th' milk of human kindneſs,

To

To catch the neareſt way. Thou wouldſt be great;
Art not without ambition; but without
The illneſs ſhould attend it. What thou wouldſt highly,
That wouldſt thou holily; wouldſt not play falſe,
And yet wouldſt wrongly win. Thou'dſt have, great Glamis,
That which cries, "Thus thou muſt do, if thou have it;
"And that which rather thou doſt fear to do,
"Than wiſheſt ſhould be undone." Hie thee hither,
That I may pour my ſpirits in thine ear,
And chaſtiſe with the valour of my tongue
All that impedes thee from the golden round,
Which fate, and metaphyſical aid, doth ſeem
To have thee crown'd withal.

Enter Meſſenger.

What is your tidings?
Meſ. The King comes here to-night.
Lady. Thou'rt mad to ſay it.
Is not thy maſter with him? who, wer't ſo,
Would have inform'd for preparation.
Meſ. So pleaſe you, it is true: our Thane is coming.
One of my fellows had the ſpeed of him;
Who, almoſt dead for breath, had ſcarcely more
Than would make up his meſſage.
Lady. Give him tending;
He brings great news. The raven himſelf is hoarſe, [Exit Meſſenger.
That croaks the fatal entrance of Duncan
Under my battlements. Come, all you ſpirits
That tend on mortal thoughts, unſex me here;
And fill me, from the crown to th' toe, top-full
Of direſt cruelty; make thick my blood,
Stop up th' acceſs and paſſage to remorſe,
That no compunctious viſitings of nature
Shake my fell purpoſe, nor keep peace between
Th' effect, and it. Come to my woman's breaſts,
And take my milk for gall, you murd'ring miniſters!
Where-ever in your ſightleſs ſubſtances

You

You wait on nature's miſchief.——Come, thick night!
And pall thee in the dunneſt ſmoke of hell,
That my keen knife ſee not the wound it makes;
Nor heav'n peep through the blanket of the dark,
To cry, hold, hold!————

Enter Macbeth.

Great Glamis! worthy Cawdor! [Embracing him.
Greater than both, by the all-hail hereafter!
Thy letters have tranſported me beyond
This ign'rant preſent time, and I feel now
The future in the inſtant.
Macb. Deareſt love,
Duncan comes here to-night.
Lady. And when goes hence?
Macb. To-morrow, as he purpoſes.
Lady. Oh, never
Shall ſun that morrow ſee!——
Your face, my Thane, is as a book, where men (8)
May read ſtrange matters. To beguile the time,
Look like the time; bear welcome in your eye,
Your hand, your tongue; look like the innocent flower,
But be the ſerpent under't. He, that's coming,
Muſt be provided for; and you ſhall put
This night's great buſineſs into my diſpatch,
Which ſhall to all our nights and days to come
Give ſolely ſovereign ſway and maſterdom.
Macb. We will ſpeak further.

(8) Your Face, my Thane, is as a Book, where Men
May read ſtrange Matters to beguile the Time.
Look like the Time,] I have ventured againſt the Authority of all the Copies, to alter the Pointing of this Paſſage: and, I hope, with ſome Certainty. The Lady undoubtedly means that Macbeth looks ſo full of thought and ſolemn Reflection upon the purpoſed act, that, ſhe fears, People may comment upon the Reaſon of his Gloom: and therefore deſires him, in order to take off and prevent ſuch Comments, to wear a Face of Pleaſure and Entertainment; and look like the Time, the better to deceive the Time.

Lady.

Lady. Only look up clear:
To alter favour, ever, is and fear.
Leave all the reſt to me. [Exeunt.

SCENE, before Macbeth's Caſtle-Gate.

Hautboys and Torches. Enter King, Malcolm, Donalbain, Banquo, Lenox, Macduff, Roſſe, Angus, and Attendants.

King. THis Caſtle hath a pleaſant ſeat; the air
Nimbly and ſweetly recommends itſelf
Unto our gentle ſenſes.
Ban. This gueſt of ſummer,
The temple-haunting martlet, does approve
By his lov'd manſionry that heaven's breath
Smells wooingly here. No jutting frieze,
Buttrice, nor coigne of vantage, but this bird
Hath made his pendant bed, and procreant cradle:
Where they moſt breed and haunt, I have obſerv'd,
The air is delicate.

Enter Lady.

King. See, ſee! our honour'd hoſteſs!
The love that follows us, ſometimes is our trouble,
Which ſtill we thank as love. Herein I teach you,
How you ſhould bid god-eyld us for your pains,
And thank us for your trouble,
Lady. All our ſervice
(In every point twice done, and then done double,)
Were poor and ſingle buſineſs to contend
Againſt thoſe honours deep and broad, wherewith
Your Majeſty loads our houſe. For thoſe of old,
And the late dignities heap'd up to them,
We reſt your hermits.
King. Where's the Thane of Cawdor?
We cours'd him at the heels, and had a purpoſe
To be his purveyor: but he rides well,
And his great love, (ſharp as his ſpur,) hath holp him
To's home before us: fair and noble hoſteſs,

We are your gueſt to-night.

Lady. Your ſervants ever
Have theirs, themſelves, and what is theirs in compt,
To make their audit at your Highneſs' pleaſure,
Still to return your own.

King. Give me your hand;
Conduct me to mine hoſt, we love him highly;
And ſhall continue our graces towards him.
By your leave, hoſteſs. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to an Apartment in Macbeth's Caſtle.

Hautboys, Torches. Enter divers ſervants with diſhes and ſervice over the ſtage. Then Macbeth.

Macb. IF it were done, when 'tis done, then 'twere well
It were done quickly: if th' aſſaſſination
Could trammel up the conſequence, and catch
With its ſurceaſe, ſucceſs; that but this blow
Might be the be-all and the end-all——Here, (9)
But Here, upon this bank and ſhoal of time,
We'd jump the life to come——But, in theſe caſes,
We ſtill have judment here, that we but teach
Bloody inſtructions; which, being taught, return
To plague th' inventor. Even-handed juſtice
Returns th' ingredients of our poiſon'd chalice
To our own lips. He's here in double truſt:
Firſt, as I am his kinſman and his ſubject,
Strong both againſt the deed: Then as his hoſt
Who ſhould againſt his murd'rer ſhut the door,
Not bear the knife myſelf. Beſides, this Duncan
Hath borne his faculties ſo meek, hath been

(9) But here, upon this Bank and School of Time.] Bank and School ——— What a monſtrous Couplement, as Dan Armado ſays, is here of heterogeneous ideas! I have ventured to amend, which reſtores a Conſonance of Images,

i. e. this Shallow, this narrow Ford of human Life, oppoſed to the great Abyſs of Eternity.

See the Duke Edition for the correct reading.

So clear in his great office, that his virtues
Will plead, like angels, trumpet-tongu'd againſt
The deep damnation of his taking off:
And Pity, like a naked new-born babe,
Striding the blaſt, or heav'ns cherubin hors'd (10)
Upon the ſilent courſers of the air,
Shall blow the horrid deed in ev'ry eye;
That tears ſhall drown the wind.——I have no ſpur
To prick the ſides of my intent, but only
Vaulting Ambition, which o'er-leaps itſelf,
And falls on th' other ———

Enter Lady Macbeth.

How now? what news?

Lady. He'as almoſt ſupp'd; why have you left the chamber?

Macb. Hath he aſk'd for me?

Lady. Know you not he has?

Macb. We will proceed no further in this buſineſs.
He hath honour'd me of late; and I have bought
Golden opinions from all ſort of people,
Which would be worn now in their neweſt gloſs,
Not caſt aſide ſo ſoon.

Lady. Was the hope drunk,
Wherein you dreſt yourſelf? hath it ſlept ſince?
And wakes it now, to look ſo green and pale
At what it did ſo freely? from this time,
Such I account thy love. Art thou afraid
To be the ſame in thine own act and valour,
As thou art in deſire? wouldſt thou have that,
Which thou eſteem'ſt the ornament of life,
And live a coward in thine own eſteem?
Letting I dare not wait upon I would,
Like the poor cat i' th' Adage.

(10) —— or Heav'n's Cherubin hors'd upon the ſightleſs Couriers of the Air.] But the Cherubin is the Courier; ſo that he can't be ſaid to be hors'd upon another Courier. We muſt read, therefore, Courſers. Mr. Warburton.

Macb.

Macb. Pr'ythee, peace;
I dare do all that may become a man;
Who dares do more, is none.

Lady. What beaſt was't then,
That made you break this enterprize to me?
When you durſt do it, then you were a man;
And (to be more than what you were) you would Be ſo much more the man. Nor time, nor place
Did then co-here, and yet you would make both:
They've made themſelves; and that their fitneſs now
Do's unmake you. I have given ſuck, and know
How tender 'tis to love the babe that milks me——
I would, while it was ſmiling in my face,
Have pluck my nipple from his boneleſs gums,
And daſht the brains out, had I but ſo ſworn
As you have done to this.

Macb. If we ſhould fail,———

Lady. We fail!
But ſcrew your courage to the ſticking place,
And we'll not fail. When Duncan is aſleep,
(Whereto the rather ſhall his day's hard journey Soundly invite him) his two chamberlains
Will I with wine and waſſal ſo convince,
That memory (the warder of the brain)
Shall be a fume; and the receipt of reaſon
A limbeck only; when in ſwiniſh ſleep
Their drenched natures lie as in a death,
What cannot you and I perform upon
Th' unguarded Duncan? what not put upon
His ſpungy officers, who ſhall bear the guilt
Of our great quell?

Macb. Bring forth men-children only!
For thy undaunted metal ſhould compoſe
Nothing but males. Will it not be receiv'd,
When we have mark'd with blood thoſe ſleepy two
Of his own chamber, and us'd their very daggers,
That they have don't?

Lady. Who dares receive it other,
As we ſhall make our griefs and clamour roar,
Upon his death?

Mac

Macb. I'm ſettled, and bend up
Each corporal agent to this terrible feat.
Away, and mock the time with faireſt ſhow:
Falſe face muſt hide what the falſe heart doth know.
[Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE, A Hall in Macbeth's Caſtle.

Enter Banquo, and Fleance with a torch before him.

BANQUO.

HOW goes the night, boy?
Fle. The moon is down: I have not heard the clock.
Ban. And ſhe goes down at twelve.
Fle. I take't, 'tis later, Sir.
Ban. Hold, take my ſword. There's huſbandry in heav'n,
Their candles are all out.——Take thee that too.
A heavy ſummons lies like lead upon me,
And yet I would not ſleep: Merciful Pow'rs!
Reſtrain in me the curſed thoughts, that nature
Gives way to in repoſe,

Enter Macbeth, and a ſervant with a torch.

Give me my ſword: who's there?
Macb. A friend.
Ban. What, Sir, not yet at reſt? the King's a-bed.
He hath to-night been in unuſual pleaſure,
And ſent great largeſs to your officers;
This diamond he greets your wife withal,
By the name of moſt kind Hoſteſs, and ſhut up
In meaſureleſs content.
Macb. Being unprepar'd,
Our will became the ſervant to defect;
Which elſe ſhould free have wrought.

Ban

Ban. All's well.
I dreamt laſt night of the three weïrd ſiſters:
To you they've ſhewed ſome truth.
Macb. I think not of them;
Yet, when we can intreat an hour to ſerve,
Would ſpend it in ſome words upon that buſineſs;
If you would grant the time.
Ban. At your kind leiſure.
Macb. If you ſhall cleave to my conſent, when 'tis,
It ſhall make honour for you.
Ban. So I loſe none
In ſeeking to augment it, but ſtill keep
My boſom franchis'd and allegiance clear,
I ſhall be counſell'd.
Macb. Good repoſe the while!
Ban. Thanks, Sir; the like to you.
[Exeunt Banquo and Fleance.
Macb. Go, bid thy miſtreſs, when my drink is ready,
She ſtrike upon the bell. Get thee to bed. [Exit Serv.
Is this a dagger which I ſee before me,
The handle tow'rd my hand? come, let me clutch thee.
I have thee not, and yet I ſee thee ſtill.
Art thou not, fatal Viſion, ſenſible
To feeling as to ſight? or art thou but
A dagger of the mind, a falſe creation
Proceeding from the heat-oppreſſed brain?
I ſee thee yet, in form as palpable
As this which now I draw.———
Thou marſhal'ſt me the way that I was going;
And ſuch an inſtrument I was to uſe.
Mine eyes are made the fools o'th' other ſenſes,
Or elſe worth all the reſt——I ſee thee ſtill:
And on thy blade, and dudgeon, gouts of blood,
Which was not ſo before.—There's no ſuch thing.—
It is the bloody buſineſs, which informs
Thus to mine eyes.—Now o'er one half the world
Nature ſeems dead, and wicked dreams abuſe
The curtain'd ſleep; now witchcraft celebrates
Pale Hecate's offerings: and wither'd Murder, (Alarmed by his ſentinel, the wolf,

Whoſe

Whoſe howl's his watch) thus with his ſtealthy pace,
With Tarquin's raviſhing ſtrides, tow'rds his deſign
Moves like a ghoſt.—Thou ſound and firm-ſet earth,
Hear not my ſteps, which way they walk, for fear
Thy very ſtones prate of my where-about;
And take the preſent horror from the time,
Which now ſuits with it.—Whilſt I threat, he lives—
[A Bell rings.
Words to the heat of deeds too cold breath gives.
I go, and it is done; the bell invites me.
Hear it not, Duncan, for it is a knell
That ſummons thee to heaven, or to hell. [Exit.

Enter Lady Macbeth.

Lady. That, which hath made them drunk, hath made me bold:
What hath quench'd them, hath giv'n me fire. Hark! peace!
It was the owl that ſhriek'd, the fatal bell-man,
Which gives the ſtern'ſt good-night—he is about it—
The doors are open; and the ſurfeited grooms
Do mock their charge with ſnores. I've drugg'd their poſſets,
That death and nature do contend about them,
Whether they live or die.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. Who's there?——what ho!
Lady. Alack! I am afraid, they have awak'd;
And 'tis not done; th' attempt, and not the deed,
Confounds us—hark!——I laid their daggers ready.
He could not miſs 'em.——Had he not reſembled
My father as he ſlept, I had don't——My huſband!
Macb. I've done the deed—didſt thou not hear a noiſe?
Lady. I heard the owl ſcream, and the crickets cry.
Did not you ſpeak?
Macb. When?
Lady. Now.
Macb. As I deſcended?
Lady. Ay.

Mac

Macb. Hark!—who lies i' th' ſecond chamber?
Lady. Donalbain.
Lady. A fooliſh thought to ſay, a ſorry ſight.
Macb. There's one did laugh in's ſleep, and one cry'd, Murder!
They wak'd each other; and I ſtood and heard them;
But they did ſay their prayers, and addreſs them
Again to ſleep.
Lady. There are two lodg'd together.
Macb. One cry'd, "God bleſs us!" and, "Amen!" the other;
As they had ſeen me with theſe hangman's hands.
Liſtening their fear, I could not ſay, Amen,
When they did ſay, God bleſs us.
Lady. Conſider it not ſo deeply.
Macb. But wherefore could not I pronounce, Amen?
I had moſt need of bleſſing, and Amen
Stuck in my throat.
Lady. Theſe deeds muſt not be thought,
After theſe ways; ſo, it will make us mad.
Mac. Methought, I heard a voice cry, "Sleep no more!"
Macbeth doth murder Sleep; the innocent ſleep;
Sleep, that knits up the ravell'd ſleeve of care,
The death of each day's life, ſore labour's bath,
Balm of hurt minds, great nature's ſecond courſe,
Chief nouriſher in life's feaſt.———
Lady. What do you mean?
Macb. Still it cry'd, ſleep no more, to all the houſe;
Glamis hath murder'd ſleep, and therefore Cawdor
Shall ſleep no more; Macbeth ſhall ſleep no more!
Lady. Who was it, that thus cry'd? why, worthy Thane,
You do unbend your noble ſtrength, to think
So brain-ſickly of things; go, get ſome water,
And waſh this filthy witneſs from your hand.
Why did you bring theſe daggers from the place?
They muſt lie there. Go, carry them, and ſmear
The ſleepy grooms with blood.
Macb. I'll go no more;
I am afraid to think what I have done;

Look

Look on't again, I dare not.

Lady. Infirm of purpoſe!
Give me the daggers; the ſleeping and the dead
Are but as pictures; 'tis the eye of childhood,
That fears a painted devil. If he do bleed,
I'll gild the faces of the grooms withal.
For it muſt ſeem their guilt. [Exit.

Knocks within.

Macb. Whence is that knocking! [Starting.
How is it with me, when every noiſe appalls me?
What hands are here? hah! they pluck out mine eyes.
Will all great Neptune's ocean waſh this blood
Clean from my hand? no, this my hand will rather Thy multitudinous ſea incarnadine,
Making the green one red——

Enter Lady Macbeth.

Lady. My hands are of your colour; but I ſhame
To wear a heart ſo white; I hear a knocking [Knock.
At the ſouth entry. Retire we to our chamber;
A little water clears us of this deed.
How eaſy is it then? your conſtancy
Hath left you unattended——hark, more knocking!
[Knock.
Get on your night-gown, leſt occaſion call us,
And ſhew us to be watchers; be not loſt
So poorly in your thoughts.

Macb. To know my deed, 'twere beſt not know myſelf,
Wake, Duncan, with this knocking: 'would, thou couldſt!
[Exeunt.

Enter a Porter.

[Knocking within,] Port. Here's a knocking, indeed: if a man were porter of hell-gate, he ſhould have old turning the key. [Knock] Knock, knock, knock. Who's there, i' th' name of Belzebub? here's a farmer, that hang'd himſelf on the expectation of plenty: come in time time, have napkins enough about you, here you'll ſweat for't. [Knock] Knock, knock. Who's there, i'th' other devil's name? faith, here's an equivocator, that could ſwear in both the ſcales againſt either ſcale, who committed treaſon enough for God's ſake, yet could not equivocate to heav'n: oh, come in, equivocator. [Knock] Knock, knock, knock, Who's there? 'faith, here's an Engliſh taylor come hither for ſtealing out of a French hoſe: come in, taylor, here you may roaſt your gooſe. [Knock] Knock, knock. Never at quiet! what are you? but this place is too cold for hell. I'll devil-porter it no further: I had thought to have let in ſome of all profeſſions, that go the primroſe way to th' everlaſting bonfire. [Knock] Anon, anon, I pray you, remember the porter.

Enter Macduff, and Lenox.

Macd. Was it ſo late, friend, ere you went to bed, That you do lie ſo late?

Port. 'Faith, Sir, we were carouſing 'till the ſecond cock: And Drink, Sir, is a great provoker of three things.

Macd. What three things doth drink eſpecially provoke?

Port. Marry, Sir, noſe-painting, ſleep, and urine. Lechery, Sir, it provokes, and unprovokes; it provokes the deſire, but it takes away the performance. Therefore much drink may be ſaid to be an equivocator with lechery; it makes him, and it mars him, it ſets him on, and it takes him off; it perſuades him, and diſheartens him; makes him ſtand to, and not ſtand to; in concluſion, equivocates him into a ſleep, and, giving him the lie, leaves him.

Macd. I believe, drink gave thee the lie laſt night.

Port. That it did, Sir, i'th' very throat o' me; but I requited him for his lie; and, I think, being too ſtrong for him, though he took up my legs ſome time, yet I made a ſhift to caſt him.

Macd. Is thy maſter ſtirring?
Our knocking has awak'd him; here he comes.

Len. Good-morrow, noble Sir.

Enter

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. Good-morrow, both.
Macd. Is the King ſtirring, worthy Thane?
Macb. Not yet.
Macd. He did command me to call timely on him; I've almoſt ſlipt the hour.
Macb. I'll bring you to him.
Macd. I know, this is a joyful trouble to you: But yet, 'tis one.
Macb. The labour, we delight in, phyſicks pain; This is the door.
Macd. I'll make ſo bold to call, for 'tis my limited ſervice. [Exit Macduff.
Len. Goes the King hence to-day?
Macb. He did appoint ſo.
Len. The night has been unruly; where we lay, Our chimneys were blown down: And, as they ſay, Lamentings heard i'th' air, ſtrange ſcreams of death And propheſying with accents terrible Of dire combuſtion, and confus'd events, New hatch'd to th' woeful time: The obſcure bird clamour'd the live-long night. Some ſay, the earth was fev'rous, and did ſhake.
Macb. 'Twas a rough night.
Len. My young remembrance cannot parallel A fellow to it.

Enter Macduff.

Macd. O horror! horror! horror! Nor tongue, nor heart, cannot conceive, nor name thee—
Macb. and Len. What's the matter?
Macd. Confuſion now hath made his maſter-piece; Moſt ſacrilegious murder hath broke ope The Lord's anointed temple, and ſtole thence The life o'th' building.
Macb. What is't your ſay? the life?———
Len. Mean you his Majeſty?———
Macd. Approach the chamber, and deſtroy your ſight

With a new Gorgon.——Do not bid me ſpeak;
See, and then ſpeak yourſelves: awake! awake!
[Exeunt Macbeth and Len.
Ring the alarm-bell——murder! and treaſon!
Banquo, and Donalbain! Malcolm! awake!
Shake of this downy ſleep, death's counterfeit,
And look on death itſelf——up, up, and ſee
The great Doom's image——Malcolm! Banquo!
As from your graves riſe up, and walk like ſprights,
(11) To countenance this horror.——

Bell rings. Enter Lady Macbeth.

Lady. What's the buſineſs,
That ſuch an hideous trumpet calls to parley
The ſleepers of the houſe? ſpeak.
Macd. Gentle lady,
'Tis not for you to hear what I can ſpeak.
The repetition in a woman's ear
Would murder as it fell.—O Banquo, Banquo!

Enter Banquo.

Our royal maſter's murder'd.
Lady. Woe, alas!
What, in our houſe?——
Ban. Too cruel, any where.
Macduff, I pr'ythee, contradict thyſelf,
And ſay, it is not ſo.

(11) To countenance this horror. Ring the bell.]
I have ventur'd to throw out theſe laſt Words, as no part of the Text. Macduff had ſaid at the beginning of his Speech, Ring out th' Alarm Bell; but if the Bell had rung out immediately, not a Word of what he ſays could have been diſtinguiſh'd. Ring the Bell, I ſay, was a Marginal Direction in the Prompter's Book for him to order the Bell to be rung, the Minute that Macduff ceaſes ſpeaking. In proof of this, we may obſerve, that Hemiſtich ending Macduff's ſpeech, and that beginning Lady Macbeth's, make up a compleat Verſe. Now if Ring the Bell had been a part of the Text, can we imagine the Poet would have begun the Lady's ſpeech with a broken Line?

Enter

Enter Macbeth, Lenox, and Roſſe.

Macb. Had I but dy'd an hour before this chance,
I had liv'd a bleſſed time; for, from this inſtant,
There's nothing ſerious in mortality;
All is but toys: Renown, and Grace, is dead;
The wine of life is drawn, and the mere lees
Is left this vault to brag of.

Enter Malcolm, and Donalbain.

Don. What is amiſs?
Macb. You are, and do not know't:
The ſping, the head, the fountain of your blood
Is ſtopt; the very ſource of it is ſtopt.
Macd. Your royal father's murder'd.
Mal. Oh, by whom?
Len. Thoſe of his chamber, as it ſeem'd, had don't;
Their hands and faces where all badg'd with blood.
So were their daggers, which, unwip'd, we found
Upon their pillows; they ſtar'd and were diſtracted;
No man's life was to be truſted with them.
Macb. O, yet I do repent me of my fury,
That I did kill them.——
Macd. Wherefore did you ſo?
Macb. Who can be wiſe, amaz'd, temp'rate and furious,
Loyal and neutral in a moment? no man.
The expedition of my violent love
Out-run the pauſer, Reaſon. Here, lay Duncan;
His ſilver ſkin lac'd with his golden blood,
And his gaſh'd ſtabs look'd like a breach in Nature,
For Ruin's waſteful entrance; there, the murderers;
Steep'd in the colours of their trade, their daggers
Unmannerly breech'd with gore: who could refrain,
That had a heart to love, and in that heart
Courage, to make's love known?
Lady. Help me hence, ho!—— [Seeming to faint.
Macd. Look to the lady.
Mal. Why do we hold our tongues,
That moſt may claim this argument for ours?

Don. What ſhould be ſpoken here,
Where our Fate, hid within an augre-hole,
May ruſh, and ſeize us? Let's away, our tears
Are not yet brew'd.

Mal. Nor our ſtrong ſorrow on
The foot of motion.

Ban. Look to the lady; [Lady Macbeth is carried out.
And when we have our naked frailties hid,
That ſuffer in expoſure, let us meet,
And queſtion this moſt bloody piece of work,
To know it further. Fears and ſcruples ſhake us.
In the great hand of God I ſtand, and thence,
Againſt the undivulg'd pretence I fight
Of treaſonous malice.

Macb. So do I.

All. So, all.

Macb. Let's briefly put on manly readineſs,
And meet i'th' hall together.

All. Well contented. [Exeunt.

Mal. What will you do? let's not conſort with them:
To ſhew an unfelt ſorrow is an office
Which the falſe man does eaſy. I'll to England.

Don. To Ireland, I; our ſeparated fortune
Shall keep us both the ſafer; where we are,
There's daggers in men's ſmiles; the near in blood,
The nearer bloody.

Mal. This murderous ſhaft, that's ſhot,
Hath not yet lighted; and our ſafeſt way
Is to avoid the aim. Therefore, to horſe;
And let us not be dainty of leave-taking,
But ſhift away; there's warrant in that theft,
Which ſteals itſelf when there's no mercy left. [Exeunt.

SCENE, the outſide of Macbeth's Caſtle.

Enter Roſſe, with an old Man.

Ol. Ma. THreeſcore and ten I can remember well,
Within the volume of which time, I've ſeen
Hours dreadful, and things ſtrange; but this ſore night
Hath

Hath trifled former knowings.
Roſſe. Ah, good father,
Thou ſeeſt, the heav'ns, as troubled with man's act,
Threaten this bloody ſtage: by th' clock, 'tis day;
And yet dark night ſtrangles the travelling lamp:
Is't night's predominance, or the day's ſhame,
That darkneſs does the face of earth intomb,
When living light ſhould kiſs it?
Old Man. 'Tis unnatural;
Even like the Deed that's done. On Tueſday laſt,
A faulcon, towring in her pride of place,
Was by a mouſing owl hawkt at, and kill'd.
Roſſe. And Duncan's horſes, (a thing moſt ſtrange and certain!) (12)
Beauteous and ſwift, the minions of the Race,
Turn'd wild in nature, broke their ſtalls, flung out,
Contending 'gainſt obedience, as they would Make war with man.
Old Man. 'Tis ſaid, they eat each other.
Roſſe. They did ſo; to the amazement of mine eyes,
That look'd upon't.

Enter Macduff.

Here comes the good Macduff.
How goes the world, Sir, now?
Macd. Why, ſee you not?
Roſſe. Is't known, who did this more than bloody deed?
Macd. Thoſe, that Macbeth hath ſlain.
Roſſe. Alas, the day!
What good could they pretend?
Macd. They were ſuborn'd;

(12) And Duncan's Horſes, (a thing moſt ſtrange and certain!) Beauteous and ſwift, the Minions of their Race,]
I am pretty certain, all the Copies have err'd, one after another, in this Reading; and that I have reſtor'd the true one. The Poet does not mean, that they were the beſt of their Breed; but that they were excellent Racers: in which Senſe he very poetically calls them, the Minions of the Race. This is a Mode of Expreſſion, which he ſeems very fond of.

Malcolm, and Donalbain, the King's two ſons,
Are ſtol'n away and fled; which puts upon them
Suſpicion of the deed.

Roſſe. 'Gainſt nature ſtill;———
Thriftleſs ambition! that wilt ravin up
Thine own life's means.—Then 'tis moſt like,
The Sovereignty will fall upon Macbeth?

Mach. He is already nam'd, and gone to Scone
To be inveſted.

Roſſe. Where is Duncan's body?

Macd. Carried to Colmes-hill,
The ſacred ſtorehouſe of his predeceſſors,
And guardian of their bones.

Roſſe. Will you to Scone?

Macd. No, Couſin, I'll to Fife.

Roſſe. Well, I will thither.

Macd. Well, may you ſee things well done there, (adieu;)
Leſt our old robes ſit eaſier than our new!

Roſſe. Farewel, Father.

Old Man. God's beniſon go with you, and with thoſe
That would make good of bad, and friends of foes.

[Exeunt.

ACT III.

SCENE, an Apartment in the Palace.

Enter Banquo.

THOU haſt it now; King, Cawdor, Glamis, all
The weïrd women promis'd; and, I fear,
Thou play'dſt moſt foully for't: yet it was ſaid,
It ſhould not ſtand in thy poſterity;
But that myſelf ſhould be the root, and father
Of many Kings. If there come truth from them,
(As upon thee, Macbeth, their ſpeeches ſhine)

Why,

Why, by the verities on thee made good,
May they not be my oracles as well,
And ſet me up in hope? but, hush, no more.

Trumpets ſound. Enter Macbeth as King; Lady Macbeth, Lenox, Roſſe, Lords and Attendants.

Macb. Here's our chief gueſt.
Lady. If he had been forgotten,
It had been as a gap in our great feaſt,
And all things unbecoming.
Macb. To-night we hold a ſolemn ſupper, Sir,
And I'll requeſt your preſence.
Ban. Lay your Highneſs'
Command upon me; to the which, my Duties
Are with a moſt indiſſoluble tye
For ever knit.
Macb. Ride you this afternoon?
Ban. Ay, my good Lord.
Macb. We ſhould have elſe deſir'd
Your good advice (which ſtill hath been both grave
And proſp'rous) in this day's Council; but We'll take to-morrow. Is it far you ride?
Ban. As far, my Lord, as will fill up the time
'Twixt this and ſupper. Go not my horſe the better,
I muſt become a borrower of the night
For a dark hour or twain.
Macb. Fail not our feaſt.
Ban. My Lord, I will not.
Macb. We hear, our bloody Couſins are beſtow'd
In England, and in Ireland; not confeſſing
Their cruel Parricide, filling their hearers
With ſtrange invention; but of that to-morrow;
When therewithal we ſhall have cauſe of State,
Craving us jointly. Hie to horſe, adieu,
'Till you return at night. Goes Fleance with you?
Ban. Ay, my good Lord; our time does call upon us.
Macb. I wiſh your horſes ſwift, and ſure of foot:
And ſo I do commend you to their backs.
Farewel. [Exit Banquo.

Let

Let ev'ry man be maſter of his time (13)
'Till ſeven at night; to make ſociety
The ſweeter welcome, we will keep ourſelf
'Till ſupper-time alone: till then, God be with you.
[Exeunt Lady Macbeth, and Lords.

Manent Macbeth, and a Servant.

Sirrah, a word with you: attend thoſe men
Our pleaſure?

Serv. They are, my Lord, without the Palace-gate.

Macb. Bring them before us—To be thus, is nothing;
[Exit ſervant.
But to be ſafely thus.——Our fears in Banquo
Stick deep; and in his royalty of nature
Reigns that, which would be fear'd. 'Tis much he dares,
And to the dauntleſs temper of his mind,
He hath a wiſdom that doth guide his valour
To act in ſafety. There is none but he,
Whoſe Being I do fear: and, under him,
My Genius is rebuk'd; as, it is ſaid,
Antony's was by Cæſar. He chid the ſiſters,
When firſt they put the name of King upon me,
And bade them ſpeak to him; then, Prophet-like,
They hail'd him father to a line of Kings.
Upon my head they plac'd a fruitleſs Crown,
And put a barren Scepter in my gripe,
Thence to be wretch'd with an unlineal hand,
No ſon of mine ſucceeding. If 'tis ſo,

(13) Let ev'ry Man be Maſter of his Time
'Till ſev'n at night, to make Society
The ſweeter welcome: We will keep our ſelf
'Till Supper Time alone.] I am ſurpriz'd, none of the Editors ſhould quarrel with the Pointing. How could ev'ry Man's being Maſter of his own Time till Night, make Society then the ſweeter? for, ſo, every Man might have gone into Company, in the mean while, and pall'd himſelf for the Night's Entertainment. My Regulation, I dare warrant, retrieves the Poet's Meaning. "Let "every Man (ſays the King,) be Maſter of his own time till Seven "o' Clock: and that I may have the ſtronger Enjoyment of your "Companies then, I'll abſtain from all Company till Supper-time."

For

For Banquo's iſſue have I 'fil'd my mind:
For them, the gracious Duncan have I murder'd:
Put rancours in the veſſel of my peace
Only for them: and mine eternal jewel
Giv'n to the common enemy of man,
To make them Kings; the ſeed of Banquo Kings:
Rather than ſo, come Fate into the liſt,
And champion me to th' utterance!——who's there?

Enter a Servant, and two Murderers.

Go to the door, and ſtay there, 'till we call. [Exit Serv.
Was it not yeſterday we ſpoke together?
Mur. It was, ſo pleaſe your Highneſs.
Mach. Well, then, now
You have conſider'd of my ſpeeches? know,
That it was he, in the times paſt, which held you
So under fortune; which, you thought had been
Our innocent ſelf; this I made good to you
In our laſt conf'rence, paſt in probation with you:
How you were borne in hand, how croſt; the inſtruments;
Who wrought with them: and all things elſe, that might
To half a ſoul, and to a notion craz'd,
Say, thus did Banquo.
1 Mur. True, you made it known.
Mach. I did ſo; and went further, which is now
Our point of ſecond meeting. Do you find
Your Patience ſo predominant in your nature,
That you can let this go? are you ſo goſpell'd,
To pray for this good man and for his iſſue,
Whoſe heavy hand hath bow'd you to the grave,
And beggar'd yours for ever?
1 Mur. We are men, my liege.
Mach. Ay, in the catalogue ye go for men,
As hounds, and greyhounds, mungrels, ſpaniels, curs,
Showghes, water-rugs, and demy-wolves are clep'd
All by the name of dogs; the valued file
Diſtinguiſhes the ſwift, the ſlow, the ſubtle,
The houſe-keeper, the hunter; every one
According to the gift which bountecus Nature

Hath in him clos'd; whereby he does receive
Particular addition, from the bill
That writes them all alike: and so of men.
Now, if you have a ſtation in the file,
And not in the worſt rank of manhood, ſay it;
And I will put that buſineſs in your boſoms,
Whoſe execution takes your enemy off;
Grapples you to the heart and love of us,
Who wear our health but ſickly in his life,
Which in his death were perfect.

2 Mur. I am one,
Whom the vile blows and buffets of the world
Have ſo incens'd, that I am reckleſs what
I do, to ſpite the world.

1 Mur. And I another,
So weary with diſaſters, tugg'd with fortune,
That I would ſet my life on any chance,
To mend it, or be rid on't.

Macb. Both of you
Know, Banquo was your enemy.

2 Mur. True, my Lord,

Macb. So is he mine: and in ſuch bloody diſtance,
That every minute of his being thruſts
Againſt my near'ſt of life; and though I could
With bare-fac'd power ſweep him from my ſight,
And bid my will avouch it; yet I muſt not,
For certain friends that are both his and mine,
Whoſe loves I may not drop; but wail his fall,
Whom I myſelf ſtruck down: and thence it is,
That I to your aſſiſtance do make love,
Maſking the buſineſs from the common eye
For ſundry weighty reaſons.

2 Mur. We ſhall, my Lord,
Perform what you command us.

1 Mur. Though our lives———

Macb. Your ſpirits ſhine through you. In this hour, at moſt,
I will adviſe you where to plant yourſelves;
Acquaint you with the perfect ſpy o'th' time,
The moment on't; (for't muſt be done to-night,
And ſomething from the palace; always thought,
That I require a clearneſs: and with him,
(To leave no rubs nor botches in the work)
Fleance his ſon, that keeps him company,
Whoſe abſence is no leſs material to me
Than is his father's, muſt embrace the fate
Of that dark hour. Reſolve yourſelves apart,
I'll come to you anon.

2 Mur. We are reſolv'd, my Lord.

Macb. I'll call upon you ſtraight: abide within.
It is concluded: Banquo, thy ſoul's flight,
If it find heaven, muſt find it out to-night.

And ſomething from the palace: always thought,
That I require a clearneſs:) and with him,
(To leave no rubs nor boſches in the work)
Fleance his ſon, that keeps him company,
(Whoſe abſence is no leſs material to me,
Than is his father's) muſt embrace the fate
Of that dark hour. Reſolve yourſelves a-part,
I'll come to you anon.

1 Mur. We are reſolv'd, my Lord.

Macb. I'll call upon you ſtraight; abide within.
[Exeunt Murderers.
It is concluded;—Banquo, thy ſoul's flight,
If it find heav'n, muſt find it out to-night. [Exit.

SCENE, another Apartment in the Palace.

Enter Lady Macbeth, and a Servant.

Lady. IS Banquo gone from court?

Serv. Ay, Madam, but returns again to-night.

Lady. Say to the King, I would attend his leiſure
For a few words.

Serv. Madam, I will. [Exit.

Lady. Nought's had, all's ſpent,
Where our deſire is got without content:
'Tis ſafer to be that which we deſtroy,
Than by deſtruction dwell in doubtful joy.

Enter Macbeth.

How now, my Lord, why do you keep alone?
Of ſorrieſt fancies your companions making,
Uſing thoſe thoughts, which ſhould, indeed, have dy'd
With them they think on? things without all remedy
Should be without regard; what's done, is done.

Mach. We have ſcotch'd the ſnake, not kill'd it— (14)
She'll cloſe, and be herſelf; whilſt our poor malice
Remains

(14) We have ſcorch'd the Snake, not kill'd it,
She'll cloſe, and be herſelf;] This is a Paſſage, which has all along paſſed current thro' the Editions, and yet, I dare affirm,

Remains in danger of her former tooth.
But let both worlds disjoint, and all things ſuffer,
Ere we will eat our meal in fear, and ſleep
In the affliction of theſe terrible dreams,
That ſhake us nightly. Better be with the dead,
(Whom we, to gain our place, have ſent to peace)
Than on the torture of the mind to lie
In reſtleſs ecſtaſy.——Duncan is in his grave;
After life's fitful fever, he ſleeps well;
Treaſon has done his worſt; nor ſteel, nor poiſon,
Malice domeſtick, foreign levy, nothing
Can touch him further!

Lady. Come on;
Gentle my Lord, ſleek o'er your rugged looks;
Be bright, and jovial, 'mong your gueſts to-night.

Macb. So ſhall I, Love; and ſo, I pray, be you;
Let your remembrance ſtill apply to Banquo.
Preſent him eminence, both with eye and tongue:
Unſafe the while, that we muſt lave our honours
In theſe ſo flatt'ring ſtreams, and make our faces
Vizors t'our hearts, diſguiſing what they are!——

Lady. You muſt leave this.

Macb. O, full of ſcorpions is my mind, dear wife!

---

is not our Author's Reading. What has a Snake, cloſing again, to do with its being ſcorch'd? Scorching would never either ſeparate, or dilate, its Parts; but rather make them inſtantly contract and ſhrivel. SHAKESPEARE, I am very well perſuaded, had this Notion in his head; that if you cut a Serpent or Worm aſunder, in ſeveral Pieces, there is ſuch an unctuous Quality in their Blood, that the diſmembered Parts, being only placed near enough to touch one another, will cement and become as whole as before the Injury received. The Application of this Thought is to Duncan, the murder'd King, and his ſurviving Sons. Macbeth conſiders them ſo much as Members of the Father, that tho' he has cut off the old Man, he would ſay, he has not entirely killed him, but he'll revive again in the Lives of his Sons. Can we doubt therefore but that the Poet wrote, as I have reſtored to the Text,

We have ſcotch'd the Snake, not kill'd it?

To ſcotch, however the generality of our Dictionaries happen to omit the Word, ſignifies, to notch, ſlaſh, hack, cut, with Twigs, Swords, &c. and ſo our Poet more than once has uſed it in his Works.

Then

Thou know'ſt, that Banquo, and his Fleance, lives.
Lady. But in them Nature's copy's not eternal.
Macb. There's comfort yet, they are aſſailable;
Then, be thou jocund. Ere the Bat hath flown
His cloyſter'd flight, ere to black Hecat's ſummons
The ſhard-born beetle with his drowſy hums
Hath rung night's yawning peal, there ſhall be done
A deed of dreadful note.
Lady. What's to be done?
Macb. Be innocent of the knowledge, deareſt chuck,
'Till thou applaud the deed: come, ſeeling night,
Skarf up the tender eye of pitiful day,
And with thy bloody and inviſible hand
Cancel and tear to pieces that great bond,
Which keeps me pale! Light thickens, and the crow
Makes wing to th' rooky wood:
Good things of day begin to droop and drowze,
Whiles night's black agents to their prey do rouze.
Thou marvell'ſt at my words; but hold thee ſtill;
Things, bad begun, make ſtrong themſelves by ill:
So, pr'ythee, go with me. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a Park; the Caſtle at a diſtance.

Enter three Murderers.

1 Mur. BUT who did bid thee join with us?
3 Mur. Macbeth.
2 Mur. He needs not our miſtruſt, ſince he delivers
Our offices, and what we have to do,
To the direction juſt.
1 Mur. Then ſtand with us.
The weſt yet glimmers with ſome ſtreaks of day:
Now ſpurs the lated traveller apace,
To gain the timely inn; and near approaches
The ſubject of our watch.
3 Mur. Hark, I hear horſes.
Banquo within. Give us light there, ho!

2 Mur.

2 Mur. Then it is he: the reſt,
That are within the note of expectation,
Already are i'th' court.

1 Mur. His horſes go about.

3 Mur. Almoſt a mile: but he does uſually,
(So all men do,) from hence to th' Palace-gate
Make it their walk.

Enter Banquo and Fleance, with a Torch.

2 Mur. A light, a light.

3 Mur. 'Tis he.

1 Mur. Stand to't.

Ban. It will be rain to-night.

1 Mur. Let it come down. [They aſſault Banquo.

Ban. Oh, treachery!
Fly, Fleance, fly, fly, fly,
Thou may'ſt revenge. Oh ſlave! [Dies. Fleance eſcapes.

3 Mur. Who did ſtrike out the light?

1 Mur. Was't not the way?

3 Mur. There's but one down; the ſon
Is fled.

2 Mur. We've loſt beſt half of our affair.

1 Mur. Well, let's away, and ſay how much is done.
[Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a Room of State in the Caſtle.

A Banquet prepar'd. Enter Macbeth, Lady, Roſſe, Lenox, Lords, and Attendants.

Macb. YOU know your own degrees, ſit down:
At firſt and laſt, the hearty welcome.

Lords. Thanks to your Majeſty.

Macb. Ourſelf will mingle with ſociety,
And play the humble hoſt:
Our hoſteſs keeps her ſtate, but in beſt time
We will require her welcome. [They ſit.

Lady. Pronounce it for me, Sir, to all our friends,
For my heart ſpeaks, they're welcome.

Enter

Enter first Murderer.

Mac. See, they encounter thee with their hearts' thanks.
Both ſides are even: here I'll ſit i'th' midſt;
Be large in mirth, anon we'll drink a meaſure
The table round—There's blood upon thy face.
[To the Murderer, aſide, at the door.
Mur. 'Tis Banquo's then.
Macb. 'Tis better thee without, than he within.
Is he diſpatch'd?
Mur. My Lord, his throat is cut, that I did for him.
Macb. Thou art the beſt of cut-throats; yet he's good,
That did the like for Fleance: if thou didſt it,
Thou art the non-pareil.
Mur. Moſt royal Sir,
Fleance is 'ſcap'd.
Macb. Then comes my fit again: I had elſe been perfect;
Whole as the marble, founded as the rock;
As broad, and gen'ral, as the caſing air:
But now I'm cabin'd, cribb'd, confin'd, bound in
To ſawcy doubts and fears. But Banquo's ſafe?——
Mur. Ay, my good Lord: ſafe in a ditch he bides,
With twenty trenched gaſhes on his head;
The leaſt a death to nature.
Macb. Thanks for that;
There the grown ſerpent lies: the worm, that's fled,
Hath nature that in time will venom breed,
No teeth for th' preſent. Get thee gone, to-morrow
We'll hear't ourſelves again. [Exit Murderer.
Lady. My royal Lord,
You do not give the cheer; the feaſt is ſold,
That is not often vouched, while 'tis making;
'Tis given, with welcome. To feed, were beſt at home;
From thence, the ſawce to meat is ceremony;
Meeting were bare without it.
[The Ghoſt of Banquo riſes, and ſits in Macbeth's place.
Macb. Sweet remembrancer!
Now good digeſtion wait on appetite,
And health on both!

Len.

Len. May't pleaſe your Highneſs, ſit?
Macb. Here had we now our country's honour roof'd,
Were the grac'd perſon of our Banquo preſent,—— (Whom may I rather challenge for unkindneſs, Than pity for miſchance!)
Roſſe. His abſence, Sir,
Lays blame upon his promiſe. Pleas't your Highneſs
To grace us with our royal company?
Macb. The table's full. [Starting.
Len. Here's a place reſerv'd, Sir.
Macb. Where?
Len. Here, my good Lord.
What is't that moves your Highneſs?
Macb. Which of you have done this?
Lords. What, my good Lord?
Macb. Thou can'ſt not ſay, I did it: never ſhake
Thy goary locks at me.
Roſſe. Gentlemen, riſe; his Highneſs is not well.
Lady. Sit, worthy friends, my Lord is often thus,
And hath been from his youth. Pray you, keep ſeat.
The fit is momentary, on a thought
He will again be well. If much you note him,
You ſhall offend him, and extend his paſſion;
Feed, and regard him not.——Are you a man? [To Macbeth aſide.
Macb. Ay, and a bold one, that dare look on that,
Which might appall the devil.
Lady. O proper ſtuff! [Aſide.
This is the very painting of your fear;
This is the air-drawn dagger, which, you ſaid,
Led you to Duncan. Oh, theſe flaws and ſtarts
(Impoſtors to true fear,) would well become
A woman's ſtory at a winter's fire,
Authoriz'd by her grandam. Shame itſelf!——
Why do you make ſuch faces? when all's done,
You look but on a ſtool.
Macb. Pr'ythee, ſee there!
Behold! look! lo! how ſay you? [Pointing to the Ghoſt.
Why, what care I? if thou can'ſt nod, ſpeak too.—
If

If charnel-houſes and our graves muſt ſend
Thoſe that we bury, back; our monuments
Shall be the maws of kites. [The Ghoſt vaniſhes.
Lady. What? quite unmann'd in folly?
Macb. If I ſtand here, I ſaw him.——
Lady. Fy, for ſhame!
Macb. Blood hath been ſhed ere now, i'th' olden time,
Ere human ſtatute purg'd the gen'ral weal; (15)
Ay, and ſince too, murders have been perform'd
Too terrible for the ear: the times have been,
That, when the brains were out, the man would die,
And there an end; but now they riſe again
With twenty mortal murders on their crowns,
And puſh us from our ſtools: this is more ſtrange
Than ſuch a murder is.
Lady. My worthy Lord,
Your noble friends do lack you.
Macb. I do forget.——
Do not muſe at me, my moſt worthy friends,
I have a ſtrange infirmity, which is nothing
To thoſe that know me. Come, love and health to all!
Then I'll ſit down: give me ſome wine, fill full——
I drink to th' general joy of the whole table,
And to our dear friend Banquo, whom we miſs;
'Would he were here! to all, and him, we thirſt,
And all to all.
Lords. Our duties, and the pledge.
[The Ghoſt riſes again.
Mac. Avaunt, and quit my ſight! let the earth hide thee!
Thy bones are marrowleſs, thy blood is cold;
Thou haſt no ſpeculation in thoſe eyes,
Which thou doſt glare with.
Lady. Think of this, good Peers,

(15) Ere human Statute purg'd the gentle Weal.] Thus all the Editions: but Mr. Warburton very juſtly adviſed, as I have reformed the Text, gen'ral Weal: "And it is a very fine Periphraſis (ſays "he) to ſignify, ere civil Societies were inſtituted. For the early "Murders recorded in Scripture, are here alluded to: and Macbeth's "apologizing for Murder from the Antiquity of the Example is "very natural."

But as a thing of cuſtom; 'tis no other;
Only it ſpoils the pleaſure of the time.
Macb. What man dare, I dare:
Approach thou like the rugged Ruſſian bear,
The arm'd rhinoceros, or Hyrcanian tyger,
Take any ſhape but that, and my firm nerves
Shall never tremble: Or, be alive again,
And dare me to the deſert with thy ſword;
If trembling I inhibit, then proteſt me
The baby of a girl. Hence, terrible ſhadow!
Unreal mock'ry, hence! Why, ſo,—being gone,
[The Ghoſt vaniſhes.
I am a man again: pray you, ſit ſtill. [The Lords riſe.
Lady. You have diſplac'd the mirth, broke the good meeting
With moſt admir'd diſorder.
Macb. Can ſuch things be,
And overcome us like a ſummer's cloud,
Without our ſpecial wonder? You make me ſtrange
Ev'n to the diſpoſition that I owe,
When now I think, you can behold ſuch ſights;
And keep the natural ruby of your cheeks,
When mine is blanch'd with fear.
Roſſe. What ſights, my Lord?
Lady. I pray you, ſpeak not; he grows worſe and worſe;
Queſtion enrages him: at once good night.
Stand not upon the order of your going,
But go at once.
Len. Good-night, and better health
Attend his Majeſty!
Lady. Good-night, to all. [Exeunt Lords.
Mac. It will have blood, they ſay; blood will have blood;
Stones have been known to move, and trees to ſpeak;
Augurs, that underſtood relations, have
By mag-pies, and by choughs, and rooks, brought forth
The ſecret'ſt man of blood.——What is the night?
Lady. Almoſt at odds with morning, which is which.
Macb. How ſay'ſt thou, that Macduff denies his perſon,
At our great bidding?
Lady. Did you ſend to him, Sir?

Macb

Macb. I hear it by the way; but I will ſend:
There's not a Thane of them, but in his houſe (16)
I keep a ſervant fee'd. I will to-morrow
(Betimes I will) unto the weird ſiſters:
More ſhall they ſpeak; for now I'm bent to know,
By the worſt means, the worſt, for mine own good.
All cauſes ſhall give way; I am in blood
Stept in ſo far, that, ſhould I wade no more,
Returning were as tedious as go o'er:
Strange things I have in head, that will to hand;
Which muſt be acted, ere they may be ſcann'd.

Lady. You lack the ſeaſon of all nature's, ſleep.

Macb. Come, we'll to ſleep; my ſtrange and ſelf-abuſe
Is the initiate fear, that wants hard uſe:
We're yet but young in deed. (17) [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Heath.

Thunder. Enter the three Witches, meeting Hecate.

1 Witch. WHy, how now, Hecat', you look angerly.
He. Have I not reaſon, beldams, as you are?
Saucy, and over-bold! how did you dare

(16) There is not One of them,] Thus the modern Editors. But One of Whom? Macbeth has juſt ſaid, that he heard, Macduff meant to diſobey his Summons; and he would immediately ſubjoin, that there is not a Man of Macduff's Quality in the Kingdom, but he has a Spy under his Roof. This is underſtood, not expreſſed, as the Text as yet has ſtood: The old Folio's give us the Paſſage thus;

There's not a one of them———

Here we again meet with a depraved Reading; but it is ſuch a one, as, I am perſuaded, has led me to the Poet's true Word and Meaning.

There's not a Thane of them,

i. e. a Nobleman: and ſo the Peers of Scotland were all called, till Earls were created by Malcolm the Son of Duncan.

(17) We're yet but young indeed.] If we tranſpoſe theſe Words, we ſhall find, they amount to no more than this, We are yet indeed but young. But this is far from comprizing either the Poet's, or Macbeth's Meaning. I read, ----- in Deed, i. e. but little inured yet to Acts of Blood and Cruelty: for Time and Practice harden Villains in their Trade, who are timorous till ſo hardened.

To

To trade and traffick with Macbeth,
In riddles and affairs of death?
And I, the miſtreſs of your charms,
The cloſe contriver of all harms,
Was never call'd to bear my part,
Or ſhew the glory of our art?
And, which is worſe, all you have done
Hath been but for a weyward ſon;
Spightful and wrathful, who, as others do,
Loves for his own ends, not for you.
But make amends now; get you gone,
And at the pit of Acheron
Meet me i'th' morning: thither he
Will come, to know his deſtiny;
Your veſſels and your ſpells provide,
Your charms and every thing beſide.
I am for th' air: this night I'll ſpend
Unto a diſmal, fatal end.
Great buſineſs muſt be wrought ere noon:
Upon the corner of the moon
There hangs a vap'rous drop, profound;
I'll catch it ere it come to ground;
And that, diſtill'd by magick ſlights,
Shall raiſe ſuch artificial ſprights,
As, by the ſtrength of their illuſion,
Shall draw him on to his confuſion.
He ſhall ſpurn fate, ſcorn death, and bear
His hopes 'bove wiſdom, grace, and fear:
And, you all know, ſecurity
Is mortals' chiefeſt enemy. [Muſick and a ſong.
Hark, I am call'd; my little ſpirit, ſee,
Sits in the foggy cloud, and ſtays for me.
[Sing within, Come away, come away, &c.
1 Witch. Come, let us make haſte, ſhe'll ſoon be back again. [Exeunt.

SCENE

SCENE changes to a Chamber.

Enter Lenox, and another Lord.

Len. MY former ſpeeches have but hit your thoughts,
Which can interpret farther: only, I ſay,
Things have been ſtrangely borne. The gracious Duncan
Was pitied of Macbeth——marry, he was dead:——
And the right-valiant Banquo walk'd too late.
Whom, you may ſay, if't pleaſe you, Fleance kill'd,
For Fleance fled: men muſt not walk too late.
Who cannot want the thought, how monſtrous too
It was for Malcolm, and for Donalbain
To kill their gracious father? damned fact!
How did it grieve Macbeth? did he not ſtraight
In pious rage the two delinquents tear,
That were the ſlaves of drink, and thralls of ſleep?
Was not that nobly done? ay, wiſely too;
For 'twould have anger'd any heart alive
To hear the men deny't. So that, I ſay,
He has borne all things well; and I do think,
That had he Duncan's ſons under his key,
As, an't pleaſe heav'n, he ſhall not;) they ſhould find
What 'twere to kill a father: ſo ſhould Fleance.
But peace! for from broad words, and 'cauſe he fail'd
His preſence at the tyrant's feaſt, I hear,
Macduff lives in diſgrace. Sir, can you tell
Where he beſtows himſelf?

Lord. The ſon of Duncan, (18)
From whom this tyrant holds the due of birth,
Lives

(18) The Sons of Duncan
From whom this Tyrant holds the Due of Birth,] I have ſet right this Paſſage againſt the Authority of our unobſerving Editors. And the Proofs of my Emendation are obvious. In the firſt place, Macbeth could not be ſaid to hold the Due of Birth from both Duncan's Sons. The Succeſſion to the Crown was the Right of Malcolm; and Donalbaine could have no Right to it, as long as his elder Brother or any of his Iſſue were in being. In the next place, the Sons of Dunca

Lives in the Engliſh court; and is receiv'd
Of the moſt pious Edward with ſuch grace,
That the malevolence of fortune nothing
Takes from his high reſpect. Thither Macduff
Is gone to pray the King upon his aid
To wake Northumberland, and warlike Siward;
That by the help of theſe, (with him above
To ratify the work,) we may again
Give to our tables meat, ſleep to our nights;
Free from our feaſts and banquets bloody knives;
Do faithful homage, and receive free honours,
All which we pine for now. And this report
Hath ſo exaſp'rated their King, that he Prepares for ſome attempt of war.

Len. Sent he to Macduff?

Lord. He did; and with an abſolute, Sir, not I,
The cloudy meſſenger turns me his back,
And hums; as who ſhould ſay, " you'll rue the time,
" That clogs me with this anſwer."

Len. And that well might
Adviſe him to a care to hold what diſtance
His wiſdom can provide. Some holy Angel

Duncan did not both ſhelter in the Engliſh Court. Upon the Diſcovery of their Father's Murder, we find them thus determining.

Malc. ——— I'll to England.
Donal. To Ireland I; our ſeparated Fortune
Shall keep us both the ſafer.——

This Determination, 'tis plain, they immediately put into Act, of Macbeth had very ill intelligence:

We hear, our bloody Couſins are beſtow'd
In England and in Ireland.

Nor were they together, even at the time when Malcolm diſputed his Right with Macbeth.

Who knows, if Donalbain be with his Brother?

Len. For certain, Sir, he is not.

Beſides, Hector Boethius and Holingſhead (the latter of whom our Author preciſely follows;) both inform us, that Donalbain remained in Ireland till the Death of Malcolm and his Queen; and then, indeed, he came over, invaded Scotland, and wreſted the Crown from one of his Nephews.

Fly

Fly to the court of England, and unfold
His meſſage ere he come; that a ſwift bleſſing
May ſoon return to this our ſuffering country,
Under a hand accurs'd!

Lord. I'll ſend my pray'rs with him. [Exeunt.

ACT IV.

SCENE, a dark Cave; in the middle, a great Cauldron burning.

Thunder. Enter the three Witches.

1 WITCH.

THrice the brinded cat hath mew'd.

2 Witch. Twice, and once the hedge-pig whin'd.

3 Witch. Harper cries, 'tis time, 'tis time.

1 Witch. Round about the cauldron go,
In the poiſon'd entrails throw.

[They march round the cauldron, and throw in the ſeveral ingredients as for the preparation of their Charm.

Toad, that under the cold ſtone,
Days and nights has, thirty-one,
Swelter'd venom ſleeping-got;
Boil thou firſt i'th' charmed pot.

All. Duble, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble.

1 Witch. Fillet of a ſenny ſnake,
In the cauldron boil and bake;
Eye of newt, and toe of frog;
Wooll of bat, and tongue of dog;
Adder's fork, and blind-worm's ſting:
Lizard's leg, and owlet's wing:
For a charm of pow'rful trouble,
Like a hell-broth, boil and bubble;

Hark how cries! 'Tis time, 'tis time

All. Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble.
3 Witch. Scale of dragon, tooth of wolf,
Witches' mummy; maw, and gulf
Of the ravening ſalt ſea-ſhark;
Root of hemlock, digg'd i'th' dark;
Liver of blaſpheming Jew:
Gall of goat, and ſlips of yew,
Sliver'd in the moon's eclipſe;
Nose of Turk, and Tartar's lips;
Finger of birth-ſtrangled babe,
Ditch-deliver'd by a drab;
Make the gruel thick, and ſlab.
Add thereto a tyger's chaudron,
For th' ingredients of our cauldron.
All. Double, double, toil and trouble;
Fire burn, and cauldron bubble.
2 Witch. Cool it with a baboon's blood,
Then the charm is firm and good.

Enter Hecate, and other three Witches.

Hec. Oh! well done! I commend your pains,
And every one ſhall ſhare i'th' gains.
And now about the cauldron ſing,
Like elves and fairies in a ring,
Inchanting all that you put in.

Muſick and a Song.

Black ſpirits and white,
Blue ſpirits and grey,
Mingle, mingle, mingle,
You that mingle may.

2 Witch. By the pricking of my thumbs
Something wicked this way comes:
Open locks, whoever knocks.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. How now, you ſecret, black, and midnight hags?
What is't you do?
All. A deed without a name.
Macb. I conjure you, by that which you profeſs, (Howe'er you come to know it) anſwer me.
Though you untie the winds, and let them fight
Againſt the churches; though the yeſty waves
Confound and ſwallow navigation up;
Though bladed corn be lodg'd, and trees blown down,
Though caſtles topple on their warders' heads;
Though palaces and pyramids do ſlope
Their heads to their foundation; though the treaſure
Of nature's germins tumble all together, (19)
Ev'n till deſtruction ſicken: anſwer me
To what I aſk you.
1 Witch. Speak.
2 Witch. Demand.
3 Witch. We'll anſwer.
1 Witch. Say, if th' hadſt rather hear it from our mouths,
Or from our maſter's?
Macb. Call 'em: let me ſee 'em:
1 Witch. Pour in ſow's blood, that hath eaten
Her nine farrow; greaſe, that's ſweaten
From the murd'rer's gibbet, throw
Into the flame.
All. Come high or low:
Thyſelf and office deftly ſhow. [Thunder.

Apparition of an armed head riſes.

Macb. Tell me, thou unknown power——

(19) ——— ——Tho' the Treaſure
Of Nature's germains tumble all together,]
Thus all the printed Copies; and Mr. Pope has explained Germains by Kindred: but I have already proved in a Note upon King Lear, that we muſt read Germins, i. e. Seeds.

1 Witch. He knows thy thought:
Hear his ſpeech, but ſay thou nought.

App. Macbeth! Macbeth! Macbeth! beware Macduff!
Beware the Thane of Fife——diſmiſs me——enough.
[Deſcends.

Macb. What-e'er thou art, for thy good caution, thanks.
Thou'ſt harp'd my fear aright. But one word more——

1 Witch. He will not be commanded; here's another
More potent than the firſt. [Thunder.

Apparition of a bloody child riſes.

App. Macbeth! Macbeth! Macbeth!

Macb. Had I three ears, I'd hear thee.

App. Be bloody, bold, and reſolute; laugh to ſcorn
The pow'r of man; for none of woman born
Shall harm Macbeth. [Deſcends.

Macb. Then live, Macduff: what need I fear of thee?
But yet I'll make aſſurance double ſure,
And take a bond of fate; thou ſhalt not live,
That I may tell pale-hearted fear, it lies;
And ſleep in ſpight of thunder. [Thunders.

Apparition of a child crowned, with a tree in his hand, riſes.

What is this,
That riſes like the iſſue of a King,
And wears upon his baby-brow the round
And top of ſovereignty?

All. Liſten, but ſpeak not.

App. Be lion-mettled, proud, and take no care,
Who chafes, who frets, or where conſpirers are:
Macbeth ſhall never vanquiſh'd be, until
Great Birnam-wood to Dunſinane's high hill
Shall come againſt him. [Deſcends.

Macb. That will never be:
Who can impreſs the foreſt, bid the tree
Unfix his earth-bound root? ſweet bodements! good!
Rebellious head riſe never, 'till the wood (20)
Of

(20) Rebellious Dead, riſe never till the Wood
Of Birnam riſe, &c.] Thus all the Impreſſions, from the very Beginnin

Of Birnam riſe, and our high-plac'd Macbeth
Shall live the leaſe of nature, pay his breath
To time and mortal cuſtom!—Yet my heart
Throbs to know one thing; tell me, (if your art
Can tell ſo much) ſhall Banquo's iſſue ever
Reign in this kingdom?

All. Seek to know no more.

[The Cauldron ſinks into the ground.

Macb. I will be ſatisfy'd. Deny me this,
And an eternal curſe fall on you! let me know,
Why ſinks that cauldron? and what noiſe is this?

[Hautboys.

1 Witch. Shew!

2 Witch. Shew!

3 Witch. Shew!

All. Shew his eyes, and grieve his heart;
Come like ſhadows, ſo depart.

[Eight Kings appear and paſs over in order, and (21) Banquo; the laſt, with a glaſs in his hand.

Beginning, exhibit this Paſſage: but I cannot imagine what Notion the Editors could have of the Dead being rebellious. It looks to me, as if they were content to believe the Poet genuine, where-ever he was myſterious beyond being underſtood. The Emendation of one Letter gives us clear Senſe, and the very Thing which Macbeth ſhould be ſuppoſed to ſay here. We muſt reſtore

Rebellious Head riſe never ———

i. e. Let Rebellion never make Head againſt me, till a Foreſt move, and I ſhall reign long enough in ſafety.

(21) Eight Kings appear and paſs over in order, and Banquo laſt, with a Glaſs in his Hand.] The Editors could not help blundering even in this Stage-Direction. For 'tis not Banquo, who brings the Glaſs; as is evident from the following Speech:

And yet the Eighth appears, who bears a Glaſs,
Which ſhews me many more: ——and Some I ſee,
That twofold Balls, and treble Scepters carry.

I have quoted the laſt Line, becauſe it will not be amiſs to obſerve, that this fine Play, 'tis probable, was not writ till after Q. Elizabeth's Death. Theſe Appa.itions, tho' very properly ſhewn with Regard to Macbeth, yet are more artfully ſo, when we conſider the Addreſs of the Poet in complimenting K. James I. here upon his uniting Scotland to England: and when we conſider too, that the Family of the Stuarts are ſaid to be the direct Deſcendants from Banquo.

Macb. Thou art too like the ſpirit of Banquo; down!
Thy crown does ſear mine eye-balls.—— And thy hair
(Thou other gold-bound brow) is like the firſt——
A third is like the former——filthy hags!
Why do you ſhew me this?——A fourth?—Start, eye!
What! will the line ſtretch out to th' crack of doom!—
Another yet?——A ſeventh! I'll ſee no more——
And yet the eighth appears, who bears a glaſs,
Which ſhews me many more; and ſome I ſee,
That twofold balls and treble ſcepters carry.
Horrible ſight! nay, now, I ſee, 'tis true;
For the blood-bolter'd Banquo ſmiles upon me,
And points at them for his. What, is this ſo?

1 Witch. Ay, Sir, all this is ſo. But why
Stands Macbeth thus amazedly?
Come, ſiſters, chear we up his ſprights,
And ſhew the beſt of our delights;
I'll charm the air to give a ſound,
While you perform your antick round:
That this great King may kindly ſay,
Our duties did his welcome pay. [Muſick.

[The witches dance and vaniſh.

Mac. Where are they? gone?—Let this pernicious hour
Stand aye accurſed in the kalendar!
Come in, without there!

Enter Lenox.

Len. What's your Grace's will?

Macb. Saw you the weïrd ſiſters?

Len. No, my Lord.

Macb. Came they not by you?

Len. No, indeed, my Lord.

Macb. Infected be the air whereon they ride,
And damn'd all thoſe that truſt them! I did hear
The galloping of horſe. Who was't came by?

Len. 'Tis two or three, my Lord, that bring you word,
Macduff is fled to England.

Macb. Fled to England?

Len. Ay, my good Lord.

Mach

Macb. Time, thou anticipat'ſt my dread exploits:
The flighty purpoſe never is o'er-took,
Unleſs the deed go with it. From this moment,
The very firſtlings of my heart ſhall be
The firſtlings of my hand. And even now
To crown my thoughts with acts, be't thought and done!
The caſtle of Macduff I will ſurpriſe,
Seize upon Fife, give to the edge o'th' ſword
His wife, his babes, and all unfortunate ſouls
That trace him in his line. No boaſting like a fool,
This deed I'll do before this purpoſe cool.
But no more ſights. Where are theſe gentlemen?
Come bring me where they are. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Macduff's Caſtle at Fife.

Enter Lady Macduff, her Son, and Roſſe.

L. Mac. WHat had he done, to make him fly the land?
Roſſe. You muſt have patience, Madam.
L. Macd. He had none:
His flight was madneſs; when our actions do not,
Our fears do make us traitors.
Roſſe. You know not,
Whether it was wiſdom, or his fear.
L. Mac. Wiſdom? to leave his wife, to leave his babes,
His manſion, and his titles, in a place
From whence himſelf does fly? he loves us not,
He wants the nat'ral touch; for the poor wren,
The moſt diminutive of birds, will fight,
Her young ones in her neſt, againſt the owl:
All is the fear, and nothing is the love;
As little is the wiſdom, where the flight
So runs againſt all reaſon.
Roſſe. My deareſt couſin,
I pray you, ſchool yourſelf; but for your huſband,
He's noble, wiſe, judicious, and beſt knows
The fits o'th' ſeaſon. I dare not ſpeak much further,

But cruel are the times, when we are traitors,
And do not know ourſelves: when we hold rumour
From what we fear, yet know not what we fear;
But float upon a wild and violent ſea
Each way, and move. I take my leave of you;
Shall not be long but I'll be here again:
Things at the worſt will ceaſe, or elſe climb upward
To what they were before: my pretty couſin,
Bleſſing upon you!

L. Macd. Father'd he is, and yet he's fatherleſs.

Roſſe. I am ſo much a fool, ſhould I ſtay longer,
It would be my diſgrace, and your diſcomfort,
I take my leave at once. [Exit Roſſe.

L. Macd. Sirrah, your father's dead,
And what will you do now? how will you live?

Son. As birds do, mother.

L. Macd. What, on worms and flies?

Son. On what I get, I mean; and ſo do they.

L. Macd. Poor bird! thou'dſt never fear the net, nor lime:
The pit-fall, nor the gin.

Son. Why ſhould I, mother? poor birds, they are not ſet for.
My father is not dead for all your ſaying.

L. Macd. Yes, he is dead; how wilt thou do for a father?

Son. Nay, how will you do for a huſband?

L. Macd. Why, I can buy me twenty at any market.

Son. Then you'll buy 'em to ſell again.

L. Macd. Thou ſpeak'ſt with all thy wit, and yet i'faith,
With wit enough for thee.

Son. Was my father a traitor, mother?

L. Macd. Ay, that he was.

Son. What is a traitor?

L. Macd. Why, one that ſwears and lies.

Son. And be all traitors, that do ſo?

L. Macd. Every one, that does ſo, is a traitor, and muſt be hang'd.

Son. And muſt they all be hang'd, that ſwear and lie?

L. Macd.

L. Macd. Every one.

Son. Who muſt hang them?

L. Macd. Why, the honeſt men.

Son. Then the liars and ſwearers are fools; for there are liars and ſwearers enow to beat the honeſt men, and hang up them.

L. Macd. God help thee, poor monkey! but how wilt thou do for a father?

Son. If he were dead, you'd weep for him: if you would not, it were a good ſign that I ſhould quickly have a new father.

L. Macd. Poor pratler! how thou talk'ſt?

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Bleſs you, fair dame! I am not to you known,
Though in your ſtate of honour I am perfect;
I doubt, ſome danger does approach you nearly.
If you will take a homely man's advice,
Be not found here; hence with your little ones.
To fright you thus, methinks, I am too ſavage;
To do worſe to you were fell cruelty,
Which is too nigh your perſon. Heav'n preſerve you!
I dare abide no longer. [Exit Meſſenger.

L. Macd. Whither ſhould I fly?
I've done no harm. But I remember now,
I'm in this earthly world, where to do harm
Is often laudable; to do good, ſometime
Accounted dang'rous folly. Why then, alas!
Do I put up that womanly defence,
To ſay, I've done no harm?—what are theſe faces?

Enter Murderers.

Mur. Where is your huſband?

L. Macd. I hope, in no place ſo unſanctified,
Where ſuch as thou may'ſt find him.

Mur. He's a traitor.

Son. Thou ly'ſt, thou ſhag-ear'd villain.

Mur. What, you egg? [Stabbing him.
Young fry of treachery?

Son. He'as kill'd me, mother.
Run away, pray you.

[Exit Lady Macduff, crying Murder; Murderers purſue her.

SCENE changes to the King of England's Palace.

Enter Malcolm and Macduff.

Mal. LET us ſeek out ſome deſolate ſhade, and there
Weep our ſad boſoms empty.
Macd. Let us rather
Hold faſt the mortal ſword; and, like good men,
Beſtride our downfal birth-doom: each new morn,
New widows howl, new orphans cry; new ſorrows
Strike heaven on the face, that it reſounds
As if it felt with Scotland, and yell'd out
Like ſyllables of dolor.
Mal. What I believe, I'll wail;
What know, believe; and, what I can redreſs,
As I ſhall find the time to friend, I will.
What you have ſpoke, it may be ſo, perchance;
This tyrant, whoſe ſole name bliſters our tongues,
Was once thought honeſt: you have lov'd him well,
He hath not touch'd you yet. I'm young; but ſomething (22)
You may deſerve of him through me, and wiſdom
To offer up a weak, poor, innocent lamb,
T' appeaſe an angry God.
Macd. I am not treacherous.
Mal. But Macbeth is.
A good and virtuous nature may recoil

(22) ——— I'm young, but ſomething
You may diſcern of him through me, &c.] If the whole Tenour of the Context could not have convinced our blind Editors, that we ought to read deſerve inſtead of diſcern, (as I have corrected in the Text,) yet Macduff's Anſwer, ſure, might have given them ſome light. ——— I am not treacherous.

In

In an imperial charge. I crave your pardon:
That which you are, my thoughts cannot transpose;
Angels are bright still, though the brightest fell:
Though all things foul would wear the brows of grace,
Yet Grace must look still so.

Macd. I've lost my hopes.

Mal. Perchance, ev'n there, where I did find my doubts.
Why in that rawness left you wife and children,
Those precious motives, those strong knots of love,
Without leave-taking?——I pray you,
Let not my jealousies be your dishonours,
But mine own safeties: you may be rightly just,
Whatever I shall think.

Macd. Bleed, bleed, poor country!
Great tyranny, lay thou thy basis sure,
For goodness dares not check thee! Wear thou thy wrongs,
His title is affear'd. Fare thee well, Lord:
I would not be the villain that thou think'st,
For the whole space that's in the tyrant's grasp,
And the rich East to boot.

Mal. Be not offended;
I speak not as in absolute fear of you.
I think, our country sinks beneath the yoke;
It weeps, it bleeds, and each new day a gash
Is added to her wounds. I think withal,
There would be hands up-lifted in my right:
And here from gracious England have I offer
Of goodly thousands. But for all this,
When I shall tread upon the tyrant's head,
Or wear it on my sword, yet my poor country
Shall have more vices than it had before;
More suffer, and more sundry ways than ever,
By him that shall succeed.

Macd. What should he be?

Mal. It is myself I mean, in whom I know
All the particulars of vice so grafted,
That, when they shall be open'd, black Macbeth
Will seem as pure as snow, and the poor state
Esteem him as a lamb, being compar'd

With my confineleſs harms.

Macd. Not in the legions
Of horrid hell can come a devil more damn'd,
In evils to top Macbeth.

Mal. I grant him bloody,
Luxurious, avaricious, falſe, deceitful,
Sudden, malicious, ſmacking of ev'ry ſin
That has a name. But there's no bottom, none,
In my vuluptuouſneſs: your wives, your daughters,
Your matrons, and your maids, could not fill up
The ciſtern of my luſt; and my deſire
All continent impediments would o'er-bear,
That did oppoſe my will. Better Macbeth,
Than ſuch a one to reign.

Macd. Boundleſs intemperance
In nature is a tyranny; it hath been
Th' untimely emptying of the happy throne,
And fall of many Kings. But fear not yet
To take upon you what is yours; you may Convey your pleaſures in a ſpacious plenty,
And yet ſeem cold, the time you may ſo hoodwink:
We've willing dames enough; there cannot be
That vulture in you to devour ſo many,
As will to greatneſs dedicate themſelves,
Finding it ſo inclin'd.

Malc. With this, there grows,
In my moſt ill-compos'd affection, ſuch
A ſtanchleſs avarice, that, were I King,
I ſhould cut off the nobles for their lands;
Deſire his jewels, and this other's houſe;
And my more-having would be as a ſawce
To make me hunger more; that I ſhould forge
Quarrels unjuſt againſt the good and loyal,
Deſtroying them for wealth.

Macd. This avarice
Sticks deeper; grows with more pernicious root (23)
Than

(23) ——— grows with more pernicious Root
Than Summer-ſeeming Luſt.] Mr. Warburton concurred with me in obſerving, that Summer-ſeeming has no Manner of Senſe: We

Than ſummer-teeming luſt; and it hath been
The ſword of our ſlain Kings: yet do not fear;
Scotland hath foyſons, to fill up your will,
Of your mere own. All theſe are portable,
With other graces weigh'd.

Mal. But I have none; the King-becoming graces,
As juſtice, verity, temp'rance, ſtableneſs,
Bounty, perſev'rance, mercy, lowlineſs,
Devotion, patience, courage, fortitude;
I have no reliſh of them, but abound
In the diviſion of each ſeveral crime,
Acting it many ways. Nay, had I power, I ſhould
Pour the ſweet milk of concord into hell,
Uproar the univerſal peace, confound
All unity on earth.

Macd. Oh Scotland! Scotland!——

Mal. If ſuch a one be fit to govern, ſpeak:
I am as I have ſpoken.

Macd. Fit to govern?
No, not to live. O nation miſerable,
With an untitled tyrant, bloody-ſceptred!
When ſhalt thou ſee thy wholſome days again?
Since that the trueſt iſſue of thy throne
By his own interdiction ſtands accurſt,
And does blaſpheme his breed. Thy royal father
Was a moſt ſainted King; the Queen, that bore thee,
Oft'ner upon her knees than on her feet,
Dy'd every day ſhe liv'd. Oh, fare thee well!
Theſe evils, thou repeat'ſt upon thyſelf,
Have baniſh'd me from Scotland. Oh, my breaſt!
Thy hope ends here.

Mal. Macduff, this noble paſſion,
Child of integrity, hath from my ſoul

We therefore both corrected conjecturally,
Than Summer-teeming Luſt.
i. e. the Paſſion, which laſts no longer than the Heat of Life, and which goes off in the Winter of Age. Beſides, the Metaphor is much more juſt by our Emendation; for Summer is the Seaſon in which Weeds get Strength, grow rank, and dilate themſelves.

Wip'd

Wipe the black ſcruples; reconcil'd my thoughts
To thy good truth and honour. Deviliſh Macbeth
By many of theſe trains have ſought to win me
Into his pow'r: and modeſt wiſdom plucks me
From over-credulous haſte; but God above
Deal between thee and me! for even now
I put myſelf to thy direction, and
Unſpeak mine own detraction; here abjure
The taints and blames I laid upon myſelf,
For ſtrangers to my nature. I am yet
Unknown to woman, never was forſworn,
Scarcely have coveted what was mine own,
At no time broke my faith, would not betray
The devil to his fellow, and delight
No leſs in truth, than life: my firſt falſe-ſpeaking
Was this upon myſelf. What I am truly,
Is thine, and my poor country's, to command:
Whither, indeed, before thy here-approach,
Old Siward with ten thouſand warlike men,
All ready at a point, was ſetting forth.
Now we'll together, and the chance of goodneſs,
Be like our warranted quarrel! Why are you ſilent?

Macd. Such welcome, and unwelcome things at once,
'Tis hard to reconcile.

Enter a Doctor.

Malc. Well; more anon. Comes the King forth, I pray you?

Doct. Ay, Sir; there are a crew of wretched ſouls,
That ſtay his cure; their malady convinces
The great aſſay of art. But, at his touch,
Such ſanctity hath heaven given his hand,
They preſently amend. [Exit.

Mal. I thank you, Doctor.

Macd. What's the diſeaſe he means?

Mal. 'Tis call'd the Evil;
A moſt miraculous work in this good King,
Which often ſince my here remain in England
I've ſeen him do. How he ſollicits heav'n,
Himſelf beſt knows; but ſtrangely-viſited people,

All ſwoln and ulcerous, pitiful to the eye,
The mere deſpair of ſurgery, he cures;
Hanging a golden ſtamp about their necks,
Put on with holy prayers: and 'tis ſpoken,
To the ſucceeding royalty he leaves
The healing benediction. With this ſtrange virtue,
He hath a heav'nly gift of prophecy;
And ſundry bleſſings hang about his throne,
That ſpeak him full of grace.

Enter Roſſe.

Macd. See, who comes here!
Mal. My countryman; but yet I know him not.
Macd. My ever-gentle Couſin, welcome hither.
Mal. I know him now. Good God betimes remove
The means that makes us ſtrangers!
Roſſe. Sir, Amen.
Macd. Stands Scotland where it did?
Roſſe. Alas, poor country,
Almoſt afraid to know itſelf. It cannot
Be call'd our mother, but our grave; where nothing,
But who knows nothing, is once ſeen to ſmile:
Where ſighs and groans, and ſhrieks that rend the air,
Are made, not mark'd; where violent ſorrow ſeems
A modern ecſtaſy: the dead-man's knell
Is there ſcarce aſk'd, for whom: and good men's lives
Expire before the flowers in their caps;
Dying, or ere they ſicken.
Macd. Oh, relation
Too nice, and yet too true!
Mal. What's the neweſt grief?
Roſſe. That of an hour's age doth hiſs the ſpeaker,
Each minute teems a new one.
Macd. How does my wife?
Roſſe. Why, well.———
Macd. And all my children?
Roſſe. Well too.———
Macd. The tyrant has not batter'd at their peace?
Roſſe. No; they were well at peace, when I did leave 'em.

Macd.

Macd. Be not a niggard of your ſpeech: how goes it?
Roſſe. When I came hither to tranſport the tidings,
Which I have heavily borne, there ran a rumour
Of many worthy fellows that were out,
Which was to my belief witneſs'd the rather,
For that I ſaw the tyrant's power a-foot;
Now is the time of help; your eye in Scotland
Would create ſoldiers, and make women fight,
To doff their dire diſtreſſes.
Mal. Be't their comfort
We're coming thither: gracious England hath
Lent us good Siward and ten thouſand men;
An older, and a better ſoldier, none
That Chriſtendom gives out.
Roſſe. 'Would I could anſwer
This comfort with the like! But I have words,
That would be howl'd out in the deſart air,
Where hearing ſhould not catch them.
Macd. What concern they?
The gen'ral cauſe? or is it a fee-grief,
Due to ſome ſingle breaſt?
Roſſe. No mind, that's honeſt,
But in it ſhares ſome woe; though the main part
Pertains to you alone.
Macd. If it be mine,
Keep it not from me, quickly let me have it.
Roſſe. Let not your ears deſpiſe my tongue for ever,
Which ſhall poſſeſs them with the heavieſt ſound,
That ever yet they heard.
Macd. Hum! I gueſs at it.
Roſſe. Your caſtle is ſurpriz'd, your wife and babes
Savagely ſlaughter'd; to relate the manner,
Were on the quarry of theſe murder'd deer
To add the death of you.
Mal. Merciful heav'n!
What, man! ne'er pull your hat upon your brows;
Give ſorrow words; the grief, that does not ſpeak,
Whiſpers the o'er-fraught heart, and bids it break.
Macd. My children too!——
Roſſe. Wife, children, ſervants, all that could be found.

Macd

Macd. And I muſt be from thence! my wife kill'd too!
Roſſe. I've ſaid.
Mal. Be comforted.
Let's make us med'cines of our great revenge,
To cure this deadly grief.
Macd. He has no children.—All my pretty ones?
Did you ſay, all? what, all? oh, hell-kite! all?
What, all my pretty chickens, and their dam,
At one fell ſwoop.
Mal. Diſpute it like a man.
Macd. I ſhall do ſo:
But I muſt alſo feel it as a man.
I cannot but remember ſuch things were,
That were moſt precious to me: did heav'n look on,
And would not take their part? ſinful Macduff,
They were all ſtruck for thee! naught that I am,
Not for their own demerits, but for mine,
Fell ſlaughter on their ſouls: heav'n reſt them now!
Mal. Be this the whetſtone of your ſword, let grief
Convert to wrath: blunt not the heart, enrage it.
Macd. O, I could play the woman with mine eyes,
And braggart with my tongue. But, gentle heav'n!
Cut ſhort all intermiſſion; front to front,
Bring thou this fiend of Scotland and myſelf;
Within my ſword's length ſet him, if he 'ſcape,
Then heav'n forgive him too!
Mal. This tune goes manly:
Come, go we to the King, our Power is ready;
Our lack is nothing but our leave. Macbeth
Is ripe for ſhaking, and the Powers above
Put on their inſtruments. Receive what cheer you may;
The night is long, that never finds the day. [Exeunt.

ACT V.

SCENE, an Ante-chamber in Macbeth's Caſtle.

Enter a Doctor of Phyſick, and a Gentlewoman.

DOCTOR.

I HAVE two nights watch'd with you, but can perceive no truth in your report. When was it, ſhe laſt walk'd?

Gent. Since his Majeſty went into the field, I have ſeen her riſe from her bed, throw her night-gown upon her, unlock her cloſet, take forth paper, fold it, write upon't, read it, afterwards ſeal it, and again return to bed; yet all this while in a moſt faſt ſleep.

Doct. A great perturbation in nature! to receive at once the benefit of ſleep, and do the effects of watching. In this ſlumbery agitation, beſides her walking, and other actual performances, what (at any time) have you heard her ſay?

Gent. That, Sir, which I will not report after her.

Doct. You may to me, and 'tis moſt meet you ſhould.

Gent. Neither to you, nor any one, having no witneſs to confirm my ſpeech.

Enter Lady Macbeth with a Taper.

Lo, you! here ſhe comes: this is her very guiſe, and, upon my life, faſt aſleep; obſerve her, ſtand cloſe.

Doct. How came ſhe by that light?

Gent. Why, it ſtood by her: ſhe has light by her continually, 'tis her command.

Doct. You ſee, her eyes are open.

Gent. Ay, but their ſenſe is ſhut.

Doct. What is it ſhe does now? look, how ſhe rubs her hands.

Gent.

Gent. It is an accuſtom'd action with her, to ſeem thus waſhing her hands: I have known her continue in this a quarter of an hour.

Lady. Yet here's a ſpot.

Doct. Hark, ſhe ſpeaks. I will ſet down what comes from her, to ſatisfy my remembrance the more ſtrongly.

Lady, Out! damned ſpot; out, I ſay——one; two; why then, 'tis time to do't——hell is murky. Fy, my Lord, fy! a ſoldier, and afraid? what need we fear who knows it, when none can call our power to account?—yet who would have thought the old man to have had ſo much blood in him?

Doct. Do you mark that?

Lady. The Thane of Fife had a wife; where is ſhe now: what will theſe hands ne'er be clean?——no more o' that, my Lord, no more o' that: you mar all with this ſtarting.

Doct. Go to, go to; you have known what you ſhould not.

Gent. She has ſpoke what ſhe ſhould not, I am ſure of that: heav'n knows, what ſhe has known.

Lady. Here's the ſmell of the blood ſtill: all the perfumes of Arabia will not ſweeten this little hand. Oh! oh! oh!

Doct. What a ſigh is there? the heart is ſorely charg'd.

Gent. I would not have ſuch a heart in my boſom, for the dignity of the whole body.

Doct. Well, well, well——

Gent. Pray God, it be, Sir.

Doct. This diſeaſe is beyond my practice: yet I have known thoſe which have walked in their ſleep, who have died holily in their beds.

Lady. Waſh your hands, put on your night-gown, look not ſo pale——I tell you yet again, Banquo's buried; he cannot come out of his Grave.

Doct. Even ſo?

Lady. To bed, to bed; there's knocking at the gate: come, come, come, come, give me your hand: what's done, cannot be undone. To bed, to bed, to bed. [Ex. La. Doct.

Doct. Will ſhe go now to bed?

Gent. Directly.

Doct. Foul whiſp'rings are abroad; unnat'ral deeds
Do breed unnat'ral troubles. Infected minds
To their deaf pillows will diſcharge their ſecrets.
More needs ſhe the Divine, than the Phyſician.
God, God, forgive us all! Look after her;
Remove from her the means of all annoyance,
And ſtill keep eyes upon her; ſo, good night.
My mind ſhe'as mated, and amaz'd my ſight.
I think, but dare not ſpeak.

Gent. Good night, good Doctor. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to a Field, with a Wood at a diſtance.

Enter Menteth, Cathneſs, Angus, Lenox, and Soldiers.

Ment. THE Engliſh Power is near, led on by Malcolm,
His uncle Siward, and the good Macduff.
Revenges burn in them: for their dear cauſes
Would to the bleeding and the grim alarm
Excite the mortified man.

Ang. Near Birnam wood
Shall we well meet them; that way are they coming.

Cath. Who knows if Donalbain be with his brother?

Len. For certain, Sir, he is not: I've a file
Of all the Gentry; there is Siward's ſon, (24)

(24) ---------- there is Siward's Son,
And many unruff'd Youths, that even now
Proteſt their firſt of Manhood.] This unruff'd is a tacit Sophiſtication put upon us by Mr. Pope, in his extraordinary Sagacity; implying, that Malcolm had many Soldiers in his Ranks too young to wear a Ruff. This happy Conſtruction might ſeduce one into an Error, who was not acquainted with that Gentleman's Spirit of Criticiſm. 'Tis true, the old Editions read —— unruffe Youths; and our great Oblitus did not diſcern that this was the antiquated way of ſpelling unrough, i. e. ſmooth-chin'd, imberbis. And our Author particularly delights in this Mode of Expreſſion.

And

And many unrough youths, that even now
Proteſt their firſt of manhood.
Ment. What does the tyrant?
Cath. Great Dunſinane he ſtrongly fortifies;
Some ſay, he's mad: others, that leſſer hate him,
Do call it valiant fury: but for certain,
He cannot buckle his diſtemper'd cauſe
Within the belt of rule.
Ang. Now does he feel
His ſecret murders ſticking on his hands;
Now minutely revolts upbraid his faith-breach;
Thoſe, he commands, move only in command,
Nothing in love: now does he feel his Title
Hang looſe about him, like a giant's robe
Upon a dwarfiſh thief.
Ment. Who then ſhall blame
His peſter'd ſenſes to recoil, and ſtart,
When all that is within him does condemn
Itſelf, for being there?
Cath. Well, march we on,
To give obedience where 'tis truly ow'd:
Meet we the med'cine of the ſickly weal,
And with him pour we, in our country's purge,
Each drop of us.
Len. Or ſo much as it needs,
To dew the ſovereign flower, and drown the weeds.
Make up our march towards Birnam. [Exeunt.

SCENE, the Caſtle of DUNSINANE.

Enter Macbeth, Doctor and Attendants.

Macb. BRing me no more reports, let them fly all:
'Till Birnam-wood remove to Dunſinane,
I cannot taint with fear. What's the boy Malcolm?
Was he not born of woman? Spirits, that know
All mortal conſequences, have pronounc'd it:
'Fear not, Macbeth; no man, that's born of woman,
'Shall e'er have power upon thee.--Then fly, falſe Thanes,

An

And mingle with the Engliſh Epicures.
The mind I ſway by, and the heart I bear,
Shall never ſag with doubt, nor ſhake with fear.

Enter a Servant.

The devil damn thee black, thou cream-fac'd lown!
Where got'ſt thou that gooſe-look?
Serv. There are ten thouſand——
Macb. Geeſe, villain?
Serv. Soldiers, Sir.
Macb. Go, prick thy face, and over-red thy fear,
Thou lily-liver'd boy. What ſoldiers, patch?
Death of thy ſoul! thoſe linnen cheeks of thine
Are counſellors to fear. What ſoldiers, whey-face?
Serv. The Engliſh force, ſo pleaſe you.
Macb. Take thy face hence--Seyton!--I'm ſick at heart,
When I behold——Seyton, I ſay!——This puſh
Will cheer me ever, or diſeaſe me now.
I have liv'd long enough: my way of life
Is fall'n into the Sear, the yellow leaf:
And that, which ſhould accompany old age,
As honour, love, obedience, troops of friends,
I muſt not look to have: but, in their ſtead,
Curſes not loud but deep, mouth-honour, breath,
Which the poor heart would fain deny, and dare not.
Seyton,——

Enter Seyton.

Sey. What is your gracious pleaſure?
Macb. What news more?
Sey. All is confirm'd, my Lord, which was reported.
Macb. I'll fight, 'till from my bones my fleſh be hackt;
Give me my armour.
Sey. 'Tis not needed yet.
Macb. I'll put it on.
Send out more horſes, ſkir the country round;
Hang thoſe that talk of fear. Give me mine armour.
How does your Patient, Doctor?
Doct. Not ſo ſick, my Lord,
As ſhe is troubled with thick-coming fancies,

The

That keep her from her Reſt.

Macb. Cure her of that:
Canſt thou not miniſter to a mind diſeas'd,
Pluck from the memory a rooted ſorrow,
Raze out the written troubles of the brain;
And, with ſome ſweet oblivious antidote,
Cleanſe the ſtuff'd boſom of that perilous ſtuff,
Which weighs upon the heart?

Doct. Therein the patient
Muſt miniſter unto himſelf.

Macb. Throw phyſick to the dogs, I'll none of it—
Come, put my armour on; give me my ſtaff.
Seyton, ſend out—Doctor, the Thanes fly from me——
Come, Sir, diſpatch——If thou could'ſt, Doctor, caſt
The water of my Land, find her diſeaſe,
And purge it to a ſound and priſtine health;
That ſhould applaud again. Pull't off, I ſay——
I would applaud thee to the very Echo,
What rhubarb, ſenna, or what purgative drug,
Would ſcour theſe Engliſh hence! hear'ſt thou of them?

Doct. Ay, my good Lord; your royal preparation
Makes us hear ſomething.

Macb. Bring it after me;
I will not be afraid of death and bane,
'Till Birnam-foreſt come to Dunſinane.

Doct. Were I from Dunſinane away, and clear,
Profit again ſhould hardly draw me here. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Birnam-Wood.

Enter Malcolm, Siward, Macduff, Siward's Son, Menteth, Cathneſs, Angus, and Soldiers marching.

Mal. COuſins, I hope, the days are near at hand,
That chambers will be ſafe.

Ment. We doubt it nothing.

Siw. What wood is this before us?

Ment. The wood of Birnam.

Mal. Let every ſoldier hew him down a bough,

As

And bear't before him; thereby ſhall we ſhadow
The numbers of our Hoſt, and make diſcov'ry
Err in report of us.

Sold. It ſhall be done.

Siw. We learn no other, but the confident tyrant
Keeps ſtill in Dunſinane, and will endure
Our ſetting down before't.

Mal. 'Tis his main hope:
For where there is advantage to be given,
Both more and leſs have given him the revolt;
And none ſerve with him but conſtrained things,
Whoſe hearts are abſent too.

Macd. Let our juſt cenſures
Attend the true event, and put we on Induſtrious ſoldierſhip.

Siw. The time approaches,
That will with due deciſion make us know
What we ſhall ſay we have, and what we owe:
Thoughts ſpeculative their unſure hopes relate;
But certain iſſue ſtrokes muſt arbitrate:
Towards which, advance the war. [Exeunt marching.

SCENE changes to the Caſtle of Dunſinane.

Enter Macbeth, Seyton, and Soldiers with drums and colours.

Macb. HAng out our banners on the outward walls,
The Cry is ſtill, they come: our Caſtle's ſtrength
Will laugh a ſiege to ſcorn. Here let them lie,
'Till famine and the ague eat them up:
Were they not forc'd with thoſe, that ſhould be ours,
We might have met them dareful, beard to beard,
And beat them backward home. What is that noiſe?
[A cry within of Women.

Sey. It is the cry of women, my good Lord.

Macb. I have almoſt forgot the taſte of fears:
The time has been, my ſenſes would have cool'd
To hear a night-ſhriek; and my fell of hair
Would

Would at a diſmal treatiſe rouze and ſtir,
As life were in't. I have ſupt full with horrors;
Direneſs, familiar to my ſlaught'rous thoughts,
Cannot once ſtart me. Wherefore was that cry?

Sey. The Queen, my Lord, is dead.

Macb. She ſhould have dy'd hereafter;
There would have been a time for ſuch a word.
To-morrow, and to-morrow, and to-morrow,
Creeps in this petty pace from day to day,
To the laſt ſyllable of recorded time:
And all our yeſterdays have lighted fools
The way to duſty death. Out, out, brief candle!
Life's but a walking ſhadow, a poor Player,
That ſtruts and frets his hour upon the ſtage,
And then is heard no more! It is a tale,
Told by an ideot, full of ſound and fury,
Signifying nothing!

Enter a Meſſenger.

Thou com'ſt to uſe thy tongue: thy ſtory quickly.

Meſ. My graciõus Lord,
I ſhould report that which, I ſay, I ſaw,
But know not how to do't.

Macb. Well, ſay it, Sir.

Meſ. As I did ſtand my watch upon the hill,
I look'd tow'rd Birnam, and anon, methought,
The wood began to move.

Macb. Liar and ſlave! [Striking him.

Meſ. Let me endure your wrath, if't be not ſo:
Within this three mile may you ſee it coming;
I ſay, a moving grove.

Macb. If thou ſpeak'ſt falſe,
Upon the next tree ſhalt thou hang alive,
'Till famine cling thee: If thy ſpeech be ſooth,
I care not, if thou doſt for me as much.——
I pull in Reſolution, and begin
To doubt th' equivocation of the fiend,
That lies like truth. "Fear not, 'till Birnam-wood
"Do come to Dunſinane."—and now a wood
Comes toward Dunſinane. Arm, arm, and out!

If this, which he avouches, does appear,
There is nor flying hence, nor tarrying here,
I 'gin to be a-weary of the Sun;
And wiſh, the ſtate o'th' world were now undone.
Ring the alarum bell; blow, wind! come, wrack!
At leaſt, we'll die with harneſs on our back. [Exe

SCENE, before DUNSINANE.

Enter Malcolm, Siward, Macduff, and their Army w boughs.

Mal. NOW, near enough: your leafy ſcreens thr down,
And ſhew like thoſe you are. You (worthy uncle)
Shall with my couſin, your right noble ſon,
Lead our firſt battle. Brave Macduff and we Shall take upon's what elſe remains to do,
According to our order.

Siw. Fare you well:
Do we but find the tyrant's power to-night,
Let us be beaten if we cannot fight.

Macd. Make all our trumpets ſpeak, give them all brea
Thoſe clam'rous harbingers of blood and death. [E
[Alarms contin.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. They've ty'd me to a ſtake, I cannot fly,
But, bear-like, I muſt fight the courſe. What's h
That was not born of woman? ſuch a one
Am I to fear, or none.

Enter young Siward.

Yo. Siw. What is thy name?

Macb. Thou'lt be afraid to hear it.

Yo. Siw. No: though thou call'ſt thyſelf a hotter nam
Than any is in hell.

Macb. My name's Macbeth.

Yo. Siw. The devil himſelf could not pronounce a
More hateful to mine ear.

Macb. No, nor more fearful.

Yo. Siw. Thou lieſt, abhorred tyrant; with my ſword
I'll prove the lie thou ſpeak'ſt.

[Fight, and young Siward's ſlain.

Macb. Thou waſt born of woman;——
But ſwords I ſmile at, weapons laugh to ſcorn,
Brandiſh'd by man that's of a woman born. [Exit.

Alarms. Enter Macduff.

Macd. That way the noiſe is: Tyrant, ſhew thy face;
If thou be'ſt ſlain, and with no ſtroke of mine,
My wife and children's ghoſts will haunt me ſtill.
I cannot ſtrike at wretched Kernes, whoſe arms
Are hir'd to bear their ſtaves: Or thou, Macbeth,
Or elſe my ſword with an unbatter'd edge
I ſheath again undeeded. There thou ſhouldſt be—
By this great clatter, one of greateſt note
Seems bruited. Let me find him, fortune!
And more I beg not. [Exit. Alarm.

Enter Malcolm and Siward.

Siw. This way, my Lord, the caſtle's gently rendered:
The tyrant's people on both ſides do fight;
The noble Thanes do bravely in the war;
The day almoſt itſelf profeſſes yours,
And little is to do.

Mal. We've met with foes,
That ſtrike beſide us.

Siw. Enter, Sir, the caſtle. [Exeunt. Alarm.

Enter Macbeth.

Macb. Why ſhould I play the Roman fool, and die
On mine own ſword? whilſt I ſee lives, the gaſhes
Do better upon them.

To him, Enter Macduff.

Macd. Turn, hell-hound, turn.

Macb. Of all men elſe I have avoided thee:
But get thee back, my ſoul is too much charg'd
With blood of thine already.

Macd. I've no words;
My voice is in my ſword! thou bloodier villain,
Than terms can give thee out. [Fight. Alarm.

Macb. Thou loſeſt labour;
As eaſy may'ſt thou the intrenchant air
With thy keen ſword impreſs, as make me bleed:
Let fall thy blade on vulnerable creſts,
I bear a charmed life, which muſt not yield
To one of woman born.

Macd. Deſpair thy charm!
And let the angel, whom thou ſtill haſt ſerv'd,
Tell thee, Macduff was from his mother's womb
Untimely ripp'd.

Macb. Accurſed be that tongue, that tells me ſo,
For it hath cow'd my better part of man:
And be theſe juggling fiends no more believ'd,
That palter with us in a double ſenſe;
That keep the word of promiſe to our ear,
And break it to our hope! I'll not fight with thee.

Macd. Then yield thee, coward,
And live to be the ſhew and gaze o'th' time.
We'll have thee, as our rarer monſters are,
Painted upon a pole, and under-writ,
"Here may you ſee the tyrant."

Macb. I will not yield,
To kiſs the ground before young Malcolm's feet:
And to be baited with the rabble's curſe.
Though Birnam-wood be come to Dunſinane,
And thou, oppos'd, be of no woman born,
Yet I will try the laſt. Before my body
I throw my warlike ſhield. Lay on, Macduff;
And damn'd be he, that firſt cries, "hold, enough."
[Exeunt fighting. Alarm.

Retreat and flouriſh. Enter with Drum and Colours, Malcolm, Siward, Roſſe, Thanes, and Soldiers.

Mal. I would, the friends, we miſs, were ſafe arriv'd.

Siw. Some muſt go off: and yet, by theſe I ſee,
So great a day as this is cheaply bought.

M

Mal. Macduff is miſſing, and your noble ſon.

Roſſe. Your ſon, my Lord, has paid a ſoldier's debt;
He only liv'd but 'till he was a man,
The which no ſooner had his proweſs confirm'd,
In the unſhrinking ſtation where he fought,
But like a man he dy'd.

Siw. Then is he dead?

Roſſe. Ay, and brought off the field: your cauſe of ſorrow
Muſt not be meaſur'd by his worth, for then
It hath no end.

Siw. Had he his hurts before?

Roſſe. Ay, on the front.

Siw. Why then, God's ſoldier be he!
Had I as many ſons as I have hairs,
I would not wiſh them to a fairer death:
And ſo his knell is knoll'd.

Mal. He's worth more ſorrow,
And that I'll ſpend for him.

Siw. He's worth no more;
They ſay, he parted well, and paid his ſcore.
So, God be with him!—Here comes newer comfort.

Enter Macduff, with Macbeth's head.

Macd. Hail, King! for ſo thou art. Behold, where ſtands
Th' uſurper's curſed head; the time is free:
I ſee thee compaſt with thy kingdom's Peers,
That ſpeak my ſalutation in their minds:
Whoſe voices I deſire aloud with mine;
Hail, King of Scotland!

All. Hail, King of Scotland! [Flouriſh.

Mal. We ſhall not ſpend a large expence of time,
Before we reckon with your ſev'ral loves,
And make us even with you. Thanes and kinſmen,
Henceforth be Earls, the firſt that ever Scotland
In ſuch an honour nam'd. What's more to do,
Which would be planted newly with the time,
As calling home our exil'd friends abroad,
That fled the ſnares of watchful tyranny;

Producing forth the cruel miniſters
Of this dead butcher, and his fiend-like Queen;
(Who, as 'tis thought, by ſelf and violent hands Took off her life;) this and what needful elſe
That calls upon us, by the grace of Grace,
We will perform in meaſure, time and place:
So thanks to all at once, and to each one,
Whom we invite to ſee us crown'd at Scone.

ACT I.

SCENE, a Street in ROME.

Enter a company of mutinous Citizens with ſtaves, clubs, and other weapons.

1 CITIZEN.

BEFORE we proceed any farther, hear me ſpeak.

All. Speak, ſpeak.

1 Cit. You are all reſolv'd rather to die than to famiſh?

All. Reſolv'd, reſolv'd.

1 Cit. Firſt, you know, Caius Marcius is the chief enemy to the people.

All. We know't, we know't.

1 Cit. Let us kill him, and we'll have corn at our own price. Is't a verdict?

All. No more talking on't, let't be done; away, away.

2 Cit. One word, good Citizens.

1 Cit. We are accounted poor Citizens; the Patricians, good: what authority ſurfeits on, would relieve us: if they would yield us but the ſuperfluity, while it were wholeſome, we might gueſs, they relieved us humanely; but but they think, we are too dear; the leanneſs that afflicts us, the object of our miſery, is as an inventory to particularize their abundance; our ſufferance is a gain to them. Let us revenge this with our pikes, ere we become rakes: for the Gods know, I ſpeak this in hunger for bread, not in thirſt for revenge.

2 Cit. Would you proceed eſpecially againſt Caius Marcius?

All. Againſt him firſt: he's a very dog to the commonality.

2 Cit. Conſider you, what ſervices he has done for his country?

1 Cit. Very well; and could be content to give him good report for't; but that he pays himſelf with being proud.

All. Nay, but ſpeak not maliciouſly.

1 Cit. I ſay unto you, what he hath done famouſly, he did it to that end; though ſoft-conſcienc'd men can be content to ſay, it was for his country; he did it to pleaſe his mother, and to be partly proud; which he is, even to the altitude of his virtue.

2 Cit. What he cannot help in his nature, you account a vice in him: you muſt in no ways ſay, he is covetous.

1 Cit. If I muſt not, I need not be barren of accuſations; he hath faults, with ſurplus, to tire in repetition. [Shouts within.] What ſhouts are thoſe? the other ſide o'th' city is riſen; why ſtay we prating here? To the Capitol———

All. Come, come.

1 Cit. Soft——who comes here?

Enter Menenius Agrippa.

2 Cit. Worthy Menenius Agrippa; one that hath always lov'd the people.

1 Cit. He's one honeſt enough; would, all the reſt were ſo!

Men. What work's, my countrymen, in hand? where go you
With bats and clubs? the matter——Speak, I pray you.

2 Cit.

2 Cit. Our buſineſs is not unknown to the Senate; they have had inkling, this fortnight, what we intend to do, which now we'll ſhew 'em in deeds: they ſay, poor ſuitors have ſtrong breaths; they ſhall know, we have ſtrong arms too.

Men. Why, maſters, my good friends, mine honeſt neighbours,
Will you undo yourſelves?

2 Cit. We cannot, Sir, we are undone already.

Men. I tell you, friends, moſt charitable care
Have the Patricians of you: For your wants,
Your ſufferings in this dearth, you may as well
Strike at the heaven with your ſtaves, as lift them
Againſt the Roman ſtate; whoſe courſe will on
The way it takes, cracking ten thouſand curbs
Of more ſtrong links aſunder, than can ever
Appear in your impediment. For the dearth,
The Gods, not the Patricians, make it; and
Your knees to them (not arms) muſt help. Alack,
You are tranſported by calamity
Thither, where more attends you; and you ſlander
The helms o'th' ſtate, who care for you like fathers,
When you curſe them as enemies.

2 Cit. Care for us!——true, indeed!——they ne'er car'd for us yet. Suffer us to famiſh, and their ſtore-houſes cramm'd with grain: make edicts for uſury, to ſupport uſurers; repeal daily any wholſome Act eſtabliſhed againſt the rich, and provide more piercing ſtatutes daily to chain up and reſtrain the poor. If the wars eat us not up, they will; and there's all the love they bear us.

Men. Either you muſt
Confeſs yourſelves wond'rous malicious,
Or be accus'd of folly. I ſhall tell you
A pretty tale, (it may be, you have heard it;)
But, ſince it ſerves my purpoſe, I will venture
(1) To ſtale't a little more.

2 Cit.

(1) To ſcale't a little more.] Thus all the Editions, but without any manner of Senſe, that I can find out. The Poet muſt have wrote

2 Cit. Well,
I'll hear it, Sir——yet you muſt not think
To fob off our diſgraces with a tale:
But, an't pleaſe you, deliver.

Men. There was a time, when all the body's members
Rebell'd againſt the belly; thus accus'd it;——
That only, like a Gulf, it did remain
I'th' midſt o'th' body, idle and unactive,
Still cupboarding the Viand, never bearing
Like labour with the reſt; where th'other inſtruments
Did ſee, and hear, deviſe, inſtruct, walk, feel,
And mutually participate, did miniſter
Unto the appetite, and affection common
Of the whole body. The belly anſwer'd——

2 Cit. Well, Sir, what anſwer made the belly?

Men (2) Sir, I ſhall tell you.——With a kind of ſmile,
Which ne'er came from the lungs, but even thus——
(For look you, I may make the belly ſmile,
As well as ſpeak) it tauntingly reply'd
To th' diſcontented members, th' mutinous Parts,
That envied his receipt; even ſo moſt fitly,
As you malign our Senators, for that
They are not ſuch as you——

2 Cit. Your belly's anſwer——what!
The kingly-crowned head, the vigilant eye,
The counſellor heart, the arm our ſoldier,
Our ſteed the leg, the tongue our trumpeter;
With other muniments and petty helps
In this our fabrick, if that they—— wrote, as I have corrected the Text: and then the Meaning will be plainly this. "Perhaps, you may have heard my Tale already, "but for all that, I'll venture to make it more ſtale and familiar "to you, by telling it over again." And nothing is more common than the Verb in this Senſe, with our three Capital Dramatic Poets.

(2) Sir, I ſhall tell you with a kind of Smile,
Which ne'er came from the Lungs,] Thus all the Editors, moſt ſtupidly, hitherto; as if Menenius were to ſmile in telling his Story, tho' the Lines, which immediately follow, make it evident that the Belly was meant to ſmile.

Hymnelet in Vol:6.P:347.

Men. What then?—'Fore me, this fellow ſpeaks.
What then? what then?
2 Cit. Should by the cormorant belly be reſtrain'd,
Who is the ſink o'th' body,———
Men. Well,——what then?
2 Cit. The former agents, if they did complain,
What could the belly anſwer?
Mem. I will tell you,
If you'll beſtow a ſmall (of what you have little)
Patience, a while; you'll hear the belly's anſwer.
2 Cit. Y'are long about it.
Men. Note me this, good friend;
Your moſt grave belly was deliberate,
Not raſh, like his accuſers; and thus anſwer'd;
True is it, my incorporate friends, quoth he,
That I receive the general food at firſt,
Which you do live upon; and fit it is,
Becauſe I am the ſtore-houſe and the ſhop
Of the whole body. But, if you do remember,
I ſend it through the rivers of your blood,
Even to the court, the heart; to th' ſeat o'th' brain;
And, through the cranks and offices of man,
The ſtrongeſt nerves, and ſmall inferior veins,
From me receive that natural competency,
Whereby they live. And tho' that all at once,
You, my good friends, (this ſays the belly) mark me——
2 Cit. Ay, Sir, well, well.
Men. Though all at once cannot
See what I do deliver out to each,
Yet I can make my audit up, that all
From me do back receive the flow'r of all,
And leave me but the bran. What ſay you to't?
2 Cit. It was an anſwer;——how apply you this?
Men. The Senators of Rome are this good belly,
And you the mutinous members; for examine
Their counſels, and their cares; digeſt things rightly,
Touching the weal o'th' common; you ſhall find,
No publick benefit, which you receive,
But it proceeds, or comes, from them to you,
And no way from yourſelves. What do you think?
To

You, the great toe of this aſſembly!——
2 Cit. I the great toe! why, the great toe?
Men. For that, being one o'th' loweſt, baſeſt, pooreſt,
Of this moſt wiſe rebellion, thou goeſt foremoſt:
Thou raſcal, that art worſt in blood to run,
Lead'ſt firſt, to win ſome 'vantage.——
But make you ready your ſtiff bats and clubs,
Rome and her rats are at the point of battle:
(3) The one ſide muſt have bale.

Enter Caius Marcius.

Hail, noble Marcius!
Mar. Thanks. What's the matter, you diſſentious rogues,
That, rubbing the poor itch of your opinion,
Make your ſelves ſcabs?
2 Cit. We have ever your good word.
Mar. He, that will give good words to thee, will flatter
Beneath abhorring. What would you have, ye curs,
That like nor peace, nor war? The one affrights you,
The other makes you proud. He that truſts to you,
Where he ſhould find you lions, finds you hares:
Where foxes, geeſe; you are no ſurer, no,
Than is the coal of fire upon the ice,
Or hailſtone in the ſun. Your virtue is,
To make him worthy, whoſe offence ſubdues him,
And curſe that juſtice, did it. Who deſerves greatneſs,
Deſerves your hate; and your affections are
A ſick man's appetite, who deſires moſt that
Which would encreaſe his evil. He, that depends

(3) The one Side muſt have Bail.] It muſt be the vanquiſht ſide, ſure, that could want it; and who were likely to be their Bail? But it is endleſs to queſtion with Negligence and Stupidity. The Poet, undoubtedly, wrote, as I have reſtored;

The one ſide muſt have Bale.

i. e. Sorrow, Misfortune, muſt have the worſt of it, be diſcomfited. I have reſtored this Word in ſome other Paſſages of our Author; where the Editors ſeemed not to be aware of any ſuch Word in our Language.

Upon

Upon your favours, ſwims with fins of lead,
And hews down oaks with ruſhes. Hang ye——truſt ye!
With every minute you do change a mind,
And call him noble, that was now your hate;
Him vile, that was your garland. What's the matter,
That in the ſev'ral places of the city
You cry againſt the noble Senate, who (Under the Gods) keep you in awe, which elſe
Would feed on one another? what's their ſeeking?

Men. For corn at their own rates, whereof, they ſay,
The city is well ſtor'd.

Mar. Hang 'em! they ſay!——
They'll ſit by th' fire, and preſume to know
What's done i'th' Capitol; who's like to riſe;
Who thrives, and who declines: ſide factions, and give out
Conjectural marriages; making parties ſtrong,
And feeble ſuch, as ſtand not in their liking,
Below their cobled ſhoes. They ſay, there's grain enough!
Would the nobility lay aſide their ruth,
And let me uſe my ſword, I'd make a quarry
With thouſands of theſe quarter'd ſlaves, as high
As I could pitch my lance.

Men. Nay, theſe are almoſt thoroughly perſuaded:
For though abundantly they lack diſcretion,
Yet are they paſſing cowardly. But, I beſeech you,
What ſays the other troop?

Mar. They are diſſolv'd; hang 'em,
They ſaid they were an hungry, ſigh'd forth proverbs;
That hunger broke ſtone walls——that dogs muſt eat,——
That meat was made for mouths——that the Gods ſent not
Corn for the rich men only——With theſe ſhreds
They vented their complainings: which being anſwer'd,
And a petition granted them, a ſtrange one,
To break the heart of generoſity,
And make bold power look pale; they drew their caps
As they would hang them on the horns o'th' moon,
Shouting their emulation.

Men. What is granted them?

Mar. Five Tribunes to defend their vulgar wiſdoms,
Of their own choice. One's Junius Brutus,

Sicin-

Sicinius Velutus, and I know not———s'death,
The rabble ſhould have firſt unroof'd the city,
Ere ſo prevail'd with me! it will in time
Win upon Power, and throw forth greater themes
For inſurrection's arguing.

Men. This is ſtrange.

Mar. Go, get you home, you fragments!

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Where's Caius Marcius.

Mar. Here——what's the matter?

Meſ. The news is, Sir, the Volſcians are in arms.

Mar. I'm glad on't, then we ſhall have means to vent
Our muſty ſuperfluity. See, our beſt Elders!——

Enter Sicinius Velutus, Junius Brutus, Cominius, Titus Lartius, with other Senators.

1 Sen. Marcius, 'tis true, that you have lately told us,
The Volſcians are in arms.

Mar. They have a Leader,
Tullus Aufidius, that will put you to't.
I ſin in envying his nobility:
And were I any thing but what I am,
I'd wiſh me only he.

Com. You have fought together?

Mar. Were half to half the world by th' ears, and he Upon my party, I'd revolt to make
Only my wars with him. He is a lion,
That I am proud to hunt.

1 Sen. Then, worthy Marcius,
Attend upon Cominius to theſe wars.

Com. It is your former promiſe.

Mar. Sir, it is;
And I am conſtant; Titus Lartius, thou
Shalt ſee me once more ſtrike at Tullus' face.
What, art thou ſtiff? ſtand'ſt out?

Tit. No, Caius Marcius,
I'll lean upon one crutch, and fight with t'other,

Ere ſtay behind this buſineſs.
Men. O true-bred!
1 Sen. Your company to th' Capitol; where, I know,
Our greateſt friends attend us.
Tit. Lead you on;
Follow, Cominius; we muſt follow you;
Right worthy you priority.
Com. Noble Lartius!——
1 Sen. Hence to your homes——be gone.
[To the Citizens.
Mar. Nay, let them follow;
The Volſcians have much corn: take theſe rats thither,
To gnaw their garners. Worſhipful mutineers,
Your valour puts well forth; pray, follow.—— [Exeunt.
[Citizens ſteal away. Manent Sicinius and Brutus.
Sic. Was ever man ſo proud, as is this Marcius?
Bru. He has no equal.
Sic. When we were choſen tribunes for the people—
Bru. Mark'd you his lip and eyes?
Sic. Nay, but his taunts.
Bru. Being mov'd, he will not ſpare to gird the Gods—
Sic. Be-mock the modeſt moon,——
Bru. The preſent wars devour him; he is grown
Too proud, to be ſo valiant.
Sic. Such a nature,
Tickled with good ſucceſs, diſdains the ſhadow
Which he treads on at noon; but I do wonder,
His inſolence can brook to be commanded
Under Cominius.
Bru. Fame, at the which he aims,
In whom already he is well grac'd, cannot Better be held, nor more attain'd, than by
A place below the firſt; for what miſcarries
Shall be the general's fault, tho' he perform
To the utmoſt of a man; and giddy cenſure
Will then cry out of Marcius: oh, if he Had borne the buſineſs——
Sic. Beſides, if things go well,
Opinion, that ſo ſticks on Marcius, ſhall
Of his demerits rob Cominius.

Bru. Come,
Half all Cominius' honours are to Marcius,
Though Marcius earn'd them not; and all his faults
To Marcius ſhall be honours, though, indeed,
In aught he merit not.
Sic. Let's hence, and hear
How the diſpatch is made; and in what faſhion,
More than his ſingularity, he goes
Upon this preſent action.
Bru. Let's along. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Corioli.

Enter Tullus Aufidius, with Senators of Corioli.

1 Sen. SO, your opinion is, Aufidius,
That they of Rome are entred in our counſels,
And know how we proceed.
Auf. Is it not yours?
Whatever hath been thought on in the ſtate,
That could be brought to bodily act, ere Rome
Had circumvention? 'tis not four days gone,
Since I heard thence—theſe are the words—I think,
I have the letter here; yes——here it is;
" They have preſt a power, but it is not known [Reading.
" Whether for Eaſt or Weſt; the dearth is great,
" The people mutinous; and it is rumour'd,
" Cominius, Marcius your old enemy,
" (Who is of Rome worſe hated than of you)
" And Titus Lartius, a moſt valiant Roman,
" Theſe three lead on this preparation
" Whither 'tis bent—moſt likely, 'tis for you:
" Conſider of it."
1 Sen. Our army's in the field:
We never yet made doubt, but Rome was ready
To anſwer us.
Auf. Nor did you think it folly,
To keep your great pretences veil'd, 'till when They

They needs muſt ſhew themſelves: which in the hatching,
It ſeem'd, appear'd to Rome. By the diſcovery
We ſhall be ſhortned in our aim, which was
To take in many towns, ere (almoſt) Rome
Should know we were a-foot.

2 Sen. Noble Aufidius,
Take your commiſſion, hie you to your bands;
Let us alone to guard Corioli;
If they ſet down before's, for the remove
Bring up your army: but, I think, you'll find,
They've not prepar'd for us.

Auf. O, doubt not that,
I ſpeak from certainties. Nay more,
Some parcels of their power are forth already,
And only hitherward. I leave your honours.
If we and Caius Marcius chance to meet,
'Tis ſworn between us, we ſhall ever ſtrike
'Till one can do no more.

All. The Gods aſſiſt you!

Auf. And keep your Honours ſafe!

1 Sen. Farewel.

2 Sen. Farewel.

All. Farewel. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Caius Marcius's Houſe in ROME.

Enter Volumnia and Virgilia; they ſit down on two low ſtools and ſew.

Vol. I Pray you, daughter, ſing or expreſs yourſelf in a more comfortable ſort: if my Son were my Huſband, I would freelier rejoice in that abſence wherein he won honour, than in the embracements of his bed, where he would ſhew moſt love. When yet he was but tender-bodied, and the only ſon of my womb; when youth with comelineſs plucked all gaze his way; when, for a day of Kings' entreaties, a mother ſhould not ſell him an hour from her beholding; I, conſidering how honour

Honour would become ſuch a perſon, that it was no better than picture-like to hang by th' wall, if Renown made it not ſtir, was pleas'd to let him ſeek danger where he was like to find fame: to a cruel war I ſent him, from whence he return'd, his brows bound with oak. I tell thee, daughter, I ſprang not more in joy at firſt hearing he was a man-child, than now in firſt ſeeing he had proved himſelf a man.

Vir. But had he died in the buſineſs, Madam; how then?

Vol. Then his good report ſhould have been my ſon; I therein would have found iſſue. Hear me profeſs ſincerely: had I a dozen ſons each in my love alike, and none leſs dear than thine and my good Marcius, I had rather eleven die nobly for their country, than one voluptuouſly ſurfeit, out of action.

Enter a Gentlewoman.

Gent. Madam, the Lady Valeria is come to viſit you.

Vir. 'Beſeech you, give me leave to retire myſelf.

Vol. Indeed, thou ſhalt not:
Methinks, I hither hear your huſband's drum:
I ſee him pluck Aufidius down by th' hair:
(As children from a bear) the Volſci ſhunning him:
Methinks, I ſee him ſtamp thus—and call thus—
"Come on, ye cowards, ye were got in fear,
"Though you were born in Rome;" his bloody brow
With his mail'd hand then wiping, forth he goes
Like to a harveſt man, that's taſk'd to mow
Or all, or loſe his hire.

Vir. His bloody brow! oh, Jupiter, no blood!——

Vol. Away, you fool; it more becomes a man,
Than gilt his trophy. The breaſt of Hecuba,
When ſhe did ſuckle Hector, look'd not lovelier
Than Hector's forehead, when it ſpit forth blood
At Grecian ſwords contending; tell Valeria,
We are fit to bid her welcome. [Exit Gent.

Vir. Heav'ns bleſs my Lord from fell Aufidius!

Vol. He'll beat Aufidius' head below his knee,
And tread upon his neck.

Enter Valeria with an Uſher, and a Gentlewoman.

Val. My Ladies both, good-day to you.

Vol. Sweet Madam——

Vir. I am glad to ſee your Ladyſhip——

Val. How do you both? you are manifeſt houſe-keepers. What are you ſowing here? a fine ſpot, in good faith. How does your little ſon?

Vir. I thank your Ladyſhip: well, good Madam.

Vol. He had rather ſee the ſwords, and hear a drum, than look upon his ſchoolmaſter.

Val. O' my word, the father's ſon: I'll ſwear, 'tis a very pretty boy. O' my troth, I look'd on him o' Wedneſday half an hour together——h'as ſuch a confirm'd countenance. I ſaw him run after a gilded butterfly, and when he caught it, he let it go again; and after it again; and over and over he comes, and up again; and caught it again; or whether his fall enrag'd him, or how 'twas, he did ſo ſet his teeth, and did tear it; oh, I warrant, how he mammockt it!

Vol. One of's father's moods.

Val. Indeed, la, 'tis a noble child.

Vir. A crack, Madam.

Val. Come, lay aſide your ſtitchery; I muſt have you play the idle huſwife with me this afternoon.

Vir. No, good Madam, I will not out of doors.

Val. Not out of doors!

Vol. She ſhall, ſhe ſhall.

Vir. Indeed, no, by your patience; I'll not over the threſhold, 'till my Lord return from the wars.

Val. Fy, you confine yourſelf moſt unreaſonably: Come, you muſt go viſit the good Lady that lies in.

Vir. I will wiſh her ſpeedy ſtrength, and viſit her with my prayers; but I cannot go thither.

Vol. Why, I pray you?

Vir. 'Tis not to ſave labour, nor that I want love.

Val.

Val. You would be another Penelope; yet they ſay, all the yarn ſhe ſpun in Ulyſſes's abſence, did but fill Ithaca full of moths. Come, I would, your cambrick were ſenſible as your finger, that you might leave pricking it for pity. Come, you ſhall go with us.

Vir. No, good Madam, pardon me; indeed, I will not forth.

Val. In truth, la, go with me, and I'll tell you excellent news of your huſband.

Vir. Oh, good Madam, there can be none yet.

Val. Verily, I do not jeſt with you; there came news from him laſt night.

Vir. Indeed, Madam———

Val. In earneſt, it's true; I heard a Senator ſpeak it. Thus it is———The Volſcians have an army forth, againſt whom Cominius the General is gone with one part of our Roman power. Your Lord and Titus Lartius are ſet down before their city Corioli; they nothing doubt prevailing, and to make it brief wars. This is true, on my honour; and ſo, I pray, go with us.

Vir. Give me excuſe, good Madam, I will obey you in every thing hereafter.

Vol. Let her alone, Lady; as ſhe is now, ſhe will, but diſeaſe our better mirth.

Val. In troth, I think, ſhe would: fare you well then. Come, good ſweet Lady. Pr'ythee, Virgilia, turn thy ſolemneſs out o' door, and go along with us.

Vir. No: at a word, Madam; indeed, I muſt not. I wiſh you much mirth.

Val. Well, then farewel. [Exeunt.

SCENE, changes to the Walls of Corioli.

Enter Marcius, Titus Lartius, with Captains and Soldiers: To them a Meſſenger.

Mar. YOnder comes news: a wager, they have met.

Lart. My horſe to yours, no.

Mar. 'Tis done.

Lart

Lart. Agreed.
Mar. Say, has our general met the enemy?
Meſ. They lie in view; but have not ſpoke as yet.
Lart. So, the good horſe is mine.
Mar. I'll buy him of you.
Lart. No, I'll not ſell, nor give him: lend him you, I will,
For half an hundred years: Summon the town.
Mar. How far off lie theſe armies?
Meſ. Within a mile and half.
Mar. Then ſhall we hear their larum, and they ours.
Now, Mars, I pr'ythee, make us quick in work;
That we with ſmoaking ſwords may march from hence,
To help our fielded friends! Come, blow thy blaſt.

They ſound a Parley. Enter two Senators, with others on the Walls.

Tullus Aufidius, is he within your walls?
1 Sen. No, nor a man that fears you leſs than he,
That's leſſer than a little: hark, our drums
[Drum afar off.
Are bringing forth our youth: we'll break our walls,
Rather than they ſhall pound us up: our gates,
Which yet ſeem ſhut, we have but pinn'd with ruſhes;
They'll open of themſelves. Hark you, far off,
[Alarm, afar off.
There, is Aufidius. Liſt, what work he makes
Among your cloven army.
Mar. Oh, they are at it!——
Lart. Their noiſe be our inſtruction. Ladders, ho!

Enter the Volſcians.

Mar. They fear us not, but iſſue forth their city.
Now put your ſhields before your hearts, and fight
With hearts more proof than ſhields. Advance, brave Titus,
They do diſdain us much beyond our thoughts;
Which makes me ſweat with wrath. Come on, my fellows;
He

He that retires, I'll take him for a Volſcian,
And he ſhall feel mine edge.

[Alarm; the Romans beat back to their Trenches.

Re-enter Marcius.

Mar. (4) All the contagion of the ſouth light on you,
You ſhames of Rome, you!—herds of boils and plagues
Plaiſter you o'er, that you may be abhorr'd
Farther than ſeen, and one infect another
Againſt the wind a mile!—you ſouls of geeſe,
That bear the ſhapes of men, how have you run
From ſlaves, that apes would beat? Pluto and hell!
All hurt behind, backs red, and faces pale,
With flight, and agued fear! mend, and charge home,
Or, by the fires of heaven, I'll leave the foe,
And make my wars on you: look to't, come on;
If you'll ſtand faſt, we'll beat them to their wives,
As they us to our trenches followed.

Another alarm, and Marcius follows them to the gates.

So, now the gates are ope: now prove good ſeconds;
'Tis for the followers, fortune widens them;
Not for the fliers: mark me, and do the like.

[He enters the gates, and is ſhut in.

1 Sol. Fool-hardineſs, not I.

2 Sol. Nor I.

1 Sol. See, they have ſhut him in: [Alarm continues.

All. To th' pot, I warrant him.

(4) All the Contagion of the South light on you,
You Shames of Rome; you Herds; of Boils and Plagues
Plaiſter you o'er, &c.] Thus miſerably did the old Editors give us this Paſſage mangled by bad Pointing; and Mr. Pope would not indulge his private Senſe, by any Alteration to make it intelligible. The meaneſt Judges of Engliſh muſt be aware, that no Member of any Sentence can begin with a Genitive Caſe, and a preceding Nominative be wanting to govern That and the Verb. Where, therefore, is the Nominative to,——of Boils and Plagues plaiſter you o'er? Or what Senſe or Syntax is there in the Paſſage as it here ſtands?

Enter

Enter Titus Lartius.

Lart. What is become of Marcius?

All. Slain, Sir, doubtleſs.

1 Sol. Following the fliers at the very heels,
With them he enters; who, upon the ſudden,
Clapt to their gates; he is himſelf alone,
To anſwer all the city.

Lart. Oh, noble fellow!
Who, ſenſible, out-does his ſenſeleſs ſword, (5)
And, when it bows, ſtands up: thou art left, Marcius—
A carbuncle entire, as big as thou art,
Were not ſo rich a jewel. Thou waſt a ſoldier (6)
Even to Cato's wiſh, not fierce and terrible
Only in ſtrokes, but with thy grim looks, and
The thunder-like percuſſion of thy ſounds,

(5) Who ſenſibly outdares his ſenſeleſs Sword,
And when it bows, ſtands up.]

The fine and eaſy emendation of this Paſſage, which I have inſerted in the Text, is owing to the ingenious Doctor Thirlby.

(6) Thou waſt a Soldier
Even to Calvus' Wiſh;]

T. Lartius is here ſumming up his Friend's Character, as a Warrior that was terrible in his Strokes, in the Tone of his Voice, and the Grimneſs of his Countenance. But who was this Calvus, that wiſhed theſe three Characteriſticks in a Soldier? I am afraid, Greek and Roman Hiſtory will be at a Loſs to account for ſuch a Man and ſuch Circumſtances joined to ſignalize him. I formerly amended the Paſſage, and proved that the Poet muſt have wrote,

Even to Cato's Wiſh;——

The Error probably aroſe from the Similitude in the Manuſcript of to to lv: and ſo this unknown Wight Calvus ſprung up. I come now to the Authorities for my Emendation. Plutarch, in the Life of Coriolanus, ſpeaking of this Hero, ſays; He was a Man (that which CATO required in a Warrior) not only dreadful to meet with in the Field, by reaſon of his Hand and Stroke; but inſupportable to an Enemy, for the very Tone and Accent of his Voice: and the ſole Terror of his Aſpect.——This again is confirmed by the Hiſtorian, in the Life of Marcus CATO the Cenſor. In Engagements (ſays he;) he would uſe to ſtrike luſtily, with a fierce Countenance ſtare upon his Enemies, and with a harſh threatning Voice accoſt them. Nor was he out of his Opinion, whilſt he taught, that ſuch rugged kind of Behaviour ſometimes does ſtrike the Enemy more than the Sword itſelf.

The

Thou mad'ſt thine enemies ſhake, as if the world
Were feverous, and did tremble.

Enter Marcius bleeding, aſſaulted by the Enemy.

1 Sol. Look, Sir———
Lart. O, 'tis Marcius.
Let's fetch him off, or make remain alike.
[They fight, and all enter the City.

Enter certain Romans with Spoils.

1 Rom. This will I carry to Rome.
2 Rom. And I this.
3 Rom. A murrain on't, I took this for ſilver.
[Alarm continues ſtill afar off.

Enter Marcius and Titus Lartius, with a Trumpet.

Mar. See here theſe movers, that do prize their honours
At a crack'd drachm: cuſhions, leaden ſpoons,
Irons of a doit, doublets that hangmen would
Bury with thoſe that wore them, theſe baſe ſlaves,
Ere yet the fight be done, pack up; down with them;
And hark, what noiſe the General makes!—to him;—
There is the man of my ſoul's hate, Aufidius,
Piercing our Romans: then, valiant Titus, take Convenient numbers to make good the city;
Whilſt I, with thoſe that have the ſpirit, will haſte
To help Cominius.
Lart. Worthy Sir, thou bleed'ſt;
Thy exerciſe hath been too violent
For a ſecond courſe of fight.
Mar. Sir, praiſe me not:
My work hath yet not warm'd me. Fare you well:
The blood, I drop, is rather phyſical
Than dangerous to me.
T' Aufidius thus I will appear, and fight.
Lart. Now the fair goddeſs fortune
Fall deep in love with thee, and her great charms
Miſguide thy oppoſers' ſwords! bold gentleman!
Proſperity be thy page!
Mar. Thy friend no leſs,

Thou

Than thoſe ſhe placeth higheſt! ſo, farewel.
Lart. Thou worthieſt Marcius,
Go, ſound thy trumpet in the market-place,
Call thither all the officers o'th' town,
Where they ſhall know our mind. Away. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Roman Camp.

Enter Cominius retreating, with Soldiers.

Com. Breathe you, my friends; well fought; we are come off
Like Romans, neither fooliſh in our ſtands,
Nor cowardly in retire: Believe me, Sirs,
We ſhall be charg'd again. Whiles we have ſtruck,
By interims and conveying guſts, we have heard
The charges of our friends. The Roman Gods
Lead their ſucceſſes, as we wiſh our own;
That both our powers, with ſmiling fronts encountring,
May give you thankful ſacrifice! Thy news?

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. The citizens of Corioli have iſſued,
And given to Lartius and to Marcius battle.
I ſaw our party to the trenches driven,
And then I came away.
Com. Tho' thou ſpeak'ſt truth,
Methinks, thou ſpeak'ſt not well. How long is't ſince?
Meſ. Above an hour, my Lord.
Com. 'Tis not a mile: briefly, we heard their drums.
How couldſt thou in a mile confound an hour,
And bring the news ſo late?
Meſ. Spies of the Volſcians
Held me in chaſe, that I was forc'd to wheel
Three or four miles about; elſe had I, Sir,
Half an hour ſince brought my report.

Enter Marcius.

Com. Who's yonder,
That does appear as he were flea'd? O Gods!
He has the ſtamp of Marcius, and I have Before time ſeen him thus.
Mar. Come I too late?
Com. The ſhepherd knows not thunder from a tabor,
More than I know the ſound of Marcius' tongue
From every meaner man.
Mar. Come I too late?
Com. Ay, if you come not in the blood of others,
But mantled in your own.
Mar. Oh! let me clip ye (7)
In arms as ſound, as when I woo'd; in heart
As merry, as when our nuptial day was done,
And tapers burnt to bedward.
Com. Flower of warriors,
How is't with Titus Lartius?
Mar. As with a man buſied about decrees;
Condemning ſome to death, and ſome to exile,
Ranſoming him, or pitying, threatning th' other;
Holding Corioli in the name of Rome,
Even like a fawning grey-hound in the leaſh,
To let him ſlip at will.
Com. Where is that ſlave,
Which told me, they had beat you to your trenches?
Where is he? call him hither.
Mar. Let him alone,
He did inform the truth: but for our gentlemen,
The common file, (a plague! Tribunes for them!)
The mouſe ne'er ſhun'd the cat, as they did budge
From raſcals worſe than they.

(7) Oh! let me clip ye
In Arms as ſound, as when I woo'd in heart:]
Dr. Thirlby adviſed the different Regulation in the Pointing of this Paſſage; which I have embraced, as I think it much improves the Senſe and Spirit, and conveys to the Poet's Thought, that Marcius was as ſound in Limb, as when he went a Wooing; and as merry in Heart, as when going to Bed to his Bride.

Com

Com. But how prevail'd you?
Mar. Will the time ſerve to tell? I do not think — here is the enemy? are you Lords i'th' field?
not, why ceaſe you 'till you are ſo?
Com. Marcius, we have at diſadvantage fought,
d did retire, to win our purpoſe.
Mar. How lies their battle? know you on what ſide ey have plac'd their men of truſt?
Com. As I gueſs, Marcius, eir bands i'th' vaward are the Antiates
their beſt truſt: o'er them Aufidius, eir very heart of hope.
Mar. I do beſeech you,
all the battles wherein we have fought,
th' blood we have ſhed together, by the vows e've made to endure friends, that you directly t me againſt Aufidius, and his Antiates; id that you not delay the preſent, but lling the air with ſwords advanc'd, and darts,
e prove this very hour.
Com. Though I could wiſh, ou were conducted to a gentle bath, id balms applied to you, yet dare I never eny your aſking; take your choice of thoſe, hat beſt can aid your action.
Mar. Thoſe are they,
hat moſt are willing; If any ſuch be here,
s it were ſin to doubt) that love this painting, herein you ſee me ſmear'd; if any fear
eſs for his perſon than an ill report:
any think, brave death out-weighs bad life,
nd that his country's dearer than himſelf,
et him, alone, (or many, if ſo minded)
ave thus, t'expreſs his diſpoſition, nd follow Marcius.

[They all ſhout, and wave their ſwords, take him up in their arms, and caſt up their caps.

h! me alone, make you a ſword of me:
theſe ſhews be not outward, which of you
t is four Volſcians? none of you, but is Able to bear againſt the great Aufidius

A ſhield as hard as his. A certain number
(Tho' thanks to all) muſt I ſelect from all:
The reſt ſhall bear the buſineſs in ſome other fight,
As cauſe will be obey'd; pleaſe you to march,
And four ſhall quickly draw out my command,
Which men are beſt inclin'd.

Com. March on, my fellows:
Make good this oſtentation, and you ſhall
Divide in all with us. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to CORIOLI.

Titus Lartius having ſet a guard upon Corioli, going with drum and trumpet toward Cominius and Caius Marcius; Enter with a lieutenant, other ſoldiers, and a ſcout.

Lart. SO, let the ports be guarded; keep your duties,
As I have ſet them down. If I do ſend, diſpatch
Thoſe centries to our aid; the reſt will ſerve
For a ſhort holding; if we loſe the field,
We cannot keep the town.

Lieu. Fear not our care, Sir.

Lart. Hence, and ſhut your gates upon's:
Our guider, come! to th' Roman camp conduct us.
[Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Roman Camp.

Alarm, as in battle. Enter Marcius and Aufidius, at ſeveral doors.

Mar. I'LL fight with none but thee, for I do hate thee
Worſe than a promiſe-breaker.

Auf. We hate alike:
Not Africk owns a ſerpent I abhor
More than thy fame, and envy; fix thy foot.

Mar. Let the firſt budger die the other's ſlave,
And the Gods doom him after!

Auf.

Auf. If I fly, Marcius,
Halloo me like a hare.
Mar. Within theſe three hours, Tullus,
Alone I fought in your Corioli walls,
And made what work I pleas'd: 'tis not my blood,
Wherein thou ſee'ſt me maſk'd; for thy revenge,
Wrench up thy pow'r to th' higheſt.
Auf. Wert thou the Hector,
That was the whip of your bragg'd progeny,
Thou ſhouldſt not 'ſcape me here.
[Here they fight, and certain Volſcians come to the aid of Aufidius. Marcius fights 'till they be driven in breathleſs.
Officious, and not valiant!——you have ſham'd me
In your condemned ſeconds.

Flouriſh. Alarm. A retreat is ſounded. Enter at one door, Cominius with the Romans; at another door, Marcius, with his arm in a ſcarf.

Com. If I ſhould tell thee o'er this thy day's work,
Thou'lt not believe thy deeds: but I'll report it,
Where Senators ſhall mingle tears with ſmiles;
Where great Patricians ſhall attend and ſhrug;
I' th' end, admire; where ladies ſhall be frighted,
And, gladly quak'd, hear more; where the dull Tribunes,
That with the fuſty Plebeians, hate thine honours,
Shall ſay, againſt their hearts,—"We thank the Gods,
"Our Rome hath ſuch a ſoldier!"——
Yet cam'ſt thou to a morſel of this feaſt,
Having fully din'd before.

Enter Titus Lartius with his Power, from the purſuit.

Lart. O General,
Here is the ſteed, we the capariſon:
Hadſt thou beheld——
Mar. Pray now, no more: my mother,
Who has a charter to extol her blood,
When ſhe does praiſe me, grieves me:
I have done as you have done; that's, what I can;
Induc'd, as you have been: that's for my country:

He, that has but affected his good will,
Hath overta'en mine act.

Com. You ſhall not be
The grave of your deſerving: Rome muſt know
The value of her own: 'twere a concealment
Worſe than a theft, no leſs than a traducement,
To hide your doings; and to ſilence that,
Which, to the ſpire and top of praiſes vouch'd,
Would ſeem but modeſt: therefore, I beſeech you,
In ſign of what you are, not to reward
What you have done, before our army hear me.

Mar. I have ſome wounds upon me, and they ſmart
To hear themſelves remembred.

Com. Should they not,
Well might they feſter 'gainſt ingratitude,
And tent themſelves with death: Of all the horſes,
Whereof we have ta'en good, and good ſtore, of all
The treaſure in the field atchiev'd, and city,
We render you the tenth, to be ta'en forth,
Before the common diſtribution, at
Your only choice.

Mar. I thank you, General:
But cannot make my heart conſent to take
A bribe, to pay my ſword: I do refuſe it,
And ſtand upon my common part with thoſe
That have beheld the doing.

[A long flouriſh. They all cry, Marcius, Marcius! caſt up their caps and lances: Cominius and Lartius ſtand bare.

Mar. May theſe ſame inſtruments, which you profane, (8)

(8) May theſe ſame Inſtruments, which you profane,
Never ſound more: &c.]

Several ſubſequent Verſes in this truly fine Paſſage are diſmounted, unnumerous and imperfect: And the Senſe, 'tis plain, has been no leſs maimed than the Numbers. To remedy this Part, I have had the Aſſiſtance of my ingenious Friend Mr. Warburton; and with the Benefit of his happy Conjectures, which I have inſerted in the Text, the whole, I hope, is reſtored to that Purity, which was quite loſt in the Corruptions.

Never

Never found more! when drums and trumpets ſhall
'th' field prove flatterers, let camps, as cities,
Be made of falſe-fac'd ſoothing! When ſteel grows
Soft, as the paraſite's ſilk, let hymns be made
An overture for the wars!—No more, I ſay;
For that I have not waſh'd my noſe that bled,
Or foil'd ſome debile wretch, which, without note
Here's many elſe have done; you ſhout me forth
In acclamations hyperbolical;
As if I lov'd, my little ſhould be dieted
In praiſes ſauc'd with lies.

Com. Too modeſt are you:
More cruel to your good report, than grateful
To us, that give you truly: by your patience,
If 'gainſt yourſelf you be incens'd, will put you
(Like one that means his proper harm) in manacles;
Then reaſon ſafely with you: therefore, be it known,
As to us, to all the world, that Caius Marcius
Wears this war's garland: in token of the which,
My noble ſteed, known to the camp, I give him,
With all his trim belonging; and from this time,
For what he did before Corioli, call him,
With all th' applauſe and clamour of the hoſt,
Caius Marcius Coriolanus. Bear th' addition nobly ever.

[Flouriſh. Trumpets ſound and drums.

Omnes. Caius Martius Coriolanus!

Mar. I will go waſh:
And when my face is fair, you ſhall perceive
Whether I bluſh or no. Howbeit, I thank you.
I mean to ſtride your ſteed, and at all time
To undercreſt your good addition,
To th' fairneſs of my power.

Com. So, to our tent:
Where, ere we do repoſe us, we will write
To Rome of our ſucceſs: you, Titus Lartius,
Muſt to Corioli back; ſend us to Rome
The beſt, with whom we may articulate,
For their own good, and ours.

Lart. I ſhall, my Lord.

Mar. The Gods begin to mock me:

I, that but now refus'd moſt princely gifts,
Am bound to beg of my lord general.
Com. Take't, 'tis yours: what is't?
Mar. I ſometime lay here in Corioli,
At a poor man's houſe: he us'd me kindly.
He cry'd to me: I ſaw him priſoner:
But then Auſidius was within my view,
And wrath o'erwhelm'd my pity: I requeſt you
To give my poor hoſt freedom.
Com. O well begg'd!
Were he the butcher of my ſon, he ſhould
Be free as is the wind: deliver him, Titus.
Lart. Marcius, his name?
Mar. By Jupiter, forgot:———
I am weary; yea, my memory is tir'd:
Have we no wine here?
Com. Go we to our tent;
The blood upon your viſage dries; 'tis time
It ſhould be look'd to: come. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Camp of the Volſci.

A Flouriſh. Cornet. Enter Tullus Auſidius bloody, with two or three ſoldiers.

Au. THE town is ta'en.
Sol. 'Twill be deliver'd back on good condition.
Auf. Condition!
I would, I were a Roman; for I cannot,
Being a Volſcian, be that I am. Condition?
What good condition can a treaty find
I'th' part that is at mercy? Five times, Marcius,
I have fought with thee, ſo often haſt thou beat me:
And wouldſt do ſo, I think, ſhould we encounter
As often as we eat. By th' Elements,
If e'er again I meet him beard to beard,
He's mine, or I am his: mine emulation
Hath not that honour in't, it had; for where
I thought to cruſh him in an equal force,

True

True ſword to ſword; I'll potch at him ſome way,
Or wrath, or craft may get him.
Sol. He's the devil.
Auf. Bolder, tho' not ſo ſubtle: my valour (poiſon'd,
With only ſuffering ſtain by him) for him
Shall fly out of itſelf: not ſleep, nor ſanctuary,
Being naked, ſick, nor fane, nor Capitol,
The prayers of prieſts, nor times of ſacrifice,
Embarkments all of fury, ſhall lift up
Their rotten privilege and cuſtom 'gainſt
My hate to Marcius. Where I find him, were it
At home, upon my brother's guard, even here,
Againſt the hoſpitable canon, would I
Waſh my fierce hand in's heart. Go you to th' city;
Learn, how 'tis held; and what they are, that muſt
Be hoſtages for Rome.
Sol. Will not you go?
Auf. I am attended at the cypreſs grove. I pray you,
('Tis ſouth the city-mills) bring me word thither
How the world goes, that to the pace of it
I may ſpur on my journey.
Sol. I ſhall, Sir. [Exeunt.

ACT II.

SCENE, ROME.

Enter Menenius, with Sicinius and Brutus.

MENENIUS.

THE Augur tells me, we ſhall have news to-night.
Bru. Good or bad?
Men. Not according to the prayer of the people, for they love not Marcius.
Sic. Nature teaches beaſts to know their friends.
Men. Pray you, whom does the wolf love?

Sic. The lamb.

Men. Ay, to devour him, as the hungry Plebeians would the noble Marcius.

Bru. He's a lamb, indeed, that baes like a bear.

Men. He's a bear, indeed, that lives like a lamb. You two are old men, tell me one thing that I ſhall aſk you.

Both. Well, Sir;———

Mar. In what enormity is Marcius poor, that you two have not in abundance?

Bru. He's poor in no one fault, but ſtor'd with all.

Sic. Eſpecially, in pride.

Bru. And topping all others in boaſting.

Men. This is ſtrange now; do you two know how you are cenſur'd here in the city, I mean of us o'th' right hand file, do you?

Bru. Why,———how are we cenſur'd?

Men. Becauſe you talk of pride now, will you not be angry?

Both. Well, well, Sir, well.

Men. Why, 'tis no great matter; for a very little thief of occaſion will rob you of a great deal of patience:———give your diſpoſitions the reins, and be angry at your pleaſures; at the leaſt, if you take it as a pleaſure to you, in being ſo:——you blame Marcius for being proud.

Bru. We do it not alone, Sir.

Men. I know, you can do very little alone; for your helps are many, or elſe your actions would grow wondrous ſingle; your abilities are too infant-like, for doing much alone. You talk of pride——oh, that you could turn your eyes towards the napes of your necks, and make but an interior ſurvey of your good ſelves! Oh, that you could!

Bru. What then, Sir?

Men. Why, then you ſhould diſcover a brace of as unmeriting, proud, violent, teſty magiſtrates, alias, fools, as any in Rome.

Sic. Menenius, you are known well enough too.

Men.

Men. I am known to be a humorous Patrician, and one that loves a cup of hot wine with not a drop of allaying Tiber in't: said to be something imperfect, in favouring the first complaint; hasty and tinder-like, upon too trivial motion: one that converses more with the buttock of the night, than with the forehead of the morning. What I think, I utter; and spend my malice in my breath. Meeting two such weals-men as you are, (I cannot call you Licurgusses) if the drink you give me touch my palate adversly, I make a crooked face at it. I can't say, your worships have deliver'd the matter well, when I find the ass in compound with the major part of your syllables; and tho' I must be content to bear with those, that say, you are reverend grave men; yet they lye deadly, that tell you, you have good faces; if you see this in the map of my microcosm, follows it, that I am known well enough too? (9) what harm can your bisson conspectuities glean out of this character, if I be known well enough too?

Bru. Come, Sir, come, we know you well enough.

Men. You know neither me, yourselves, nor any thing; you are ambitious for poor knaves' caps and legs; you wear out a good wholesome forenoon, in hearing a cause between an orange-wife and a fosset-seller, and then adjourn a controversy of three-pence to a second

(9) What harm can your besom Conspectuities glean out of this Character, &c.] If the Editors have form'd any Construction to themselves, of this Epithet besom, that can be a propos to the Sense of the Context;---- Davus sum, non Oedipus: it is too hard a Riddle for me to expound. Menenius, 'tis plain, is abusing the Tribunes, and bantering them Ironically. By Conspectuities he must mean, their Sagacity, Clearsightedness: and that they may not think he's Complimenting them, he tacks an Epithet to it, which quite undoes that Character; i. e bisson, blind, bleer-ey'd. Skinner in his Etymologicon, explains this Word, Caecus; vox agro Lincoln. usitatissima, Ray concurs, in his North and South Country Words. And our Author gives us this Term again in his Hamlet, where the Sense exactly corresponds with this Interpretation.

Run barefoot up and down, threatning the Flames,
With bisson Rheum.

i. e. blinded. It is spoken of Hecuba, whose Eyes [illegible] blinded, both with Tears and the Rheums of Age.

day

day of audience.—When you are hearing a matter between party and party, if you chance to be pinch'd with the cholick, you make faces like mummers, ſet up the bloody flag againſt all patience, and, in roaring for a chamber-pot, diſmiſs the controverſy bleeding, the more intangled by your hearing: all the peace you make in their cauſe, is calling both the parties knaves. You are a pair of ſtrange ones.

Bru. Come, come, you are well underſtood to be a perfect gyber for the table, than a neceſſary bencher in the capitol.

Men. Our very prieſts muſt become mockers, if they ſhall encounter ſuch ridiculous ſubjects as you are; when you ſpeak beſt unto the purpoſe, it is not worth the wagging of your beards; and your beards deſerve not ſo honourable a grave, as to ſtuff a botcher's cuſhion, or to be intomb'd in an aſs's pack-ſaddle. Yet you muſt be ſaying, Marcius is proud; who, in a cheap eſtimation, is worth all your predeceſſors, ſince Deucalion; though, peradventure, ſome of the beſt of them were hereditary hangmen. Good-e'en to your worſhips; more of your converſation would infect my brain, being the herdſmen of the beaſtly Plebeians. I will be bold to take my leave of you. [Brutus and Sicinius ſtand aſide.

As Menenius is going out, Enter Volumnia, Virgilia, and Valeria.

How now my (as fair as noble) ladies, and the moon, were ſhe earthly, no nobler; whither do you follow your eyes ſo faſt?

Vol. Honourable Menenius, my boy Marcius approaches; for the love of Juno, let's go.

Men. Ha! Marcius, coming home?

Vol. Ay, worthy Menenius, and with moſt proſperous approbation.

Men. Take my cap, Jupiter, and I thank thee ——. hoo, Marcius coming home!

Both. Nay, 'tis true.

Vol. Look, here's a letter from him, the State hath another another, his wife, another; and, I think, there's one at home for you.

Men. I will make my very houſe reel to-night: A letter for me!

Vir. Yes, certain, there's a letter for you, I ſaw't.

Men. A letter for me! it gives me an eſtate of ſeven years' health; in which time I will make a lip at the phyſician; the moſt ſovereign preſcription in Galen is but Emperic, and, to this preſervative, of no better report than a horſe-drench. Is he not wounded? he was wont to come wounded.

Vir. Oh no, no, no.

Vol. Oh, he is wounded, I thank the Gods for't.

Men. So do I too, if he be not too much; brings a' victory in his pocket? the wounds become him.

Vol. On's brows, Menenius; he comes the third time home with the oaken garland.

Men. Hath he diſciplin'd Aufidius ſoundly?

Vol. Titus Lartius writes, they fought together, but Aufidius got off.

Men. And 'twas time for him too, I'll warrant him that: if he had ſtaid by him, I would not have been ſo fidius'd for all the theſts in Corioli, and the gold that's in them. Is the Senate poſſeſt of this?

Vol. Good ladies, let's go. Yes, yes, yes: the ſenate has letters from the general, wherein he gives my ſon the whole name of the war: he hath in this action outdone his former deeds doubly.

Val. In troth, there's wondrous things ſpoke of him.

Men. Wondrous! ay, I warrant you, and not without his true purchaſing.

Vir. The gods grant them true!

Vol. True? pow, waw.———

Men. True? I'll be ſworn they are true. Where is he wounded? God ſave your good worſhips;—Marcius is coming home; he has more cauſe to be proud:—— where is he wounded? [To the Tribunes.

Vol. I' th' ſhoulder, and i' th' left arm; there will be large cicatrices to ſhew the people, when he ſhall ſtand

for

for his place. He receiv'd in the repulſe of Tarquin ſeven hurts i'th' body. (10)

Men. One i'th' neck, and one too i'th'-thigh; there's nine, that I know.

Vol. He had, before this laſt expedition, twenty-five wounds upon him.

Men. Now 'tis twenty-ſeven; every gaſh was an enemy's grave. Hark, the trumpets. [A ſhout and flouriſh.

Vol. Theſe are the uſhers of Marcius; before him he carries noiſe, and behind him he leaves tears:
Death, that dark ſpirit, in's nervy arm doth lie;
Which being advanc'd, declines, and then men die.

Trumpets ſound. Enter Cominius the General, and Titus Lartius; between them Coriolanus, crown'd with an oaken garland, with Captains and ſoldiers, and a Herald.

Her. Know, Rome, that all alone Marcius did fight
Within Corioli's gates, where he hath won,
With fame, a name to Caius Marcius,
Welcome to Rome, renowned Coriolanus!
[Sound. Flouriſh.

All. Welcome to Rome, renowned Coriolanus!

Cor. No more of this, it does offend my heart;
Pray now, no more.

Com. Look, Sir, your mother,——

Cor. Oh!
You have, I know, petition'd all the Gods
For my proſperity. [Kneels.

Vol. Nay, my good ſoldier, up:
My gentle Marcius, worthy Caius, and

(10) He receiv'd, in the Repulſe of Tarquin, ſeven Hurts i'th' Body. Men. One i'th' Neck, and two i'th' Thigh: there's Nine, that I know.] Seven, ——, one, —— and two, and theſe make but nine? Surely, we may ſafely aſſiſt Menenius in his Arithmetick. This is a ſtupid Blunder; but wherever we can account by a probable Reaſon for the Cauſe of it, that directs the Emendation: Here it was eaſy for a negligent Tranſcriber to omit the ſecond One as a needleſs Repetition of the firſt, and to make a numeral Word of too.

Mr. Warburton.

By

By deed-atchieving honour newly nam'd,
What is it, Coriolanus, muſt I call thee?
But oh, thy wife———

Cor. My gracious ſilence, hail!
Wouldſt thou have laugh'd, had I come coffin'd home,
That weep'ſt to ſee me triumph? ah, my dear,
Such eyes the widows in Corioli wear,
And mothers that lack ſons.

Men. Now the Gods crown thee!

Cor. And live you yet? O my ſweet lady, pardon.
[To Valeria.

Vol. I know not where to turn. O welcome home;
And welcome, general! y'are welcome all.

Men. A hundred thouſand welcomes: I could weep,
And I could laugh, I'm light and heavy;—welcome!
A curſe begin at very root on's heart,
That is not glad to ſee thee——You are three,
That Rome ſhould dote on: yet, by the faith of men,
We've ſome old crab-trees here at home, that will not
Be grafted to your reliſh. Welcome, warriors!
We call a nettle, but a nettle; and
The faults of fools, but folly.

Com. Ever right.

Cor. Menenius, ever, ever.

Her. Give way there, and go on.

Cor. Your hand, and yours.
Ere in our own houſe I do ſhade my head,
The good Patricians muſt be viſited;
(11) From whom I have receiv'd not only greetings.
But, with them, charge of honours.

Vol. I have lived,
To ſee inherited my very wiſhes,
And buildings of my fancy; only one thing
Is wanting, which, I doubt not, but our Rome

(11) From whom I have received not only Greetings,
But, with them, Change of Honours.] Change of Honours is a very poor Expreſſion, and communicates but a very poor Idea. I have ventur'd to ſubſtitute, Charge; i. e. a freſh Charge or Commiſſion. Theſe Words are frequently miſtaken for each other.

Will caſt upon thee.

Cor. Know, good mother, I
Had rather be their ſervant in my way,
Than ſway with them in theirs.

Com. On, to the capitol. [Flouriſh. Cornets.
[Exeunt in State as before.

Brutus, and Sicinius, come forward.

Bru. All tongues ſpeak of him, and the bleared ſights
Are ſpectacled to ſee him. Your pratling nurſe
Into a rapture lets her baby cry,
While ſhe chats him: the kitchen malkin pins
Her richeſt lockram 'bout her reechy neck,
Clambring the walls to eye him; ſtalls, bulks, windows,
Are ſmoother'd up, leads fill'd, and ridges hors'd
With variable complexions; all agreeing
In earneſtneſs to ſee him: ſeld-ſhown Flamens
Do preſs among the popular throngs and puff
To win a vulgar ſtation; our veil'd dames
Commit the war of white and damaſk, in
Their nicely-gauded-cheeks, to th' wanton ſpoil
Of Phœbus' burning kiſſes; ſuch a pother,
As if that whatſoever God, who leads him,
Were ſlily crept into his human powers,
And gave him graceful poſture.

Sic. On the ſudden,
I warrant him Conſul.

Bru. Then our office may,
During his power, go ſleep.

Sic. He cannot temp'rately tranſport his honours,
From where he ſhould begin and end, but will Loſe thoſe he hath won.

Bru. In that there's comfort.

Sic. Doubt not,
The commoners, for whom we ſtand, but they,
Upon their ancient malice, will forget,
With the leaſt cauſe, theſe his new honours; which
That he will give, make I as little queſtion
As he is proud to do't.

Bru. I heard him ſwear,

Were he to ſtand for Conſul, never would he Appear i'th' market-place, nor on him put
The napleſs veſture of humility;
Nor ſhewing, as the manner is, his wounds
To th' people, beg their ſtinking breaths.

Sic. 'Tis right.

Bru. It was his word: oh, he would miſs it, rather Than carry it, but by the ſuit o'th' gentry,
And the deſire o'th' nobles.

Sic. I wiſh no better,
Than have him hold that purpoſe, and to put it
In execution.

Bru. 'Tis moſt like, he will.

Sic. It ſhall be to him then, as our good wills,
A ſure deſtruction.

Bru. So it muſt fall out
To him, or our authorities. For an end,
We muſt ſuggeſt the people, in what hatred
He ſtill hath held them; that to's power he would Have made them mules, ſilenc'd their pleaders, and Diſproperty'd their freedoms: holding them,
In human action and capacity,
Of no more ſoul nor fitneſs for the world,
Than camels in their war; who have their provender
Only for bearing burdens, and ſore blows
For ſinking under them.

Sic. (12) This, as you ſay, ſuggeſted

(12) ——— ———This, as you ſay, ſuggeſted
At ſome time, when his ſoaring Inſolence
Shall teach the People, &c.] As Nominatives are ſometimes wanting to the Verb, ſo on the other hand, as this Paſſage has been all along pointed, we have a Redundance: There is, beſides, one Word ſtill in this Sentence, which notwithſtanding the Concurrence of the printed Copies, I ſuſpect to have admitted a ſmall Corruption. Why ſhould it be imputed as a Crime to Coriolanus, that he was prompt to teach the People? Or how was it any ſoaring Inſolence in a Patrician to attempt this? The Poet muſt certainly have wrote,

———When his ſoaring Inſolence
Shall reach the People;

i. e. When it ſhall extend to impeach the Conduct, or touch the Character, of the People.

At ſome time, when his ſoaring inſolence
Shall reach the people, (which time ſhall not want,
If he be put upon't; and that's as eaſy,
As to ſet dogs on ſheep) will be the fire
To kindle their dry ſtubble; and their blaze
Shall darken him for ever.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Bru. What's the matter?

Meſ. You're ſent for to the capitol: 'tis thought,
That Marcius ſhall be Conſul: I have ſeen
The dumb men throng to ſee him, and the blind
To hear him ſpeak; the matrons flung their gloves,
Ladies and maids their ſcarfs and handkerchiefs
Upon him as he paſs'd; the Nobles bended,
As to Jove's ſtatue; and the Commons made
A ſhower and thunder with their caps and ſhouts:
I never ſaw the like.

Bru. Let's to the capitol,
And carry with us ears and eyes for th' time,
But hearts for the event.

Sic. Have with you. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Capitol.

Enter two Officers, to lay cuſhions.

1 Off. COME, come, they are almoſt here; how many ſtand for Conſulſhips?

2 Off. Three, they ſay; but 'tis thought of every one, Coriolanus will carry it.

1 Off. That's a brave fellow, but he's vengeance proud, and loves not the common people.

2 Off. 'Faith, there have been many great men that have flatter'd the people, who ne'er lov'd them; and there be many that they have loved, they know not wherefore; ſo that, if they love they know not why, they hate upon no better a ground. Therefore, for

Coriolanus

Coriolanus neither to care whether they love, or hate him, manifeſts the true knowledge he has in their diſpoſition, and out of his noble careleſsneſs lets them plainly ſee't.

1 Off. If he did not care whether he had their love or no, he wav'd indifferently 'twixt doing them neither good, nor harm: but he ſeeks their hate with greater devotion than they can render it him; and leaves nothing undone, that may fully diſcover him their oppoſite. Now to ſeem to affect the malice and diſpleaſure of the people, is as bad as that, which he diſlikes, to flatter them for their love.

2 Off. He hath deſerved worthily of his country: and his aſcent is not by ſuch eaſy degrees as thoſe, who have been ſupple and courteous to the people; bonnetted, without any further deed to heave them at all into their eſtimation and report: but he hath ſo planted his honours in their eyes, and his actions in their hearts, that for their tongues to be ſilent, and not confeſs ſo much, were a kind of ingrateful injury; to report otherwiſe, were a malice, that, giving itſelf the lye, would pluck reproof and rebuke from ev'ry ear that heard it.

1 Off. No more of him, he is a worthy man: make way, they are coming.

Enter the Patricians, and the Tribunes of the People, Lictors before them; Coriolanus, Menenius, Cominius the Conſul: Sicinius and Brutus take their places by themſelves.

Men. Having determin'd of the Volſcians, and
To ſend for Titus Lartius, it remains,
As the main point of this our after-meeting,
To gratify his noble ſervice, that
Hath thus ſtood for his country. Therefore, pleaſe you,
Moſt reverend and grave elders, to deſire
The preſent conſul, and laſt general,
In our well-found ſucceſſes, to report
A little of that worthy work performed

By

By Caius Marcius Coriolanus; whom
We met here, both to thank, and to remember
With honours like himſelf.
1 Sen. Speak, good Cominius:
Leave nothing out for length, and make us think,
Rather our ſtate's defective of requital,
Than we to ſtretch it out. Maſters o'th' people,
We do requeſt your kindeſt ear; and, after,
Your loving motion toward the common body,
To yield what paſſes here.
Sic. We are convented
Upon a pleaſing treaty; and have hearts
Inclinable to honour and advance
The theam of our aſſembly.
Bru. Which the rather
We ſhall be bleſt to do, if he remember
A kinder value of the people, than
He hath hitherto priz'd them at.
Men. That's off, that's off:
I would, you rather had been ſilent: pleaſe you
To hear Cominius ſpeak?
Bru. Moſt willingly:
But yet my caution was more pertinent,
Than the rebuke you give it.
Men. He loves your people,
But tie him not to be their bed-fellow:
Worthy Cominius, ſpeak.
[Coriolanus riſes, and offers to go away.
Nay, keep your place.
1 Sen. Sit, Coriolanus; never ſhame to hear
What you have nobly done.
Cor. Your honours' pardon:
I had rather have my wounds to heal again,
Than hear ſay, how I got them.
Bru. Sir, I hope,
My words diſ-bench'd you not?
Cor. No, Sir; yet oft,
When blows have made me ſtay, I fled from words.
You ſooth not, therefore hurt not: but your people,
I love them as they weigh.——

. Pray now, ſit down.
. I had rather have one ſcratch my head i' th' ſun,
i the alarm were ſtruck, than idly ſit
ar my nothings monſter'd. [Exit Coriolanus.
. Maſters of the people,
multiplying ſpawn how can he flatter,
's thouſand to one good one? when you ſee,
ld rather venture all his limbs for honour,
one of's ears to hear't. Proceed, Cominius.
. I ſhall lack voice: the deeds of Coriolanus, ld not be utter'd feebly. It is held, valour is the chiefeſt virtue, and dignifies the haver: if it be, nan, I ſpeak of, cannot in the world
ngly counter-pois'd. At ſixteen years, n Tarquin made a head for Rome, he fought nd the mark of others: our then Dictator,
m with all praiſe I point at, ſaw him fight, n with his Amazonian chin he drove briſtled lips before him: he beſtrid
'er-preſt Roman, and i'th' Conſul's view three oppoſers: Tarquin's ſelf he met, ſtruck him on his knee: in that day's feats,
n he might act the woman in the ſcene,
rov'd th' beſt man i'th' field, and for his meed brow-bound with the oak. His pupil-age
-entred thus, he waxed like a ſea;
, in the brunt of ſeventeen battles ſince,
urcht all ſwords o'th' garland. For this laſt,
re and in Corioli, let me ſay,
not ſpeak him home: he ſtopt the flyers,
by his rare example made the coward n terror into ſport. As waves before ſſel under ſail, ſo men obey'd, fell below his ſtern: his ſword, (death's ſtamp)
re it did mark, it took from face to foot:
was a thing of blood, whoſe every motion
tim'd with dying cries: alone he enter'd mortal gate o'th' city, which he painted
h ſhunleſs deſtiny: aidleſs came off,

And

And with a ſudden re-enforcement ſtruck
Corioli, like a planet. Nor all's this;
For by and by the din of war 'gan pierce
His ready ſenſe, when ſtraight his doubled ſpirit
Requicken'd what in fleſh was fatigate,
And to the battle came he; where he did
Run reeking o'er the lives of men, as if
'Twere a perpetual ſpoil; and 'till we call'd
Both field and city ours, he never ſtood
To eaſe his breaſt with panting.

Men. Worthy man!

1 Sen. He cannot but with meaſure fit the honours,
Which we deviſe him.

Com. Our ſpoils he kick'd at,
And look'd upon things precious, as they were
The common muck o'th' world: he covets leſs
Than miſery itſelf would give, rewards
His deeds with doing them, and is content
To ſpend his time to end it.

Men. He's right noble,
Let him be called for.

Sen. Call Coriolanus.

Off. He doth appear.

Enter Coriolanus.

Men. The Senate, Coriolanus, are well pleas'd
To make thee Conſul.

Cor. I do owe them ſtill
My life, and ſervices.

Men. It then remains
That you do ſpeak to th' people.

Cor. I beſeech you,
Let me o'er-leap that cuſtom; for I cannot
Put on the gown, ſtand naked, and entreat them,
For my wounds' ſake, to give their ſuffrages:
Pleaſe you, that I may paſs this doing.

Sic. Sir, the people muſt have their voices,
Nor will they bate one jot of ceremony.

Men. Put them not to't: pray, ſit you to the cuſtom,

As

And take t'ye, as your predeceſſors have,
Your honour with your form.

Cor. It is a part
That I ſhall bluſh in acting, and might well
Be taken from the people.

Bru. Mark you that?

Cor. To brag unto them, thus I did,—and thus,—
Shew them th' unaking ſcars, which I would hide,
As if I had receiv'd them for the hire
Of their breath only——

Men. Do not ſtand upon't:——
We recommend t'ye, Tribunes of the people,
Our purpoſe to them, and to our noble Conſul
Wiſh we all joy and honour.

Sen. To Coriolanus come all joy and honour!

[Flouriſh Cornets. Then Exeunt.

Manent Sicinius and Brutus.

Bru. You ſee, how he intends to uſe the people.

Sic. May they perceive's intent! he will require them,
As if he did contemn what he requeſted
Should be in them to give.

Bru. (13) Come, we'll inform them
Of our proceedings here: on th' market place,
I know, they do attend us. [Exeunt.

(13) Come, we'll inform them
Of our proceedings here on th' Market place,
I know they do attend us.] But the Tribunes were not now on the Market-place, but in the Capitol. The Pointing only wants to be rectified, and we ſhall know what this Magiſtrate would ſay, viz. Come, I know the People attend us in the Forum; we will go and inform them what Proceedings have been here in the Senate.

SCEN'

SCENE changes to the Forum.

Enter ſeven or eight Citizens.

1 Cit. ONCE, if he do require our voices, we ought not to deny him.

2 Cit. We may, Sir, if we will.

3 Cit. We have power in ourſelves to do it, but it is a power that we have no power to do; for if he ſhew us his wounds, and tell us his deeds, we are to put our tongues into thoſe wounds, and ſpeak for them: ſo, if he tells us his noble deeds, we muſt alſo tell him our noble acceptance of them. Ingratitude is monſtrous; and for the multitude to be ingrateful, were to make a monſter of the multitude; of the which, we being members, ſhould bring ourſelves to be monſtrous members.

1 Cit. And to make us no better thought of, a little help will ſerve: for once, when we ſtood up about the corn, he himſelf ſtuck not to call us the many-headed multitude.

3 Cit. We have been call'd ſo of many; not that our heads are ſome brown, ſome black, ſome auburn, ſome bald; but that our wits are ſo diverſly colour'd; and truly, I think, if all our wits were to iſſue out of one ſcull, they would fly Eaſt, Weſt, North, South; and their conſent of one direct way would be at once to all points o'th' compaſs.

2 Cit. Think you ſo? which way, do you judge, my wit would fly?

3 Cit. Nay, your wit will not ſo ſoon out as another man's will, 'tis ſtrongly wedg'd up in a block-head: but if it were at liberty, 'twould, ſure, ſouthward.

2 Cit. Why that way?

3 Cit. To loſe itſelf in a fog; where being three parts melted away with rotten dews, the fourth would return for conſcience ſake, to help to get thee a wife.

2 Cit. You are never without your tricks—you may, you may——

3 Cit.

3 Cit. Are you all reſolv'd to give your voices? but that's no matter, the greater part carries it. I ſay, if he would incline to the people, there was never a worthier man.

Enter Coriolanus in a gown, with Menenius.

Here he comes, and in the gown of humility; mark his behaviour: we are not to ſtay all together, but to come by him where he ſtands, by one's, by two's, and by three's. He's to make his requeſts by particulars, wherein every one of us has a ſingle honour, in giving him our own voices with our own tongues: therefore follow me, and I'll direct you how you ſhall go by him.

All. Content, content.

Men. Oh, Sir, you are not right; have you not known,
The worthieſt men have done't?

Cor. What muſt I ſay?
I pray, Sir,—plague upon't, I cannot bring
My tongue to ſuch a pace! Look, Sir,—my wounds—
I got them in my country's ſervice, when
Some certain of your brethren roar'd, and ran
From noiſe of our own drums.

Men. Oh me, the Gods!
You muſt not ſpeak of that; you muſt deſire them
To think upon you.

Cor. Think upon me? hang 'em.
I would, they would forget me, like the virtues
Which our divines loſe by 'em.

Men. You'll mar all.
I'll leave you; pray you, ſpeak to 'em, I pray you,
In wholſome manner. [Exit.

Citizens approach.

Cor. Bid them waſh their faces,
And keep their teeth clean.—So, here comes a brace:
You know the cauſe, Sirs, of my ſtanding here.

1 Cit. We do, Sir; tell us what hath brought you to't.

Cor. Mine own deſert.

2 Cit. Your own deſert?

Cor. Ay, not mine own deſire.

1 Cit. How! not your own deſire?

Cor. No, Sir, 'twas never my deſire yet to trouble the poor with begging.

1 Cit. You muſt think, if we give you any thing, we hope to gain by you.

Cor. Well then, I pray, your price o'th' Conſulſhip?

1 Cit. The price is, to aſk it kindly.

Cor. Kindly, Sir, I pray, let me ha't: I have wounds to ſhew you, which ſhall be yours in private: your good voice, Sir; what ſay you?

2 Cit. You ſhall ha't, worthy Sir.

Cor. A match, Sir; there's in all two worthy voices begg'd; I have your alms, adieu.

1 Cit. But this is ſomething odd.

2 Cit. An 'twere to give again:—but 'tis no matter.

[Exeunt.

Two other Citizens.

Cor. Pray you now, if it may ſtand with the tune of your voices, that I may be Conſul, I have here the cuſtomary gown.

1 Cit. You have deſerved nobly of your country, and you have not deſerved nobly.

Cor. Your ænigma.———

1 Cit. You have been a ſcourge to her enemies; you have been a rod to her friends; you have not, indeed, loved the common people.

Cor. You ſhould account me the more virtuous, that I have not been common in my love: I will, Sir, flatter my ſworn brother, the people, to earn a dearer eſtimation of them; 'tis a condition they account gentle: and ſince the wiſdom of their choice is rather to have my cap than my heart, I will practiſe the inſinuating nod, and be off to them moſt counterfeitly: that is, Sir, I will counterfeit the bewitchment of ſome popular man, and give it bountifully to the deſirers: therefore, beſeech you, I may be Conſul.

2 Cit. We hope to find you our friend, and therefore give you our voices heartily.

1 Cit.

1 Cit. You have received many wounds for your country.

Cor. I will not ſeal your knowledge with ſhewing them. I will make much of your voices, and ſo trouble you no further.

Both. The Gods give you joy, Sir, heartily! [Exeunt.

Cor. Moſt ſweet voices——
Better it is to die, better to ſtarve,
Than crave the hire, which firſt we do deſerve.
Why in this woolviſh gown ſhould I ſtand here,
To beg of Hob and Dick, that do appear,
Their needleſs voucher? cuſtom calls me to't——
What cuſtom wills in all things, ſhould we do't,
The duſt on antique time would lie unſwept,
And mountainous error be too highly heapt,
For truth t' o'er-peer.—Rather than fool it ſo,
Let the high office and the honour go
To one that would do thus.——I am half through;
The one part ſuffer'd, the other will I do.

Three Citizens more.

Here come more voices.
Your voices—for your voices I have fought,
Watch'd for your voices; for your voices, bear
Of wounds two dozen and odd: battles thrice ſix
I've ſeen, and heard of: for your voices, have Done many things, ſome leſs, ſome more:——your voices:——
Indeed, I would be Conſul.

1 Cit. He has done nobly, and cannot go without any honeſt man's voice.

2 Cit. Therefore let him be Conſul, the Gods give him joy, and make him a good friend to the people.

All. Amen, amen. God ſave thee, noble Conſul. [Exeunt.

Cor. Worthy voices!

Enter Menenius, with Brutus and Sicinius.

Men. You've ſtood your limitation: and the Tribunes
Endue you with the people's voice. Remains,
That in th' official marks inveſted, you
Anon do meet the Senate.
Cor. Is this done?
Sic. The cuſtom of requeſt you have diſcharg'd:
The people do admit you, and are ſummon'd
To meet anon, upon your approbation.
Cor. Where? at the Senate-houſe?
Sic. There, Coriolanus.
Cor. May I change theſe garments?
Sic. You may, Sir.
Cor. That I'll ſtrait do: and, knowing myſelf again,
Repair to the Senate-houſe.
Men. I'll keep you company. Will you along?
Bru. We ſtay here for the people.
Sic. Fare you well. [Exeunt Coriol. and Men.
He has it now, and by his looks, methinks,
'Tis warm at's heart.
Bru. With a proud heart he wore
His humble weeds: will you diſmiſs the people?

Enter Plebeians.

Sic. How now, my maſters, have you choſe this man?
1 Cit. He has our voices, Sir.
Bru. We pray the Gods, he may deſerve your loves!
2 Cit. Amen, Sir: to my poor unworthy notice,
He mock'd us, when he begg'd our voices.
3 Cit. Certainly, he flouted us down-right.
1 Cit. No, 'tis his kind of ſpeech, he did not mock us.
2 Cit. Not one amongſt us, ſave yourſelf, but ſays,
He us'd us ſcornfully: he ſhould have ſhew'd us
His marks of merit, wounds receiv'd for's country.
Sic. Why, ſo he did, I am ſure.
All. No, no man ſaw 'em.
3 Cit. He ſaid, he'd wounds, which he could ſhew in private;

And

And with his cap, thus waving it in ſcorn,
I would be Conſul, ſays he: aged cuſtom,
But by your voices, will not ſo permit me;
Your voices, therefore: when we granted that,
Here was—I thank you for your voices—thank you—
Your moſt ſweet voices—now you have left your voices,
I have nothing further with you, Wa'n't this mockery?

Sic. Why, either, were you ignorant to ſee it?
Or, ſeeing it, of ſuch childiſh friendlineſs
To yield your voices?

Bru. Could you not have told him,
As you were leſſon'd; when he had no power,
But was a petty ſervant to the ſtate,
He was your enemy; ſtill ſpake againſt
Your liberties, and charters that you bear
I'th' body of the weal: and now arriving
At place of potency, and ſway o'th' ſtate,
If he ſhould ſtill malignantly remain
Faſt foe to the Plebeians, your voices might
Be curſes to yourſelves. You ſhould have ſaid,
That as his worthy deeds did claim no leſs
Than what he ſtood for; ſo his gracious nature
Would think upon you for your voices, and Tranſlate his malice tow'rd's you into love,
Standing your friendly Lord.

Sic. Thus to have ſaid,
As you were fore-adviſ'd, had touch'd his ſpirit,
And try'd his inclination; from him pluck't
Either his gracious promiſe, which you might,
As cauſe had call'd you up, have held him to;
Or elſe it would have gall'd his ſurly nature;
Which eaſily endures not article,
Tying him to aught; ſo, putting him to rage,
You ſhould have ta'en th' advantage of his choler,
And paſs'd him unelected.

Bru. Did you perceive,
He did ſollicit you in free contempt,
When he did need your loves? and do you think,
That his contempt ſhall not be bruiſing to you,
When he hath power to cruſh? why, had your bodies

No heart among you? or had you tongues, to cry
Againſt the rectorſhip of judgment?

Sic. Have you,
Ere now, deny'd the aſker, and, now again
On him that did not aſk, but mock, beſtow
Your ſu'd-for tongues?

3 Cit. He's not confirm'd, we may deny him yet.

2 Cit. And will deny him;
I'll have five hundred voices of that ſound.

1 Cit. I, twice five hundred, and their friends to piece 'em.

Bru. Get you hence inſtantly, and tell thoſe friends,
They've choſe a Conſul that will from them take
Their liberties; make them of no more voice
Than dogs that are as often beat for barking,
As therefore kept to do ſo.

Sic. Let them aſſemble;
And on a ſafer judgment all revoke
Your ignorant election: enforce his pride,
And his old hate to you: beſides, forget not,
With what contempt he wore the humble weed;
How in his ſuit he ſcorn'd you: but your loves,
Thinking upon his ſervices, took from you
The apprehenſion of his preſent portance;
Which gibingly, ungravely, he did faſhion
After th' inveterate hate he bears to you.

Bru. Nay, lay a fault on us, your Tribunes, that We labour'd (no impediment between)
But that you muſt caſt your election on him.

Sic. Say, you choſe him, more after our commandment,
Than guided by your own affections;
And that your minds, pre-occupy'd with what
You rather muſt do, than what you ſhould do,
Made you againſt the grain to voice him Conſul.
Lay the fault on us.

Bru. Ay, ſpare us not: ſay, we read lectures to you,
How youngly he began to ſerve his country,
How long continu'd; and what ſtock he ſprings of,
The noble houſe of Marcius; from whence came
That Ancus Marcius, Numa's daughter's ſon,
Who, after great Hoſtilius, here was King;

Of the ſame houſe Publius and Quintus were,
That our beſt water brought by conduits hither.
And Cenſorinus, darling of the people,
(And nobly nam'd ſo for twice being Cenſor)
Was his great anceſtor.

Sic. One thus deſcended,
That hath beſide well in his perſon wrought
To be ſet high in place, we did commend
To your remembrances; but you have found,
Scaling his preſent bearing with his paſt,
That he's your fixed enemy, and revoke
Your ſudden approbation.

Bru. Say, you ne'er had don't,
(Harp on that ſtill) but by our putting on;
And preſently, when you have drawn your number,
Repair to th' capitol.

All. We will ſo; almoſt all repent in their election.
[Exeunt Plebeians.

Bru. Let them go on:
This mutiny were better put in hazard,
Than ſtay paſt doubt for greater:
If, as his nature is, he fall in rage
With their refuſal, both obſerve and anſwer
The vantage of his anger.

Sic. To th' capitol, come;
We will be there before the ſtream o'th' people:
And this ſhall ſeem, as partly 'tis, their own,
Which we have goarded onward. [Exeunt.

SCENE, a publick Street in Rome.

Cornets. Enter Coriolanus, Menenius, Cominius, Titus Lartius, and other Senators.

CORIOLANUS.

TUllus Aufidius then had made new head?

Lart. He had, my Lord, and that it was, which caus'd
Our ſwifter compoſition.

Cor. So then the Volſcians ſtand but as at firſt,
Ready, when time ſhall prompt them, to make road
Upon's again.

Com. They're worn, Lord Conſul, ſo
That we ſhall hardly in our ages ſee
Their banners wave again.

Cor. Saw you Aufidius?

Lart. On ſafe-guard he came to me, and did curſe
Againſt the Volſcians, for they had ſo vilely
Yielded the town; he is retir'd to Antium.

Cor. Spoke he of me?

Lart. He did, my Lord.

Cor. How?——what?——

Lart. How often he had met you, ſword to ſword:
That of all things upon the earth he hated
Your perſon moſt: that he would pawn his fortunes
To hopeleſs reſtitution, ſo he might
Be call'd your vanquiſher.

Cor. At Antium lives he?

Lart. At Antium.

Cor. I wiſh, I had a cauſe to ſeek him there;
To oppoſe his hatred fully.——Welcome home.

[To Lartius.

Enter

Enter Sicinius and Brutus.

Behold! theſe are the Tribunes of the people,
The tongues o'th' common mouth: I do deſpiſe them;
For they do prank them in authority
Againſt all noble ſufferance.
Sic. Paſs no further.
Cor. Hah!——what is that!——
Bru. It will be dangerous to go on——no further.
Cor. What makes this change?
Men. The matter?
Com. Hath he not paſs'd the nobles and the commons?
Bru. Cominius, no.
Cor. Have I had childrens' voices?
Sen. Tribunes, give way; he ſhall to th' market-place.
Bru. The people are incens'd againſt him.
Sic. Stop,
Or all will fall in broil.
Cor. Are theſe your herd?
Muſt theſe have voices, that can yield them now,
And ſtraight diſclaim their tongues? what are your offices?
You being their mouths, why rule you not their teeth?
Have you not ſet them on?
Men. Be calm, be calm.
Cor. It is a purpos'd thing, and grows by plot,
To curb the will of the Nobility:
Suffer't, and live with ſuch as cannot rule,
Nor ever will be rul'd.
Bru. Call't not a plot;
The people cry, you mock'd them; and, of late,
When corn was given them gratis, you repin'd:
Scandal'd the ſuppliants for the people; call'd them
Time-pleaſers, flatterers, foes to nobleneſs.
Cor. Why, this was known before.
Bru. Not to them all.
Cor. Have you inform'd them ſince?
Bru. How! I inform them!
Cor. You are like to do ſuch buſineſs.
Bru. Not unlike, each way, to better yours.

Cor. Why then ſhould I be Conſul? by yond clouds,
Let me deſerve ſo ill as you, and make me
Your Fellow-tribune.

Sic. You ſhew too much of that,
For which the people ſtir; if you will paſs
To where you're bound, you muſt enquire your way
Which you are out of, with a gentler ſpirit;
Or never be ſo noble as a Conſul,
Nor yoke with him for Tribune.

Men. Let's be calm.

Com. The people are abus'd.——Set on;——this paltring (14)
Becomes not Rome: nor has Coriolanus
Deſerv'd this ſo diſhonour'd rub, laid falſly
I' th' plain way of his merit.

Cor. Tell me of corn!
This was my ſpeech, and I will ſpeak't again——

Men. Not now, not now.

Sen. Not in this heat, Sir, now.

Cor. Now as I live, I will——
As for my noble friends, I crave their pardons:
But for the mutable rank-ſcented many,
Let them regard me, as I do not flatter,
And there behold themſelves: I ſay again,
In ſoothing them, we nouriſh 'gainſt our Senate
The cockle of rebellion, inſolence, ſedition,
Which we ourſelves have plow'd for, ſow'd and ſcatter'd,
By mingling them with us, the honour'd number:
Who lack not virtue, no, nor power, but that
Which we have given to beggars.

Men. Well, no more——

Sen. No more words, we beſeech you——

(14) The people are abus'd ſet on;] This is pointed, as if the Senſe were, the People are ſet on by the Tribunes: but I don't take that to be the Poet's Meaning. Cominius makes a ſingle Reflexion, and then bids the Train ſet forward, as again afterwards.

Well, On to th' Market-place.
And ſo in Julius Cæſar;
Set on, and leave no Ceremony out.

Cor

Cor. How!——no more!
As for my country I have ſhed my blood,
Not fearing outward force; ſo ſhall my lungs
Coin words 'till their decay, againſt thoſe meaſles,
Which we diſdain ſhould tetter us, yet ſeek
The very way to catch them.
Bru. You ſpeak o'th' people as you were a God
To puniſh, not a man of their infirmity.
Sic. 'Twere well, we let the people know't.
Men. What, what! his choler?
Cor. Choler! were I as patient as the midnight ſleep,
By Jove, 'twould be my mind.
Sic. It is a mind
That ſhall remain a poiſon where it is,
Not poiſon any further.
Cor. Shall remain?
Hear you this Triton of the minnows? mark you
His abſolute ſhall?
Com. 'Twas from the canon.
Cor. Shall!——
O good, but moſt unwiſe Patricians, why,
You grave, but wreakleſs Senators, have you thus
Giv'n Hydra here to chuſe an officer,
That with his peremptory ſhall, being but
The horn and noiſe o'th' monſters, wants not ſpirit
To ſay, he'll turn your current in a ditch,
And make your channel his? If he have power,
Then vail your ignorance: if none awake
Your dangerous lenity: if you are learned,
Be not as common fools; if you are not,
Let them have cuſhions by you. You're Plebeians,
If they be Senators; and they are no leſs,
When, both your voices blended, the greateſt taſte
Moſt palates theirs. They chuſe their magiſtrate!
And ſuch a one as he, who puts his ſhall,
His popular ſhall, againſt a graver bench
That ever frown'd in Greece! by Jove himſelf,
It makes the Conſuls baſe; and my ſoul akes
To know, when two authorities are up,
Neither ſupream, how ſoon confuſion

May enter 'twixt the gap of both, and take
The one by th' other.

Com. Well——on to th' market-place.

Cor. Who ever gave that counsel, to give forth
The corn o'th' store-house, gratis, as 'twas us'd
Sometime in Greece——

Men. Well, well, no more of that.

Cor. Though there the people had more absolute power:
I say, they nourish'd disobedience, fed
The ruin of the State.

Bru. Why shall the people give
One, that speaks thus, their voice?

Cor. I'll give my reasons,
More worthy than their voice. They know, the corn
Was not our recompence; resting assur'd,
They ne'er did service for't; being prest to th' war,
Ev'n when the navel of the State was touch'd,
They would not thread the gates: this kind of service
Did not deserve corn gratis: Being i'th' war,
Their mutinies and revolts, wherein they shew'd
Most valour, spoke not for them. Th' accusation,
Which they have oft made against the Senate,
All cause unborn, could never be the native
Of our so frank donation. Well, what then?
How shall this bosom multiplied digest
The Senate's courtesy? let deeds express,
What's like to be their words: "We did request it—
"We are the greater poll, and in true fear
"They gave us our demands."——Thus we debase
The nature of our seats, and make the rabble
Call our cares, fears; which will in time break ope
The locks o'th' Senate, and bring in the crows
To peck the eagles.——

Men. Come, enough.

Bru. Enough, with over measure.

Cor. No, take more.
What may be sworn by, both divine and human,
Seal what I end withal!——This double worship,
Where one part does disdain with cause, the other
Insult without all reason; where gentry, title, wisdom,

Cannot

Cannot conclude but by the yea and no
Of gen'ral ignorance, it muſt omit
Real neceſſities, and give way the while
T' unſtable ſlightneſs; purpoſe ſo barr'd, it follows,
Nothing is done to purpoſe. Therefore, beſeech you,
(You that will be leſs fearful than diſcreet,
That love the fundamental part of ſtate
More than you doubt the change on't; that prefer
A noble life before a long, and wiſh
To vamp a body with a dangerous phyſick,
That's ſure of death without;) at once pluck out
The multitudinous tongue, let them not lick
The ſweet which is their poiſon. Your diſhonour
Mangles true judgment, and bereaves the State
Of that integrity which ſhould become it:
Not having power to do the good it would,
For th' ill which doth controll it.

Bru. He's ſaid enough.

Sat. He's ſpoken like a traitor, and ſhall anſwer
As traitors do.

Cor. Thou wretch! Deſpight o'erwhelm thee!
What ſhould the people do with theſe bald Tribunes?
On whom depending, their obedience fails
To th' greater bench. In a rebellion,
When what's not meet, but what muſt be, was law,
Then were they choſen: in a better hour,
Let what is meet, be ſaid, it muſt be meet,
And throw their Power i'th' duſt.

Bru. Manifeſt treaſon.

Sic. This a Conſul? no.

Bru. The Ædiles, ho! let him be apprehended.

[Ædiles Exeunt.

Sic. Go, call the people, in whoſe name myſelf
Attach thee as a traiterous innovator:
A foe to the public weal: Obey, I charge thee,
And follow to thine anſwer: [Laying hold on Coriolanus.

Cor. Hence, old goat!

All. We'll ſurety him.

Com. Ag'd Sir, hands off.

Cor. Hence, rotten thing, or I ſhall ſhake thy bones
Out of thy garments.
Sic. Help me, citizens.

Enter a Rabble of Plebeians, with the Ædiles.

Men. On both ſides, more reſpect.
Sic. Here's he, that would take from you all your power.
Bru. Seize him, Ædiles.
All. Down with him, down with him!
2 Sen. Weapons, weapons, weapons!
[They all buſtle about Coriolanus.
Tribunes, Patricians, Citizens——what ho!——
Sicinius, Brutus, Coriolanus, citizens!
All. Peace, peace, peace, ſtay, hold, peace!
Men. What is about to be?——I am out of breath;
Confuſion's near, I cannot ſpeak.—You Tribunes,
Coriolanus, patience; ſpeak, Sicinius.
Sic. Hear me, people——peace.
All. Let's hear our Tribune; peace; ſpeak, ſpeak, ſpeak.
Sic. You are at point to loſe your liberties:
Marcius would have all from you: Marcius,
Whom late you nam'd for Conſul.
Men. Fy, fy, fy.
This is the way to kindle not to quench.
Sen. To unbuild the city, and to lay all flat.
Sic. What is the city, but the people?
All. True, the people are the city.
Bru. By the conſent of all we were eſtabliſh'd
The people's magiſtrates.
All. You ſo remain.
Men. And ſo are like to do.
Cor. That is the way to lay the city flat;
To bring the roof to the foundation,
And bury all, which yet diſtinctly ranges,
In heaps and piles of ruin.
Sic. This deſerves death.
Bru. Or let us ſtand to our Authority,
Or let us loſe it; we do here pronounce,
Upon the part o' th' people, in whoſe power

We

We were elected theirs, Martius is worthy
Of preſent death.

Sic. Therefore lay hold on him;
Bear him to th' rock Tarpeian, and from thence
Into deſtruction caſt him.

Bru. Ædiles ſeize him.

All Pleb. Yield, Marcius, yield.

Men. Hear me one word; 'beſeech you, Tribunes, hear me but one word——

Ædiles. Peace, peace.

Men. Be that you ſeem, truly your Country's friends,
And temp'rately proceed to what you would
Thus violently redreſs.

Bru. Sir, thoſe cold ways,
That ſeem like prudent helps, are very poiſonous,
Where the diſeaſe is violent. Lay hands on him,
And bear him to the rock. [Cor. draws his Sword.

Cor. No; I'll die here.
There's ſome among you have beheld me fighting,
Come, try upon yourſelves, what you have ſeen me.

Men. Down with that ſword; Tribunes, withdraw a while.

Bru. Lay hands upon him.

Men. Help Marcius, help——you that be noble, help him young and old.

All. Down with him, down with him. [Exeunt.

[In this mutiny, the Tribunes, the Ædiles, and the people are beat in.

Men. Go, get you to your houſe; be gone away,
All will be naught elſe.

2 Sen. Get you gone.

Com. Stand faſt, we have as many friends, as enemies.

Men. Shall it be put to that?

Sen. The Gods forbid!
I pr'ythee, noble friend, home to thy houſe,
Leave us to cure this cauſe.

Men. For 'tis a ſore,
You cannot tent yourſelf; begone, 'beſeech you.

Com. Come, Sir, along with us.

Men. I would, they were Barbarians, (as they are, Though

Though in Rome litter'd ;) not Romans : (as they are not,
Though calved i' the porch o'th' capitol :)
Be gone, put not your worthy rage into your tongue,
One time will owe another.

Cor. On fair ground I could beat forty of them.

Men. I could myſelf take up a brace o'th' beſt of them; yea, the two Tribunes.

Com. But now 'tis odds beyond arithmetick:
And manhood is call'd fool'ry, when it ſtands
Againſt a falling fabrick. Will you hence,
Before the tag return, whoſe rage doth rend
Like interrupted waters, and o'erbear
What they are us'd to bear.

Men. Pray you, be gone!
I'll try, if my old wit be in requeſt
With thoſe that have but little; this muſt be patcht
With cloth of any colour.

Com. Come, away. [Exeunt Coriolanus and Cominius.

1 Sen. This man has marr'd his fortune.

Men. His nature is too noble for the world:
He would not flatter Neptune for his trident,
Or Jove for's power to thunder: his heart's his mouth:
What his breaſt forges, that his tongue muſt vent;
And, being angry, does forget that ever
He heard the name of death. [A noiſe within.
Here's goodly work.

2 Sen. I would they were a-bed.

Men. I would they were in Tyber. What, the vengeance,
Could he not ſpeak 'em fair?

Enter Brutus and Sicinius, with the rabble again.

Sic. Where is this viper,
That would depopulate the city, and
Be every man himſelf?

Men. You worthy Tribunes——

Sic. He ſhall be thrown down the Tarpeian rock
With rigorous hands; he hath reſiſted law,
And therefore law ſhall ſcorn him further trial
Than the ſeverity of public power,

Which

Which he so sets at nought.

1 Cit. He shall well know, the noble Tribunes are
The people's mouths, and we their hands.

All. He shall, be sure on't.

Men. Sir, Sir—

Sic. Peace.

Men. Do not cry havock, where you should but hunt
With modest warrant.

Sic. Sir, how comes it, you
Have holp to make this rescue?

Men. Hear me speak:
As I do know the Consul's worthiness,
So can I name his faults—

Sic. Consul!—what Consul!

Men. The Consul Coriolanus.

Bru. He Consul!——

All. No, no, no, no, no.

Men. If by the Tribunes' leave, and yours, good people,
I may be heard, I'd crave a word or two;
The which shall turn you to no further harm,
Than so much loss of time.

Sic. Speak briefly then,
For we are peremptory to dispatch
This viperous traitor; to eject him hence,
Were but our danger; and to keep him here,
Our certain death; therefore it is decreed,
He dies to-night.

Men. Now the good Gods forbid,
That our renowned Rome, whose gratitude
Tow'rds her deserving children is enroll'd
In Jove's own book, like an unnatural dam
Should now eat up her own!

Sic. He's a disease that must be cut away.

(15) ——— To eject him hence
Were but one danger, and to keep him here
Our certain Death; This Reading, which has obtained in the printed Copies, destroys that Climax which evidently seems designed here, and thereby flattens the Sentiment. In my Opinion, the Tribune would say, "To banish him, will be hazardous to us; "to let him remain at home, our certain Destruction."

Men.

Men. Oh, he's a limb, that has but a diſeaſe;
Mortal, to cut it off; to cure it, eaſy.
What has he done to Rome, that's worthy death?
Killing our enemies, the blood he hath loſt
(Which I dare vouch, is more than that he hath,
By many an ounce) he dropt it for his country,
And what is left, to loſe it by his country,
Were to us all that do't, and ſuffer it,
A brand to th' end o'th' world.

Sic. This is clean kamme.

Bru. Meerly awry: when he did love his country,
It honour'd him.

Men. The ſervice of the foot
Being once gangreen'd, it is not then reſpected
For what before it was———

Bru. We'll hear no more.
Purſue him to his houſe, and pluck him thence;
Leſt his infection, being of catching nature,
Spread further.

Men. One word more, one word:
This tiger-footed rage, when it ſhall find
The harm of unſkann'd ſwiftneſs, will (too late)
Tie leaden pounds to's heels. Proceed by proceſs,
Leſt parties (as he is belov'd) break out,
And ſack great Rome with Romans.

Bru. If 'twere ſo——

Sic. What do ye talk?
Have we not had a taſte of his obedience,
Our Ædiles ſmote, ourſelves reſiſted? come——

Men. Conſider this; he has been bred i'th' wars
Since he could draw a ſword, and is ill-ſchool'd
In boulted language; meal and bran together
He throws without diſtinction. Give me leave,
I'll go to him, and undertake to bring him
Where he ſhall anſwer by a lawful form,
In peace, to his utmoſt peril.

1 Sen. Noble Tribunes,
It is the humane way: the other courſe
Will prove too bloody, and the end of it
Unknown to the beginning.

Sic. Noble Menenius,
Be you then as the people's officer.
Maſters, lay down your weapons.
Bru. Go not home.
Sic. Meet on the Forum; we'll attend you there,
Where, if you bring not Marcius, we'll proceed
In our firſt way.
Men. I'll bring him to you.
Let me deſire your company; he muſt come,
Or what is worſt will follow.
1 Sen. Pray, let's to him. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to CORIOLANUS's Houſe.

Enter Coriolanus, with Nobles.

Cor. LET them pull all about mine ears, preſent me
Death on the wheel, or at wild horſes' heels,
Or pile ten hills on the Tarpeian Rock,
That the preci'pitation might down ſtretch
Below the beam of ſight, yet will I ſtill
Be thus to them.

Enter Volumnia.

Nobl. You do the nobler.
Cor. I muſe, my mother
Does not approve me further, who was wont
To call them woollen vaſſals, things created
To buy and ſell with groats; to ſhew bare heads
In congregations, yawn, be ſtill, and wonder,
When one but of my ordinance ſtood up
To ſpeak of peace or war; (I talk of you)
Why did you wiſh me milder? would you have me
Falſe to my nature? rather ſay, I play
The man I am.
Vol. Oh, Sir, Sir, Sir,
I would have had you put your power well on,
Before you had worn it out.
Cor. Let it go.——
Vol. You might have been enough the man you are,

With striving less to be so. Lesser had been (16)
The thwartings of your dispositions, if
You had not show'd them how you were dispos'd
Ere they lack'd power to cross you.

Cor. Let them hang.

Val. Ay, and burn too.

Enter Menenius, with the Senators.

Men. Come, come, you've been too rough, something too rough:
You must return, and mend it.

Sen. There's no remedy,
Unless, by not so doing, our good city
Cleave in the midst, and perish.

Vol. Pray, be counsell'd;
I have a heart as little apt as yours,
But yet a brain that leads my use of anger
To better vantage.

Men. Well said, noble woman:
(17) Before he should thus stoop to th' herd, but that
The violent fit o'th' times craves it as physick
For the whole state, I'd put mine armour on,
Which I can scarcely bear.

Cor. What must I do?

Men. Return to th' Tribunes.

(16) ——— Lesser had been
The Things that thwart your Dispositions,
The old Copies exhibit it,
The Things of your Dispositions.
A few Letters replaced, that by some Carelessness droped out, restore us the Poet's genuine Reading;
The Thwartings of your Dispositions.

(17) Before he thus should stoop to th' Heart,—] But how did Coriolanus stoop to his Heart? he rather, as we vulgarly express it made his proud Heart stoop to the Necessity of the Times. I am persuaded, my Emendation gives the true Reading. So, before, in this Play;

Are these your Herd?

So, in Julius Cæsar;

When he perceived, the common Herd was glad, he refused the Crown,

And in many other Passages.

Cor. Well, what then? what then?

Men. Repent what you have ſpoke.

Cor. For them?—I cannot do it for the Gods,
Muſt I then do't to them?

Vol. You are too abſolute,
Tho' therein you can never be too noble,
But when extremities ſpeak. I've heard you ſay,
Honour and policy, like unſever'd friends,
I'th' war do grow together: grant that, and tell me
In peace, what each of them by th' other loſe,
That they combine not there?

Cor. Tuſh, tuſh——

Men. A good demand.

Vol. If it be honour in your wars, to ſeem
The ſame you are not, (which for your beſt ends
You call your policy: how is't leſs, or worſe,
That it ſhall hold companionſhip in peace
With honour, as in war; ſince that to both
It ſtands in like requeſt?

Cor. Why force you this?

Vol. Becauſe it becomes you to ſpeak to the people:
Not by your own inſtruction, nor by the matter
Which your heart prompts you to, but with ſuch words
That are but roted in your tongue; bare words, and ſyllables
Of no allowance, to your boſom's truth.
Now, this no more diſhonours you at all,
Than to take in a town with gentle words,
Which elſe would put you to your fortune, and
The hazard of much blood.
I would diſſemble with my nature, where
My fortunes, and my friends, at ſtake requir'd,
I ſhould do ſo in honour. (18) I am in this

(18) ——I'm in this
Your Wife, your Son, the Senators the Nobles,
And You, &c.] The Pointing of the printed Copies makes ſtark Nonſenſe of this Paſſage. Volumnia is perſuading Coriolanus that he ought to flatter the People, as the general Fortune was at Stake; and ſays, that, in this Advice, ſhe ſpeaks as his Wife, as his Son, as the Senate, and Body of the Patricians, who were in ſome Meaſure Rul'd by his Conduct. Mr. Warburton.

Your Wife, your Son, theſe Senators, the Nobles.
And you will rather ſhew our general lowts
How you can frown, than ſpend a fawn upon 'em,
For the inheritance of their loves, and ſafeguard
Of what that want might ruin!

Men. Noble Lady,
Come, go with us, ſpeak fair: you may ſalve ſo
Not what is dangerous preſent, but the loſs
Of what is paſt.

Vol. I pr'ythee now, my ſon,
Go to them, with this bonnet in thy hand,
And thus far having ſtretch'd it (here be with them
Thy knee buſſing the ſtones; (for in ſuch buſineſs
Action is eloquence, and the eyes of th' ignorant
More learned than the ears; (19) waving thy head
Which ſoften, thus, correcting thy ſtout heart,
Now humble as the ripeſt mulberry,
That will not hold the handling: or ſay to them,
Thou art their ſoldier, and, being bred in broils,
Haſt not the ſoft way, which thou doſt confeſs
Were fit for thee to uſe, as they to claim,
In aſking their good loves; but thou wilt frame
Thyſelf (forſooth) hereafter theirs ſo far,
As thou haſt power and perſon.

Men. This but done,
Ev'n as ſhe ſpeaks, why, all their hearts were yours
For they have pardons, being aſk'd, as free,
As words to little purpoſe.

(19) ——————waving thy Head,
Which often, thus, correcting thy ſtout Heart.] But do of the ancient, or modern Maſters of Elocution preſcribe the wa the Head, when they treat of Action? Or how does the waving Head correct the Stoutneſs of the Heart, or evidence Humility? laſtly, where is the Senſe or Grammar of theſe Words, Which thus, &c? Theſe Queſtions are ſufficient to ſhew the abſurd Cor tion of theſe Lines. I would read therefore;

——————waving thy Hand,
Which ſoften thus, correcting thy ſtout Heart;

This is a very proper Precept of Action ſuiting the Occaſion; W thy Hand, ſays ſhe, and ſoften the Action of it thus,—then ſtrike t thy Breaſt, and by that Action ſhew the People thou haſt corrected ſtout Heart. All here is fine and proper. Mr. Ward

Val. Pr'ythee now,
Go and be rul'd: altho', I know, thou'dſt rather Follow thine enemy in a fiery gulf
Than flatter him in a bower.

Enter Cominius.

Here is Cominius.

Com. I've been i'th' market-place, and, Sir, 'tis fit
You have ſtrong party, or defend yourſelf
By calmneſs, or by abſence: all's in anger.

Men. Only, fair ſpeech.

Com. I think, 'twill ſerve, if he
Can thereto frame his ſpirit.

Vol. He muſt and will:
Pr'ythee now, ſay you will, and go about it.

Cor. Muſt I go ſhew them my unbarbed ſconce?
Muſt my baſe tongue give to my noble heart
A lye, that it muſt bear? well, I will do't:
(20) Yet were there but this ſingle plot to loſe,
This mould of Marcius, they to duſt ſhould grind it,
And throw't againſt the wind. To th' market-place!
You've put me now to ſuch a part, which never
I ſhall diſcharge to th' life.

Com. Come, come, we'll prompt you.

Vol. Ay, pr'ythee now, ſweet ſon; as thou haſt ſaid,
My praiſes made thee firſt a ſoldier, ſo,
To have my praiſe for this, perform a part
Thou haſt not done before.

Cor. Well, I muſt do't:
Away, my diſpoſition, and poſſeſs me
Some harlot's ſpirit! my throat of war be turn'd,

(20) Yet were there but this ſingle Plot, to loſe
This Mould of Marcius,] The Pointing of all the Impreſſions ſhews, the Editors did not underſtand this Paſſage. What Plot is this, they are dreaming of, to loſe the Mould of Marcius? —But Plot and Mould are but one and the ſame Thing; and mean no more than the Fleſh and Subſtance of Marcius's Body. "Were there no other Conſequences annex'd, ſays he, than the "Deſtruction of my Body, they ſhould grind it to Powder, &c."

Which

Which quired with my drum, into a pipe
Small as an eunuch, or the virgin's voice
That babies lulls aſleep! the ſmiles of knaves
Tent in my cheeks, and ſchool-boys' tears take up
The glaſſes of my ſight! a beggar's tongue
Make motion through my lips, and my arm'd knees,
Which bow'd but in my ſtirrup, bend like his
That hath receiv'd an alms!—I will not do't,——
Leſt I ſurceaſe to honour mine own truth
And, by my body's action, teach my mind,
A moſt inherent baſeneſs.

Vol. At thy choice then:
To beg of thee, it is my more diſhonour,
Than thou of them. Come all to ruin, let
Thy mother rather feel thy pride, than fear
Thy dangerous ſtoutneſs: for I mock at death
With as big heart as thou. Do, as thou liſt:
Thy valiantneſs was mine, thou ſuck'dſt it from me:
But own thy pride thyſelf.

Cor. Pray, be content:
Mother, I'm going to the market-place:
Chide me no more. I'll mountebank their loves,
Cog their hearts from them, and come home belov'd
Of all the trades in Rome. Look, I am going:
Commend me to my wife. I'll return Conſul,
Or never truſt to what my tongue can do
I'th' way of flattery further.

Vol. Do your will. [Exit Volumnia.

Com. Away, the Tribunes do attend you: arm
Yourſelf to anſwer mildly: for they're prepar'd
With accuſations, as I hear, more ſtrong
Than are upon you yet.

Cor. The word is mildly—Pray you, let us go.
Let them accuſe me by invention; I
Will anſwer in mine honour.

Men. Ay, but mildly.

Cor. Well, mildly be it then, mildly.—— [Exeunt.

SCENE

SCENE changes to the FORUM.

Enter Sicinius and Brutus.

Bru. IN this point charge him home, that he affects Tyrannic power: if he evade us there,
Inforce him with his envy to the people,
And that the ſpoil, got on the Antiates,
Was ne'er diſtributed. What, will he come?

Enter an Ædile.

Æd. He's coming.
Bru. How accompanied?
Æd. With old Menenius, and thoſe Senators
That always favour'd him.
Sic. Have you a catalogue
Of all the voices that we have procur'd,
Set down by th' poll?
Æd. I have; 'tis ready here.
Sic. Have you collected them by Tribes?
Æd. I have.
Sic. Aſſemble preſently the people hither,
And, when they hear me ſay, It ſhall be ſo,
I'th' right and ſtrength o'th' commons; (be it either
For death, for fine, or baniſhment,) then let them,
If I ſay fine, cry fine, if death, cry death;
Inſiſting on the old prerogative
And power i'th' truth o'th' cauſe.
Æd. I will inform them.
Bru. And when ſuch time they have begun to cry,
Let them not ceaſe, but with a din confus'd
Inforce the preſent execution
Of what we chance to ſentence.
Æd. Very well.
Sic. Make them be ſtrong and ready for this hint,
When we ſhall hap to giv't them.
Bru. Go about it, [Exit Ædile.
Put him to choler ſtreight; he hath been us'd

Ever to conquer, and to have his word
Of contradiction. Being once chaf'd, he cannot Be rein'd again to temp'rance; then he ſpeaks
What's in his heart; and that is there, which looks
With us to break his neck.

Enter Coriolanus, Menenius and Cominius with others.

Sic. Well, here he comes.
Men. Calmly, I do beſeech you.
Cor. Ay, as an hoſtler, that for the pooreſt piece
Will bear the knave by th' volume:—The honour'd gods
Keep Rome in ſafety, and the chairs of juſtice
Supply with worthy men, (21) plant love amongſt you.
Throng our large temples with the ſhews of peace,
And not our ſtreets with war!
1 Sen. Amen, amen!
Men. A noble wiſh.

Enter the Ædile with the Plebeians.

Sic. Draw near, ye people.
Æd. Lift to your Tribunes: audience;
Peace, I ſay.
Cor. Firſt, hear me ſpeak.
Both Tri. Well, ſay: peace, ho.
Cor. Shall I be charg'd no farther than this preſent?
Muſt all determine here?
Sic. I do demand,
If you ſubmit you to the People's voices,
Allow their officers, and are content
To ſuffer lawful cenſure for ſuch faults
As ſhall be prov'd upon you?

(21) ——— plant Love among you
Through our large Temples with the Shews of Peace,
And not our Streets with War.] Though this be the Reading of all the Copies, it is flat Nonſenſe. There is no Verb either expreſt, or underſtood, that can govern the latter Part of the Sentence. I have no doubt of my Emendation reſtoring the Text rightly, becauſe Mr. Warburton ſtarted the ſame Conjecture, unknowing that I had meddled with the Paſſage.

Cor.

Cor. I am content.

Men. Lo, citizens, he ſays he is content:
The warlike ſervice he has done, conſider;
Think on the wounds his body bears, which ſhew
Like graves i'th' holy church-yard.

Cor. Scratches with briars, ſcars to move laughter only.

Men. Conſider further:
That when he ſpeaks not like a citizen,
You find him like a ſoldier; (22) do not take
His rougher accents for malicious ſounds:
But, as I ſay, ſuch as become a ſoldier.
Rather than envy, you——

Com. Well, well, no more.

Cor. What is the matter,
That being paſt for Conſul with full voice,
I'm ſo diſhonour'd, that the very hour
You take it off again?

Sic. Anſwer to us.

Cor. Say then: 'tis true, I ought ſo.

Sic. We charge you, that you have contriv'd to take
From Rome all ſeaſon'd office, and to wind
Yourſelf unto a power tyrannical;
For which you are a traitor to the people.

Cor. How? traitor?——

Men. Nay, temperately: your promiſe.

Cor. The fires i'th' loweſt hell fold in the people!
Call me their traitor! thou injurious Tribune!
Within thine eyes ſate twenty thouſand deaths,
In thy hands clutch'd as many millions, in
Thy lying tongue both numbers; I would ſay,
Thou lieſt, unto thee, with a voice as free,
As I do pray the Gods.

(22) ——— do not take
His rougher Actions for malicious ſounds:] I have no manner of Apprehenſion how a Man's Actions can be miſtaken for Words. It would be very abſurd, as well as extraordinary, were I to do a ſaucy Thing in Company, for the Perſon offended to tell me, Sir, you give me very impudent Language. This would be, certainly, taking Actions for Sounds:——We may remember, a Roughneſs of Accent was one of Coriolanus's diſtinguiſhing Characteriſticks. Sic.

Sic. Mark you this, people?
All. To th' Rock with him.
Sic. Peace:
We need not lay new matter to his charge:
What you have ſeen him do, and heard him ſpeak,
Beating your Officers, curſing yourſelves,
Oppoſing laws with ſtrokes, and here defying
Thoſe whoſe great Power muſt try him, even this
So criminal, and in ſuch capital kind,
Deſerves th' extreameſt death.
Bru. But ſince he hath Serv'd well for Rome——
Cor. What do you prate of ſervice?
Bru. I talk of that, that know it.
Cor. You?——
Men. Is this the promiſe that you made your Mother
Com. Know, I pray you——
Cor. I'll know no farther:
Let them pronounce the ſteep Tarpeian death,
Vagabond exile, fleaing, pent to linger
But with a grain a-day, I would not buy
Their mercy at the price of one fair word;
Nor check my courage for what they can give,
To hav't with ſaying, good-morrow.
Sic. For that he has
(As much as in him lies) from time to time
Envy'd againſt the people; ſeeking means
To pluck away their Power; as now at laſt
Giv'n hoſtile ſtrokes, and that not in the preſence
Of dreaded juſtice, but on the miniſters
That do diſtribute it; in the name o'th' people,
And in the power of us the Tribunes, we (Ev'n from this inſtant) baniſh him our city;
In peril of precipitation
From off the rock Tarpeian, never more
To enter our Rome's Gates. I'th' People's name,
I ſay, it ſhall be ſo.
All. It ſhall be ſo, it ſhall be ſo; let him away:
He's baniſh'd, and it ſhall be ſo.
Com. Hear me, my maſters, and my common friend

Sic. He's ſentenc'd: no more hearing.

Com. Let me ſpeak:

(23) I have been Conſul, and can ſhew for Rome
Her enemies' marks upon me. I do love
My country's good, with a reſpect more tender,
More holy, and profound, than mine own life,
My dear wife's eſtimate, her womb's increaſe,
And treaſure of my loins: then if I would Speak that———

Sic. We know your drift. Speak what?

Bru. There's no more to be ſaid, but he's baniſh'd
As enemy to the people and his country.
It ſhall be ſo.

All. It ſhall be ſo, it ſhall be ſo.

Cor. You common cry of curs, whoſe breath I hate,
As reek o'th' rotten fenns; whoſe loves I prize,
As the dead carkaſſes of unburied men,
That do corrupt my air: I baniſh you:
And here remain with your uncertainty;
Let every feeble rumour ſhake your hearts;
Your enemies, with nodding of their plumes,
Fan you into deſpair: have the power ſtill
To baniſh your defenders, 'till at length,
Your ignorance (which finds not, 'till it feels;
Making but reſervation of yourſelves
Still your own enemies) deliver you,
As moſt abated captives, to ſome nation
That won you without blows! Deſpiſing then,
For you, the city, thus I turn my back:

(23) I have been Conſul, and can ſhew from Rome Her Enemies Marks upon me.] How, from Rome? Did he receive hoſtile Marks from his own Country? No ſuch thing. He received them in the ſervice of Rome. So, twice in the Beginning of next Act, it is ſaid of Coriolanus;

——— Had'ſt thou Foxſhip
To baniſh him, that ſtruck more Blows for Rome,
Than thou haſt ſpoken Words?

And again;

Good Man: the Wounds that he does bear for Rome!

There is a world elſewhere———

[Exeunt Coriolanus, Cominius, and others.

[The people ſhout and throw up their caps

Æd. The people's enemy is gone, is gone!

All. Our enemy is baniſh'd; he is gone! Hoo! h

Sic. Go ſee him out at gates, and follow him
As he hath follow'd you; with all deſpight
Give him deſerv'd vexation. Let a guard
Attend us through the city.

All. Come, come; let us ſee him out at the gates; co
The gods preſerve our noble Tribunes!———com

ACT IV.

SCENE, before the Gates of Rome

Enter Coriolanus, Volumnia, Virgilia, Mener Cominius, with the young Nobility of Rome.

CORIOLANUS.

COme, leave your tears: a brief farewel: the l
With many heads butts me away. Nay, mot
Where is your ancient courage? you were us'd
To ſay, extremity was the trier of ſpirits,
That common chances common men could bear;
That, when the ſea was calm, all boats alike
Shew'd maſterſhip in floating. Fortune's blows,
When moſt ſtruck home, being gently warded, cr
A noble cunning. You were us'd to load me
With precepts, that would make invincible
The heart that conn'd them.

Vir. Oh heav'ns! O heav'ns!

Cor. Nay, I pr'ythee, woman——

Vol. Now the red peſtilence ſtrike all trades in Rome,
And occupations periſh!

Cor. What! what! what!
I ſhall be lov'd, when I am lack'd. Nay, mother,
Reſume that ſpirit, when you were wont to ſay,
If you had been the wife of Hercules,
Six of his labours you'd have done, and ſav'd
Your huſband ſo much ſweat. Cominius,
Droop not; adieu: farewel, my wife! my mother!
I'll do well yet. Thou old and true Menenius,
Thy tears are ſalter than a younger man's,
And venemous to thine eyes. My ſometime general,
I've ſeen thee ſtern, and thou haſt oft beheld
Heart-hardning ſpectacles. Tell theſe ſad women,
'Tis fond to wail inevitable ſtrokes,
As 'tis to laugh at 'em. Mother, you wot,
My hazards ſtill have been your ſolace; and Believe't not lightly, (tho' I go alone,
Like to a lonely dragon, that his fen
Makes fear'd, and talk'd of more than ſeen:) your ſon
Will, or exceed the common, or be caught
With cauteleus baits and practice.

Vol. My firſt ſon,
Where will you go? take good Cominius
With thee a while; determine on ſome courſe,
More than a wild expoſure to each chance,
That ſtarts i'th'-way before thee.

Cor. O the Gods!

Com. I'll follow thee a month, deviſe with thee
Where thou ſhalt reſt, that thou may'ſt hear of us,
And we of thee. So, if the time thruſt forth
A cauſe for thy repeal, we ſhall not ſend
O'er the vaſt world, to ſeek a ſingle man;
And loſe advantage, which doth ever cool
I'th' abſence of the needer.

Cor. Fare ye well:
Thou'ſt years upon thee, and thou art too full
Of the war's ſurfeits, to go rove with one
That's yet unbruis'd; bring me but out at gate.
Come, my ſweet wife, my deareſt mother, and

My friends of noble touch: when I am forth,
Bid me farewel, and ſmile. I pray you, come.
While I remain above the ground, you ſhall
Hear from me ſtill, and never of me aught
But what is like me formerly.

Men. That's worthily
As any ear can hear. Come, let's not weep.
If I could ſhake off but one ſeven years
From theſe old arms and legs, by the good Gods,
I'd with thee every foot.

Cor. Give me thy hand. [Exeunt.

Enter Sicinius and Brutus, with the Ædile.

Sic. Bid them all home, he's gone; and we'll no further.
Vex'd are the nobles, who, we ſee, have ſided
In his behalf.

Bru. Now we have ſhewn our power,
Let us ſeem humbler after it is done,
Than when it was a doing.

Sic. Bid them home;
Say, their great enemy is gone, and they Stand in their ancient ſtrength.

Bru. Diſmiſs them home.
Here comes his mother.

Enter Volumnia, Virgilia, and Menenius.

Sic. Let's not meet her.

Bru. Why?

Sic. They ſay, ſhe's mad.

Bru. They have ta'en note of us: keep on your way.

Vol. Oh, y'are well met:
The horded plague o'th' Gods requite your love!

Men Peace, peace; be not ſo loud.

Vol. If that I could for weeping, you ſhould hear—
Nay, and you ſhall hear ſome——will you be gone?

Vir. You ſhall ſtay too:—I would, I had the power
To ſay ſo to my huſband.

Sic. Are you mankind?

Vol. Ay, fool: is that a ſhame? note but this fool.
Was not a man my father? hadſt thou foxſhip
To baniſh him that ſtruck more blows for Rome,
Than thou haſt ſpoken words——
Sic. Oh bleſſed heav'ns!
Vol. More noble blows, than ever thou wiſe words,
And for Rome's good—I'll tell thee what—yet go——
Nay, but thou ſhalt ſtay too——I would, my ſon
Were in Arabia, and thy tribe before him,
His good ſword in his hand.
Sic. What then?
Vir. What then? he'd make an end of thy poſterity.
Vol. Baſtards and all.
Good man, the wounds that he does bear for Rome!
Men. Come, come, peace.
Sic. I would he had continued to his country
As he began, and not unknit himſelf
The noble knot he made.
Bru. I would he had.
Vol. I would, he had!—'twas you incens'd the rabble:
Cats, that can judge as fitly of his worth,
As I can of thoſe myſteries which heav'n
Will not have earth to know.
Bru. Pray, let us go.
Vol. Now, pray, Sir, get you gone.
You've done a brave deed: ere you go, hear this:
As far as doth the capitol exceed
The meaneſt houſe in Rome; ſo far my ſon,
This lady's huſband here, this, (do you ſee)
Whom you have baniſh'd, does exceed you all.
Bru. Well, well, we'll leave you.
Sic. Why ſtay you to be baited
With one that wants her wits? [Exeunt Tribunes.
Vol. Take my prayers with you.
I wiſh, the Gods had nothing elſe to do,
But to confirm my curſes! Could I meet 'em
But once a day, it would unclog my heart
Of what lies heavy to't.
Men. You've told them home,
And, by my troth, have cauſe: you'll ſup with me?

I. Anger's my meat, I ſup upon myſelf, ſo ſhall ſtarve with feeding: come, let's go,
ve this faint puling, and lament as I do,
anger, Juno like: come, come, fy, fy! [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to Antium.

Enter a Roman and a Volſcian.

om. I Know you well, Sir, and you know me; your name, I think, is Adrian.

Vol. It is ſo, Sir: truly, I have forgot you.

Rom. I am a Roman, but my ſervices are as you are, againſt 'em. Know you me yet?

Vol. Nicanor? no.

Rom. The ſame, Sir.

Vol. You had more beard when I laſt ſaw you, but your favour is well appear'd by your tongue. What's the news in Rome? I have a note from the Volſcian ſtate to find you out there. You have well ſav'd me a day's journey.

Rom. There hath been in Rome ſtrange inſurrections: the people againſt the Senators, Patricians, and Nobles.

Vol. Hath been! is it ended then? our ſtate thinks not ſo: they are in a moſt warlike preparation, and hope to come upon them in the heat of their diviſion.

Rom. The main blaze of it is paſt, but a ſmall thing would make it flame again. For the Nobles receive ſo to heart the baniſhment of that worthy Coriolanus, tha they are in a ripe aptneſs to take all power from th people, and to pluck from them their Tribunes for eve This lies glowing, I can tell you; and is almoſt matu for the violent breaking out.

Vol. Coriolanus baniſh'd?

Rom. Baniſh'd, Sir.

Vol. You will be welcome with this intelligen Nicanor.

Rom. The day ſerves well for them now. I h heard it ſaid, the fitteſt time to corrupt a man's is when ſhe's fallen out with her huſband. Your noble Tullus Aufidius will appear well in theſe wars, his great Oppoſer Coriolanus being now in no requeſt of his country.

Vol. He cannot chuſe. I am moſt fortunate, thus accidentally to encounter you. You have ended my buſineſs, and I will merrily accompany you home.

Rom. I ſhall between this and ſupper tell you moſt ſtrange things from Rome; all tending to the good of their adverſaries. Have you an army ready, ſay you?

Vol. A moſt royal one. The centurions and their charges diſtinctly billetted, already in the entertainment, and to be on foot at an hour's warning.

Rom. I am joyful to hear of their readineſs, and am the man, I think, that ſhall ſet them in preſent action. So, Sir, heartily well met, and moſt glad of your company.

Vol. You take my part from me, Sir, I have the moſt cauſe to be glad of yours.

Rom. Well, let us go together. [Exeunt.

Enter Coriolanus in mean Apparel, diſguis'd and muffled.

Cor. A goodly city is this Antium.——City,
'Tis I, that made thy widows: many an heir
Of theſe fair edifices for my wars
Have I heard groan, and drop: then know me not,
Leſt that thy wives with ſpits, and boys with ſtones,
In puny battle ſlay me. Save you, Sir.

Enter a Citizen.

Cit. And you.

Cor. Direct me, if it be your will, where great Aufidius lies:
Is he in Antium?

Cit. He is, and feaſts the Nobles of the ſtate, at his houſe this night.

Cor. Which is his houſe, I beſeech you?

Cit. This here, before you.

Cor.

Cor. Thank you, Sir: farewel. [Exit Citizen
Oh, world, thy ſlippery turns! friends now faſt-ſworn
Whoſe double boſoms ſeem to wear one heart,
Whoſe hours, whoſe bed, whoſe meal and exerciſe
Are ſtill together, who twine (as 'twere) in love
Unſeparable, ſhall within this hour,
On a diſſenſion of a doit, break out
To bittereſt enmity. So felleſt foes,
Whoſe paſſions and whoſe plots have broke their ſle
To take the one the other, by ſome chance,
Some trick not worth an egg, ſhall grow dear friends
And inter-join their iſſues. So, with me;——
My birth-place have I and my lovers left;
This enemy's town I'll enter; if he ſlay me,
He does fair juſtice; if he give me way,
I'll do his country ſervice. [Ex

2 Serv. Away?———get you away.

Cor. Now thou'rt troubleſom.

2 Serv. Are you ſo brave? I'll have you talk'd with anon.

Enter a third Servant. The firſt meets him.

3 Serv. What fellows this?

1 Serv. A ſtrange one as ever I look'd on: I cannot get him out o'th' houſe: pry'thee, call my Maſter to him.

3 Serv. What have you to do here, fellow? pray you, avoid the houſe.

Cor. Let me but ſtand, I will not hurt your hearth.

3 Serv. What are you?

Cor. A Gentleman.

3 Serv. A marvellous poor one.

Cor. True; ſo I am.

3 Serv. Pray you, poor Gentleman, take up ſome other ſtation, here's no place for you; pray you, avoid: come.

Cor. Follow your function, go and batten on cold bits. [Puſhes him away from him.

2 Serv. And I ſhall. [Exit ſecond Serving-man.

3 Serv. Where dwell'ſt thou?

Cor. Under the canopy.

3 Serv. Under the canopy?

Cor. Ay.

3 Serv. Where's that?

Cor. I'th' city of kites and crows.

3 Serv. I'th' city of kites and crows? what an aſs it is! then thou dwell'ſt with daws too?

Cor. No, I ſerve not thy maſter.

3 Serv.

3 Serv. How, Sir! do you meddle with my maſter?

Cor. Ay, tis an honeſter ſervice, than to meddle with thy miſtreſs; thou prat'ſt, and prat'ſt; ſerve with thy trencher: hence. [Beats him away.

Enter Aufidius with a Serving-man.

Auf. Where is this fellow?

2 Serv. Here, Sir; I'd have beaten him like a dog, but for diſturbing the lords within.

Auf. Whence com'ſt thou? what wouldſt thou? thy name?
Why ſpeak'ſt not? ſpeak, man: what's thy name?

Cor. If Tullus, yet thou know'ſt me not, and, ſeeing me,
Doſt not yet take me for the man I am,
Neceſſity commands me name myſelf.

Auf. What is thy name?

Cor. A name unmuſical to Volſcian ears,
And harſh in ſound to thine.

Auf. Say, what is thy name?
Thou haſt a grim appearance, and thy face
Bears a command in't; though thy tackle's torn,
Thou ſhew'ſt a noble veſſel: what's thy name?

Cor. Prepare thy brow to frown; know'ſt thou me yet?

Auf. I know thee not? thy name?

Cor. My name is Caius Marcius, who hath done
To thee particularly, and to all the Volſcians,
Great hurt and miſchief; thereto witneſs may
My ſirname Coriolanus. The painful ſervice,
The extream dangers, and the drops of blood
Shed for my thankleſs country, are requited
But with that ſirname: A good memory,
And witneſs of the malice and diſpleaſure
Which thou ſhouldſt bear me, only that name remains.
The cruelty and envy of the people,
Permitted by our daſtard nobles, who
Have all forſook me, hath devour'd the reſt;
And ſuffer'd me by th' voice of ſlaves to be Hoop'd out of Rome. Now this extremity
Hath brought me to thy hearth, not out of hope (Miſtake

ake me not) to ſave my life; for if fear'd death, of all men i'th' world ave avoided thee. But in mere ſpite
: full quit of thoſe my baniſhers,
I before thee here: then if thou haſt
irt of wreak in thee, that wilt revenge
: own particular wrongs, and ſtop thoſe maims
ame ſeen through thy country, ſpeed thee ſtraight, make my miſery ſerve thy turn: ſo uſe it,
my revengeful ſervices may prove
:nefits to thee. For I will fight ıſt my canker'd country, with the ſpleen l the under fiends. But if ſo be dar'ſt not this, and that to prove more fortunes
'rt tir'd; then, in a word, I alſo am er to live moſt weary, and preſent hroat to thee, and to thy ancient malice:
h not to cut, would ſhew thee but a fool,
I have ever follow'd thee with hate,
'n tuns of blood out of thy country's breaſt, cannot live, but to thy ſhame, unleſs
to do thee ſervice.

f. Oh, Marcius, Marcius, word, thou'ſt ſpoke, hath weeded from my heart
ɔt of ancient envy. If Jupiter ld from yon cloud ſpeak to me things divine, ſay, 'tis true; I'd not believe them more ı thee, all-noble Marcius. Let me twine arms about that body, where-againſt
;rained aſh an hundred times hath broke, ſcar'd the moon with ſplinters: here I clip anvil of my ſword, and do conteſt ɔtly and as nobly with thy love,
'er in ambitious ſtrength I did end againſt thy valour. Know thou firſt,
'd the maid I married; never man
'd truer breath: but, that I ſee thee here,
ı noble thing! more dances my rapt heart,
ı when I firſt my wedded miſtreſs ſaw ide my threſhold. Why, thou Mars! I tell thee,

We

We have a power on foot; and I had purpoſe
Once more to hew thy target from thy brawn,
Or loſe my arm for't: thou haſt beat me out
Twelve ſeveral times, and I have nightly ſince
Dreamt of encounters 'twixt thyſelf and me:
We have been down together in my ſleep,
Unbuckling helms, fiſting each other's throat,
And wak'd half dead with nothing. Worthy Marcius,
Had we no quarrel elſe to Rome, but that Thou art thence baniſh'd, we would muſter all
From twelve to ſeventy; and pouring war
Into the bowels of ungrateful Rome,
Like a bold flood o'erbear. O come, go in,
And take our friendly Senators by th' hands,
Who now are here, taking their leaves of me,
Who am prepar'd againſt your territories,
Though not for Rome itſelf.

Cor. You bleſs me, Gods!

Auf. Therefore, moſt abſolute Sir, if thou wilt have
The leading of thy own revenges, take
One half of my commiſſion, and ſet down
As beſt thou art experienc'd, ſince thou know'ſt
Thy country's ſtrength and weakneſs, thine own ways;
Whether to knock againſt the gates of Rome,
Or rudely viſit them in parts remote,
To fright them, ere deſtroy. But come, come in;
Let me commend thee firſt to thoſe, that ſhall
Say yea to thy deſires. A thouſand welcomes!
And more a friend, than e'er an enemy:
Yet, Marcius, that was much. —— Your hand; moſt welcome! [Exeunt

Enter two Servants.

1 Serv. Here's a ſtrange alteration.

2 Serv. By my hand, I had thought to have ſtrucken him with a cudgel, and yet my mind gave me, his clothes made a falſe report of him.

1 Serv. What an arm he has! he turn'd me about with his finger and his thumb, as one would ſet up a top.

2 Serv.

2 Serv. Nay, I knew by his face that there was ſomething in him. He had, Sir, a kind of face, methought—I cannot tell how to term it.

1 Serv. He had ſo: looking, as it were——'would I were hanged, but I thought there was more in him than I could think.

2 Serv. So did I, I'll be ſworn: he is ſimply the rareſt man i'th' world.

1 Serv. I think, he is; but a greater ſoldier than he, you wot one.

2 Serv. Who, my maſter?

1 Serv. Nay, it's no matter for that.

2 Serv. Worth ſix on him.

1 Serv. Faith, look you, one cannot tell how to ſay that; for the defence of a town, our General is excellent.

2 Serv. Ay, and for an aſſault too.

Enter a third Servant.

3 Serv. Oh, ſlaves, I can tell you news; news, you raſcals.

Both. What, what, what? let's partake.

3 Serv. I would not be a Roman, of all nations; I had as lieve be a condemn'd man.

Both. Wherefore? wherefore?

3 Serv. Why, here's he that was wont to thwack our General, Caius Marcius.

1 Serv. Why do you ſay, thwack our General?

3 Serv. I do not ſay, thwack our General; but he was always good enough for him.

2 Serv. Come, we are fellows and friends; he was ever too hard for him, I have heard him ſay ſo himſelf.

1 Serv. He was too hard for him directly, to ſay the troth on't; before Corioli, he ſcotcht him and notcht him like a carbonado.

2 Serv. And, had he been cannibally given, he might have broil'd and eaten him too.

1 Serv. But, more of thy news;——

3 Serv. Why, he is ſo made on here within, as if he were ſon and heir to Mars: ſet at upper end o'th' table;

table; no queſtion aſk'd him by any of the Sen
but they ſtand bald before him. Our General h makes a miſtreſs of him, ſanctifies himſelf with's h and turns up the white o'th' eye to his diſcourſe.
the bottom of the news is, our General is cu middle, and but one half of what he was yeſt
For the other has half, by the intreaty and grant whole table. He'll go, he ſays, and ſowle the of Rome gates by th' ears. He will mow down a fore him, and leave his paſſage poll'd.

2 Serv. And he's as like to do't as any man imagine.

3 Serv. Do't! he will do't: for, look you, Sir, as many friends as enemies; which friends, Sir were, durſt not, (look you, Sir) ſhew themſelv
we term it) his friends, whilſt he's in directitud

1 Serv. Directitude! what's that?

3 Serv. But when they ſhall ſee, Sir, his cr again, and the man in blood, they will out of burroughs (like conies after rain) and revel all wit

1 Serv. But when goes this forward?

3 Serv. To-morrow, to-day, preſently, you ſha
the drum ſtruck up this afternoon; 'tis, as it w parcel of their feaſt, and to be executed ere they their lips.

2 Serv. Why, then we ſhall have a ſtirring again: this peace is worth nothing, but to rui encreaſe tailors, and breed ballad-makers.

1 Serv. Let me have war, ſay I; it exceeds pea far as day does night; it's ſprightly, waking, a and full of vent. Peace is a very apoplexy, let mull'd, deaf, ſleepy, inſenſible, a getter of more children than war's a deſtroyer of men.

2 Serv. 'Tis ſo; and as war in ſome ſort may to be a raviſher, ſo it cannot be denied, but pea great maker of cuckolds.

1 Serv. Ay, and it makes men hate one anotl

3 Serv. Reaſon; becauſe they then leſs need or ther; the wars, for my money. I hope, to ſee as cheap as Volſcians.

They are riſing, they are riſing.
Both. In, in, in, in. [Exeunt.

SCENE, a publick Place in Rome.

Enter Sicinius and Brutus.

Sic.(24) WE hear not of him, neither need we fear him;
His remedies are tame i'th' preſent peace,
And quietneſs o'th' people, which before,
Were in wild hurry. Here we make his friends
Bluſh, that the world goes well; who rather had,
Though they themſelves did ſuffer by't, beheld
Diſſentious numbers peſt'ring ſtreets, than ſee
Our tradeſmen ſinging in their ſhops, and going
About their functions friendly.

Enter Menenius.

Bru. We ſtood to't in good time. Is this Menenius?
Sic. 'Tis he, 'tis he: O, he is grown moſt kind of late. Hail, Sir!
Men. Hail to you both!
Sic. Your Coriolanus is not much miſs'd, but with his friends; the Commonwealth doth ſtand, and ſo would do, were he more angry at it.
Men. All's well; and might have been much better, if he could have temporiz'd.

(24) We hear not of him, neither need we fear him,
His Remedies are tame: the preſent Peace
And Quietneſs o'th' People, which before
Were in wild hurry.] As this Paſſage has been hitherto pointed, it labours under two Abſurdities; firſt, that the Peace abroad, and the Quietneſs of the Populace at home, are called Marcius's Remedies; whereas, in Truth, theſe were the Impediments of his Revenge: In the next place, the latter Branch of the Sentence is imperfect and ungrammatical. My Regulation prevents both theſe Inconveniencies.

Sic.

Sic. Where is he, hear you?
Men. Nay, I hear nothing:
His mother and his wife hear nothing fro

Enter three or four Citizens.

All. The Gods preſerve you both!
Sic. Good-e'en, neighbours.
Bru. Good-e'en to you all, good-e'en
1 Cit. Our ſelves, our wives, and children
Are bound to pray for you both.
Sic. Live and thrive!
Bru. Farewel, kind neighbours:
We wiſh'd, Coriolanus had lov'd you, as
All. Now the Gods keep you!

Sic. This is a happier and more comel

Crying confuſion.
Bru. Caius Marcius was
A worthy officer i'th' war, but inſolent,
O'ercome with pride, ambitious paſt all
Self-loving.

Which were in-ſhell'd when Marcius ſtood for Rome,
And durſt not once peep out.

Sic. Come, what talk you of Marcius!

Bru. Go ſee this rumourer whipt. It cannot be,
The Volſcians dare break with us.

Men. Cannot be!
We have record, that very well it can;
And three examples of the like hath been Within my age. But reaſon with the fellow
Before you puniſh him, where he heard this;
Leſt you ſhould chance to whip your information,
And beat the meſſenger, who bids beware
Of what is to be dreaded.

Sic. Tell not me:
I know, this cannot be.

Bru. Not poſſible.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. The Nobles in great earneſtneſs are going
All to the Senate-houſe; ſome news is come,
That turns their countenances.

Sic. 'Tis this ſlave:
Go whip him 'fore the people's eyes: his raiſing!
Nothing but his report!

Meſ. Yes, worthy Sir,
The ſlave's report is ſeconded, and more,
More fearful is delivered.

Sic. What more fearful?

Meſ. It is ſpoke freely out of many mouths,
How probable I do not know, that Marcius,
Join'd with Aufidius, leads a pow'r 'gainſt Rome;
And vows revenge as ſpacious, as between
The young'ſt and oldeſt thing.

Sic. This is moſt likely!——

Bru. Rais'd only, that the weaker ſort may wiſh
Good Marcius home again.

Sic. The very trick on't.

Men. This is unlikely.

He and Aufidius can no more attone,
Than violenteſt contrariety.

Enter Meſſenger.

Meſ. You are ſent for to the Senate:
A fearful army, led by Caius Marcius,
Aſſociated with Aufidius, rages
Upon our territories; and have already O'er-borne their way, conſum'd with fire, and took What lay before them.

Enter Cominius.

Com. Oh, you have made good work.
Men. What news? what news?
Com. You have holp to raviſh your own daughters, and
To melt the city-leads upon your pates,
To ſee your wives diſhonour'd to your noſes.
Men. What's the news? what's the news?
Com. Your temples burned in their cement, and
Your franchiſes, whereon you ſtood, confin'd
Into an augre's bore.
Men. Pray now, the news?
You've made fair work, I fear me: pray, your news?
If Marcius ſhould be joined with the Volſcians,—
Com. If? he is their God; he leads them like a thing
Made by ſome other Deity than Nature,
That ſhapes man better; and they follow him,
Againſt us brats, with no leſs confidence,
Than boys purſuing ſummer butter-flies,
Or butchers killing flies.
Men. You've made good work,
You and your apron-men; that ſtood ſo much
Upon the voice of occupation, and
The breath of garlick-eaters.
Com. He'll ſhake your Rome about your ears.
Men. As Hercules did ſhake down mellow fruit:
You have made fair work!
Bru. But is this true, Sir?

Com

Com. Ay, and you'll look pale
Before you find it other. All the regions
Do ſimilingly revolt: and, who reſiſt,
Are mock'd for valiant ignorance,
And periſh conſtant fools: who is't can blame him?
Your enemies and his find ſomething in him.
Men. We're all undone, unleſs
The noble man have mercy.
Com. Who ſhall aſk it?
The Tribunes cannot do't for ſhame; the people
Deſerve ſuch pity of him, as the wolf
Does of the ſhepherds: his beſt friends, if they Shou'd ſay, "Be good to Rome;" they charge him ev'n
As thoſe ſhould do that had deſerv'd his hate,
And therein ſhew'd like enemies.
Men. 'Tis true.
If he were putting to my houſe the brand
That would conſume it, I have not the face
To ſay, "Beſeech you, ceaſe." You've made fair hands,
You and your crafts! you've crafted fair!
Com. You've brought
A trembling upon Rome, ſuch as was never
So incapable of help.
Tri. Say not, we brought it.
Men. How? was it we? we lov'd him; but, like beaſts,
And coward nobles, gave way to your cluſters,
Who did hoot him out o'th' city.
Com. But I fear,
They'll roar him in again. Tullus Aufidius,
The ſecond name of men, obeys his points
As if he were his officer: Deſperation
Is all the policy, ſtrength, and defence,
That Rome can make againſt them.

Enter a Troop of Citizens.

Men. Here come the cluſters.———
And is Aufidius with him?———You are they,
That made the air unwholſome, when you caſt
Your ſtinking, greaſy caps, in hooting at Coriolanus' exile. Now he's coming,

And

And not a hair upon a ſoldier's head,
Which will not prove a whip: as many coxcombs,
As you threw caps up, will he tumble down,
And pay you for your voices. 'Tis no matter,
If he ſhould burn us all into one coal,
We have deſerv'd it.

Omnes. 'Faith, we hear fearful news.

1 Cit. For mine own part,
When I ſaid, baniſh him; I ſaid, 'twas pity.

2 Cit. And ſo did I.

3 Cit. And ſo did I; and to ſay the truth, ſo did very many of us; that we did, we did for the beſt; and tho' we willingly contented to his baniſhment, yet it was againſt our will.

Com. Y'are goodly things; you, voices!——

Men. You have made good work,
You and your cry. Shall's to the Capitol?

Com. Oh, ay, what elſe? [Exeunt.

Sic. Go, maſters, get you home, be not diſmay'd.
Theſe are a ſide, that would be glad to have
This true, which they ſo ſeem to fear. Go home,
And ſhew no ſign of fear.

1 Cit. The Gods be good to us: come, maſters, let's home. I ever ſaid, we were i'th' wrong, when we baniſh'd him.

2 Cit. So did we all; but come, let's home. [Exe. Cit.

Bru. I do not like this news.

Sic. Nor I.

Bru. Let's to the Capitol; 'would, half my wealth
Would buy this for a lye!

Sic. Pray, let us go. [Exeunt Tribunes.

SCENE

SCENE, a Camp, at a ſmall diſtance from Rome.

Enter Aufidius, with his Lieutenant.

Au. DO they ſtill fly to th' Roman?
Lieu. I do not know what witchcraft's in him; but
Your ſoldiers uſe him as the grace 'fore meat,
Their talk at table, and their thanks at end:
And you are darken'd in this action, Sir,
Even by your own.
Auf. I cannot help it now,
Unleſs by uſing means, I lame the foot
Of our deſign. He bears himſelf more proudly
Even to my perſon, than, I thought, he would
When firſt I did embrace him. Yet his nature
In that's no changling, and I muſt excuſe
What cannot be amended.
Lieu. Yet I wiſh, Sir,
(I mean for your particular) you had not
Join'd in commiſſion with him; but had borne
The action of yourſelf, or elſe to him
Had left it ſolely.
Auf. I underſtand thee well; and be thou ſure,
When he ſhall come to his account, he knows not,
What I can urge againſt him; though it ſeems,
And ſo he thinks, and is no leſs apparent
To th' vulgar eye, that he bears all things fairly;
And ſhews good huſbandry for the Volſcian State,
Fights dragon-like, and does atchieve as ſoon
As draw his ſword: yet he hath left undone
That which ſhall break his neck, or hazard mine,
When e'er we come to our account.
Lieu. Sir, I beſeech, think you, he'll carry Rome?
Auf. All places yield to him ere he ſits down,
And the nobility of Rome are his:
The Senators and Patricians love him too:
The Tribunes are no ſoldiers; and their people
Will be as raſh in the repeal, as haſty

T' expel him thence. I think, he'll be to Rome (25)
As is the Oſprey to the fiſh, who takes it
By ſovereignty of Nature. Firſt, he was A noble ſervant to them, but he could not Carry his honours even; whether pride,
(Which out of daily fortune ever taints
The happy man) whether defect of judgment,
(To fail in the diſpoſing of thoſe chances,
Whereof he was the Lord) or whether nature,
(Not to be other than one thing; not moving
From th' cask to th' cuſhion; but commanding peace
Even with the ſame auſterity and garb,
As he controll'd the war;) But one of theſe,
(As he hath ſpices of them all) not all,
For I dare ſo far free him, made him fear'd,
So hated, and ſo baniſh'd; but he has merit
To choak it in the utt'rance: ſo our virtues
Lie in th' interpretation of the time;
And power, unto itſelf moſt commendable,
Hath not a tomb ſo evident, as a chair
T' extol what it hath done.
One fire drives out one fire; one nail, one nail;
Right's by right fouler, ſtrengths by ſtrengths do fail.
Come, let's away; when, Caius, Rome is thine,
Thou'rt poor'ſt of all, then ſhortly art thou mine. [Exe.

(25) ——— I think, he'll be to Rome
As is the Aſpray to the Fiſh, who takes it
By Sov'reingty of Nature.]

Though one's Search might have been very vain to find any ſuch Word as Aſpray, yet I eaſily imagin'd, ſomething muſt be couch'd under the Corruption, in its Nature deſtructive to Fiſh, and that made a Pray of them. And this Suſpicion led me to the Diſcovery. The Oſprey is a Species of the Eagle, of a ſtrong make, that haunts the Sea and Lakes for its Food, and altogether preys on Fiſh. But how will Coriolanus be to Rome, as the Oſprey to the Fiſh.

——he'll take it
By Sov'reignty of Nature?

Shakeſpear, 'tis well known, has a Peculiarity in thinking; and, wherever he is acquainted with Nature, is ſure to allude to her moſt uncommon Effects and Operations. I am very apt to imagine, therefore, that the Poet meant, Coriolanus would take Rome by the very Opinion and Terror of his Name, as Fiſh are taken by the Oſprey, thro' an inſtinctive Fear they have of him.

ACT

ACT V.

SCENE, a publick Place in Rome.

Enter Menenius, Cominius, Sicinius, Brutus, with others.

MENENIUS.

NO, I'll not go: you hear, what he hath ſaid,
Which was ſometime his general; who lov'd him
In a moſt dear particular. He call'd me father:
But what of that? go you, that baniſh'd him,
A mile before his tent, fall down, and knee
The way into his mercy: nay, if he coy'd
To hear Cominius ſpeak, I'll keep at home.

Com. He would not ſeem to know me.

Men. Do you hear?

Com. Yet one time he did call me by my name:
I urg'd our old acquaintance, and the drops
That we have bled together. Coriolanus
He would not anſwer to; forbad all names;
He was a kind of nothing, titleleſs,
'Till he had forg'd himſelf name o'th' fire
Of burning Rome.

Men. Why, ſo: you've made a good work:
A pair of Tribunes, that have rack'd for Rome,
To make coals cheap: a noble memory:

Com. I minded him, how royal 'twas to pardon
When it was leaſt expected. He reply'd,
It was a bare petition of a State
To one whom they had puniſh'd.

Men. Very well, could he ſay leſs?

Com. I offer'd to awaken his regard

For's private friends. His anſwer to me was,
He could not ſtay to pick them in a pile
Of noiſom muſty chaff. He ſaid, 'twas folly,
For one poor grain or two, to leave unburnt,
And ſtill to noſe th' offence.

Men. For one poor grain or two?
I'm one of thoſe: his mother, wife, his child,
And this brave fellow too, we are the grains;
You are the muſty chaff; and you are ſmelt
Above the moon. We muſt be burnt for you.

Sic. Nay, pray, be patient; if you refuſe your aid
In this ſo never-needed help, yet do not Upbraid us with our diſtreſs. But, ſure, if you
Would be your country's pleader, your good tongue,
More than the inſtant army we can make,
Might ſtop our country-man.

Men. No: I'll not meddle.

Sic. Pray you, go to him.

Men. What ſhould I do?

Bru. Only make trial what your love can do
For Rome, tow'rds Marcius.

Men. Well, and ſay, that Marcius
Return me, as Cominius is return'd,
Unheard: (what then?)
But as a diſcontented friend, grief-ſhot
With his unkindneſs. Say't be ſo?

Sic. Yet your good will
Muſt have that thanks from Rome, after the meaſure
As you intended well.

Men. I'll undertake it:
I think, he'll hear me. Yet to bite his lip,
And hum at good Cominius, much unhearts me.
He was not taken well, he had not din'd.——
The veins unfill'd, our blood is cold, and then
We pout upon the morning, are unapt
To give or to forgive; but when we've ſtuff'd
Theſe pipes, and theſe conveyances of blood
With wine and feeding, we have ſuppler ſouls
Than in our prieſt-like faſts; therefore I'll watch him
Till he be dieted to my requeſt,

And

And then I'll ſet upon him.

Bru. You know the very road into his kindneſs,
And cannot loſe your way.

Men. Good faith, I'll prove him,
Speed how it will. I ſhall ere long have knowledge
Of my ſucceſs. [Exit.

Com. He'll never hear him.

Sic. Not?

Com. I tell you, he does ſit in gold, his eye
Red as 'twould burn Rome; and his injury
The goaler to his pity. I kneel'd before him,
'Twas very faintly he ſaid, riſe: diſmiſs'd me
Thus, with his ſpeechleſs hand. What he would do,
He ſent in writing after; what he would not,
Bound with an oath to yield to his conditions:
So that all hope is vain, unleſs his mother
And wife,—who (as I hear mean to ſollicit him
For mercy to his country: therefore hence,
And with our fair intreaties haſte them on. [Exeunt.

SCENE changes to the Volſcian Camp.

Enter Menenius to the Watch or Guard.

1 Watch. STay; whence are you?

2 Watch. Stand, and go back.

Men. You guard like men, 'tis well. But, by your leave,
I am an officer of State, and come
To ſpeak with Coriolanus.

1 Watch. Whence?

Men. From Rome.

1 Watch. You may not paſs, you muſt return: our general
Will no more hear from thence.

2 Watch. You'll ſee your Rome embrac'd with fire before
You'll ſpeak with Coriolanus.

Men. Good, my friends,
If you have heard your General talk of Rome,
And of his friends there, it is lots to blanks,
My name hath touch'd your ears; it is Menenius.

1 Watch. Be it ſo, go back: the virtue of your name Is not here paſſable.

Men. I tell thee, fellow,
Thy general is my lover: I have been
The book of his good acts; whence men have read
His fame unparallel'd happily amplified:
For I have ever verified my friends,
(Of whom he's chief) with all the ſize that verity
Would without lapſing ſuffer: nay, ſometimes,
Like to a bowl upon a ſubtle ground,
I've tumbled paſt the throw; and in his praiſe
Have, almoſt, ſtamp'd the leaſing. Therefore, fellow,
I muſt have leave to paſs.

1 Watch. Faith, Sir, if you had told as many lies in his behalf, as you have utter'd words in your own, you ſhould not paſs here: no, though it were as virtuous to lie, as to live chaſtly. Therefore, go back.

Men. Pr'ythee, fellow, remember, my name is Menenius; always factionary of the party of your General.

2 Watch. Howſoever you have been his liar, (as you ſay, you have;) I am one that, telling true under him, muſt ſay, you cannot paſs. Therefore go back.

Men. Has he din'd, canſt thou tell? for I would not ſpeak with him till after dinner.

1 Watch. You are a Roman, are you?

Men. I am as thy General is.

1 Watch. Then you ſhould hate Rome, as he does. Can you, when you have puſh'd out of your gates the very defender of them, and, in a violent popular ignorance, given your enemy your ſhield, think to front his revenges with the eaſy groans of old women, the virginal palms of your daughters, or with the palſied interceſſion of ſuch a decay'd dotard as you ſeem to be? can you think to blow out the intended fire your city is ready to flame in, with ſuch weak breath as this? no, you are deceiv'd, therefore back to Rome, and prepare for your execution; you are condemn'd, our general has ſworn you out of reprieve and pardon.

Men. Sirrah, if thy captain knew I were here, he would uſe me with eſtimation.

1 Watch.

1 Watch. Come, my captain knows you not.

Men. I mean, thy General.

1 Watch. My General cares not for you. Back, I ſay, go; leſt I let forth your half pint of blood. Back, that's the utmoſt of your having, back.

Men. Nay, but fellow, fellow,——

Enter Coriolanus, with Aufidius.

Cor. What's the matter?

Men. Now, you companion, I'll ſay an errand for you; you ſhall know now, that I am in eſtimation; you ſhall perceive, that a Jack-gardant cannot office me from my ſon Coriolanus; gueſs but my entertainment with him; if thou ſtand'ſt not i'th' ſtate of hanging, or of ſome death more long in ſpectatorſhip, and cruller in ſuffering, behold now preſently, and ſwoon for what's to come upon thee.——The glorious Gods ſit in hourly ſynod about thy particular proſperity, and love thee no worſe than thy old father Menenius does! Oh my ſon, my ſon! thou art preparing fire for us; look thee, here's water to quench it. I was hardly mov'd to come to thee, but being aſſured, none but myſelf could move thee, I have been blown out of our gates with ſighs; and conjure thee to pardon Rome, and thy petitionary Countrymen. The good Gods aſſwage thy wrath, and turn the dregs of it upon this varlet here, this, who, like a block, hath denied my acceſs to thee——

Cor. Away!

Men. How, away?

Cor. Wife, mother, child, I know not. My affairs
Are ſervanted to others: though I owe
My revenge properly, remiſſion lies
In Volſcian breaſts. That we have been familiar, (26)
Ingrate

(26) ——— That we have been familiar,
Ingrate Forgetfulneſs ſhall poyſon rather Than pity: Note how much----]

We cannot deſire a more ſignal inſtance of the indolent Stupidity

Ingrate forgetfulneſs ſhall priſon, rather Than pity note how much.——Therefore, be gone;
Mine ears againſt your ſuits are ſtronger than
Your gates againſt my force. Yet, for I lov'd thee,
Take this along; I writ it for thy ſake,
[Gives him a letter.
And would have ſent it. Another word, Menenius,
I will not hear thee ſpeak.——This man, Aufidius,
Was my belov'd in Rome; yet thou behold'ſt——
Auf. You keep a conſtant temper. [Exeunt.

Manent the Guard and Menenius.

1 Watch. Now, Sir, is your name Menenius?

2 Watch. 'Tis a ſpell, you ſee, of much power: you know the way home again.

1 Watch. Do you hear, how we are ſhent for keeping your Greatneſs back?

2 Watch. What cauſe do you think, I have to ſwoon?

Men. I neither care for the world, nor your General: for ſuch things as you, I can ſcarce think there's any, y'are ſo ſlight. He, that hath a will to die by himſelf, fears it not from another: let your General do his worſt. For you, be what you are, long; and your miſery encreaſe with your age! I ſay to you, as I was ſaid to, Away—— [Exit.

1 Watch. A noble fellow, I warrant him.

2 Watch. The worthy fellow is our General. He's the rock, the oak not to be wind-ſhaken. [Exe. Watch.

of our Editors. Forgetfulneſs might poyſon, in not remembring a Converſation of Friendſhip, but how could it, in ſuch an Action, be ſaid to pity too? The pointing is abſurd; and the Sentiment conſequently ſunk into Nonſenſe. As I have regulated the Stops, both Dr. Thirlby and Mr. Warburton ſaw with me, they ought to be regulated. I have ſtill ventured beyond my ingenious Friends, in changing Poyſon into Priſon: which adds an Antitheſis, by which the Senſe ſeems clearer and more natural: viz. That Forgetfulneſs ſha'l rather keep it a ſecret, that we have been familiar; than Pity ſhall diſcloſe how much we have been ſo.

Re-enter

Re-enter Coriolanus and Aufidius.

Cor. We will before the walls of Rome to-morrow
Set down our hoſt. My partner in this action,
You muſt report to th' Volſcian Lords, how plainly
I've borne this buſineſs.

Auf. Only their ends you have reſpected; ſtopt
Your ears againſt the general ſuit of Rome:
Never admitted private whiſper, no,
Not with ſuch friends that thought them ſure of you.

Cor. This laſt old man,
Whom with a crack'd heart I have ſent to Rome,
Lov'd me above the meaſure of a father;
Nay, godded me, indeed. Their lateſt refuge
Was to ſend him: for whoſe old love, I have (Tho' I ſhew'd ſow'rly to him) once more offer'd
The firſt conditions; (which they did refuſe,
And cannot now accept,) to grace him only,
That thought he could do more: a very little
I've yielded to. Freſh embaſſy, and ſuits,
Nor from the State, nor private friends, hereafter
Will I lend ear to.——Ha! what ſhout is this?
[Shouts within.
Shall I be tempted to infringe my vow,
In the ſame time 'tis made? I will not———

Enter Virgilia, Volumina, Valeria, young Marcius, with Attendants all in mourning.

My wife comes foremoſt, then the honour'd mould
Wherein this trunk was fram'd, and in her hand
The grand-child to her blood. But, out, affection!
All bond and privilege of nature break!
Let it be virtuous, to be obſtinate.
What is that curt'ſy worth? or thoſe dove's eyes,
Which can make Gods forſworn? I melt, and am not
Of ſtronger earth than others: my mother bows,
As if Olympus to a mole-hill ſhould
In ſupplication nod; and my young boy
Hath an aſpect of interceſſion, which

Great Nature cries,——"Deny not." Let the Volſcians
Plough Rome, and harrow Italy; I'll never
Be ſuch a goſling to obey inſtinct; but ſtand
As if a man were author of himſelf,
And knew no other kin.

Vir. My Lord and huſband!

Cor. Theſe eyes are not the ſame I wore in Rome.

Vir. The ſorrow, that delivers us thus chang'd,
Makes you think ſo.

Cor. Like a dull Actor now,
I have forgot my part, and I am out,
Ev'n to a full diſgrace. Beſt of my fleſh,
Forgive my tyranny; but do not ſay,
For that, "Forgive our Romans."——O, a kiſs
Long as my exile, ſweet as my revenge!
Now by the jealous Queen of heav'n; that kiſs
I carried from thee, dear; and my true lip
Hath virgin'd it ere ſince.—You Gods! I prate; (27)
And the moſt noble mother of the world
Leave unſaluted: ſink, my knee, i'th' earth; [Kneels.
Of thy deep duty more impreſſion ſhew
Than that of common ſons.

Vol. O ſtand up bleſt!
Whilſt with no ſofter cuſhion than the flint
I kneel before thee, and unproperly
Shew duty as miſtaken all the while. [Kneels.

(27) ----------You Gods, I pray,
And the moſt noble Mother of the World
Leave unſaluted:]

An old Corruption muſt have poſſeſſed this Paſſage, for two Reaſons. In the firſt Place, whoever conſults this Speech, will find, that he is talking fondly to his Wife, and not praying to the Gods at all. Secondly, if he were employed in his Devotions, no Apology would be wanting for leaving his Mother unſaluted. The Poet's Intention was certainly this. Coriolanus having been laviſh in his Tenderneſſes and Raptures to his Wife, bethinks himſelf on the ſudden, that his Fondneſs to her had made him guilty of ill Manners in the Neglect of his Mother; and, therefore correcting himſelf upon Reflection, cries;

----------You Gods! I prate;

i. e. talk fondly, and without due Bounds.

Between

Between the child and parent.
Cor. What is this?
Your knees to me? to your corrected ſon?
Then let the pebbles on the hungry beach
Fillop the ſtars: then, let the mutinous winds
Strike the proud cedars 'gainſt the fiery ſun:
Murd'ring impoſſibility, to make
What cannot be, ſlight work.
Vol. Thou art my warrior,
I holp to frame thee. Do you know this lady?
Cor. The noble ſiſter of Poplicola,
The moon of Rome; chaſte as the iſicle,
That's curdled by the froſt from pureſt ſnow,
And hangs on Dian's temple: dear Valeria!—
Vol. This is a poor epitome of yours,
[Shewing young Marcius.
Which by th' interpretation of full time
May ſhew like all yourſelf.
Cor. The God of ſoldiers,
With the conſent of ſupream Jove, inform Thy thoughts with nobleneſs, that thou may'ſt prove
To ſhame unvulnerable, and ſtick i'th' wars
Like a great ſea-mark, ſtanding every flaw,
And ſaving thoſe that eye thee!
Vol. Your knee, ſirrah.
Cor. That's my brave boy.
Vol. Even he, your wife, this lady, and myſelf,
Are ſuitors to you.
Cor. I beſeech you, peace:
Or, if you'd aſk, remember this before;
The thing, I have forſworn to grant, may never
Be held by you denial. Do not bid me
Diſmiſs my ſoldiers, or capitulate
Again with Rome's mechanicks. Tell me not,
Wherein I ſeem unnatural: deſire not T'allay my rages and revenges, with
Your colder reaſons.
Vol. Oh, no more; no more:
You've ſaid, you will not grant us any thing:
For we have nothing elſe to aſk, but that

Which

Which you deny already; yet we will aſk,
That if we fail in our requeſt, the blame
May hang upon your hardneſs; therefore hear us.
Cor. Aufidius, and you Volſcians, mark; for we'll Hear nought from Rome in private.——Your requeſt?
Vol. Should we be ſilent and not ſpeak, our raiment
And ſtate of bodies would bewray what life
We've led ſince thy exile. Think with thyſelf,
How more unfortunate than all living women
Are we come hither; ſince thy ſight, which ſhould
Make our eyes flow with joy, hearts dance with comforts,
Conſtrains them weep, and ſhake with fear and ſorrow;
Making the mother, wife, and child to ſee,
The ſon, the huſband, and the father tearing
His country's bowels out: and to poor we,
Thine enmity's moſt capital; thou barr'ſt us
Our prayers to the Gods, which is a comfort
That all but we enjoy. For how can we,
Alas! how can we, for our country pray
Whereto we're bound? together with thy victory,
Whereto we're bound? Alack! or we muſt loſe
The country, our dear nurſe; or elſe thy perſon,
Our comfort in the country. We muſt find
An eminent calamity, tho' we had
Our wiſh, which ſide ſhou'd win. For either thou
Muſt, as a foreign recreant, be led
With manacles along our ſtreet; or elſe
Triumphantly tread on thy country's ruin,
And bear the palm, for having bravely ſhed
Thy wife and children's blood. For myſelf, ſon,
I purpoſe not to wait on fortune, 'till
Theſe wars determine: If I can't perſuade thee
Rather to ſhew a noble grace to both parts,
Than ſeek the end of one: thou ſhalt no ſooner
March to aſſault thy country, than to tread
(Truſt to't, thou ſhalt not) on thy mother's womb,
That brought thee to this world.
Vir. Ay, and mine too,
That brought you forth this boy, to keep your name
Living to time.

Boy. He ſhall not tread on me:
I'll run away till I'm bigger, but then I'll fight.
Cor. Not of a woman's tenderneſs to be,
Requires, nor child, nor woman's face, to ſee:
I've ſat too long.——
Vol. Nay, go not from us thus:
If it were ſo, that our requeſt did tend
To ſave the Romans, thereby to deſtroy
The Volſcians whom you ſerve, you might condemn us,
As poiſonous of your honour: No; our ſuit
Is, that you reconcile them: while the Volſcians
May ſay, 'This mercy we have ſhew'd;' the Romans,
'This we receiv'd;' and each in either ſide
Give the all-hail to thee, and cry, "Be bleſt
"For making up this peace!" Thou know'ſt, great ſon,
The end of war's uncertain; but this is certain,
That if thou conquer Rome, the benefit,
Which thou ſhalt thereby reap, is ſuch a name,
Whoſe repetition will be dogg'd with curſes:
Whoſe chronicle thus writ, 'The man was noble——
But with his laſt attempt he wip'd it out,
'Deſtroy'd his country, and his name remains
'To the enſuing age, abhorr'd.' Speak to me, ſon;
Thou haſt affected the firſt ſtrains of honour,
To imitate the graces of the Gods;
To tear with thunder the wide cheeks o'th' air,
And yet to charge thy ſulphur with a bolt, (28)
That ſhould but rive an oak. Why doſt not ſpeak?
Think'ſt thou it honourable for a noble man
Still to remember wrongs? Daughter, ſpeak you:
He cares not for your weeping. Speak thou, boy;
Perhaps thy childiſhneſs will move him more
Than can our reaſons. There's no man in the world
More bound to's mother, yet here he lets me prate
Like one i'th' ſtocks. Thou'ſt never in thy life
Shew'd thy dear mother any courteſy;

(28) And yet to change thy Sulphur with a Bolt,
That ſhould but rive an Oak.]
All the printed Copies concur in this Reading, but I have certainly reſtored the true Word. Vide the 11th Note on this Play.

Whe

When ſhe, (poor hen) fond of no ſecond brood,
Has cluck'd thee to the wars, and ſafely home,
Loaden with honour. Say, my requeſt's unjuſt,
And ſpurn me back: but, if it be not ſo,
Thou art not honeſt, and the Gods will plague thee,
That thou reſtrain'ſt from me the duty, which
To a mother's part belongs.——He turns away:
Down, ladies; let us ſhame him with our knees.
To's ſir-name Coriolanus 'longs more pride,
Than pity to our prayers. Down; and end;
This is the laſt. So we will home to Rome,
And die among our neighbours: nay, behold us.
This boy, that cannot tell what he would have,
But kneels, and holds up hands for fellowſhip,
Does reaſon our petition with more ſtrength
Than thou haſt to deny't. Come, let us go:
This fellow had a Volſcian to his mother: (29)
His wife is in Corioli, and this child
Like him by chance; yet give us our diſpatch:
I'm huſht until our city be a-fire;
And then I'll ſpeak a little.

Cor. O mother, mother!——

[Holds her by the hands, ſilent

What have you done? behold the heav'ns do ope,
The Gods look down, and this unnatural ſcene
They laugh at. Oh, my mother, mother! oh!
You've won a happy victory to Rome:
But for your ſon, believe it, oh, believe it,
Moſt dang'rouſly you have with him prevail'd,
If not moſt mortal to him. Let it come:——

(29) This Fellow had a Volſcian to his Mother;
His Wife is in Corioli; and his Child
Like him by Chance;--------] But tho' his Wife was Corioli, might not his Child, nevertheleſs, be like him? The min Alteration I have made, I am perſuaded, reſtores the true Readi Volumnia would hint, that Coriolanus by his ſtern Behaviour had l all Family-Regards, and did not remember that he had any Chi I am not his Mother, (ſays ſhe) his Wife is in Corioli, and t Child, whom we bring with us, (young Marcius) is not his Chi but only bears his Reſemblance by chance.

Au

Aufidius, though I cannot make true wars,
I'll frame convenient peace. Now, good Aufidius,
Were you in my ſtead, ſay, would you have heard
A mother leſs? or granted leſs, Aufidius?

Auf. I too was mov'd.

Cor. I dare be ſworn, you were;
And, Sir, it is no little thing to make
Mine eyes to ſweat compaſſion. But, good Sir,
What peace you'll make, adviſe me: for my part,
I'll not to Rome, I'll back with you, and pray you
Stand to me in this cauſe. O mother! wife!——

Auf. I'm glad, thou'ſt ſet thy mercy and thy honour
At difference in thee; out of that I'll work
Myſelf a former fortune. [Aſide.

Cor. Ay, by and by; but we will drink together;
And you ſhall bear [To Vol. Virg. &c.
A better witneſs back than words, which we,
On like conditions, will have counter-ſeal'd.
Come, enter with us: Ladies, you deſerve
To have a temple built you: all the ſwords
In Italy, and her confederate arms,
Could not have made this peace. [Exeunt.

SCENE, the Forum, in ROME.

Enter Menenius and Sicinius.

Men. SEE you yond coin o'th' Capitol, yond corner-ſtone?

Sic. Why, what of that?

Men. If it be poſſible for you to diſplace it with your little finger, there is ſome hope the ladies of Rome, eſpecially his mother, may prevail with him. But, I ſay, there is no hope in't: our throats are ſentenc'd, and ſtay upon execution.

Sic. Is't poſſible, that ſo ſhort a time can alter the condition of a man?

Men. There is a difference between a grub and a butterfly, yet your butterfly was a grub; this Marcius is is grown from man to dragon: he has wings, he's more than a creeping thing.

Sic. He lov'd his mother dearly.

Men. So did he me; and he no more remembers his mother now, than an eight years old horſe. The tartneſs of his face ſours ripe grapes. When he walks, he moves like an engine, and the ground ſhrinks before his treading. He is able to pierce a corſlet with his eye: talks like a knell, and his hum is a battery. He ſits in his ſtate, as a thing made for Alexander. What he bids be done, is finiſhed with his bidding. He wants nothing of a God, but eternity, and a heaven to throne in.

Sic. Yes, mercy, if you report him truly.

Men. I paint him in the character. Mark, what mercy his mother ſhall bring from him; there is no more mercy in him, then there is milk in a male tyger; that ſhall our poor city find; and all this is 'long of you.

Sic. The Gods be good unto us!

Men. No, in ſuch a caſe the Gods will not be good unto us. When we baniſhed him, we reſpected not them: and, he returning to break our necks, they reſpect not us.

Enter a Meſſenger.

Meſ. Sir, if you'd ſafe your life, fly to your houſe;
The Plebeians have got your fellow-tribune,
And hale him up and down; all ſwearing, if
The Roman Ladies bring not comfort home,
They'll give him death by inches.

Enter another Meſſenger.

Sic. What's the news?

Meſ. Good news, good news, the Ladies have prevail'd,
The Volſcians are diſlodg'd, and Marcius gone:
A merrier day did never yet greet Rome,
No, not th' expulſion of the Tarquins.

Sic.

Sic. Friend,
Art certain, this is true? is it moſt certain?
Meſ. As certain, as I know the ſun is fire:
Where have you lurk'd, that you make doubt of it?
Ne'er through an arch ſo hurried the blown tide,
As the recomforted through th' gates. Why, hark you!
[Trumpets, Hautboys, Drums beat, all together.
The trumpets, ſackbuts, pſalteries and fifes,
Tabors and cymbals, and the ſhouting Romans
Make the ſun dance. Hark you! [A ſhout within.
Men. This is good news:
I will go meet the Ladies. This Volumnia
Is worth of Conſuls, Senators, Patricians,
A city full; of Tribunes, ſuch as you,
A ſea and land full. You've pray'd well to-day:
This morning, for ten thouſand of your throats
I'd not have given a doit. Hark, how they joy!
[Sound ſtill, with the ſhouts.
Sic. Firſt, the Gods bleſs you for your tidings: next,
Accept my thankfulneſs.
Meſ. Sir, we have all great cauſe to give great thanks.
Sic. They're near the city?
Meſ. Almoſt at point to enter.
Sic. We'll meet them, and help the joy. [Exeunt.

Enter two Senators, with Ladies, paſſing over the ſtage; with other Lords.

Sen. Behold our patroneſs, the life of Rome:
Call all your tribes together, praiſe the Gods,
And make triumphant fires: ſtrew flowers before them:
Unſhout the noiſe, that baniſh'd Marcius;
Repeal him with the welcome of his mother:
Cry—welcome, Ladies, welcome! [Exeunt.
All. Welcome, Ladies, welcome!———
[A flouriſh with drums and trumpets.

SCENE

SCENE changes to a publick Place in Antium.

Enter Tullus Aufidius, with Attendants.

Auf. GO tell the Lords o'th' city, I am here:
Deliver them this paper: having read it,
Bid them repair to th' market-place, where I,
Even in theirs and in the Commons' ears,
Will vouch the truth of it. He, I accuſe,
The city-ports by this hath enter'd; and Intends t'appear before the people, hoping
To purge himſelf with words. Diſpatch.—Moſt welcome!

Enter three or four Conſpirators of Aufidius's faction.

1 Con. How is it with our General?
Auf. Even ſo,
As with a man by his own alms impoiſon'd,
And with his charity ſlain.
2 Con. Moſt noble Sir,
If you do hold the ſame intent, wherein
You wiſh'd us parties; we'll deliver you
Of your great danger.
Auf. Sir, I cannot tell;
We muſt proceed, as we do find the people.
3 Con. The people will remain uncertain, whilſt
'Twixt you there's difference; but the fall of either
Makes the ſurvivor heir of all.
Auf. I know it;
And my pretext to ſtrike at him admits
A good conſtruction. I raiſed him, and pawn'd
Mine honour for his truth; who being ſo heighten'd,
He water'd his new plants with dews of flattery,
Seducing ſo my friends; and to this end,
He bow'd his nature, never known before
But to be rough, unſwayable, and free.
3 Con. Sir, his ſtoutneſs
When he did ſtand for Conſul, which he loſt

k of ſtooping.———
: That I would have ſpoke of:
baniſh'd for't, he came unto my hearth,
ted to my knife his throat; I took him,
him joint-ſervant with me; gave him way
his own deſires; nay, let him chuſe
f my files, his projects to accompliſh, ſt and freſheſt men; ſerv'd his deſignments
ıe own perſon; holp to reap the fame, ı he did make all his; and took ſome pride
myſelf this wrong; 'till, at the laſt,
'd his follower, not partner; and g'd me with his countenance, as if been mercenary.
m. So he did, my Lord:
my marvell'd at it, and, at laſt,
he had carried Rome, and that we looked ) leſs ſpoil, than glory——
There was it;—
hich my ſinews ſhall be ſtretch'd upon him;)
w drops of woman's rheum, which are ap as lies, he ſold the blood and labour
r great action; therefore ſhall he die,
'll renew me in his fall. But, hark!
ums and trumpets ſound, with great ſhouts of the people.
m. Your native town you enter'd like a poſt, ad no welcomes home; but he returns,
ng the air with noiſe.
m. And patient fools,
children he hath ſlain, their baſe throats tear,
; him glory.
m. Therefore, at your vantage, expreſs himſelf, or move the people
what he would ſay, let him feel your ſword, we will ſecond. When he lies along, your way his tale pronounc'd ſhall bury aſons with his body.
Say no more,
ome the Lords.

Enter

Enter the Lords of the City.

All Lords. You're moſt welcome home,
Auf. I have not deſerv'd it.
But, worthy Lords, have you with heed perus'd
What I have written to you?
All. We have.
1 Lord. And grieve to hear it.
What faults he made before the laſt, I think,
Might have found eaſy fines: but there to end,
Where he was to begin, and give away
The benefit of our levies, anſwering us
With our own charge, making a treaty where
There was a yielding, this admits no excuſe.
Auf. He approaches, you ſhall hear him.

Enter Coriolanus, marching with drums and colours: the Commons being with him.

Cor. Hail, Lords; I am return'd, your ſoldier;
No more infected with my country's love,
Than when I parted hence, but ſtill ſubſiſting,
Under your great command. You are to know,
That proſperouſly I have attempted, and
With bloody paſſage led your wars, even to
The gates of Rome: Our ſpoils, we have brought home,
Do more than counterpoiſe, a full third part,
The charges of the action. We've made peace
With no leſs honour to the Antiates,
Than ſhame to th' Romans: and we here deliver,
Subſcribed by the Conſuls and Patricians,
Together with the ſeal o'th' Senate, what
We have compounded on.
Auf. Read it not, noble Lords,
But tell the traitor, in the higheſt degree
He hath abus'd your powers.
Cor. Traitor!——how now!
Auf. Ay, traitor, Marcius.

C

Cor. Marcius!

Auf. Ay, Marcius, Caius Marcius; doſt thou think,
I'll grace thee with that robbery, thy ſtol'n name
Coriolanus in Corioli?
You Lords and heads o'th' State, perfidiouſly
He has betray'd your buſineſs, and given up,
For certain drops of ſalt, your city Rome;
I ſay, your city, to his wife and mother:
Breaking his oath and reſolution, like
A twiſt of rotten ſilk, never admitting
Counſel o'th' war; but at his nurſe's tears
He whin'd and roar'd away your victory,
That Pages bluſh'd at him; and men of heart
Look'd wondring each at other.

Cor. Hear'ſt thou, Mars!——

Auf. Name not the God! thou boy of tears!——

Cor. Ha!

Auf. No more.

Cor. Meaſureleſs liar, thou haſt made my heart
Too great for what contains it. Boy? O ſlave!——
Pardon me, Lords, 'tis the firſt time that ever
I'm forc'd to ſcold. Your judgments, my grave Lords,
Muſt give this cur the lye; and his own notion,
(Who wears my ſtripes impreſt upon him; that Muſt bear my beating to his grave;) ſhall join
To thruſt the lye unto him.

1 Lord. Peace, both, and hear me ſpeak.

Cor. Cut me to pieces, Volſcians, men and lads,
Stain all your edges in me. Boy! falſe hound!——
If you have writ your annals true, 'tis there,
That, like an eagle in a dove-cote, I
Flutter'd your Volſcians in Corioli.
Alone I did it. Boy!——

Auf. Why, noble Lords,
Will you be put in mind of his blind fortune,
Which was your ſhame, by this unholy braggart,
'Fore your own eyes and ears?

All Con. Let him die for't.

All People. Tear him to pieces, do it preſently:

He

He kill'd my ſon,—my daughter,—kill'd my couſin,—
He kill'd my father.—— [The Croud ſpeak promiſcuouſly.

2 Lord. Peace,—no outrage—peace—
The man is noble, and his fame folds in
This orb o'th' earth; his laſt offences to us
Shall have judicious hearing. Stand, Aufidius,
And trouble not the peace.

Cor. O that I had him,
With fix Aufidius's, or more, his tribe,
To uſe my lawful ſword———

Auf. Inſolent villain!

All Con. Kill, kill, kill, kill, kill him.

[The Conſpirators all draw, and kill Marcius, who falls, and Aufidius ſtands on him.

Lords. Hold, hold, hold, hold.

Auf. My noble maſters, hear me ſpeak.

1 Lord. O Tullus———

2 Lord. Thou haſt done a deed, whereat
Valour will weep.

3 Lord. Tread not upon him——maſters all, be quiet;
Put up your ſwords.

Auf. My Lords, when you ſhall know (as in this rage Provok'd by him, you cannot) the great danger
Which this man's life did owe you, you'll rejoice
That he is thus cut off. Pleaſe it your Honours
To call me to your Senate, I'll deliver
Myſelf your loyal ſervant, or endure
Your heavieſt cenſure.

1 Lord. Bear from hence his body,
And mourn you for him. Let him be regarded
As the moſt noble coarſe, that ever Herald
Did follow to his urn.

2 Lord. His own impatience
Takes from Aufidius a great part of blame:
Let's make the beſt of it.

Auf. My rage is gone,
And I am ſtruck with ſorrow: take him up:
Help, three o'th' chiefeſt ſoldiers; I'll be one.
Beat thou the drum, that it ſpeak mournfully.

Trail

l your ſteel pikes. Though in this city he ı widow'd and unchilded many a one, ch to this hour bewail the injury,
he ſhall have a noble memory.

[Exeunt, bearing the body of Marcius. A dead March ſounded.
